Summit Strategy To Be Planned At Dec. 19 Meet

Four Western Powers Will Convene in Paris

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower and the heads of government of Britain, France and West Germany will meet in Paris Dec. 19 to work out a solid Western stand for talks with Russia.

Agreement on the date and place of the meeting was announced in the four capitals Sunday. Prime subjects for discussion appear to be:

1. When do the leaders meet with Premier Khrushchev in a summit conference?

2. On what issues, if any, will they compromise in negotiations with him?

Reports from London Sunday said Prime Minister Macmillan will go to Paris determined that the summit conference with Khrushchev be held in January or February. President de Gaulle of France has insisted that the conference be delayed until spring, if not earlier. It is believed Eisenhower was leaning Macmillan's position.

CONVENIENCE FACTOR

On the second question, observers believe Macmillan is willing to go a considerable way to get Khrushchev, offering to settle the Berlin problem and bringing an agreement on German unity. But de Gaulle feels the Russians are repeatedly trying to divide the West. He believes that if there are any concessions to be made the Russians must make them. The Eisenhower visit to Eisenhower indicate he tends to agree with de Gaulle on this issue.

The four Western leader, Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany, will not attend the summit conference with Khrushchev and at the Paris conference, Bonn sources indicate, will confine himself to discussions of German German and Berlin problems.

WILL DEFEND INTERESTS

He has warned the Western allies previously that his government would not accept any summit decisions detrimental to German interests.

The Western summit meeting will follow by only a couple of days a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Council Dec. 15-17, attended by the foreign ministers at all 15 NATO countries.

The presence of the foreign ministers will mean that major Western powers will give them a chance to prepare for the later meetings, but efforts will be made to avoid any sharp line between the NATO meetings and the conference of the four chiefs of state.

SHOT ON HALLOWE'EN

CHANUTE, Kan. (AP) — A volunteer watchman fatally shot Jim McCune, 16, an honor student, accidentally after a Hallowe'en prank Saturday night. Police said the boy, a member of a city employee who had volunteered his services to help keep down vandalism, saw McCune and another boy toss a wooden bench into the middle of a road. As he ran after the boys, he stepped into a hole and fired a shot from a pistol he was carrying disclosed.

Generals Split Down Middle on Memoirs Book

LONDON (AP)—The unfinished battle over Allied wartime leadership has flared up again.

British charge that General Eisenhower was playing politics instead of running the war split British generals down the middle.

Eisenhower found an ally in Lt.-Gen. Sir Oliver Leese, who commanded the British 8th Army during the Battle of the Bulge.

It was just before this battle, according to the wartime diaries of Lord Alanbrooke, that Eisenhower was on the golf links at Reims, France. Alanbrooke was the chairman of the British chiefs of staff at the time.

DRAKE BOWLED

"It's a bit piggy isn't it?" said Leese when he heard of Alanbrook's allegation. "After all, Drake is said to have been playing smashing the Spanish Armada.

"I haven't heard this story before, but even if I believed it, I don't think it would particularly discredit him. Once a general has made his plan, all he can do is wait, as Drake did golf is his favorite form of relaxation."

Earl Attlee, in his view of the book, Triumph in the West, which is based on the Alanbrooke diaries, expressed doubt as to the wisdom of publishing it at this time.

"To my mind," he wrote, "the volume should have been held over until the prominent actors have passed from the stage. And it is easy now to do without personal comments."

MONTY JUST SMILES

Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery smiled broadly when he heard of Alanbrooke's, allegations.

"Nothing to do with me," said Montgomery at his office. "Nothing at all with me this time."

Sir Liam Grigg, undersecretary for war from 1942 to 1945, said in his review of the book that he thought Alanbrooke was right in allowing publication of the diaries at this time.

He wrote in The Sunday Times: "It is as well to remember that the president is now in some pretty nasty things about Eisenhower (to mention his name, memory) in the book that he published in 1948."

Police Guard 200 Airports In Florida

WASHINGTON (AP) — Immigration officers equipped with planes are now guarding all 200 airports in Florida to prevent unauthorized flights to Cuba, the justice department announced Sunday.

More than 100 officers have been sent to the Florida immigration service operations there. These officers "are ready to institute continuous vigilant guard to prevent unauthorized flights from the United States to Cuba by persons whose departure would be prejudicial to the interests of the United States," the justice department said.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Arctic air swept into Southern Ontario this morning leaving behind it light showers or snowflurries over most of the area. Scattered snowflurries were reported throughout Northern Ontario and temperatures fell to below 20s.

A rapid-moving storm centre now centred over Saskatchewan is expected to reach our area by Tuesday morning. Another outbreak of arctic air follows this storm centre.

LABOR SEEKING OUTSIDE SUPPORT FOR NEW PARTY

Youth, Ethnic Groups Must Be Included

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—A drive to enlist support from outside the labor movement for Canada's projected new left-wing political party was outlined Sunday at a meeting of Ontario CCF-Labor leaders.

Donald MacDonald, CCF national secretary, said the seven-man team of political organizers is being put into the field to organize new party clubs aimed at attracting farmers, small businessmen and other middle-class groups.

These plans for the party, for which the foundation is being laid by the CCF and the Canadian Labor Congress, were outlined at a meeting of the political action committee of the Ontario section of Labor.

ENDORSE NEW PARTY

The committee, meeting on the eve of the opening of the federation's three-day annual convention, unanimously approved a resolution reaffirming endorsation of the new "party" resolution passed at the last CLC convention.

Mr. MacDonald said the new party must embrace "farmers, business and professional men, workers and groups" in addition to the trade union movement.

"Governments are not elected by trade unions. Governments live or die Liberals," he told the meeting, "but by the vast body of non-unionized people in the country."

Delegates to the CLC-CCF seminar held in Winnipeg last August to lay the groundwork for forming the new party received out in purpose "despite the editorials and the pronouncements of the party."

Mr. MacDonald and his namesake, Donald MacDonald, secretary-treasurer of the CLC, are both Western leaders. Canada had displayed a "hostile attitude" towards formation of the new party.

Mr. MacDonald of the CLC said that a Canadian Press story on a statement to the seminar by Children's Emergency Fund is "completely distorted and misrepresents the situation." He said that "a repudiation of the false impression created by the Jodoin story did not appear in the same splashed headlines given to the first story."

Provincial police charged two youths with creating a disturbance and issued warrants today for the arrest of two others.

Arkona's volunteer fire department spent most of the night trying to put out four large street fires, fed with straw, straw, mail boxes, gates, doors and rubber tires.

At Hamilton an estimated 5,000 masked youngsters cried "trick or treat" and raised $2,500 for UNICEF work in depressed countries. Police there credited the fund - raising drive for the quietest Hallowe'en in years.

UNICEF collections were also made in many other Ontario communities.

Police at Lindsay, 20 miles west of Peterborough, said 50 mischief pranksters were responsible for the fire which caused a 150-foot wooden bridge three miles north of there to collapse.

A CNR official estimated the bridge damage at $100,000. Highway traffic will be detoured until the bridge is replaced.

North Bay area police reported few calls on Hallowe'en. Most serious complaints were half a dozen windows dirtied with soap.

Toronto and suburban police said it was a relatively quiet night, with the usual number of Hallowe'en pranks, but none of a serious nature.

35 ACCIDENTAL DEATHS RECORDED ACROSS CANADA

19 Traffic Mishaps Alone in Ontario

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Weekend traffic accidents took 29 lives, 18 of them on Ontario roads.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local times Friday to midnight Sunday showed 35 accidental deaths across Canada.

A single traffic accident 17 miles west of London, Ont. took four lives and left three other persons in critical condition. In another multiple accident in Ontario, two women were killed in Ottawa.

One non-traffic fatality added to the 18 traffic deaths brought Ontario's total to 19.

Quebec had five violent deaths, three in traffic.

The survey covers weekend activities, including boating and hunting, but not occupational accidents.

Ontario deaths:

Mrs. Mabel Kessler, 59, Belleville, died Saturday night in a two-car collision on Highway 401 near Belleville.

Ronald Lee Harwood, 20, Toronto, killed Saturday night in a downtown crash.

HANNON WOMAN KILLED

Mrs. Thelma Fisch, 40, Hannon, killed early Sunday when her car went out of control on Highway 8 south of Hagersville.

Ernest Lee Hall, 24, passenger, James Mark, 44, of Brampton in Highway 11 in Vernon, 40 miles west of North Bay.

India Not Weak, Will Not Change Foreign Policy

'Are Not Afraid' --Nehru; Strong Note to Be Sent

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru declares that India refuses to be intimidated by Red China's show of force and attacks on the northern frontier.

"China may be a big country but India is not small," Nehru told 30,000 followers Sunday night at a rally of his Congress party. "We are not afraid. We are not weak."

The prime minister, under domestic press attack for not taking more vigorous action in the frontier dispute, was cheered repeatedly.

NO INTIMIDATION

"We don't want to intimidate anyone and won't be intimidated by anyone," Nehru declared.

"People ask us to change our (secularist) foreign policy," Nehru said. "Newspapers and others want me to do that, to be done. This advice rises out of fear, weakness and doubt.

"Our foreign policy was laid down by the (Indian national) congress 30 years ago. It is not a whimsical thing. It came with the wind."

FORCE STRONG NOTE

Authoritative sources said India is sending a new note to Peking that will be stronger in protest. They predict it will announce determination to resist further encroachments.

Many believe Nehru has suffered political damage since the clash Oct. 21 in Ladakh province of Kashmir when the Indian police lost 10 men killed and 19 captured by Chinese Red troops. The disputed area is claimed by both India and China.

The government is ending the defence priority given Ladakh province by replacing the police with army regulars. A defence ministry spokesman said the reinforcement is taking time because of winter conditions.

Pranksters Fire Wood Bridge Near Lindsay Which Collapses

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Good deeds countered mischief in Ontario this Hallowe'en.

In a number of communities children dressed in the traditional costumes of hobgoblins, sprites—and witches collected money in door - to - door canvasses for the United Nations Children's Emergency Fund.

But at Arkona, 35 miles east of Sarnia, police said a crowd of 50 men and youths spent Hallowe'en night throwing rocks and eggs at passing cars and setting bonfires in the village's main street.

William Sefton, Toronto officer-in-charge of Commonwealth of America, said the reporter was drunk when he wrote the story. Mr. Jodoin "splashed cold water on the CLC tie-up with the CCF party and quoted me out of context. I made some unions "will obviously want to exercise their democratic right to abstain from any form of political action," therefore "it is quite obvious that a congress will obviously want to abstain from any form of political affiliation."

Gen. Vanier said he regretted his further statement that the overwhelming majority of members of unions affiliated with the Congress will support the idea of a new party. He said the need for a new party was greater today than ever.

SENTENCE WITNESSES

WARSAW (AP)—Jail sentences up to five years were announced Sunday for 11 witnesses of the Jehovah's Witnesses sect. They were convicted of belonging to a secret organization and spreading its propaganda.

Given Answers and Script On TV Show Says Van Doren

WASHINGTON (AP) — Charles Van Doren testified today he was given answers and even given a regular script to memorize when he appeared on the supposedly unrehearsed Twenty-One television quiz program. He said he was coached in mannerisms as well.

Van Doren admitted he testified falsely last year before the Nov. 2 grand jury investigating the quiz programs.

He told a committee investigating subcommittee "I was deeply involved in a deception in this way" — a deception that went on for years ago.

Van Doren, named Albert Freedman, producer of Twenty-One as the man who persuaded him to co-operate in rigging the show and then coached him.

In a telling argument Freedman used Van Doren said, was that as the action of a famous literary character.

The customer said it showed a street in Milan—a city Ted never has visited.

Later Ted, again in a trance, described a picture showing a forest of saw-off trees. A few days later a reporter told the shop told Ted it looked like the burial ground of a South American Indian tribe.

Ted kept on painting—and the customer decided to buy it. The next time he prepped the picture up in his shop and a few days later a customer asked to buy it.

EXPERT WEAVER ATTENDS MEETING

A very interesting meeting of the Weaving Guild was held recently at the home of Mrs. Ian George Graham, Trent Road with 15 members and one visitor present. Of special interest was the presence of Miss Ida Hamilton, of Hamilton. She is an expert weaver and also teacher of Weaving. She gave a most interesting paper on weaving entitled 'Do You Know'. This was found most helpful, both in the knowledge it contained and the useful information that can be referred to in the future for help. Miss Hamilton conducted a class in weaving at the Recreation rooms on Monday and Wednesday afternoon and then spoke to the club as a whole in the evening.

ONLY MINOR RUNS FOR FIREMEN

City firemen had two minor runs over the weekend, one for an overheated stove and the other for hot stovepipes. The over-heated stove was at 37-A St. Charles Street, and hot stovepipes was at a small shack at the extreme south of Church Street which was being used as a residence.

CITY AND PROVINCIAL POLICE REPORT QUIET WEEKEND

City and provincial police reported a comparatively quiet weekend on the highway and with the exception of the one fatality at the intersection of Sidney Street and 401 highway the day night, only minor mishaps were reported.

At Bayside Mrs. Marguerite Abbott of R. R. 1 Marysville, was slightly injured in a three-car mishap which did only comparatively minor damage.

In the city police reported a half dozen minor motor mishaps resulting in fender Bents and scratched bumpers.

ROSSMORE HUNTER BAGS TWO GEESE

The hunters in the district are getting their fair share of geese this fall and on Saturday, John Coon of Rossmore, hunting alone back of the island east of the Bay Bridge, bagged a Canada and a Snow Goose. Mr. Coon had his decoys set for ducks and in came a small flock of Canada geese and a lone Snow goose. The trusty shotgun brought down two and with a good nest in the bag Mr. Coon picked up his decoys and called it a day. No mention was made of getting any ducks.

Local Chess Team Loses Another Pair

Peterborough strengthened its hold on top spot in the South Eastern Ontario Chess League in a play at Kingston on Sunday, while the Belleville club became irrevocably doomed to the cellar, with five straight losses.

In play Sunday Peterborough defeated Brockville 6-4, while the Belleville team lost 3½ to Kingston and 5½ to Brockville. The fourth game scheduled, Kingston vs Peterborough, was not played due to lack of suitable accommodation, a fire at the Aluminum Co. having left the recreation hall without lights and there being room for only one match at a time. The game is expected to be played in Belleville at a later date.

A game in the opening day match between Peterborough and Kingston having been adjudicated as a draw, the match was won by Peterborough 8½-4½ and this gives Peterborough a 4-0 record after Sunday's games, while Kingston still retains a chance of successfully defending the league title which it won the first two years of the league's existence, its record being 3-1. Brockville has won two and lost three, while Belleville has won none and lost five. Matches remaining to be played are Kingston vs Brockville, Belleville vs Peterborough and Kingston vs Peterborough.

Following are the results of the two matches the local club played yesterday, with the names of Belleville players being given first in each case: Belleville vs Kingston: R. Hamilton ½, Dr. Danilov ¼; D. Payne 0, W. H. Briggs 1; W. Underhill 0, E. Burbidge 1; D. Batchelor 0, I. Brummelait 1; T. Meeus 1, R. Bitchener 0; R. Wolf 0, C. Aykroyd 1; R. Sisco 0, Orlwf 1; B. Hallowe'en Ghosts Collect $334 for UNICEF Saturday

A total of $334.63 was collected here for UNICEF, the United Nations' children's fund, by the pupils of three Belleville public schools during their Hallowe'en visit Saturday. Bridge Street Churchill School collected $126.22, those of Queen Elizabeth School $119.30 and King George School students $78.51.

Bonnies and candy kisses the youngsters collected — and many a householder Saturday evening was touched by the manner in which they combined the traditional Hallowe'en "trick or treat" ultimatum with an appeal for less fortunate children in other lands.

"Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in Heaven", was among the golden pumpkins and so shone the eyes of the spooks and hob goblins as they "flitted" from house to house. These sturdy, budding citizens of Canada were sharing some of their plenty with their brothers and sisters in other less fortunate lands.

A door opened, up went the cry "trick or treat" and a moment and in the lighted hallway shone the orange emblems of the United Nations Children's Fund. They are learning, these young Canadians, to be ambassadors of peace — the peace and beauty we love, in this great land of ours.

Hallowe'en is a night of fun and laughter and a night of sharing and because the children cared enough to share, $334.63 in its way to the UNICEF headquarters in Toronto to begin its mighty challenge against hunger and disease.

But not only the night was the time of sharing. During the afternoon, two boys swept and gathered the fallen leaves and by evening when they called for their UNICEF boxes, each had a fistful of pennies to pour into his box. These two had learned the true meaning of brotherhood.

"Well done!" say those who organized the campaign. "All sprites and goblins for sharing your fun and thanks to all those who have made this Hallowe'en for UNICEF possible".

Hallowe'en ghosts ambassadors for UNICEF know that one pennies provides vaccine to protect a child from tuberculosis; 2 cents provides the penicillin to cure a child suffering from yaws; 10 cents provides a child with a nourishing milky vitaLio growth.

Hallowe'en Party, Dance At Armouries Real Success

With traditional street shenanigans at a minimum this Hallowe'en, there was more excitement in the Belleville Armouries Saturday night as close to 600 teen-agers turned up for the Hallowe'en party and dance.

City police reported that hardly any trouble was caused, almost completely nil and outside of the downtown shop window down some of the more unusual application of soap, there was little damage done.

But at the Armouries it was a different story as the young people whooped it up from 8 o'clock until close to midnight in a series of dances and stage entertainment.

Co-sponsors of the Hallowe'en party were members of the Belleville Police Association, the Belleville Recreation Commission and the student councils of the three city high schools.

The Armouries were gaily decorated for the occasion by additional Hallowe'en motif, while approximately 60 per cent of the teen-agers present turned up in costume to add to the spirit of the occasion.

Dance music for many of the numbers was by the Dolphins combination, while Sheila Canning did a comedy song number. "You Can't Get A Man With A Gun", while Diane McCallum did a Spanish Tap number.

High School students' council leaders Martin Hughes, James Sheridan and Gordon Smith were busy throughout the evening assisting in the direction of the dances. James Ketcheson, Bruce Javsh, Bruce Alexander and Richard Bedford, acting as master of ceremonies.

WILL REPEAT AFFAIR

Record operations were in charge of David Bonnell while the dance committee was headed up by Gordon Cook. Constable Jack Parker presented the prizes for the various spot dances and other contests.

Sponsoring bodies were in high spirits at the success of the Hallowe'en dance which is reputedly served to keep the teen-agers off the streets.

"We'll do it again another year," was the comment of one committee member.

The younger kiddies had their own way of celebrating Hallowe'en and screened in every conceivable type of costume, rang doorbells in the residential areas collecting candies, apples and other Hallowe'en treats.

Although traditionally it is "trick or treat" the door knocking was reversed, the kiddies as well and came home well loaded with Hallowe'en loot.

Manager Kills Street Rumor About Plant

Street rumor to the effect that Mead Johnson of Canada were moving their Belleville plant to Oshawa, was emphatically denied this morning by Mr. Gerald Wishart, local plant manager.

"There is absolutely no truth in the rumor whatsoever," Mr. Wishart told the Ontario Intelligencer.

Mr. Wishart said he himself had heard the rumor from several sources last week and had received numerous telephone calls from persons about the matter.

"I just assured them that there was no foundation in the story," Mr. Wishart said.

Pranksters Had Fun at Expense Of City Fathers

Practical jokesters having a bit of fun at the expense of Belleville city fathers and the tidy deficit as brought to light by the municipal inquiry, had their inning Saturday night when the phantom of Halloween pranks.

At the western entrance to the city on No. 2 highway, the City of Belleville sign listing the municipality's population and the fact that isla is the home of "Outstanding hockey champions, was partially obscured with another placard. The new sign showed Belleville as the "home of outstanding city government."

IN MEMORIAM

ALLEN. — In loving memory of a dear husband, John (Jack) Otis, who passed away November 2nd, 1957.
November 2nd, 1957.
Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by his wife Edith.

ALLEN. — In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, John Otis Allen, who passed away three years ago today, November 2nd, 1957.
It's sweetness here without you, Dad
We miss you more each day
We miss you more each year
Since you have gone to rest.
If we had all the world to give,
And all the world could take,
To hear your voice and see your smile
Just for a moment more,
We would give all the world to you,
For you who have a father.
Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by daughter Jean and son-in-law Fred Grindrod and family. Freddie.

ALLEN. — In loving memory of our dear grandfather, John Otis Allen, who passed away November 2nd, 1957.
Five years have passed since the sad call,
The one we loved was called away,
The home is lonely, our hearts are sad,
But still the vacant chair remains.
—Ever remembered by daughter Jean and son-in-law Fred Grindrod.

GOODNAPPY. — In loving memory of Cpl. Goodnappy, who died November 2nd, 1944.
Sweetly treasured, fond and true;
There is not a day, dear mother,
That we do not think of you.
—Ever remembered by the family.

COOK. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Flight Sergeant Clifford Cook, killed in action November 2nd, 1944.
Just watch your life was brighted,
And watch your future bright and gay,
You were called from this world of sorrow,
To a home of eternal happiness.
—Lovingly remembered by sister Kay and nieces.

COOK. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Flight Sergeant Clifford Cook, killed November 1st, 1944 in active service.
Looking back with memories,
Upon the path you trod,
We bless the hours we had with you
We have the rest with God.
—Ever remembered by mother.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — A strong wave of buying in natural gas stocks at the opening of the stock market today fueled an hour later as prices began reverting to Friday's closing figures.

Most noticeable issue was Alberta Gas which zipped in, 20, a gain of ¾ at the opening, only to drift back to 30½ later. The buying was a follow-up to Saturday's announcement that the United States Federal Power Commission had agreed to allow the price of Alberta natural gas into four midwestern states.

During the heavy rush of mor- along trading Trans-Canada Pipe Lines, through whose pipes the Canadian gas will move to the states, jumped 1¾ points to 29 before settling back to 28¾.

Other than western oils, spurred by those stocks with natural gas interests, the index changes were generally small. Industrials and golds were virtually unchanged while base metals showed a gain of a half point. Trading moved at its fastest pace in seven weeks with sg 13 p.m., volume of 674,000 shares compared with Friday's 431,000 at the same time.

DISCOVER NEW PEAKS

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet plane has found two new groups of mountain peaks on a 4,000-mile flight in Antarctica, Tass reports. The peaks rose about 9,800 feet. The location given was inland from the Princess Astrid coast opposite the tip of South Africa. Some peaks in this region pass 13,000 feet.

Hastings County Museum Planned In Shrine Hall

Plans for a proposed Hastings County museum were approved unanimously by the Hastings County Historical Society. The proposal now will be submitted to County Council.

Site of the suggested museum would be the County Registry Office at Belleville. This old stone brick building is scheduled to be demolished for a parking lot following the completion of the new County Building.

The Historical Society's brief to County Council is in five main sections.

Section one deals with the need for a museum. It points out that a museum would meet the following needs:

(1) The preservation of our historic past. "We owe to to past and future generations the duty that as much as possible of our historic past. "We owe it to past Many persons have indicated willingness to donate or loan articles of local historical importance to a museum. This is especially important in Hastings County, since it is one of Ontario's original counties."

(2) The satisfaction of a growing interest in our history. This is shown in the success of the Historical Society's display during the Belleville Fair. Almost 3,000 persons registered to view the 1959 display. This interest is also shown in the favorable reception of the O'Hara Mill Conservation area near Madoc and the Tweedsmuir Talk prepared by the Women's Institutes.

(3) The attraction of tourists. This is the heritage of our young people.

(5) The storage of county records.

The second part of the brief deals with the advantages of the registry office as a museum. Its structural qualities, central location, fireproof character, historic interest, and ease of converting it for museum purposes are all important points.

The brief is concluded with the qualifications of the County Historical Society (which, though only in its third year, has enthusiastic supporters throughout the county), its accomplishments, financing of the proposed museum.

Copies of the submission have been mailed to all members of Hastings County Council, and a formal presentation will be made at the December session of Council.

A favorable reception by County Council will mean the setting up of a first class county museum.

Garage O.A. Elects New 1960 Officers

The regular monthly meeting of the Hastings and Prince Edward branch of the Garage Owners' Association was held at 29 the Belleville Shrine Club last Thursday evening with president Jack Wilson in the chair.

There were 25 in attendance from Trenton, Stirling, Madoc, Tweed and Belleville.

After the business part of the meeting past provincial director Ron Hall, Madoc, took over in the chair and conduct the election of officers for 1960.

The following were declared elected:

President, Jack Wilson, Belleville; first vice-president, Les Plant, Trenton; second vice president, Vince Lynch, Tweed; secretary, Ken Vivian, Shannonville; provincial director, Ronald Moorman, Belleville.

Directors: Trenton, Wes Reese and Doug Hyde; Brighton, Wendell and Al Flindall; Madoc, Clem Treverton and Ed Armstrong; Tweed, Robt. Wood and Earl Moreau; Bellevile, Ronald Botnow, Lorne Vaughn, Keith Everitt, Wood, Ray Hannah, Orlif Lloyd, Wm. Locke and Clinton Vader.

Premier Wilson thanked the members for the confidence placed in him on being re-elected as president for 1960 but stated that the full co-operation of all the members must be obtained if they wished the association to be a success.

Mr. Ed Brown, field representative with the head office, spoke briefly regarding the annual convention to be held at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, on November 23-24, 1959. He urged every member and lady to make a special effort to attend as it was planned to make it bigger and better this year.

Provincial president Ray Williams of Peterborough, was present and gave an informal but instructive address on the various plans head office and provincial executive were participating for the benefit of all members and the trade in general.

BRANCHES' ACTIVITIES

He also spoke on the activities of several of the branches throughout Ontario and stated that the Garage Operators' Association could only be of any benefit with the full support of each operator. He also stated that several of the branches in Ontario had from 95-100 per cent membership.

The speaker was thanked by

Talk Is Given On Use of Tile

"The Use of Tile," was the theme of an interesting address given members of the Arts and Crafts Club recently by Mr. Lawson of the Frontenac Floor and Wall Tile Ltd., Kingston.

The meeting was arranged by the Mosaic Tile group of the Arts and Crafts Club, which meets in the Recreation room on Bleecker Street.

In his address Mr. Lawson particularly emphasized the use of tile in small "do-it-yourself" projects, and explained the step-by-step process of working with tile. He illustrated his talk with pictures showing what can be done with tile design. He also showed the group samples of tile and several pictures of larger tile projects carried out in new schools in Vancouver and Calgary.

Mr. Lawson said although tiles are quite new in Canada, they are not new in Europe. He explained that clay tiles are used in the home and industry, and are suitable material for floors, bathrooms, and walls, since the colors harmonize and tiles are exceptionally durable and require little maintenance.

The talk was of particular interest to the mosaic tile group of the club. The students, under the capable leadership of Mrs. Bruce Diamond, are presently designing small-projects such as tea pot stands, trays, and covering wastebaskets.

Mrs. Grant, Arts and Crafts Club president, tendered a vote of thanks to the speaker for his enlightening and educational address.

Mac Smith.

The door prizes were won by C. Vader and Wm. Loucks.

The meeting adjourned after which a buffet luncheon was served. The members present each resolved to do all within their power to make the Hastings and Prince Edward branch of the association one of the best in Ontario.

ALPS KILL 231

ROME (AP) — At least 231 persons died climbing in the Alps this year. Footladdress of amateur mountaineers once more was described as a main reason. Sudden weather changes were another factor. Last year 283 were killed. The record was 383 in 1957.

Residents Besieged by Gaily Clad Children on Hallowe'en

TRENTON — Residents were besieged by an army of gaily clad children on Saturday night, celebrating the annual Hallowe'en observance. The cry of "Trick or Treat" could be heard all over town, as the urchins rang doorbells, confident that candy and other goodies would be forthcoming.

Most of the children carried UNICEF cans to collect pennies, nickles and dimes for the children who live in less fortunate lands. Through the school program they had been made aware of the needs of these children and they were more than anxious to share.

This year, Dufferin Street School, St. Peter's School and Trinity's Cadet Organization forces for the UNICEF campaign. Mr. Harold Bye, chairman of the campaign, stated that the funds collected were over $600, an increase over last year's sum of a little over $300. There were 32 depots set up in town. Each child collected UNICEF can from the depot nearest to his home, and returned the can to the same depot. At 8:30 p.m. a check was made in the Trenton studio of radio station CJBQ and the total amount the name was announced over the air.

Cheryl Mitchell of 80 Sidney Street, was the winner. Cheryl was safely at home when Jean Beggs telephoned her. This was one of the conditions set down by the committee, as it was felt that it would be an embarrassment for the winner to get home early. She had collected her can from the depot run by Mr. McKee, 19 Bay St.

Mrs. A. O'Kafka, who with Mrs. and Mrs. F. W. Gilbert formed the first committee for the UNICEF campaign in Trenton, in 1955, drew the winning ticket from among those allocated to all the children participating for the fund.

Bleecker School also participated in the campaign, but the money will not be collected and counted until Monday morning.

Full Recreation Program Getting Into Full Swing

TRENTON — The winter program released by William Workman, chairman of the Trenton Recreation Commission, and his committee, is well underway at the Recreation Club on Ontario Street. Activities are based at the club, but in some cases are carried on in the auditoriums or gyms of Trenton schools, which provide the necessary space or equipment.

The Senior Citizens' Club, open to all persons over 60 years of age, meets in the club rooms on the second and fourth Monday of every month. Mrs. Ireland and Mrs. Bye are in charge of this club, which provides a chance for the elderly people to get together and enjoy a social evening. Those wishing to join the club may contact Mrs. J. Taylor at EX 2-2716, or Mr. Workman at EX 2-5966.

On the first Monday of the month the Ontario Street Club members of the Quinte Disabled Club, Ontario Street, meet. Wed. nesday the Drama Club meets there.

Square dances are usually held in Queen Elizabeth School auditorium on the second and fourth Saturday of each month. On Saturday, November 14th, the dance will be held in College Street School. These dances are strictly "pay as you night". Wed. The Tuesday following each dance gives one free admission in square dancing at the club.

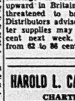
Arts and crafts, comprising leather work, oil painting, aluminum tooling, rug making and copper tooling, are taught in Marmora Street Senior Public School each Wednesday from 8 p.m. until 10 p.m. These are taught respectively by Mrs. J. McNea, Mrs. C. S. Mitchell, Mrs. J. Liggins, Mrs. F. Kellar and Mrs. A. Evans. There are openings in each of these classes. Those wishing to take up copper jewelry in the near class.

Indoor sports for girls, including basketball and volley ball, are taught in Queen Elizabeth School gymnasium on Thursday nights, from 6.30 to 7.30 for girls 9, 10 and 11; from 7.30 until 8.30 for ages 12 and 13. Miss Jean Lyon Workman is the instructress. On the same night, and at the same hours for the same ages, the boys and girls are instructed in the games in the two gyms at Trenton High School. Miss Marilyn Long instructs the girls and Mr. Bob Shaw man the boys.

Boys Hockey on the east side of the river may join in these games on Monday nights at the James Street School, supervised by Ron Kerr.

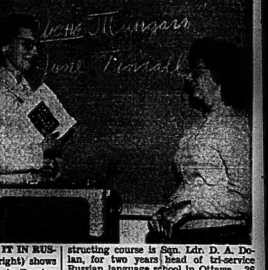
Friday night is given over to intermediate and senior swimming classes at YMCAF 5th Division pool, between the hours of seven and nine. From nine to ten the pool is open to adult swimmers. There are a few openings in the latter class for would-be swimmers.

On Saturday morning, children in the junior class may swim at the pool and in the afternoon, beginners and non-swimmers are given swimming instruction, running from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.; girls from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.



The children's classes are filled up, but adults wishing to learn may contact Mr. Workman at EX 2-5966.

BUTTER SHORTAGE OCCURS



LONDON (AP) — An acute shortage of butter sent prices soaring in Britain today and threatened to bring rationing. Distributors advised grocers butter supplies may be cut 50 per cent next week. Prices range from 6¢ to 8¢ cents a pound.

On Thursday evening 32 members of the Kiwanis Club of Trenton met with the Tweed Kiwanis Club at a dinner meeting at the Hotel Tweedsmuir in that town. Entertainment was provided by Port Hope, Madoc, and Picton also.

STORY REPEATED

The Cinderella story was repeated at the weekly dance held at the Trenton Legion last Saturday night, when "Prince Charming" Ken Craddock, as master of ceremonies, tried a tiny glass slipper on the foot of each of the belles present. After the traditional "ugly sisters" had tried to squeeze their number 9 feet, bunions and all, into the number 3 slipper, a Cinderella, in the person of Mrs. Francis Lewis, 86 Murphy Street, was found.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Shoniker won prizes for the best Hallowe'en costumes.

Ray Difruiscio and his orchestra supplied the music for dancing.

26 Students Study Russian At High School Night Class

TRENTON—"It looks a lot harder than it actually is, but with S/L Dolan teaching, it comes easy," he knows how to get it across . . ." stated Mrs. J. K. McEwen of Tweed, who, together with her husband and 24 other students, is studying the Russian language Monday nights at Trenton High School.

The keen interest in learning Russian —a possible result of Russia's first Sputnik — is reflected in the fact that the Province of Ontario High Schools have now made this important language a part of their syllabus of training.

The Russian course at Trenton High School has four objectives; to enable the student to understand spoken Russian, read and understand printed Russian, converse on everyday topics, and finally translate from English into Russian — all within the limits of a 3,000 word vocabulary.

S/L. Dolan, who conducts the course—which is fully recorded on tape by a native Russian, and available for reproduction in the students — is a graduate of the year-long Russian language course at McGregory, California, and a former instructor in comparative Russian-English grammar at Carleton University, Ottawa.

The class meets every Monday night at Trenton High School from 7.30 to 9.30 p.m. About once a month an extra class is held, and by the end of the year 100 hours of formal instruction will be given. S/L Dolan, who has shown interest high in the Trenton area, hopes to be able to get the same course underway in the Belleville area.

Facts and Figures

Some time ago Jim Babinetz received an expulsion notice from Lakeshore Teachers' College. He weighed 254 pounds. 'He was told in his expulsion notice that his weight would be a liability to the teachers' superannuation fund.

A lot of people got quite disturbed about this. Their attitude was understandable, but perhaps a little naive. After all, there are not many 254-pounders who would like to be teachers and if the harshest criticism which could be levelled at the Ontario Department of Education was unfair discrimination against these few, we should be better off than we are.

Criticism swelled, rather than subsided, when Hon Dr. W. J. Dunlop, Minister of Education, let it be known that he was personally responsible for the decision to dismiss Babinetz from the College. The Toronto undertook to take up the cudgels for Babinetz and at the same time get down his weight. An interview was arranged with Dr. Dunlop and at this meeting the Minister declared that Babinetz was a poor student. "No one contacted among the youth's former teachers and schoolmates agreed with Dr. Dunlop's assessment," reports the Star.

The figures, though, support the minister. Last June Babinetz was recommended for secondary school graduation on the basis of these marks: Grade 13 bogarduation on the basis of these marks: Grade 13 botany 50, zoology 64, chemistry 51 and Grade 12 industrial arts 72, science 65, mathematics 54, history 58 and English 56.

That is a total of 470 marks in eight Grade 13 and Grade 12 subjects, or an average of 58½. Now it seems to us that this justifies Dr. Dunlop's observation that Babinetz is a poor student. It must be added, though, that being a poor student is no bar to going to teachers' college. Babinetz could have obtained 70 fewer marks than he did and still have been eligible. Fifty per cent is all that is required to get into teachers college, we are told.

There will be some people who will protest vigorously that this is much too low a standard to be required of future teachers. What are needed, however, are not idealists of this type, but practical men. A rare opportunity exists for practical educationalists to devise a system of dieting which will insure that a person's weight will vary in inverse proportion to his marks, thereby providing assurance that when poor students wish to attend teachers' college they will be disqualified by Dr. Dunlop because they are overweight.

An Exciting Achievement

From Hayward, Cal., comes news much more exciting than anything emanating from Hollywood.

A team of doctors has succeeded in grafting back the severed leg of a human.

There is said to be no parallel in medical history for this operation.

It reminds one, though, of the operations which Russian scientists have been performing with dogs, particularly in the grafting of heads.

It would be interesting to learn whether the U.S. doctors who performed this operation had been helped in any way by reports of the Russian experiments.

If they had, it would be an effective answer to those who deplore such operations with animals.

In any event, it is interesting to note the wording of the announcement from Hayward. The first time, it says the announcement, that such a graft had been made of the severed leg "of a human." There is an intimation here that similar operations had been performed in the past with animals.

Only those people who think the life of an animal to be of equal value to the life of a human being will object to such experiments.

Canada's Business, Too

Does the dispute between China and India over the Himalayan wilderness area seem somewhat remote to you, does it have an air of unreality?

A natural reaction, we think, but an editorial in the Vancouver Sun shatters our complacency.

The editorial just reminded us of an overlooked fact. India is a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations. And, if the Commonwealth means anything at all, if India gets into a brawl with China the other members of the Commonwealth will have a duty to come to her assistance, if she needs it. She probably would. So every time a Chinese soldier crosses the frontier into India, it is certainly of concern to Canada.

THE ECONOMY CROWD

By EDGAR A. GUEST

His name is legion nowadays:
"I cannot go to see the plays,
My wife cannot afford new stays;
I'm buying a home.

"Yes, once a day I walk downtown;
My wife cannot have another gown
On her useless new I frown;
I'm buying a home.

"I cannot take a fishing trip,
I never, never take a 'sip,'
The waiter I forget to tip;
I'm buying a home.

"All forms of pleasure I deny;
We're getting stingy, wife and I;
I'm glad to state the reason why;
I'm buying a home."

And glad I am indeed to hear
This growing slogan far and near,
Which shows life's worth living here:
"I'm buying a home."

Letters To The Editor

Deplores Holding Ball on Nov. 11

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:
A well-known local organization is holding its annual ball on November 11th. Has it escaped its notice that this is Armistice Day? The date on which we honor our dead by holding a "solemn" silence throughout the world.

Gaiety and dancing seem out of place on this one day we have set aside to remember those who gave their lives to protect their families and country. Let us not treat that sacrifice too lightly.

Indignant Citizen

POINT OF VIEW

If we looked upon our changing
As a key to nature's way,
And didn't cry each time we saw
A wrinkle here to stay,
We could live a little better,
Learn a thing or two,
The youngster who will follow us
And needn't a point of view.

If we only had the insight
To leave well enough alone
And try to look past some rough and simple tone,
Then we'd never see a haggard face
With make-up on too deep
And the loveliness of nature
Would be something we could keep.

If we'd leave painting to the birds
And learn a little too
We wouldn't let our passing years
Disrupt our point of view.
And if we'd look at the future
And enjoy each pretty tone,
We'd recognize the chances that were ours alone.

If we didn't long for youth so much
But remembered it instead,
We could have a better time all
'round
And as we grow in wisdom
Our worries could be few,
For no one's life is empty,
It's his point of view.

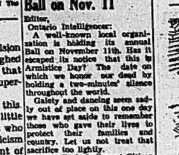
"One Spade?" Bid Outlawed



St. Louis Post-Dispatch

A new device introduced experimentally on bridge tables in the New York area may bring automation to the game. Players use screens stretched diagonally across the table and high enough so no player may see his partner's face or hands. The bids are written on printed form. This voice and gesture controls which, intentionally or unintentionally, give information to an observant partner are outlawed.

Undoubtedly this new device is a fine thing for serious team matches. And it absolutely prevents the game from becoming second to the conversation. This may mean that the poker face has been brought to the bridge table, and that conviviality has been eliminated during the hours it was set aside for an old-fashioned kick in the shins when a partner trumps his partner's ace.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 2, 1939.

Three days after Great Britain declared war, Malcolm O. Smith, youngest son of Mr. F. P. Smith, former Prince Edward County public School Inspector, now of Kingston, boarded a White Pass plane at Dawson City, Yukon, and flew the "trail of '98" to Edmonton, thence to Picton, completing a 3,000-mile journey to enlist in the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

In London, England, the Minister of Food announced today that the British Government would still ration the consumption of bacon and butter beginning the middle of December. General rationing will not be started although the distribution of ration books and other prerequisites will be completed. Everyone will be entitled to four ounces of butter and four ounces of bacon weekly, the Minister said, "provided imports continue at the present rate, as there is good reason for assuming they will."

In three weeks time Fronteniac County farmers will start to market one of the biggest crops of turkeys, since the raising of these birds gained a prominent place in the farming industry. Approximately 21,000 birds will be sold during a four weeks' period during the latter part of November and the first part of December.

Which City Is Biggest?

Winnipeg Tribune

Canadians are familiar with minor league activity in the inter-city sheeting game. Toronto's looks down its nose at Vancouver and Vancouver looks down its skyscrapers at Victoria. Calgary swaggers in its cattle and oil wealth and Edmonton totes up population figures it memorized talks about the Toronto Sunday and Toronto talks about the Toronto subway.

But the big leagues of the game are reserved for the eight-million-plus cities. There are only two competitors — London, New York and Tokyo. London is the big one among the big-city in the world. Then New York challenged the claim. And recently the Tokyo government put in its bid with statistics showing the metropolis of Tokyo first with more than nine million people, London second with 8,250,000, and New York third with an even 8 million.

This was too much for New York's statistician who has supplied with his own calculations. The real population of Tokyo is 7,354,000, he said. Only by adding the population of the prefecture in which the city proper is located could the population be boosted to nine million.

As for London, said the New York city man, to get its population up to 8,250,000 he says you have to add a big chunk of surrounding territory too. On the same thing for New York and the population is more than 12 million.

The British have yet to reply, but when they do, it isn't hard to guess which city will be ranked at the top of the count. The big league game, it seems, is played much the same as in the minor leagues.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

DISTRACTION PROVES BENEFICIAL

Many of us recall the amazement with which we learned last during World War II all sorts of nervous disturbances on the part of multitudes of people in Great Britain died down noticeably as the bombings proceeded. It seemed that the more pounding the tight little island got, the better mental health the population enjoyed. There was said to be a marked decrease in insanity. Millions of neurotic people seemed to forget their troubles and conflicts as they busied themselves with all sorts of helpful tasks and rested each night for the planes to come over again.

It may very well be, my dear, that many of us are continually trying to commit suicide by filling our minds with poisonous thoughts, for that the one thing which above all others makes us unhappy and miserable. We just don't continually thinking about ourselves. Try to imagine what a relief it would be to forget all the years of worry and hours of brooding and self-pity.

Overflow Crowd Is Present As Corby Library New Wing Officially Opened Saturday

An overflowing crowd jammed Corby library for the official opening of the new wing Saturday afternoon — proving Belleville's literary public likes the project.

The crowd was so great, many had to remain standing at the rear of the building.

Miss Olive Delaney, chief librarian, told the gathering the opening was a "fulfillment of a lifelong dream."

She said it was a thrilling experience and one she had waited a long time to see.

"I hope," she said, "you use the library to its fullest capacity."

ANGUS MOWAT SPEAKS

Angus Mowat, director of public library service for the Province, the official "opener", said,it was fitting that this would probably be the last library he would open.

"It was here I began my career in the library service, in 1928," he said. "This will probably be the last library I shall open as I am due to retire shortly."

Mr. Mowat said when he first came to the Belleville library it was in a deplorable condition.

The speaker explained there was no fire escape, but on his insistence, the library board provided him with one — a long rope — mainly for his wife's sake.

"In wet weather, the basement wasn't a bad place, if you could swim", he said. "The books, mostly mystery and love stories, were all bound in elastic bands to keep them together."

Turning to the present, Mr. Mowat said if was amazing how the library had grown, especially since the library was not compulsory part of a council's budget.

"It proves that culturally the city has grown", he said.

SOUND BOARD

The speaker said Belleville had always had a sound, intelligent library board who did not allways get the cheapest librarians, but did always get good ones.

The construction of the new wing is an amazing feat", Mr. Mowat pointed out. "I dropped in at here several times during the building, and saw the plans, but could not visualize the union of the two buildings.

"It is one of the best remodelling jobs I have ever seen".

In conclusion, Mr. Mowat said the reference and reading facilities of the library were equal to any of those in the Province.

CHAIRMAN SPEAKS

Library board chairman, Charles Hyde, told the gathering:

"As chairman of your Library Board I feel it is my duty to briefly outline to you the progress made by this board during the last few months.

The older portion of this building was erected in 1854 and 1855, thus you will observe it is 104 years old. It was originally constructed by the former Merchants Bank, with a Dwelling on the 1st floor for the bank manager. Some years later it was sold to the Honorable Senator Harry Corby, who occupied it for office accommodation for the Corby Distillery Co.

In the year 1907 the late Senator and Mrs. Corby presented this whole property to the city of Belleville to be used for library purposes only, otherwise it would revert to the Corby estate. At that time the population of the city was less than 10,000 persons, and for many years remained almost static at that figure. During the last decade our city's population has almost trebled. In the year 1920 the number of books loaned was approximately 15,000, and in 1958 the number of books loaned was over 180,000, so we believe it is quite apparent that the accommodation in the old building had become totally inadequate.

"Members of our staff also operate the Film Council which involves the rental of many films, together with projectors.

CAREFULLY STUDIED

"This serious situation had been carefully studied by previous Library Boards without action, but in March 1958, our chairman of Library Planning Committee, Mr. Linton Reid, made a date with the mayor for a joint meeting of the board members with the city council. The board members were cordially received by the mayor and aldermen and we presented them with a brief outlining our requirements and also left with them a petition requesting a grant of $100,000 which was the estimated cost of the proposed addition. About a month later we were advised by the city clerk that the council had unanimously agreed to grant our petition by the issue of ten year debentures for that amount.

"We immediately authorized our architects, Messrs. Watson and Wiegand to prepare plans and specifications and to call for tenders. After they had prepared several pencil sketches for our consideration we finally agreed upon the plan which you now see completed. The lowest tender received was from a local firm, the Tatham Co. Limited and fortunately their tender did not exceed by one cent of money allotted to us and we have very diligently endeavored to keep within our budget and have successfully managed to do so in spite of a few quite essential extras.

"In our library, including four public school branches you will find about 40,000 books, plus other periodicals, filled with every type of good literature. I feel that Loughlow expressed it real well when he said: 'The love of learning, the sequestered nooks, and all the sweet serenity of books.'

"The completion of this undertaking was not accomplished by any one person but rather by the combined efforts of all the board, members of the city council, the library staff members, the engineers, the architects and the contractors, all working together in complete harmony and good will. It has been a pleasure to work with all those concerned.

"I do believe I can safely present the name of one person whom I am sure is worthy of special mention and that is our faithful and efficient secretary-treasurer, librarian and president of the Belleville Film Council, Miss Olive Delaney, who has been a constant tower of strength to the board. And here I would like to pay a special tribute to Miss Delaney and to all members of her staff, including our splendid janitor. For several months they have worked greatly handicapped and under most trying and difficult circumstances, and have done so with the greatest of patience, and uncomplaining endurance.

"We hope you will be pleased with our efforts and we feel sure the library staff will be in a position to serve you much more quickly and efficiently."

PAINTING PRESENTED

At the close of Mr. Hyde's address, Mrs. J. F. McArthur, president of the Women's University Club of Belleville presented the library with a Manly Macdonald painting on behalf of the Club.

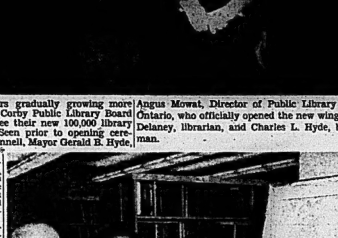
After the opening, citizens were invited to inspect the completed work and were served refreshments in the basement.

The new part of the library provides kitchen and washrooms downstairs, with a "stack" room —for storing old books — and small auditorium which will be rented to interested groups for lectures or discussions.

Moving upstairs on the new staircase, past the remodelled entrance, readers check books in or out at a modern designed functional reception desk.

To the left of this desk is Miss Delaney's office, also designed on a modern functional theme with further left the old part of the building still remaining.

To the right of the reception desk is the major part of the new addition, where the reader can choose his or her reading matter in brightly-lit comfort.



At the rear of the building, the kiddies have their new section which is similar to the adults' main reading room.

MAIL BY ROCKET

CUXHAVEN, West Germany (Reuters) — The German Rocket Society of Bremen Sunday made a successful attempt to deliver mail by rocket. The rocket containing 5,000 post cards were fired over a distance of about two miles along a stretch of beach on the North Sea coast. The post cards were then taken over by the post office for formal delivery.

After years in quarters gradually growing more cramped, members of the Corby Public Library Board were happy Saturday to see their new 100,000 library wing officially opened. Seen prior to opening ceremonies are Rev. A. S. McConnell, Mayor Gerald B. Hyde, Angus Mowat, Director of Public Library Service for Ontario, who officially opened the new wing; Miss Olive Delaney, librarian, and Charles L. Hyde, board chairman.

A Manly Macdonald painting of the Belleville skyline from the Bay Bridge Road, was presented to the library by members of the Women's University Club through its president, Mrs. J. E. McArthur. Studying the painting are Mr. Macdonald, Mrs. McArthur and librarian Miss Olive Delaney.

Madoc District Man Injured, Struck by Car

A Madoc district man is in serious condition in Belleville General Hospital, and two Ottawa youths are also in hospital with less serious injuries following separate accidents which occurred Saturday evening and Sunday morning.

In hospital with a fractured pelvis, fractured right leg and fractured skull, is William Mc-Beat, 64, of R.R. 1, Madoc.

The injured man was said to have stepped out from behind a parked truck into the path of a car in Madoc village Saturday evening.

Three miles south of Tweed a car in which two Ottawa youths were riding left the highway, rolled across the ditch, coming to rest in a farmer's field.

Madoc provincial police who investigated said that Kenneth Stephen, 19, driver of the car, and Gary Stark, also 19, were taken to hospital at Belleville, the former with shoulder injuries and the latter with back injuries. Stephen was said thrown from the car which was almost completely wrecked.

Churchill Statue Unveiled Amid Real Horse Laughs

By EDDY GILMORE

WOODFORD, England (AP)— A highly controversial statue of Sir Winston Churchill was unveiled Saturday amid pomp and circumstance — and real horse laughs.

The horse — belonging to the metropolitan police department —whinnied nine times during Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery's dedication speech. The peppery field marshal didn't like it a bit.

But Sir Winston—who'll be 85 next month—enjoyed it tremendously. Especially when a police superintendent had to lead away the horse and its embarrassed rider.

About 3,000 persons cheered as Sir Winston, accompanied by Lady Churchill, arrived. Looking better than he has in weeks, Churchill gave them the V sign for victory and, taking his time, climbed five steps to a platform and sat down.

At this point Montgomery arrived. So did the horse. As the field marshal mounted the platform steps and took out his notes the horse began its silence with a blood-curdling neigh.

Ignoring the animal, Montgomery began his speech with: "Turning to Sir Winston, he said: "Let future generations remember how he (Churchill) took tyranny by the throat and tore freedom from its grasp."

"Wheeeeeee," went the horse. After brief hesitation, the field marshal continued:

"Future generations will not only need, but will also desire to know what Sir Winston Churchill looked like."

"Wheeeeeeee," went the horse again.

Sir Winston grinned. Montgomery glared at the animal, but went on.

"And nobody knows better than Britain's soldier how strong Britain and an untarnished British spirit are the prime ingredients of peace."

"Wheeeeeeee."

At this interruption the field marshall commented:

"It's rather a good thing to have a horse joining the ceremony."

"Wheeeeeeee," agreed the horse.

The crowd began laughing. So the horse whinnied again.

Here the police superintendent walked to the animal and stroked its nose. He said something to the policeman astraddle the horse.

"Wheeeeeeee."

This was the longest whinny of all. And it was the last. Gently but firmly the police officer led the animal and rider through the dense crowd.

When the field marshal finished, Sir Winston spoke, then came down off the platform and gave the two-ton bronze statue a long inspection. The work of sculptor David McFall, the statue shows a bulldog-like Churchill in a fighting pose.

Churchill turned to Montgomery and said:

"It's nice. Yes, it's nice."

"Jest a Second"

"I don't think it's worth putting fresh water in them. They're nearly dead, too!"

Recognition of 2 Chinas Urged In Report to Senate Group

WASHINGTON (AP)—A study for the U.S. Senate foreign relations committee recommended Saturday that the United States recognize there are two China — Communist China and the Nationalist Republic.

It said this should be part of a gradual process, accompanying a first stage of exploration and negotiation to be followed, if the first stage goes well, by abandonment of diplomatic sanctions and trade restrictions against Red China.

The study was prepared by a private research firm, Operations Associates, Ltd., of San Francisco, under contract with the foreign relations committee.

The report recommended discussions with U.S. allies and neutral nations on a program to:

1. Admit Red China to the United Nations.

2. Recognize the Nationalist government on Formosa as the only "republic of Taiwan."

3. Seat Ching Ka-Shek's Formosa regime in the United Nations General Assembly instead of on the Security Council.

4. Enlarge the Security Council, which now has five permanent members—Nationalist China, Russia, Great Britain, France and the United States. Besides admitting Red China rather than the Nationalists, permanent membership would be given to India and Japan.

Committee chairman J. William Fulbright, (Dem.-Ark.), in making the study public, called it provocative and worthy of careful study. He said in an accompanying statement:

"While I do not believe that the United States should recognize Communist China at the present time, I do not believe it is wise to continue to ignore the over 600,000,000 people on the China mainland in the naive belief that they will somehow go away."

The study itself said Red China was very likely to be the most unified government that modern China has ever had and; it is extremely unlikely that the present regime will be seriously challenged by internal dissidence...in the near future . . . Communist China is very likely to emerge as the/of the major world powers of the late 20th century."

In the initial phase of the change in U.S. policy toward Peiping, the study suggested mutual exchange of reporters by the two nations, to be followed by exchange of scholars and commercial representatives, and by discussions with U.S. allies on ways to test Red China's interest in improving relations with the United States.

Over 300 attend 'Sector Plan' Supper

Three hundred people packed ose Lowery Hall in Frankford nited Church on Friday even- ng and bowed over into every vailable corner for a congre- ational supper, organized to unch the Sector Plan for hurch extension.

A bevy of charming hostesses, ach wearing a corsage of red oses, welcomed the guests as hey arrived. Thanks to the ef- icient help of the ladies from he Zion and Stockdale Church- s, the dinner was served with a minimum of confusion. It was impossible to accommodate everybody in Rose Lowery Hall so the Sector program had to be presented in two parts. Well planned use of the hall and church, and one meeting follow- ing the other with perfect tim- ing, made it possible for all to see and hear the Sector project.

Both meetings enthusiastical- ly endorsed the proposals of the Sector committee and many vol- unteers were recruited to help launch a three-year program that will widen the sphere of Christian fellowship and extend the witness and activities of this church in the community. The Frankford United Church Sec- tor effort is part of an inter- denominational co - operative movement. The Sector evaluation and is working with Grace United Church, Trinity United Church, Camp- bellford and Warkworth United Churches, and some other de- nominations.

Sector originated with the Baptist Church in the United States, but in the last three years it has given new life and vigor to 1,200 Canadian, church- es and so defined the sphere of Christian witness and mis- sionary activity that it is now widely recognized as a great adventure in practical Chris- tianity.

Queen of Sheba Lodge Installs 1960 Officers

Monday, October 26 proved to be a big night for the Queen of Sheba Rebekah Lodge, Napanee, when the D.D.P. attended with her staff to install the new of- ficers for the ensuing year.

Mrs. Winnifred Steele, Dis- trict Deputy President, of Ivy Leaf Lodge, Parham, with her installing staff and guard of honor, performed the necessary duties in a dignified manner. All the girls looked lovely in their white gowns and brief col- ored jackets.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

The officers installing were:— Mrs. Estelle Jackson, N. G.; Mrs. Henrietta Cuthill, V. G.; Mrs. Vera McGreer, Rec. S.; Miss Bea- trice Mowers, F. S., and Miss Myrtle Russell, T.

The appointed officers install- ed were: Mrs. Ruth Chalmers, warder; Mrs. Laura Wannamak- er, conductor; Mrs. Alice Clancy, I. G.; Mrs. Lottie Finlayson, O. G.; Mrs. Marion Baird, R. S. N. G.; Mrs. Margaret Ben- der, L. S. N. G.; Mrs. Marjorie Richards, R. S. V. G.; Mrs. Mar- on Parks, L. S. V. G.; Mrs. Ma- bel Clarke, Chaplain; Mrs. Gladys Reid, musician, and Mrs. Madge Chambers, color bearer.

Accompanying the girls from Parham was the soloist for the evening, Mrs. R. Whan, who ren- dered two solos.

After installation, Mrs. Winni- fred Steele and Mrs. Lena Bur- leigh were presented with two gifts, mementoes of their year's work.

The lodge adjourned to the banquet hall where refreshments were served on tables decorated in the Hallowe'en manner.

WEDDINGS

ENRIGHT — WRIGHT

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, October 17, at 10.00 a.m. in the Church of St. Michael the Arch- angel, Belleville, by the Reverend Peter Murphy, when Mary Kath- leen Wright, registered nurse of Belleville General Hospital, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samu- el E. Wright, of Belleville, was united in marriage to William Harold Enright, son of Mrs. Har- old Enright, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Enright.

The bride was attended by white chrysanthemums formed a lovely set- ting for the ceremony.

Sister Mary Joan of Arc pre- sided at the console of the organ and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Helen Gaffney, who sang before the ceremony, "Ave Maria," "Panis Angelicus," and "On This Day, O Beautiful Mother," dur- ing the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, Samuel E. Wright, the bride was radiant in an ivo- cade gown. French wool suit with matching velvet and feather hat, rust-toned accessories, and cor- sage of gold and yellow mums.

She was attended by the bridegroom's sister, Miss Anne Marie Enright, registered nurse, who wore a beige suit with roy- al blue accessories, matching feather hat, and corsage of white carnations.

Mr. Herbert Pointer, of Belle- ville, attended the bridegroom.

The reception was held at Hot- tel Quinte where the bride's mother received, gowned in navy lace with old-rose velvet hat and gloves, and corsage of pink car- nations. The bridegroom's moth- er assisted, wearing navy and white silk with red hat, and gloves, and corsage of white car- nations.

The bride's table was lovely in its setting of white damask, cen- tred by an all-white three-tier wedding cake topped by a tiny bride and bridegroom, and mist- ed about the base with white tulle.

For travelling to Watertown, N.Y. and the Ottawa district, the bride wore her wedding en- semble with brown fur jacket and corsage of yellow and gold mums.

Guests attended from Toronto, Roslin, Trenton, and Belleville.

The bride, prior to her mar- riage, was entertained at the home of Miss Vra Kraatz, regis- tered nurse, 216 Victoria Ave- nue, and also at a presentation from the staff of 1st West Wing of Belleville General Hospital, of which the bride is a member.

TORJUSEN — HUNTER

Standards of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums, interspersed with ferns, formed a lovely set- ting in Tabernacle United Church, Belleville on Saturday, October 17, at 2.00 p.m. when Joyce Hunter of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. Lindsay Hunter of Belleville, and the late Inspector Sydney Hunter, became the bride of Rodger E. M. Torjusen, of Tron- to, son of Mrs. W. G. Goodison and the late Mr. Leif Torjusen. The Reverend J. C. Eastcott, B.A. officiated, assisted by the Reverend R. F. Sherratt, pastor of Bridge Street United Church.

Mr. S. Alec Gordon, guest or- ganist, provided the wedding music and accompanied the solo- ist, Miss Margaret Hills, of Belle- ville, in her rendition of the "Wedding Prayer", before the ceremony, and "O Perfect Love", during the signing of the regis- ter.

Given in marriage by her bro- ther, Mr. William S. Hunter, of Kingston, the bride was charming in her white velon organza brid- al gown with molded bodice and floor-length skirt accented by front panels of Chantilly lace. She wore a finger-tip veil of tulle illusion, held by a tiara studded with seed pearls and carried a cascade of white and yellow mums.

Mrs. A. W. Munro, of Brock- ville, as matron of honor, wore a rose velveteen gown with match- ing taffeta cummerbund and streamers, matching velveteen headdress and shoes, and carried a bouquet of white Shasta dai- sies.

Miss Linda Stenson, niece of the bride, as bridesmaid, was in peacock blue velveteen with ma- tching taffeta sash, matching vel- veteen headdress, and shoes, and carried a cascade bouquet of white mums.

Mr. Donald J. Pickston of St. Catharines, attended his brother- in-law as groomsman, while Mr. John Hunter, of Arthur, Ontario, cousin of the bride, and Mr. Garry Sherman of Belleville, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the church parlor, with the bride's mother receiving gowned in pea- crepe with brown hat, and ac- cessories and mink fur; with cor- sage of yellow 'mums. The bride- groom's sister, Mrs. Donald Pick- ston, of St. Catharines, assisted, wearing a teal-blue two-piece en- semble with white hat and acces- sories and corsage of white 'mums.

For the wedding trip to the eastern United States, the bride chose a brown Italian plaid wool dress, with green hat and gloves, brown shoes and grey Persian lamb jacket and sapphire mink collar and corsage of bronze 'mums. Mr. and Mrs. Torjusen will reside at 26 Renfrew Street, suite 2, Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Guests attended from Montreal; Ottawa; Perth; Brockville; Kingston; Arnprior; Trenton; Tor- onto; Trenton; Picton; Foxboro and St. Catharines.

Although not a member of the bride previous to her marriage, held at the home of Mrs. R. F. Howard, and a personal shower was held by Mrs. E. J. Saunders and Belleville, with Mrs. F. E. Reesen as co-hostess.

AIDE—KELLY

Large white baskets of color- ful autumn leaves, flowers and gladioli flanked the altar while tall windows and altar steps were decorated with autumn leaves, sheaves of wheat and mums, while candles and silver and white bows completed the guest pews, the scene created a lovely setting for the sermon unites Course for the recent marriage of Lois Louise, daughter of Mrs. Fred Kelly of Sackville's Mills and the late Mr. Kelly, to Mr. Aubrey John, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ashton Aide, of Marmora.

Rev. Ralph Kenny officiated.

Mr. Jimmy Jones, of Young's Point, rendered the wedding music.

The bride, who was escorted by her brother, Mr. James Kelly, of Belleville, was lovely in marriage by her father, Mr. Fred Kelly. She was radiantly charming in her floor-length gown of white French Chantilly lace and nylon net, fashioned with strapless fitted bodice with matching lace jacket outlined from the back, featuring a lovely ren collar and long, fitted sleeves ending in points over the hands. The bouffant skirt was layer over of nylon net, and her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was accented at the crown with a cluster of white flowers, sequins and pearls and she completed her costume. She carried a cascade bouquet of red Sweet- heart roses with white buds.

The bride's attendants were Miss Joan Kelly, sister of the bride, of Belleville, as maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were: Mrs. Ce- cil Pendrith of Belleville, sister of the bride, and Miss Mavis Bivens, of Hermon, cousin of the bride, gowned alike in bal- lerina-length orange ice taf- feta, featuring square necklines fitted satin bodices fashioned by the princess line at center back. The full taffeta skirts were tier upon tier of lace net. They wore matching feather white mums- sories and pearl necklaces and earrings, gifts of the bride. They carried cascade bouquets of white roses and ivy.

Little Debbie Pradette, niece of the bride, was sweet as Shirley Temple in a floor-length cordion-pleated nylon dress, with matching cape and white ac- cessories. She carried a nosegay of white and yellow baby mums.

Mr. Earl Aide of Harlemere, Ontario, was best man for his broth- man, while Messrs. Bruce Kelly, of Belleville, brother of the bride, and Wayne Bruce, of Oshawa, cousin of the bride, were groomsmen for the guests.

Following the ceremony, a re- ception was held at the bride's home, featuring a tall, wedding vel- veteen headdress, and shoes, and carried a cascade bouquet of white 'mums.

Mr. Donald J. Pickston of St. Catharines, attended his brother- in-law as groomsman, while Mr. John Hunter, of Arthur, Ontario, cousin of the bride, and Mr. Garry Sherman of Belleville, ushered the guests.

Don't Underestimate Child's Intelligence A.M.A. Advises

Don't put three strikes against your child's mental ability until he has had a chance to go to bat, urges a release from the American Medical Association issued by the Health League of Canada.

Dr. William Abraham, Ph.D., of the Education Department, Arizona State University, issued a caution to parents re- cently.

Dr. Abraham is distorted by parents who believe that a child is mentally retarded when he really is not.

"Few of us are objective about our own," he says. "We see them as we want them to be or as we fear they are, but sel- dom as they really are. We usual- ly enjoy thinking they are bright (whether they are or not), and that error may result in undue pressure, frustration and disappointment. But even more serious is the error of un- derestimating our child's intelli- gence and not recognizing the importance of this.

Dr. Abraham devised a check list to aid parents who may be too close to their children to see them accurately.

"It is especially effective for those of kindergarten age or slightly older," he said, "and for those of elementary school youngsters who are among the less bright from those judged to be retarded but actually might be near the top of the class."

There's a caution sign at- tached to Dr. Abraham's check list statements. It's the idea that "intelligence is not a thing in itself, may be a bit disturbing so no conclusions should be drawn until the entire list is read.

The question parents should ask is "Do both parts of the statement apply to my child?" For instance:

A. (1) He has a short attention span — doesn't stick to a task very long — but (2) he has many interests or hobbies as he goes from one to another.

B. (1) His vocabulary often has a one-syllable limitation, — but (2) he uses fresh, lively surprises you by ac- curately using words like practical, jet propulsion, historical, and realistic.

C. (1) He seems to demand countless explanations of why he should wash his hands and eat balanced meals and brush his teeth —but (2) you get the feeling he was pulling your leg all the time when you overhear him patiently explaining these important facts of life to his little brother or sister, using terms much more understand- ably than you did with him.

Dr. Abraham calculated one "yes" answer on the 10-point list should give you an inkling that you're being wrong about your child; two to four should pro- vide "considerable doubt"; and five or more yes answers ought to have a parent smiling ir- wardly with a secret apology be- cause his child is brighter than he thought he was.

Once the problem of supposed mental retardation is cleared away, Dr. Abraham urged par- ents to refrain from over-atten- tiveness as a child learns to stand on his own two feet.

Work of CARS Outlined to Bridge St. W.A.

The regular meeting of the Women's Association of Bridge Street United Church, held re- cently in the church hall, was in charge of the group lead- ers, Mrs. W. Dallas. The stag- ing of "Take Time To Be Holy" was prepared by the president who opened the meeting.

A brief business session was held and reports of secretaries and conveners received.

The devotional period was led by the group under the convenership of Mrs. H. C. Nelson and Mrs. C. Morton, was interesting. Mrs. Seldon, as chairman, welcomed all members and introduced the ladies of her group. A fitting poem "Somebody Failed", was read by Mrs. W. H. Lee. Mrs. Morton conducted her devotion- al exercises. The theme was "The Power and the Depth." A reading from Robertson which told how Paul tried to make the Apostles realize the depth of Christ's love for them, was read.

Mrs. J. A. Layton, vice-pres- ident of the Quinte Branch, Ca- nadian Red Cross Society, in- stitute Society, introduced Miss Bessie Rose, physiotherapist with the mobile unit. She was trained and gained her ex- perience in prisons of pain, frustration into which the phys- iotherapist brings help and hope.

Miss Rose also told how the mobile unit was organized in 1948. The Quinte Branch in- cludes the area of Hastings and Prince Edward Counties, south of Highway No. 7 and between Belleville in prisons of pain, 500 people are affected by rheu- matic fever. Recently, the Ro- tary Club sponsored the work which was first begun in 1955. The film concluded the presen- tation of the aims and work of CARS.

TURKEY DINNER

The Alumni members and their friends enjoyed a delic- ious turkey dinner served by members of the Mazzanga Wo- men's Association. Chrysanthe- mums and colored leaves, along with red, gold and blue decora- tions typical of Queen's, were used throughout the room.

The president, Dr. G. S. Cronk, presided over the meet- ing and spoke a few words of welcome to the group.

Mr. Orrin Hamilton related the most recent news and ac- tivities of the university.

Following Dr. Keppel-Jones' address, the Kerguelen, a local barbershop quartet, delighted the gathering with four selec- tions.

Paris After Dark

By TRACY ADRIAN

From Paris comes this greatcoat for evening which was designed by the intriguing Monsieur X. Big, beautifully cut and of luxurious fabric, the topper is most dramatic for after dark wear.

Arching gracefully from neck to wrist, the coat rounds into fullness that is almost cape-like in back, while the front maintains a flat, straight look. It features low placed pockets and comes in red, green, white, or black silk satin with black collar and cuffs.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Ethel R. — I want to tell my boy friend.

Mrs. M. R. — It would be a bombshell to his parents.

Ethel R. — I am 23 and about to be married to a wonderful guy. My only problem is a little secret which I have kept from my boy friend.

My father died in prison. The crime was manslaughter. All this happened when I was a little girl. Shortly afterward we moved away from that area of the country and we lived under my mother's maiden name. We finally had our names legally changed.

I feel that I should tell my boy friend about all this. Maybe there is one possibility in a million that he could find it out from someone else, but I wouldn't want to run that risk. My mother is against my telling.

Mrs. M. R. — There is so little possibility of anyone finding out about all that and relaying the information to this young man or his family that it is just ridiculous to think about it. Even if such a thing should happen Ethel could always explain why she did not want to tell. Then she would be married and there would be nothing to worry about.

If she tells you, I'm afraid of the consequences. Ethel's fiance comes from a highly respected family in our community. They are very conservative and strict in their outlook. They love Ethel and have welcomed her into the family. This would be a bombshell to them.

The Council: Mrs. M. R. probably overestimates the significance of the secret information to her daughter's potential in-laws. Many staid, conservative individuals are quite understanding and sympathetic toward those who have done wrong.

In any case, the deed was not Ethel's. The prospective bridegroom and his parents would be well aware of that. We think it more than likely that they suspect there is something troublesome in Ethel's background with relation to her father. Our facets and manner of expressing certain things often say more for us than the actual words.

This family would probably be ready to admit that Mrs. M. R. has done a remarkable job in bringing up a fine young lady single-handed under very difficult circumstances. But we cannot give Mrs. M. R. a guarantee that things will work out for the best. We do believe, however, that if this family would be violently disturbed by such information it would be better for them to know it beforehand.

We are sympathetic to Ethel's desire to reveal this intimate and disturbing secret to her fiance. She probably wants to be sure he loves her despite this apparently black mark in her background. It would undoubtedly give her a great deal more ease and comfort in her marriage to know it.

If Ethel's fiance is mentally and emotionally mature, he may not find it necessary to share her secret with his family. As long as he is clear and sure of his attitude on the subject he can keep it to himself. If he feels any disturbing doubts he should question Ethel, try to get the full story and then talk it over with the person he most respects.

MODERN MANNERS

Carolyn Hagner Shaw

STUMBLING BLOCKS TO TABLE MANNERS

All of us find that certain foods, at times, present problems. The old "fingers or forks" question, and whether to cut lettuce with a knife, can cause indecision and embarrassment. Let's discuss those foods that most commonly cause trouble.

There has been a controversy for many years as to whether or not to cut lettuce with a knife. Personally, I subscribe to the edict that a knife should be used. It would seem only common sense to do so! Attempting to cut lettuce with the edge of a fork usually leads to disaster. To guard against the lettuce landing in your lap, or in the middle of the table, by all means use a knife if it seems necessary!

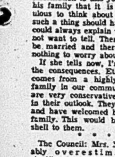
Should chicken drumsticks or chop bones be picked up and eaten with the fingers? We all have to admit that we like to gnaw on a bone. Perhaps the desire comes down to us from our cave-man ancestors. But, whether we like to or not, we must admit that a person gnawing on a bone is not a very pleasing sight to the beholder. Therefore, I would suggest that when dining formally, at the home of friends or in a public restaurant — this pleasure be dispensed with, even if it hurts! When dining at home, use your own judgment.

Opinion is divided as to whether or not one should eat shoestring potatoes, crisp bacon and asparagus with the fingers. I think the decision in this instance should follow along the same lines as those having to do with bones. Even though it is much easier to eat them with the fingers, it is such a messy performance that I think a fork should definitely be used when eating them in public.

There are many foods that properly may be eaten with the fingers. In some cases it is impossible to eat these in any other way. Corn on the cob, olives, radishes, potato chips, celery and steamed clams are but a few that come under this heading.

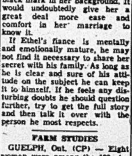
Sandwiches dripping with mayonnaise, or those with very soft fillings, should be eaten with a knife and fork. Others may of course be eaten with the fingers. The same rule applies to cake. If the icing is thick and sticky, common sense designates the use of a fork!

It is definitely considered bad form to cut large oysters or shrimp when they are served in a cocktail. This rule has always been an extremely hard one for me to abide by! Piercing a large formidable oyster, or huge shrimp, dipping it into the sauce, hopefully trusting that you will be able to get it to your mouth without mishap, is an interesting performance, to say the least! But it is obvious that cutting an oyster or shrimp would be extremely awkward, so this is one case where the rule of "no knife" should be adhered to, even if it does spell your undoing!



A hard rule to comply with, is that of foregoing those tempting slices of pineapple, orange and banana — and the cherry — in a cup of fruit punch, or a cocktail. Reason for not giving in to the urge to eat them is that fishing around in a glass with one's fingers and popping the dripping bits into the mouth is not a pretty picture!

The decision as to how to eat different foods must be subject to the time, the place and the situation. And whether or not in a manner that is not offensive to others, but don't make such a point of "fancy table manners" that you don't enjoy your food! Just try to strike a happy medium and you can't go wrong!



Question: When bouillon is served in a two-handled cup, is it all right to drink it, or must it be sipped from the spoon?

— Mr. D. S. C.

Answer: Either way is correct. If using the spoon, be sure to tip the cup away from you. If drinking from the cup, hold the cup with one hand, not both.

A coat needed in rain or snow should never be dried near heat. Brush it first, then hang in a well-ventilated room to dry.

Millinery Moods

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Leopard, real or frankly fake, still spots the sartorial scene. The fedora clothe shown here is in imitation leopard with taupe belting ribbon slipped through the buckle at the side. A tiny little so-called hat is this disc of red velvet decked out with black satin fruit and leaf trim posed perkily in front. A good theatre hat, and a good way to show what's doing in evening hats, just as the leopard job is representative of daytime hattery.

Sloppy Joe Party

by Mary Moore

Two high schools that I know about — West Palm Beach, Florida and Buffalo, New York — serve Sloppy Joes regularly in their cafeterias.

In the spring of 1958 I gave you the recipe for this economical and popular lunch. One noon I had visited the cafeteria at West Palm Beach where my cousin's husband's sister is dietitian and their son Sam attended.

To see those American teenagers load their trays with Sloppy Joes and milk and banana cream pie was an experience full of chuckles and pleasure. We sat down amidst the uproar and ate Sloppy Joes too.

Recently it occurred to me that they would be a nifty dish for young hostesses to serve a bowling crowd or office party or for a Sunday School teacher (like me) to serve at a Christmas party for teen-aged pupils.

Frankly I am bored with hot dogs and cokes.

The recipe I am giving you is a change from the one of spring 1958. In addition I am giving some variations which will stretch the basic recipe so you can serve more and reduce the cost per serving.

SLOPPY Joe (basic recipe for Barbecued Beef)

1 pound ground beef, ¾ teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons molasses, 2 tablespoons prepared mustard, 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce, ¼ teaspoon Tobasco, ½ cup catsup.

Sprinkle beef with salt then brown in frying pan, breaking up with fork. Blend together molasses and mustard; stir in remaining ingredients. Add to beef; heat to serving temperature.

SLOPPY JOE BARBECUED BEEF SANDWICHES

Serve heated barbecued beef on large split toasted hamburger buns. If desired top with onion rings. Note ¼ cup grated Cheddar cheese may be added to heated mixture. Stir until melted.

BARBECUED BEEF AND RICE

Substitute 1 15-ounce can tomatoes for catsup in the basic recipe (above). Add 1 medium onion, sliced. Cover and simmer 30 minutes. Serve with hot cooked rice.

CHILI BEEF

To the basic recipe, add 1 15-ounce can kidney beans or 1 12-ounce can undrained whole kernel corn, and ¼ teaspoon chili powder. Cover and simmer 30 minutes. Serve with hot biscuits or cornbread.

SHEPHERD'S PIE

Line bottom and sides of casserole with mashed potatoes, adding basic Sloppy Joe mixture and covering with mashed potatoes. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes or until top is golden. Eleanor says she likes a little grated cheese sprinkled over top of Shepherd's Pie before it is baked.

Do you kiss your wife in public?

I don't.

I just can't.

The way I feel—public kissing is for the movies, or weddings, or when you're going away on a long trip.

I do kiss my son when I leave for work. But he is only four—and when he is fourteen we'll be shaking hands.

But don't get the idea I don't love them—just because I don't make a big scene about it.

I've got $60,000 worth of Metropolitan Life Insurance. Think about that.

That will pay the mortgage, and all our bills. It will give my wife and son $300 a month until he's grown up.

You buy Life insurance only because you love somebody. I see where the average insured Canadian family owns $11,000 worth.

Is $60,000 how much I love my wife and son?

No.

As soon as I can afford more, I'll call my Metropolitan Man.

"Only because you love somebody" . . . that's the best reason of all to call your Metropolitan Man. He can chart, and leave with you, a family security program. It will take into account not only your Old Age Pension, savings and other assets. It will take your special responsibilities into consideration, too —your own family's particular protection needs. He can help you plan to meet those needs in a way that makes good sense for you. Call your Metropolitan Man today.

Water, 3 Feet Deep, Buries Grain Around Meadow Lake

By DON SCANDRETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MEADOW LAKE, Sask. (CP)—Water three feet deep buries some of the unthreshed grain fields.

It laps at the doors of barns and farmhouses. It has turned the earth roads to mire, the fields to swamps.

There'll be no harvest this year, no feed for livestock during the winter, no money to plant next spring's crop.

"I woke up in a cold sweat all night thinking what can happen next," said Bill Larocque, 38, father of three.

"My land is all swamp, all my reserve hay is under three feet of water."

Mr. Larocque, a district farmer for 46 years, has 300 acres of grain and 40 head of cattle. His immediate problem is lack of winter feed for the cattle. Normally, he grows his own fodder.

Winter conditions descended on the Meadow Lake region in early October as farmers prepared to harvest their best grain crop in 17 years. It left 30 inches of snow. Mild weather melted the snow and natural drainage was unable to disperse the water.

The result was disaster for this town of 4,000 and the 900 farm families in the area. The snow buried 124,000,000 bushels of grain worth $140,000,000 in Saskatchewan, but agriculture officials agree the Meadow Lake region in the northwest was hardest hit.

The occasional snowstorms, that hit almost all of the Prairies in early October and continued in some areas as late as last week, brought disaster to many grain farmers. Northern Alberta was hit and Manitoba hit harder. But Saskatchewan, particularly the northern portion of the province, was struck hardest.

It has been estimated officially that 112,200,000 bushels of grain remain unthreshed in Prairie fields. More than 45,000,000 bushels of oats, 40,000,000 bushels of barley and 10,000,000 bushels of flax remain in the open.

Here in the Meadow Lake region 125 miles northwest of Prince Albert there are few sources of revenue aside from farming, lumbering is the only other industry.

Mr. Larocque has spent 10 days rebuilding his small herd. Already, three weeks after the snow, he has shipped a number of heifers to market because he can't feed them.

"I can't even use cyring," he said in an interview. "Guess you'd call the cattle bit by bit."

He also has pigs, which he plans to kill for food when things really get tough.

"I've saved nothing," he exclaimed. "We'll live from day to day. There is nothing else we can do."

The district agriculture representative estimated Mr. Larocque's loss at $9,000.

Last year his farm yielded 40 bushels of barley an acre and this year he says the yield would have been nearer 62.

Last year he bought good seed —wheat, oats, barley—and sowed it at about 2½ bushels to the acre. This year it was a bushel.

This year his seed is lying on the flooded acreage. He can't afford to buy more.

Bill Dion, who had hoped for a bumper wheat crop, had to kill most of his piglets.

"I'll have a great year for pigs—10 dozen each had litters of 10. But the piglets have been destroyed.

"I haven't enough food for my family let alone the livestock," said Mr. Lesh.

One of Mr Larocque's neighbors sold his dairy herd and moved into town at Meadow Lake. But the town has been hit as hard as the farmers, who have had to cut town spending.

At present, the town's main source of revenue is the hunters who seek game in this area. But there is a limit to what a couple of hundred hunters can buy.

When winter comes, many small farmers hope to find work in the woods. The logging industry so far has not been affected.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cunningham are the biggest market of the industry. They buy thousands of board feet each summer.

Agriculture representative Paul Sauton said more and more farmers are expected to give up and leave. The central problem is lack of fodder.

"Down south they are able to get assistance with fodder," said Mr. Larocque. "This won't work here as there's no fodder to distribute."

The next problem is money. There'll be little money in this area to start the 1960 crop.

India and Pakistan Closer Result of Reds' Incursions

By DAVID ROWNTREE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Communist China is following a lonely road. Its border incursions against India are having one result—the alliance of Pakistan and India are being brought closer together.

For some months Prime Minister Nehru and President Mohammad Ayub Khan of Pakistan have been working to settle their differences peacefully. Recently they pledged once again to negotiate border disputes and refer to impartial tribunals those they can't resolve.

Perhaps even the problem of Kashmir, which both republics claim, may yet be settled without more blood being spilled.

That both countries are threatened by Peking's recent warlike moves was evident last week when the Communists clashed with an Indian patrol, killing nine border policemen and capturing 10 in the Kashmir.

INVASION POSSIBLE

Ayub Khan said recently an invasion of the subcontinent some day isn't a hypothetical question. Such a case, he added, Pakistan would be bound to go to India's aid. And for that reason the issue of Kashmir, predominantly Moslem by its faith, should be considered in India, should be settled quickly.

Within India, Nehru has come under increasing criticism for his hesitance in handling a dispute with China.

Demands in the press that India should meet force with force were followed this week by Communist Narendra Deshalbhand that he resign.

'Swing Through' for Speedy Birds

My old friend, the late Col. Harold P. Sheldon, told me something about wing shooting that has come in mighty handy ever since. We had been hunting woodcock in the covers of southern Vermont and had stopped to sit down log for a smoke and a short rest. At least, "Cap" Sheldon was talking.

"Polks," he said "keep saying that the mourning dove makes the toughest wing shooting of all the birds. Don't you believe it. Woodcock is the tough one, tougher even than grouse. So are two of them fly the same."

"What is so easy about dove?" I asked him.

"They fly in a straight line," he replied. "Yes, I know — when they first take off they are apt to dodge and twist like a jackasipe, but once they are up, full steam ahead, they move in straight lines. They're going too fast to maybe zig or zag either way."

Now you take a scared dove, coming down wind — he's really totin' the mail. Could be gole' sixty or better, depending on how scared he is. A quartering bird like that you can lead 25 or 30 feet and you'll still shoot behind him. All right, don't lead him at all. Instead, swing through and you'll get him, no matter how fast he's moving. It is automatic and easy to do."

FOLLOW ITS FLIGHT

He went on to explain "swinging through", as the trap and skeet shooters use it. Suppose a dove is coming across your stand on the flyway, going down wind, high and fast. Mount your gun to your shoulder and swing the muzzle along the line of flight, starting behind the bird. As the gun muzzle passes the bird, stop a foot or two, press the trigger. If you don't stop or alter the rate of the swing, you will get the bird just about every time, no matter how fast he is going.

Incoming and outgoing birds can be missed very easily if you don't hold your gun properly at them. Both are almost shots, not pointed shots. On an incoming bird, aim directly at him, and then raise the muzzle of the gun until you hide the bird from sight. Then pull the trigger.

With an outgoing or going-away bird, reverse the process. Aim at the bird, then lower the muzzle until you can see a couple of inches of daylight between gun and bird. Then squeeze the trigger and the bird should come down.

Some years ago, while visiting a plantation in southern Virginia, I found a flyway that the dove used quite consistently. It was an alleyway between the trees of a woodlot and the birds used it to fly from one part of the plantation to the other.

I used to take my stand between two convenient bushes and wait. Birds as they came — practically all of the birds coming, right or not, there came a time when I had that shot down pat. I figured to catch four or five birds in my outstretched hand as they fell. Sure. That sounds like an overstatement, but over the long bow, but after I have done a thing one hundred or more times you should arrive at a certain degree of perfection.

MATTER OF LEAD

The matter of lead when shooting ducks is apt to be a tricky one. Almost always, ducks are farther away and moving much faster than they seem. If you are going to put a passing duck, right about the lead you think you will need, and then double it. Even then you will probably shoot behind the bird. The best way with passing ducks is to treat them like passing dove and use the "swing-through" method.

On decoying ducks, it is all too easy to shoot over or under a bird. When a duck comes in to decoys, he puts on the brakes with widespread wings, drops his feet, and settles in, tail first. While he is doing this, it is an easy thing to miss him by shooting over him. Avoid this by aiming at his tail as he settles to the water. Conversely, when he takes off, sometimes straight up, aim at his bill.

Proper ballistics are tricky things to master. You think you have things all figured out and then, all of a sudden, you start missing birds. Don't worry about it too much. You will find the answer. It may be that your gun-sight eye is losing its control (I have had that happen). You may be cross-firing and not knowing it. (That, too, has happened to me.) You may be pushing your shots, an all-too-common failing.

But, fortunately, you learn eventually what you are doing wrong and once again you start killing your birds. Once more the sun will shine and you can knock off eight hours of untroubled, contented sleep. Wing shooting will have its ups and downs. That's what makes it fun and keeps your interest from lagging.

Brown Scores Five Majors In Browns' Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Brown runs for five touchdowns — one shy of the National Football League record — to power Cleveland Browns to a 35-31 victory over Baltimore Sunday, dropping the defending-champion Colts out of the western conference lead. San Francisco 49ers moved into first place, whipping Detroit 33-7.

The Browns' victory left them tied with Philadelphia for second place in the eastern conference, a game behind New York Giants, who won their fourth in a row with a 20-3 decision over Green Bay. The Eagles stayed close with a 30-21 victory over Washington Redskins, who were stopped inches from the goal line as the clock ran out.

Chicago Cardinals, after losing four in a row, clopped Pittsburgh Steelers 45-24, and Chicago Bears snapped a string of losses at three, trimming Los Angeles 26-21.

Despite the one-man show put on by Brown — who gained 178 yards in 32 rushes and opened his scoring string with a 70-yard run—Cleveland four times had to stop Baltimore within the 25 yard line to offset the passing of Johnny Unitas. The Colts also passed for all four of their touchdowns, giving him 17 for the season and running his scoring-pass streak to 31 games.

On The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Victoria Park won unquestioned right to the two-year-old championship of Canadian racing at New Woodbine Saturday when he scored an easy victory in the $27,363 Cup and Saucer Stakes. It was his sixth win in nine starts and raised his season's earnings to $59,112.

Victoria Park, owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor and ridden by Avelino Gomez, defeated Hidden Treasure by seven lengths as he ran the mile and a sixteenth in the slow time of 1.52 3-5 over a very heavy grass track. All Canadian, a stable mate of Victoria Park, staggered home in third position.

The fourth entry was backed off the boards and paid only $2.90 straight.

'Cookie' Takes Big Four Scoring Title

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chester (Cookie) Gilchrist, Toronto Argonauts' crashing back fielder, brought a note of cheer to an otherwise dismal season for Argo fans as he captured the Big Four Football Union scoring crown.

Argos finished last and out of the playoffs for the fourth straight year as they lost 31-21 to Ottawa Rough Riders Saturday in the final of the 14-game schedule. Gilchrist scored three points on two converts and a single to bring his season's total to 75, nine more than second place Dave Thelen of Ottawa.

Thelen scored a pair of touchdowns to move into second ahead of Ron Howell of Hamilton Tiger-Cats with whom he had been tied. Howell scored one touchdown in Tiger-Cats 15-14 loss to Montreal Alouettes and finished third with 69 points.

Two Million Watch Novel Auto Race

BRIGHTON, England (AP) —Two million people turned out Sunday to watch one of the slowest auto runs in the world.

They gathered along the 56 miles from London to Brighton on the nation's south coast and saw 213 ancient cars chug, puff and stagger to the finish.

Ten other veterans fell by the wayside, victims of assorted breakdowns of the aged. No one kept close track of the order of finish. The main idea was just to finish.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The world-champion glory that was the McFarland may be fading over the western hockey loafers but from the unbiased observers of the Kitchener Dutchmen, Canada's selected Olympic representatives, it is doubtful if a yearly dawn of Canadian world "amateur" honors will shimmer the eastern skyline next year at Squaw Valley, Calif.

It is not sour grapes by any stretch of the imagination because the Flying Dutchmen defeated the Macs in their first two starts, to say that the team that represented Canada at Prague last spring would not have much difficulty in turning back Ernie Goman's present hopefuls in any kind of a series.

To be brutally short, in this corner's opinion, Manager Goman needs must strengthen his club best he plenty if he wants to turn back the Russian, Czech or how the rejuvenated Swedish threats at the upcoming simon-pure tussles, not forgetting the Americans.

And to be equally brutally truthful, it must be admitted it was the "old-pro touch" that swung the tide of world championship victory for Canada both last year and the year previous when the Dunlops brought the bacon home.

Due to the farcical "Olympic oath" there will be no "old pro" touch travelled on the Kitchener roster. And if the halo'ed Olympics committee and the CAHA think the rest of Canada believes we're sending simon pures to Squaw Valley they're kidding no one but themselves.

Every player on the Kitchener club is a pro according to Olympic standards, and Goman, the Olympic Committee and the CAHA know it. Goman has had his eyes on a couple of the McFarlands for some time, power, does he think for one minute they would be permitted to go to Squaw Valley as "amateurs?" What a ghastly joke the whole thing is turning out to be.

No matter their strength, the Dutchmen will have two strikes on them before the season on the Squaw Valley ice. They will be playing in a strange environment—and under international rules.

On the other hand the European teams should feel more or less at home. From newspapers we have seen of the Squaw Valley hockey set-up it has a decided European touch in its physical lay-out. The Russ Czechs, Swedes and other continental clubs will be playing under their own rules, with an added dash of Canadian body-checking thrown in for good measure.

We are not trying to be anti-Canadian. But the facts must be faced. The Russians, Czechs and Swedes will not take a chance on their showing a new face or style to them that took part in the world tournament at Prague. And you can bet your bottom dollar, that at this moment these clubs are not resting on their oars but out in practice grinds readying for the western invasion.

Why shouldn't they? That is all they have to do in a period of preparation. They're the best their countries can produce, stars picked from regional hockey leagues, representatives of hockey associations pay the shot so they've nothing to worry about financially.

The Russian and Czech teams that this department saw in action in Prague during the world tournament, would rate three-to-one odds over the current edition of the Kitchener Dutchmen. And if the Swedes have Johansson and their other two centre stars in action, they rate a 2-1 selection over the Canadians.

The only hope, as we see it, is for the Dutchmen and the Olympic Committee, to unearth a half dozen "amateurs" with the ability and savvy of a Lamirande, Dewsbury, Sid Smith, Ike Hildebrand, Chuck Conacher, Wimer Tweed, Gordie Bruden, Gordie Bell or a Ray Edwards.

Down Kitchener way the other night, Dutchmen officials admitted they need four or five more players—or better players, but their main worry is, where to get them. It seems a few of managers are loath to part with their stars because it would jeopardize their league standing. And there is that pro angle again.

We learned while in Europe last spring that hockey is spreading to the minors over there. They are recognizing the Canadian system of "starting 'em young." So here might be the answer to future Olympics. Confine all teams to the "squirt" category, then we should be reasonably sure it is strictly an "amateur" deal. Or could we, under present Olympic standards?

Defeat Rangers, Tie Wings As Bruins, Toronto Split; Gendron Scores Hat Trick

Montreal Canadiens goalie Jacques Plante finally got to wear his self-made plastic mask in National Hockey League competition but it came about the hard way.

Plante perfected the mask in pre-season training with the hope of wearing it in regular games. But when the season opened club officials had other ideas.

Plante, 29, was hit early in the first period Sunday night by a flying puck shot by New York Rangers' Andy Bathgate. Seven stitches were required to close cuts on his nose and upper lip and he wore the mask for the rest of the game, won by Canadiens 3-1. Rangers scored while Plante was wearing the mask.

It marked the first time such protection had been used in regular play.

COMPILE FINE SLATE

Plante stopped 27 shots as the first-place Canadiens stretched their unbeaten string to eight games and maintained their four-point lead over runner-up Detroit Red Wings.

The Wings beat Chicago Black Hawks 2-1 after tying Montreal 3-3 Saturday.

Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins split the Leafs bowing 4-3 in overtime but losing 6-3 at Boston Sunday.

Dickie Moore, Andre Pronovost and Bernie Geoffrion scored Canadiens' goals. Bathgate scored a sellout New York crowd of 13,925. Camille Henry scored for Rangers.

Lorne (Gump) Worsley stopped 30 drives, allowing four breakaways in the third period.

SAWCHUK STILL HOT

Detroit's Terry Sawchuk, who has allowed only four goals in 5 games, again was Detroit's big man against Chicago, making 30 saves, 23 in the last two periods.

Alex Delvecchio scored the winner with only 14 seconds gone in the third period. Ted Lindsay, Melnyk had scored earlier for Wings, Pete Conacher for Hawks.

Detroit's first hat trick this season and Horvath got two more, running his total to 10 in 11 games. Vic Stasiuk got Boston's other goal and Dick Duff, Carl Brewer and Johnny Wilson scored for Toronto.

HAS GOOD WEEKEND

Wilson, who has now played in 329 consecutive NHL games, got Toronto goals Saturday, singles going to Bob Pulford and Gerry Ehman. Fleming Mackell, Bob Armstrong and Leo Boivin scored for Boston.

Horvath also assisted on Stasiuk's goal Sunday for three points, giving him a season total of 13 and a tie with Geoffrion in the scoring race.

Boston centre Charlie Burns drew two major fighting penalties, a minor for high sticking and 10-minutes misconduct as a result of the third-period brawl. Toronto's Bert Olmstead and Bob Haggert and Bruins' Mackell also got majors for fighting.

Benoit Scores For Kingston In Pro Game

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Four games were run off in the Eastern Professional Hockey League Saturday and Sunday. Only one produced a clear - cut verdict—and that was a shutout.

Three of the four encounters went the tie. Kingston Frontenacs and Trois - Rivieres Lions deadlocked 3-3 in Kingston Saturday night and 4-4 in Trois-Rivieres Sunday, while Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds and Hull-Ottawa Canadiens tied 3-3 in Hull Sunday.

At Montreal Sunday, Charlie Hodge registered his third shutout in 10 games as the Royals battled into a first-place tie with Hull-Ottawa with a 3-0 victory over Sudbury Wolves.

Gerry Benoit, Yvon Lucas and defenceman Wally Cluse scored for Montreal. Hodge made 27 saves while Gilles Boisvert stopped 33 for Sudbury.

DIFFICULT SAVES

The Royals goalier had to stop successive, difficult drives by Ken Broderick in the four breakaways in the third period.

SAWCHUK STILL HOT

At Hull, Bill Carter scored with 45 seconds remaining to give the Canadiens a win over Sault Ste. Marie. Carter's efforts prevented the Thunderbirds from a clean sweep of the conversion of third-place, a spot which they share with Sudbury.

Carter, who had already scored one goal, stole the puck from Gerry Gray at his own blueline and sped towards the Thunderbird net, whittling a drive from 15 feet past netminder Dennis DeJordy.

Earlier in the period Gray had scored what looked like the winner on a brilliant solo rush.

Other Sault Ste. Marie markers went to Fred Hilts and Matt Ravlich, while John Annabi also notched Canadiens' other goal.

LOSE CALLS

Kingston pulled a single point out of the fire twice, tallying with little more than two minutes remaining Saturday and erasing a sawoff with 28 seconds remaining Sunday.

Red Ouellette registered the last and tying goal for Kingston Saturday. Buddy Boone and Wilbur Hicks scored in the other Frontenac goals, while Dave Balon, Mel Pearson and Jean-Paul Benoit scored for the Lions.

Sunday night, it was Frontenac Bob Macmillan who forced a deadlock with his goal at 19:31 of the final period Barney Bent, Benoit and Skip Teal scored the other Kingston goals. Benoit got a brace for Trois-Rivieres. Gilles Thibault and Wallace Chevrier got the others.

Kingston is in fifth place and Trois-Rivieres sixth.

FOOTBALL PLAYER HURT

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Peter Malone, a 19-year-old student at Clarke Sideroad High School here, is in critical condition in hospital as a result of an injury he suffered during football game. Malone suffered a head injury while making a tackle in a game against another London high school. He underwent surgery Saturday.

Majors, Marlies Open Season With Victories

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Six Ontario Hockey Association Junior A teams were in action during the weekend in a rush to gather points in the league standings.

At Toronto - Sunday St. Michael's Majors and Toronto Marlboros opened their home season with victories before a crowd of more than 4,000.

The Majors, who downed Peterborough Petes in the first game 4-2, moved into a tie for first place as a result of the second game, which Marlies won 5-3 over Hamilton Tiger Cubs. St. Michael's now have won their first-two games and share first-place with Barrie Flyers who were idle.

COMEBACK WIN

After trailing 1-0 following the first minute of play, St. Michael's scored three second-period goals in a row and added the insurance marker in the final session off the sticks of Dave Brown, Glen Sonmor, Dave Draper and Dave Keon. Garry Monk scored the only goal in the first period for the Petes and Bob Rivard finished it in the third.

In the second game Marlboros banded Hamilton Cubs their first of the season.

Centre Gaston Pilotard opened the scoring before the game was a minute old and added Marlboros' last marker in the third period.

Jim Pappin, Rickey Hay and Sonny Osborne netted two Marlie strikes before left winger Jim McLellan scored rookie defenceminder Ken Brodzinck's chance for a shutout late in the third.

TWO GOALIES USED

Both second-game goalies were replaced when they suffered injuries. Hamilton's Dennis Jordan required eight facial stitches after he stopped a puck with his mouth, while Marlies' regular several teeth, Broderick was hit on the back of the head and needed five stitches to be cut.

In other Junior A action Hamilton Tiger Cubs received 16 goals with less than two minutes to play to St. Catharines Teepees 4-4 at St. Catharines and Peterborough Petes slipped past Kitchener 4-2 at Peterborough. Both games were played Saturday.

About 1,645 fans were on hand to watch a scoreless first period at St. Kitts. Teepees led 3-0 at the end of the second.

Bert Creecon and Chico Maki each scored twice for TeePees.

Jim Rankin, Larry Jeffrey, Bert Creecon and Chico Maki were the Hamilton marksmen.

GIVEN TILSON TROPHY

During intermission, Stan Mikita was presented with the Red Tilson Memorial Trophy as most valuable player in Junior A hockey last season. Mikita now plays for Chicago Black Hawks of the National League.

Centre Mikita, cheered on by a crowd of 1,277 home-opening fans, turned in a fine performance. Peter Hughes was goaltender Yvon Pineault, in his Junior A debut.

Wayne Boddy scored twice for Petes while Fred Dartsand Reg Fleming scored once each.

Varsity Whips Mustangs 13-7 As Gaels Shade Redmen 6-1

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The defending champion University of Toronto Blues kept alive their hopes of retaining the Senior Intercollegiate Football Union title by defeating Western 13-7 Saturday.

Meanwhile Queen's Golden Gaels put up a stout defensive front to edge McGill University Redmen 6-1.

Varsity and Western now are tied in points. But Western has outscored Varsity in games between the two clubs. As a result the Blues must defeat McGill and Queen's must turn back Western next Saturday if Toronto is to be champion again.

If next Saturday's outcome is required, the title goes to Western.

PLAYED IN MUD

Touchdowns by end Mike Mutz and halfback Steve Chisholm and a single on a boot by Peter Meyer into the end zone accounted for the Toronto scoring on a muddy field before 14,353 fans at Varsity Stadium. Dino Galgan countered Western's touchdown late in the first quarter with a field goal.

Then Mutz connected with Chisholm for the second touchdown. Meyer was rouged on Joe Irvin's kick.

The Redmen threatened to score in the closing minutes of the second frame as Muir scored on a 35-yard pass from fullback John Murray. Chisholm then plunged over the line from one yard out for the other touchdown, in the third quarter.

It was 12-0 before Western got on the score sheet. Galgani, a substitute fullback playing his first on offence in college football, raced 58 yards in the final quarter with less than seven minutes to play.

GAELS STRIKE HARD

In the game at Kingston, after 37 seconds of the third quarter the Golden Gaels scored 94 yards in two plays for the only touchdown. Bob McAleese climaxed the drive after racing 33 yards down the sideline for the score.

Every scrimmage was a battle. McGill's point came when Queen's centre snapped over the end zone where Ken Broderick was rouged on Joe Irvin's kick.

The Redmen threatened to score in the second quarter when Wayne McGill, Queen's linebacker, outfought Redmen blockers to drop Irvin on the five-yard line when McGill was the only Queen's defender between Varsity moved in front in the Irvin and the goal line.

Canucks Retain Western Lead

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Vancouver Canucks return home today with an even split on their five-game road trip through the Prairies and still clinging to a six-point lead in the Western Hockey League race.

Canucks edged Winnipeg Warriors 6-5 Sunday, Seattle Totems edged Victoria Cougars 3-2 and jumped into a second-place tie with Victoria, each with 12 points.

Saturday's action was featured by Spokane Comets' first victory in six games, 3-1 triumph over Cougars, and Sid Finney's three-goal performance that paced the fourth-place Calgary Stampeders to a 6-2 victory over Edmonton Flyers.

Flyers hold fifth spot with 11 points, one back of Stampeders and four ahead of Winnipeg. Comets trail Warriors by two points.

Canucks headed into the third period with a 4-1 lead on goals by Les Colwill, Brent Macnab, Larry Cahan and Jim Powers. Paul Masnick was the early Warrior scorer. Winnipeg's Ray Brunet counted twice in the third period to make it close.

Marc Boileau, Gayle Fielder and Don Chilcott shared Seattle's scoring with Arnie Schnautz and defenceman Jack Bionda replying for Victoria.

Tom Hodges arrived just in time Saturday to help Comets score their second victory in 11 outings this season, joining Spokane between the first and second periods. During the middle period he scored a goal that stood up the rest of the way. Ron Attwell scored Spokane's first goal while Al Nicholson answered four Cougars.

In addition to Finney's performance, Gordie Vejpara scored two goals for Calgary and Lou Jankowski one. Len Haley scored both Edmonton goals.

McFarlands Lose 5-2 Heartbreaker To Chatham

Outplayed, Outshot Maroons But Outlucked Around Nets In Hard-Fought Senior Fray

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Hallowe'en bobgoblins rode herd on the luckless McFarlands while the goddess of fortune smiled benignly on Johnny Horeck's Chatham Maroons here Saturday night.

The Macs playing a hard-driving style of hockey, a distinct departure from the lethargic brand of the night previous, outplayed and outshot the Maroons, and deserved a better fate. They outblasted the visitors 37-33.

The Miroons won the 3-2 victory through a better finish around the nets, good goaltending and a generous share of Lady Luck. Three times blazing McFarland shots struck Goalie Johnny Ahearn when the Maroon custodian was looking around for the puck.

The winners scored two goals in the first period, the second a-wide-of-the-net blast that struck Bud McDougall in the shoulder and deflected into the twine. The Macs took over in the second, striking swiftly for two goals and dominating the play. The Maroons' close-in passing paid off in the third frame and they scored three goals within five minutes to clinch the win.

With any sort of luck and a better net-finish, the Macs could have had at least a half-dozen goals in the first two periods, especially the second stanza. At times they swarmed around the Maroon net their drives missing closely or hitting the post. And Ahearn kicked out 27 leathers.

Dick Dodds, a Queen's player under loan from the goalie chore to place of Turk Barclay and the injured Gordie Bell. Bell developed a bloodclot in his injured eye, and may be out for another week.

The game was fast, rugged, but clean, Referee Gord Feversen handled the fray without major penalties one to Macs. All the penalties were in the second period when the Macs failed to capitalize on a brief two-man advantage.

Although two goals down at the end of the first period, the Macs deserved a better fate. They had far the better of the play for twelve minutes afterwards around the Maroon net but being unable to dunk the rubber. Gagnon went through alone and missed the target.

The Maroons opened the scoring at 12.32 when Sharpe potted the puck centering a goalmouth scramble after Pietsch and Leyte set up the play.

The Macs took over sweeping down fee but the "breaks" were to go against their way. They rolled in on Ahearn to hit the pads or miss the net.

The second Chatham goal was a "break" for the Maroons. Zorica spearheaded a rush with Skov and Power and drove a high hard shot at the right hand top corner. It would have missed by a foot but Goalie Ahearn deflected in the shoulder and deflected into the net. The Macs outshot the Maroons 14 in the period.

The Macs first honest a pair of goals in the second period to square the count after having the greater majority of the play. They outshot the Maroons 10-8 and that tells the story of the play margin.

The Macs swarmed all over the Maroon net in the early part and had one goal disallowed. The light flashed but Referee Feversau was adamant. The play was fast with the Maroons carrying dangerous sorties into Mac territory.

Lou Smrke scored his first goal of the season to break the ice at 11.01 when he slipped Jones goalmouth pass behind Ahearn. The Macs kept up their offensive and a minute later Whitey Youngberg drove in a hard shot from well out to knot the count. Seconds later Freddie Hayek sailed in alone on Ahearn. The goalie kicked out his drive.

Moe Benoit drew the first penalty of the game at 17.44 and was followed a minute later by the Maroons Zorica. With 31 seconds left Power drew a high-sticking penalty leaving the Maroons two men short.

The Macs power plays failed to click starting the third period and the Maroons exerted stiff pressure when back at full strength. Dodds kicked out three hard blasts in a row and for twelve minutes played ranged up and down the ice.

Bill Forhan scored the winner at 13.35 on a play with Gribbons. His shot slithered along the ice and sliding under the kneeling Dodds nets.

A minute later "Wiener" and Ike broke through on a fine passing play, they'd shot blitzed Albanese's upraised stick.

With three minutes to go Fred Pietsch combined with Sharpe on a 2-on-1 to play to score the clincher at 18.38 Combination added the insurance marker on a pass from Zorica.

Chatham: Goal, Ahearn; defence, Douglas, McGregor, Skov, Tennant; forwards, Power, Connelly, Zorica, Gribbons, Forhan, Main, Leyte, Pietsch, Bathgate, Sharpe, Aitken.

Belleville: Goal, Dodds; defence, Benoit, Topparzini, Crawford, Chaszewski; forwards, Bradley, Brown, Hildebrand, Jones, Smrke, Gagnon, Young-

BLUES WIN AT SOCCER

TORONTO (CP) — University of Toronto Blues defeated University of Western Ontario Mustangs 5-1 Saturday to extend their lead in the western division of the Intercollegiate Soccer League.

Riders Trounce Argos 31-21, Outclasses Shade Cats 15-14

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's Montreal Alouettes and Ottawa Rough Riders in the Big Four Football Union sudden-death semi-final.

The Larks made sure of going into the semi-final by defeating the league-leading Hamilton Tiger-Cats 15-14 in a thriller Saturday. Ottawa has kicked Sam Etcheverry on the last play of the game broke a 14-14 tie.

Meanwhile Ottawa was establishing the playoff hopes of Toronto Argonauts by trouncing the last-place Bombers 31-21.

The semi-final will be played in Ottawa next Saturday with the winner meeting Hamilton in a two - game, total - points final. Hamilton, exercising right of choice at first - place finisher, elected to play the first game away and the second at home. The dates are Nov. 14 and Nov. 21.

FOUR-POINT MARGIN

The Ticats ended the regular season with nine victories, two ties and four losses for 20 points. The Rough Riders won eight and lost four for 18 points, Hamilton thus finishing place with 12 points on six wins and eight losses. Ottawa and Argos trailed with eight points on four wins and 10 losses.

Toronto had a hell little to cheer about except when the Argonauts took a short-lived lead over Hamilton in mid-season. But they mustered a cheer when it was announced that Ottawa's Canadian fullback Dave Thelen of the Rough Riders had broken the CFU 9-game record by kicking 9 field goals. Thelen gained 90 yards in 20 carries to build up his season total to 1,000 yards.

The old mark of 1,248 was set by Pat Abbruzzi of Montreal in 1953.

But the Montreal crowd of 21,247 had plenty to cheer about when the Alouettes fought back from a 1-0 deficit to tie the game in the last quarter and then win it in the dying seconds on a rain-soaked Montreal field.

George Dinno and Etcheverry scored the touchdowns for the Larks, with Etcheverry converting both. Then Sam the Rifle booted the winning point from one yard out.

TICAT SCORERS

Ron Howell and Harry Lampman were sent over for touchdowns for the Ticats. Gerry McDougall converted one. The other Hamilton point came when Dave Gideon was rouged on McDougall's attempted field goal in the dying seconds.

The Ticats went out in front when Bernie Faloney passed from his own goal line to Howell. Dinno tied it up for the first time on a scrimmage line and run after taking a lateral pass from Etcheverry. Hamilton made it 8-7 in the second quarter when Gideon was rouged.

Lampman kicked a Faloney pass for Hamilton's second touchdown in the third quarter. A field goal placement attempt that gained 16 yards to the Montreal eight paved the way for the score. With the fourth quarter more than half over, Milt Crump was intercepted a pass, Tom Moran made 57 yards on a pass-and-run play and Howell scored a touchdown to tie it again.

From this point on the crowd was in a frenzy. And the scoring kick that ended the game with a 15-14 victory justified their enthusiasm.

GETS TWO TDs

In addition to his rushing, Thelen scored two touchdowns as 19,465 fans watched. Ted Smale and Ron Stewart went over for the other Rough Riders' touchdowns. Garry Schreider kicked a field goal and booted three converts and Davey West kicked a single.

Quarterback Al Dorow, Al Schlosser and Ron Stoker connected for 31 Argonaut points in the losers. Cookie Gilchrist kicked two converts and made an end zone attempt at a field goal from 25 yards out.

Quarterback Russ Jackson connected a pass to Smale on the 20 and he raced over for the first touchdown. Thelen crashed over from five yards out for the second. Schreider's field goal made it 17-0 at the end of the first quarter.

FUMBLE AIDS ARGOS

A fumble by Thelen paved the way for the first Argonaut touchdown. Fouts kicked the loose ball down the field and fell to the O'Keefe five where he fell on it. Two plays later Dorow swept around end to make it 17-6.

A 64-yard march up the field ended with a spectacular catch of a 40-yard pass by Schlosser at the goal line and it was 17-13 after the convert. After Gilchrist's single in the third quarter Dorow fired a 35-yard pass to Stover in the end zone. Gilchrist booted the extra point to wind up the Toronto scoring.

Then Ottawa took command. Thelen's touchdown was scored on a 25-yard pass from Babe Parilli after an 81-yard march by

Quebec Aces Run String To Four Games

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Quebec Aces' amazing winning streak and Rochester Americans' performance at home has given a new look to the American Hockey League.

The Aces, who managed to win only three of their first 12 games, ran their string to four straight with two victories over the Springfield Indians 6-4 Saturday and the league - leading Providence Reds 4-3 Sunday.

The Americans recorded their first victory at Rochester Sunday edging Hershey Bears 3-2 Sunday night. Rochester downed Providence 3-2 Saturday.

Buffalo Bisons vacated last place with two victories over Barons, producing a four-goal man in each game. Larry Wilson picked up four assists Sunday as Bisons overpowered the Cleveland Barons. Eddie Kachur contributed four Saturday to lead the Bisons to an 8-3 win.

REDS START

The results left the Reds in first place with 19 points to 17. Bunched in second spot with 12 points are Springfield, Quebec and Quebec. Hershey is next with 11, then Buffalo weight eight and Cleveland with five.

Otola O'Brien scored the winning goal for the Aces Saturday night with less than three minutes remaining. Bob Ira Eaves scored twice and Alain Caon added a single. Bo Elik scored twice for Springfield while Gus Davis picked up one.

Aces recall the Indians their first home loss of the campaign Saturday, Jackie Leclair and Jean Guy Gendron scored twice, Jean Cornette and Caron contributed singles. Bill McCreary got for Springfield with two goals, Harry Pidhirney and Bill Sweeney got one each.

Stan Smrke came up with two goals for Rochester Sunday to earn the Americans' undefeated home streak to 22 games since last Jan. 16. Pat Hanigan accounted for the other Rochester goal. Rookie Brian Smith and Larry Zeidel scored for Hershey.

NEW YORK (AP) — William R. Fox, sports editor of the Lincoln-Journal, has received the Grantland Rice Memorial Award of the sportswriting brotherhood for 1959 tonight. The award is made annually "for an outstanding example of sports reporting in the Rice tradition."

The Other Day

We got to talking about the progress in transportation and it is surprising to realize that the bicycle, for example, was not invented until 1816 — when in that early year John Lock had propel himself along. Even the first strides of his feet to the ground. It wasn't until 1839, eight years ago, that the first bicycle manufacturing plant came into existence. Now we know today was invented. When we think of the comparatively short time we have seen individual transportation in so many forms, to say it has been revolutionary, is to grossly understate what has taken place. The first internal combustion engine that operated on the atmospheric vacuum principle was also developed in 1876. So we see the development of methods for individual transportation and motive power practically developed side by side although from entirely separate beginnings and sources, which in itself is interesting.

As you know, our specialization is providing you with the transportation you can get, but our responsibility does not stop there. We feel that because of the complexities of today's engines and the large share of family earnings that goes into transportation it is a definite duty and trust to serve you not only with quality, and skilled mechanics, but to do so on a highly ethical plane.

Dunlops Lose Two in Row To Windsor and Kitchener

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chatham Maroons kept a tight grip on their first-place position in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A standings when they defeated Belleville McFarlands 5-2 at Belleville Saturday night.

The McFarlands outshot Maroons 37-33.

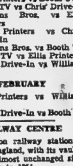
Gary Sharpe, Fred Pietsch, Joe Bonetta, Bill Forhan and Jim Connelly scored for Chatham. Lou Smrke and Whit Youngberg got the lone goals for Belleville.

DUNLOPS DROP TWO

Allan Cup champion Whitby Dunlops just couldn't get a foothold during their two games during the weekend. At Whitby Saturday penalties proved costly when, shorthanded in the third period, Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen plastered home two goals to win the game 4-3.

Ron Muir paced Dutchies with two goals while Bob Forhan, Bob Bracz and Cliff Pennington scored the other markers. Jack Kane, Fred Eschedor and Gary Dantiog scored for Whitby.

At Windsor Sunday the Dunlies again met defeat when the Windsor Bulldogs thumped them 5-3. The win was the 10th OHA Senior victory in four tries for the Bulldogs.



SUNDAY-PLACE TIE

The triumph moved Windsor into a second-place deadlock with Whitby Dunlops and Chatham in league-leading Maroons.

Ron Ingram, at their peak, Windsor scored twice in the first period, added one in the second and wound up with two more in the third. Despite the score, John Henderson did a great job in the Whitby nets.

Lou Bendo, Gord Haidy, Walt Haidy and Jim Cutelli are the brothers, Murray and Jack, each scoring one for Windsor who outshot the Dunlops 40 to 37 in the well-played contest.

Eskimos Dunk BC Lions 20-8 In Playoff

By BOB TREMBER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—Quarterback Jackie Parker effectively blended his ball-handling wizardry Saturday with the power running of veteran Normie Kwong and the speed of rookie Howie Schumann to give Edmonton Eskimos a 13-point lead in their two - game total - point Western interprovincial Football Union semi-final against B.C. Lions.

Lions opened the scoring in the second quarter but the Eskimos roared back to tie the score before the half time. They added up a 20-8 victory with two touchdowns in the last half.

A record WIFU crowd of 33,963 saw the game.

The Macs' winner meets Winnipeg Blue Bombers in a total-point series to find the club that will advance to the Grey Cup game against the eastern champion Nov. 28 at Toronto.

ESKIMOS FAVORED

Eskimos, who have not lost a semi-final since 1943, are overwhelming favorites to oust Lions, who had made the playoffs for the first time since entering the league in 1954. The second game will be played Wednesday in Edmonton.

Said B.C. coach Wayne Robinson:

"I think we can still beat them. It's not finished by any stretch of the imagination unless we think ourselves that it is."

Edmonton coach Eagle Keys said:

"It was our best team effort of the year. Winning this way I think we'll play a better game in Edmonton. If we'd won by 20 points there'd have been a problem of a letdown next game."

Parker connected on a brilliant 56-yard pass-and-run touchdown play with end Jim Letcavits in the second quarter, set up another by Johnny Bright in the third and scored the clincher on a Tommy-Joe Coffey and uncorked a brilliant fake to send Schumann end to score a fourth quarter touchdown.

AUSSIE WINS VASE

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (Reuters) — Bruce Devlin, Australian amateur golf champion, won the Silver Vase invitation golf tournament Sunday with a 36-hole total of 145. All players taking part in the Commonwealth amateur tournament which opens here Tuesday competed.

Devlin won by one stroke over South African Arthur Walker, who has won the vase five last three years, and Bob Williams.

Bert Yerxbourg of Vancouver headed the Intercollegiate Soccer League.

PLANE CRASH SURVIVOR IN HOSPITAL — Ernest Phillip Bradley, 33, of Clifton Forge, Va., is comforted by his wife, Evelyn, as he recovers in the University of Virginia Hospital here, the only survivor of 27 persons dashed into the side of Burke Chimney Mountain in the crash of a Piedmont airliner Friday night. Bradley remained in the wreckage more than 36 hours, unable to move, helpless as search planes flew past overhead. (AP Wirephoto).

AT THE McCARTHY — Slaughter in Barbershop. While gang leader Augie Martello was being shaved, three hoods came into the place, shot several bullets into him, and made their getaway at gun-point. This scene is realistically enacted in the crime drama, "Inside The Mafia," a United Artists release, now showing at the McCarthy Theatre. Also showing on the same program is "Timbuktu" starring Victor Mature and Yvonne DeCarlo.

Shocker for the Sentimental Was CBS New Science Series

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The most dramatic program of the week-end was neither a drama nor a so-called special. It was Conquest, CBS' science series, which returned to television Sunday with a shocker for the sentimental. It showed film of a research project which is exploding some widely held beliefs on the subject of a child's love for his mother.

Host Charles Collingwood visited the primate laboratories at the University of Wisconsin where psychologists are experimenting with baby rhesus monkeys in an effort to learn more about human development.

Some of the project monkeys, separated from their natural mothers at birth, have been provided with two "substitute" mothers: One a metal frame with an aperture through which nursing bottles can be placed; the other a metal frame padded with cheesecloth.

ALL PICK PADDING

The little monkeys all chose the lmaginle, padded substitute —to play near or on, to cling to when frightened. In fact, they merely took food from the metal mothers. This, said Dr. Harry Harlower, suggests that the feeding function of a mother has less to do with the child's reliance and affection that what he calls "contact comfort."

Baby monkeys when frightened flung themselves upon their cheesecloth mothers, soon becoming calm and regaining their feeling of security. Baby monkeys which had neither real nor substitute mothers were pathetic little beasts huddled miserably in the corner.

The experiments show that all babies must have something to love—even if it's only a padded metal frame—if they are to develop. If they don't get this something to comfort, a critical period in their young lives (Harlowe suggests this period is between three months and a year in human babies) they may never be able to learn to love at all.

It was a fascinating, enlightening and thought-provoking program.

Milton Berle's NBC Special

Milton Berle's NBC Special turned out to be another hour-long I Love Lucy, which was no better, no worse, and not even much different from his recent CBS hour-long shows built around the Texaco Star Theatre. None of them has been up to the standard of the old half-hour Lucy series.

Recommended tonight:

Adventure in Paradise, ABC, 7:30 p.m. Captain Gardner carriages and piles of domestic bric-a-brac from the deck of the ship's passenger list were children.

Gardner's single family was that of Sgt. James Doyle of Halifax. He and his wife brought their seven children.

Once the incoming troops had left the ship, the Carinthia began loading home-going troops for the journey back to Canada. The ship sailed today with 809 persons aboard, chiefly men and dependents of the Royal 22nd (Van Doos) Regiment returning to Quebec.

AT THE PARK — Hidden forces was science in an attempt to thwart Van Johnson's prying into a 30-year-old murder for which his father was convicted though innocent in Allied Artists' "Thin Red Evidence." The film, currently at the Park Theatre, also stars Vera Miles. On the same program, "The Bloody Brood," starring Peter Falk, Jack Betts and Barbara Lord. Both attractions are first showings.

9:30-10:30 EST — notable for a rare appearance of Paulette Goddard.

Hennesey, CBS, 10 — a new series which seems to be catching on.

Steven Allen Show, NBC, 10-11 —with Rex Hudson, Jayne Meadows and Johnny Carson.

Over Two Million Fish Fry Deposited in County Waters

The Canadian Government has purchased a radio - navigation system whose principle was first used by the Germans in World War II.

Over seven and a quarter million fish plantings were deposited in the waters of the Tweed District of the Department of Lands and Forests in 1958.

Pickerel formed the largest planting with 2,040,000 being placed in the lakes and rivers of the district.

One million whitefish and 1,067,750 herring fry were deposited in Papineau and Skootamatta Lakes. Of these numbers Papineau Lake received 333,333 whitefish fry and 711,844 herring.

The smallest number deposited was 348 pike youngsters. Musky deposits amounted to 387,500; speckled trout 283,000; lake trout, 66,000; large-mouth bass, 69,000 small-mouth, 56,250; brown trout, 49,000 and Kamloops trout 29,000.

Hastings county fishing hauled received 2,581,817 plantings, representing ten varieties, of the total amount deposited.

Broken down, this amount includes speckled trout, 81,000; Kamloops trout, 1,000; brown trout, 24,500; rainbow, 500; splake, 2,000; large-mouth bass, 4,000; smallmouth, 12,500; pickerel, 800,000 and the amount of whitefish and herring mentioned before.

Prince Edward county waters received 44,250 fry including speckled trout, 43,000; splake trout, 1,000; brown trout, 3,000. Warden's Creek received the only splake with 2,000 brown trout going to Consecon Lake which also received 2,000 splake.

22nd Regiment Replaced by Black Watch

By STEWART MacLEOD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ROTTERDAM, The Netherlands (CP)—The 1st Battalion of the Black Watch Friday officially replaced the Royal 22nd Regiment as one of Canada's three battalions of the 4th Infantry Brigade in West Germany.

A lone piper skirled Gangway as 100 killed officers and men of the Black Watch (Royal Highland Regiment of Canada) marched from the Canard liner Carinthia, one of seven ships and 19 planes chartered for the rotation.

Although the rotation began Sept. 8 and extends to Dec. 19, the army said the Carinthia, which returns to Canada today with a company of the Royal 22nd Regiment, is the official changeover ship.

Also involved in the rotation is the 1st Battalion of the Canadian Guards, replacing the 2nd Battalion of the Guards, and smaller groups in various outfits. Thirteen thousand people are involved in the manoeuvre, 6,000 of them army troops and the remainder their families.

The army estimated the cost of the move at $1,500,000.

LATEST PHASE

This movement, involving 607 persons, is the latest phase in a four-month program to replace approximately two-thirds of the 5,500-man Canadian Brigade.

Seven transatlantic liners are operating under charter to the Canadian government, each making two round trips. Twelve commercial airliners will make 24 transatlantic flights, carrying 6 persons a time. Seventeen RCAF transport aircraft will make 34 make two trips, each carrying 28 persons.

Sunday's transfer was conducted in the presence of the Canadian army adjutant-general, Maj-Gen. J.D.B. Smith, who is on a European inspection tour.

Smith explained that the object of the new program is to replace one-third of the brigade each year, instead of replacing the entire force at two-yearly intervals as in the past. The new procedure will mean that a soldier in future will do three years' NATO service instead of two.

"The soldier is a human being first of all," Smith said. "We feel that to uproot him and his family more often than is necessary is neither good for him nor good for the army."

PARENTS Magazine Discusses
"blue denim"
Blue Denim—Explored with dignity and insight, this adaptation of decent young people whose early sex drives get them into trouble is forcefully brought home in this worthwhile film to both parents and older boys and girls. The impact of terror when the girl finds she is pregnant, and both she and the boy are afraid to tell their parents, is shared by the audience. Even mothers and fathers whose children are small will be able to see how a misunderstanding parent-child gap must be built up over the years. Carol Lynley as the girl and Brandon de Wilde as the boy are appealing and convincing, both in their startled awakening to love and the stunned realization of its aftermath. Moreover, they are held strictly responsible, even to their own part in the failure to bridge the gap of understanding with their parents. Everyone, in fact, is given fair but uncompromising treatment. A—Excellent.

Tuesday, November 3, 1959

General Tendencies: The morning finds all kinds of explaining and unexpected chances for you to get what you want by going right after it. Lose no time in doubts or fears, but soon. The P.M. is one of those times when you seem unable to get the outlets of a personal nature that you wish. Carry through with what you started this morning.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Be sure you impress a new and important friend with your particular talent's and capabilities. Also be honest in stating your devotion for him, or her. P.M. forget worries and see that you put wardrobe in fine order for busy days ahead.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)—A.M. should be spent putting monetary affairs in order, giving an ear to the suggestions of close ties. P.M. put aside any worries and be off to a good time, inexpensively. How long is it since you have dancer? Have fun.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — is ideal for learning what your relative position is with key persons and also gathering valuable data from them. P.M. situation is fluid; can be influenced by you, but do not let it bother you. Use the objective approach: be courteous and kind.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Get your work accomplished efficiently and enthusiastically in A.M. The latter part of the day should then be spent out-of-doors. Shop, visit look into new creative outlets, etc. Be careful in transit, however. Shop, look and listen.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Take those treatments in A.M. that will improve health and appearance. Morning hours also fine for creative talents. Make repairs to property in late afternoon that are most necessary. Be practical and unextravagant if possible.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Follow the advice of a good personal friend in matters of real estate or other holdings. If so quietly, P.M. do not be forceful with members of own clan, or those serving you. Consideration and kindness pay big dividends.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — A.M. excellent for working harmoniously with friends and persons who follow a lofty philosophy in life. Expand. P.M. public affairs should be handled nicely. Then put abode in order.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Sit back awhile in A.M. and think seriously about increasing income and how to go about it most effectively. Inspiration will greatly attuned property. Then get best order possible about you. P.M. assist a friend in need.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Step out of usual dull routine in A.M. and see those key persons who can be of real assistance to you. P.M. take care not do not lose prestige in any way. And let your utterings be sweet, not sarcastic.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Get busy early in A.M. with all secret endings that will bring you greater abundance. Then be kind to those in need, or those with troubles. Be free from worry insight and go about socially meeting interesting people.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Follow your ambitions in A.M. with true enthusiasm. You will get your desires if they are to your best interest. Later, get obligations out of the way, handle all monetary affairs. P.M. be kind to loved one.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Get an early morning start on all public affairs. Speak out with regards to federal or community affairs, too. P.M. do not permit a narrow-thinking associate to disturb your equilibrium. Meet promises made.

If Your Child Is Born Today—The delightful child born today will early show definite signs of individuality. These may be quite alien to surroundings in which he, or she, is born, but there will be great innate talent to carry through with them, practically and in most intelligent fashion. Excellent chart for the modern, the unique. See that several foreign languages are taught, also.

U.S. Railways List Proposed Changes in Rules of Work

CHICAGO (AP)—The American railroads today presented their controversial proposals for changing work rules to five operating unions representing 210,000 members.

The proposals, which may turn out to be the most disputed in recent labor history, were made public Sunday by the Association of American Railroads in advance of today's presentation to the unions.

The issue about which the proposals centre is what the railroads term "featherbedding"—forced payment for work neither done nor needed.

The railroads claim present work rules for operating personnel cost them more than $500,000,000 annually.

Some of the working agreements the railroads want to change have been in effect for about 40 years. A three-year moratorium on changing the rules expired Saturday.

The proposals, says the AAR, would correct inequities in areas where unnecessary positions are being staffed, wasteful jurisdictional work divisions exist and multiple pay is exacted for singletrm work.

The unions object to any work rule changes. They argue that the present rules are essential to safety and efficient rail transportation.

The five unions involved are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Order of Railway Conductors and Brakemen, the Switchmen's Union of North America, the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

CHANGES ASKED

These are the changes proposed by the railroads:

1. Revision of the pay standard based on mileage for engine and train crews to reflect increased train speeds.

2. Elimination of rules prohibiting crews from operating through present crew-change points in order to end multiple changes and permit crew operations to be extended in keeping

CANADA'S GIFT — Canada has made a gift of 9,200,000 pounds of milk powder to India where the government is trying to provide children with more milk... Chester Ronning, Canada's high commissioner to India, hands over a bag of milk powder from the first shipment to a representative of the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund. The Canadian gift, one of several to Asian countries, means that 400,000 Indian children will get a glass of milk each day for a year. (CP Photo).

Mortality Rate Drop Partly Attributed to Children in India Getting More Milk

By RUKMINI DEVI
Canadian Press Correspondent

BOMBAY (CP)—The mortality rate among India's children has been showing a steady fall.

The drop is partly attributed to a program in the southern and eastern parts of the country where some children are getting milk daily for the first time in their lives. In some of these areas, milk is so scarce as to be almost an unknown commodity.

Canada, through the Colombo plan, is helping get more milk to the children by gifts of milk powder.

The first consignment of Canada's gift of 9,200,000 pounds of milk powder was unloaded at Bombay recently. Another was on its way to Cochin, Kerala state, and Madras city. The biggest consignment, 5,000,000 pounds, will be handed over to West Bengal state.

ONE-YEAR SUPPLY

The Canadian gift means that 400,000 children will get a glass of milk each day for a year.

Dr. N. N. Klias, deputy health minister of Bombay state, said "Canada's magnificent gesture will help us fight protein deficiency among our undernourished children."

The milk powder shipments to India are only part of the Canadian government's supply for the UN International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF). So far, Canada has pledged 60,000,000 pounds of dry milk worth $4,000,000 to Asia's needy children and mothers.

When free milk powder was distributed in a village in Kerala state, south India, people showed little enthusiasm.

"Why does the government waste money on buying and distributing milk?" asked the local schoolmaster. "Give us rice instead."

MUCH MILK WASTED

The per capita consumption of milk in Kerala is as little as 1½ ounces a day while the northern areas such as East Punjab and Gujrat produce so much milk that at times large quantities go to waste for want of proper delivery facilities.

The central and state governments are starting a number of programs to step up milk production and to remove bottlenecks in the distribution system.

HOME SAFETY

When banking a coal fire in the home furnace, always leave a few red coals showing in order to burn off coal gas.

Wellington

WELLINGTON — Mrs. Laura Wight and Edgar and Mrs. William Wannamaker and Mark, spent last Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Donald Wood, Christian Street.

Reeve A. C. Platt, Mr. John McKenzie, and Mr. Jack Ogilvy, attended the conference of the Lake Ontario Development Association on Wednesday in Peterborough.

Trigger-happy.
If something moved
He'd fire right snappy!

He bagged two cows,
A pig did moan
But always missed
The legal game.

Sam won't be out
Another season,
He stays home now
And here's the reason . . .

He put his gun down;
Didn't set
The safety catch—
(Sam would forget!)

He turned to look
Back down the track
And shot himself
Right in the back!

By ARTHUR WILKES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The fast-growing Canadian Wildlife Service has its sights set on a long-range development plan.

"We have been experiencing tremendous growth and are going to have to expand still further, especially in our field staff," says Winston Mair.

Mr. Mair, chief of the wildlife service for the last seven of its 13 years, says its scientific staff has nearly doubled to about 40 in the last five years and annual expenditures have more than doubled to $697,000 in that period.

The organization didn't come into being until 1947, but the legislative basis for its existence and functions actually goes back to the Migratory Birds Treaty signed in 1916 between Great Britain, on behalf of Canada, and the United States.

The wildlife service, a division of the northern affairs department, carries on extensive year-round research across the country and makes its findings available to national parks, authorities in the Yukon and Northwest Territories and many other organizations.

Among the many wildlife species being studied are caribou, musk - ox, buffalo, white fox, muskrat, beaver, whooping crane and trumpeter swans, to name a few.

"Our biggest problem is to get the public to appreciate there is a wildlife service and to let them know what our staff is doing," Mr. Mair said in an interview.

"Another major problem is to find young wildlife biologists with the necessary years of university training and the yen for long hours in the field under rugged conditions."

TOUGH ROUTINE

"Testing in the North at 50 degrees below zero and asking hours in pre - dawn watch for waterfowl are just part of the regular routine of the wildlife scientist.

"The work is something that has to be timed with wildlife habits. You can't put the studies off until another time; they may be down in Mexico by then."

The service's long - range development plan still requires much study and it will be some time before definite conclusions can be reached.

"I only hope the staff continues to grow," said Mr. Mair. "The field staff is spread out thinly now."

A lover of wildlife since his childhood, Mr. Mair, 43, was the successful applicant in a civil service competition for chief of the wildlife service following the 1952 retirement of Dr. H. F. Lewis.

"I used to go out with binoculars and watch wildlife with my father," said the native of Saskatchewan's North Battleford area. He worked with the British Columbia game commission and Defence Research Board before taking his present position.

Man Empties One Barrel Of Shotgun Into Doctor's Back

Clinic Out-Patient Held For Attempted Murder

TORONTO (CP) — A man wearing a tweed coat, a peaked cloth cap and a home-made linen mask strolled into an out-patient's clinic in St. Michael's Hospital Monday, emptied one barrel of a shotgun into a doctor's back and fled.

Dr. George Callahan, 33, suffered a gaping wound over the left kidney. Hospital officials said early today his condition was serious but not a major operation and he is resting quietly.

Dr. David J. MacKenzie, chief of the clinic with Dr. Callahan, said he understood the man had looked in two treatment rooms before finding Dr. Callahan. He orderly and a patient in the third.

He apparently fired into the doctor's back and ran out along the basement corridor into a downtown street.

Douglas Patrick of Clarkson, and Robert Bruce Ivey, 20, a taxi driver, the man from the out-patient's waiting room and along with block to Spadina Street.

Alfred Hugh Dunseen, 22, of Toronto, was arrested on Yonge street by detectives a few minutes after the shooting and charged with attempted murder.

Police confiscated a sawed-off rifle, shotgun shells, cartridges and a peaked cloth cap with a homemade linen mask hanging over the front.

Police said he had been receiving treatment at the hospital but were unable to establish a direct link with Dr. Callahan. The clinic's a regular medical treatment centre, does not treat psychiatric patients.

Dr. Mackenzie, called to the phone just before the shooting, ran to the wounded doctor's aid when he was shot. He said he helped Dr. Callahan walk to the emergency ward for treatment before the doctor being taken to the operating room.

Dr. Callahan, a brother, wife, two sisters and a brother were in the hospital. His four children remained at home.

Afro-Asian Bloc Opposes French Test of A-Bomb

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Afro - Asian countries today launched their campaign against resolute French plans to explode an atomic bomb in the Sahara Desert.

A Moroccan spokesman said President de Gaulle's project has created "veritable panic" and France is reported to have the bomb all ready to go.

Authoritative sources Monday night said the weapon — bigger than the ones dropped on Japan in 1945 but much smaller than today's thermonuclear monsters — has been ready for months, and that tests were delayed only by the task of preparing a suitable location deep in the Sahara.

NO DANGER

French spokesman Jules Moch was reported taking the line that any UN resolution against the project would be regarded only as a recommendation. French scientists were convinced there was absolutely no danger to neighboring African countries from radioactive fallout.

Morocco, bordering the vast African desert, formally proposed that the UN debate the question. Delegates from countries from as far away as Indonesia quickly supported the move.

Liberia's Charles T. O. King declared: "The Sahara is not a no man's land, and no power has the right to contaminate the area. No nation has the right to expose the African continent to the worst product of the atomic age."

Foreign Money Needed to Make Canadian Films

OTTAWA (CP) — Film-production companies operating in Canada have accepted, almost without reservation, the proposal to strike a minimum Canadian content for television programming. For them it means a TV market stripped of much American competition.

However, they raised this point at a hearing of the Board of Broadcast Governors Monday: The board is expecting top-heavy Canadian financing of TV shows, and there may not be enough risk money in Canada to produce the expanded film output that would be needed to meet the content requirement.

Backed by the Canadian Association of Broadcasters and other organizations, the film representatives argued that several years will be an outright necessity in their operations for a period of years. They asked the BBG to delete its Canadian - financing proposals.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Cold Arctic air covered the province Monday night. A storm moving in from the west is expected by a band of intense early winds. These will spread milder temperatures, but in so doing will bring snow to Northern Ontario and showers should reach Southern Ontario by tonight. On Wednesday cold air will again flood the province. However, the next in this series of fast - moving storms should reach Ontario late in the day.

CROP INSURANCE FOR ONTARIO FARMERS LIKELY

Subject Under Study Says Goodfellow

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government is considering the introduction of crop insurance within the next year, provincial Agriculture Minister Goodfellow said Monday.

He told the Ontario Federation of Agriculture convention "the time has come when the government will have to take a look at some form of crop insurance."

"We will proceed with it if the commodity groups to be covered favor the idea."

Mr. Goodfellow said the subject is under study. The government would be pleased if the federation handled administration of such a program, he said.

BAD YEAR IN ONTARIO

This year has been a bad one for Ontario farmers. Nearly half the wheat crop was lost through bad weather and there was considerable damage to tobacco and strawberry crops.

Mr. Goodfellow also said the present method of selling hogs in Ontario is not in the long-term interests of orderly marketing.

"The present program must be changed to allow facilities to selling techniques, but the most important development will be a sales program — a policy that breeds confidence and trust. Ontario must be sold in the marketing plan."

The hog producers organization now sells hogs through its assembly yards throughout Ontario on a selling or asking price then calling for bids from packing houses. About 40 buyers make telephone bids on hogs shipped to Toronto from assembly yards.

The processors favor some form of selling by grading, either the Dutch-clock type used for tobacco or the live-bidding method. The producers oppose the move on the basis that it might lower prices.

Convention delegates had some support when a resolution was introduced asking that the federation endorse a farmer - producer - engaged in the business of farming, as one who earns the major portion of his income from farming. They couldn't agree on a definition for a farmer.

Many said they made money by other business or job but considered themselves farmers.

Federation economist Cecil Belyea offered this definition: A farm is any piece of five or more acres of land used for the production of natural fibres, animal products, fruit, vegetables. A farmer is a man who uses his management skill in managerial ability to produce such fibres, food or tobacco on the land.

But this didn't settle the matter and federation members latched on the motion.

Daley Opposed To Major Changes In Labor Laws

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) —Labor Minister Daley brought a round of applause from delegates at the Ontario Federation of Labor convention Monday when he said he is opposed to any drastic changes in the province's labor legislation.

He said the 31 recommendations in the report last year by a select committee on labor legislation have given him every reason for concern. Some amendments to Ontario's Labor Relations Act are expected to be introduced at the next session of legislature.

Mr. Daley said a more satisfactory status can be achieved by co-operation and interference by the legislature in industrial relations.

Struck by Car

OTTAWA (CP) — Lillian Palmer, 14, daughter of Cmdr. and Mrs. Ralph Palmer, died here Monday night shortly after being struck by a car in a hit-and-run accident near her home.

Police said the girl was knocked down by another one when it broke away, jumped the sidewalk and struck the girl.

Matchmakers' Speculations Roused After Margaret Visits With Bachelor

LONDON (Reuters)—Princess Margaret has raised new speculation about her romantic life.

She visited Group Capt. Peter Townsend at his home Sunday and then went to the theatre with two young bachelors after having lunched with a married friend of the third.

The 29-year-old princess paid a surprise visit to London's Apollo Theatre Monday night to see the revue Pieces of Eight.

With her were two escorts whose names have been linked with hers in the past— Billy Wallace and Lord Plunket.

The theatre party followed her return from a weekend at the home of her latest escort, 35-year-old Alan Godsal, Godsal, a handsome, six foot-two farmer, was her host at his Georgian mansion outside London.

Godsal served as a lieutenant in the Scots Guards and is high sheriff of Berkshire, the youngest man in Britain to hold such a post.

He lives alone in a part of the house his family has owned for two centuries, and is walled upon by a staff.

The princess' visit remained secret until Monday. Godsal was reported to have invited her at a recent London charity ball when he phoned her in pleasure to dine on her foot and had to scramble around the floor to pick up her scattered invitation. Friday the princess accepted the invitation and Godsal made a hurried journey from London to prepare the house for her.

Princess Margaret arrived Friday evening with her lady-in-waiting, Lady Iris Peake, her maid and a detective. There was a dinner party for 11 that night, and on Saturday the princess joined a shooting party. On Sunday she house party attended a little church on his 2,500 - acre estate.

Hunting Season and Quickly Changing Weather Causing Heavy Toll of Missing Persons

By The Canadian Press

Ground, water and air search groups worked overtime across Canada during the weekend and Monday as the fall hunting season and quickly-changing weather caused a heavy toll of missing persons.

Some of the rescue operations were successful, others were still searching. But some returned in those camps willy with word that bodies had been recovered instead of lives being saved.

Still missing are two Northern Ontario men, last seen hunting moose ten days ago- 250 miles west of Sudbury, two lumbermen in Nova Scotia who disappeared at about the same time, and a Vancouver woman, lost on a mountain.

Found were a young hunter in the Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., bush district, a father and son in Quebec, four persons on a boat on Lake Erie, an elderly British Columbia man who got lost on an overnight hunting trip, and a young Alaska missionary who was rescued from an island north of Prince Rupert, B.C.

MISSING 11 DAYS

Safe are two 21-year-old American students, farers lost in Manitoba when unheard of for 11 days. They checked in at Portage la Prairie, Man. Their canoe trip, begun last April on the Columbia River in Oregon, had been delayed by bad weather.

In Quebec, the bodies of three men whose boat was found overturned on Lake Baie des Chaleurs near Escuminac were recovered. They left home early last week to hunt geese. The last body was found Monday.

A helicopter and planes are being used in the Northern Ontario search for Merle Nowcombe, 45, and George Wedgett, 52, of Chapleau. Ground parties are out near Amyot, 250 miles west of Sudbury. The men are without bedrolls and temperatures in the area have been below freezing several nights since they disappeared.

Little hope is held in Nova Scotia that either Harold Lyley, 50, of Dartmouth, or Gerry Hartley, 18, of Halifax, will be found alive. Lloyd was last seen on the Sunnypoint area of Pictou County and Blakney 20 miles from Halifax.

FOUND HELICOPTER

Peter d'Huc-Bethusy, a retsent Swiss immigrant, 32, was spotted Monday by a guide in a U.S. Air Force helicopter that was taking part in the Sault Ste. Marie search. He was found in good condition out far from the spot where he disappeared while hunting. He spent two nights in below-freezing weather.

William Bolsverd and his 8-year-old son, Marcel, were found Monday after they spent the night lost while hunting 18 miles east of Rouyn, Que.

The U.S. Coast Guard rescued two Tiffen, Ohio, men and two Point Pelee sisters from the shrouded Lake Erie Sunday, 28 hours after they set out in a 22-foot cruiser from Lakeside, Ohio, for Pelee Island.

LOST IN BY PLANE

Rev. W. Douglas Moore, 32, Eqalist missionary of Wrangell, Alaska, was found in good condition on a small Alaskan island. The object of an intensive U.S.-Canadian air-sea search, he was spotted by a U.S. Coast Guard plane.

He disappeared Saturday on a 30-mile flight from Bella Bella to Prince Rupert. He had been picked him up.

Ray Trambly, 62, of North Surrey, B.C., walked out of the bush near Princeton Sunday after being missing on an overnight hunting trip.

A search on Vancouver's north shore for Mrs. Inez Wilson was suspended late Monday as fog closed in. She failed to return her husband during a hike up Mount Seymour Sunday.

Warrender Gets Report On Inquiry

TORONTO (CP) — Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender said today he has received the report of Judge Arthur Willmott on the judicial inquiry into the financial affairs of Belleville.

Mr. Warrender said he will show the report to the cabinet before release. He added: "And it will have to be thoroughly analyzed before it goes to cabinet," he added.

Mr. Warrender said he did not know when the inquiry report on York Township's land dealings would be ready.

Scalded in Bath

SUDBURY (CP)—A 21-month-old boy died here after being scalded Saturday in a bath at his home in Kilal Lake, 190 miles west of here. Kim Hoigaard, son of a Stanrock miner, is believed to have turned on the hot water tap while playing in the bathtub. He suffered third-degree burns over most of his body.

UNIVERSITY HEAD WANTS TO LURE SCHOLARS HOME

U of T Will Offer More Fringe Benefits

TORONTO (CP) — Concerted efforts will be made to bring back top Canadian scholars now occupying senior posts in the United States, says Dr. Claude T. Bissell, university of Toronto president.

In his first annual report to the Board of governors, released Monday night, Dr. Bissell said appointment and retention of a good staff is the most important way to maintain the university's standards in the face of expanding enrolment.

The university is in the middle of a $32,000,000 five-year expansion program to develop a new west campus for an expected enrolment of 23,000 students in 1965.

CRISIS POINT

Calling Metropolitan Toronto the "real crisis point" in Canada's expanding university explosion, he said the city should contain 46,000 of Ontario's estimated 82,000 university students in 1975.

U. of T.'s enrolment will remain constant at 20,000 because indefinite expansion would make a mockery of carefully planned courses and "we are not committed into a 'demographic convenience.'"

"We have in the University of Toronto an intellectual community that could not be created once such a development," he said.

MUST EQUAL HARVARD PAY

To bring good scholars back from the U.S., salaries must remain on a par with such universities as Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Chicago and California, "for it is with these universities that our competition lies."

Further measures approved by the board of governors include a new staff include financial assistance to cover moving costs and purchase of new homes, group insurance progisions and an increase in travel funds to attend learned society meetings.

Mr. Bissell said the university had already had some success in attracting new staff from the U.S. "and we intend to pursue this policy with vigor."

Brockville-Hotel Swept by Fire, All Guests Out

BROCKVILLE (CP)—Fire was swept through the Grand Central Hotel in downtown Brockville early today, but there was no serious indication that all guests and employees had been able to escape.

The 60-room hotel, at the corner of King and Market streets near the centre of the city's business district was evacuated before flames from all three floors.

Fire department officials ordered a general alarm sounded at the scene and sent an emergency call to nearby centres for assistance.

The fire broke out in the basement in the ground-floor coffee shop and spread to the walls and ceiling before employees tried to bring it under control.

Trafalgar Square Looks Much Same To Green on First Visit Since 1919

LONDON (CP) — Howard Green looked out over Trafalgar Square Monday and said the place hasn't changed much since he was a young man.

Canada's external affairs minister, here on his first visit since 1939, stood at a window in Canada House and watched the fountains splashing in the shadow of Nelson's Column.

"It looks pretty much the same to me."

Forty years ago, as a staff lieutenant in the Canadian Army, Green was in London awaiting demobilization.

Green said he is "greatly impressed—any outsider would be" by London, and by Paris, which he saw for the first time last week. He was stationed in southern France during the 1914-18 war but did not get to Paris then.

"I was received with the wi[illegible] most friendliness in both coun-about it," he said.

Fulton States Federal Concern Is Use As Money

Will Plug Any Loophole In Respect to Currency

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Investigations of trading stamps came into the news in various Canadian centres Monday.

In Saskatchewan, the trial of Loblaw Groceteria (Saskatchewan) Ltd., charged with issuing stamps in violation of the Criminal Code, is continuing.

Meanwhile, an appeal by Loblaw's in Manitoba against its conviction Oct. 14 on issuing trading stamps is to be heard Nov. 25.

Nova Scotia authorities said Monday they are investigating to see if a gold bond stamp plan launched last week by 21 IGA food stores is a violation of the Criminal Code.

Similarly, a drug store has started redeeming Loblaw stamps and Attorney-General Roberts of Ontario says this may be against the law.

Loblaw's went on trial in Moose Jaw, Sask., police court Monday with testimony by a clerk-stenographer that she got stamps with a purchase of groceries. Manager Ernest Lloyd said when she tried to redeem the stamps she was told she had no trading value except for goods in a catalogue.

CONVICTED LAST MONTH

In Winnipeg, Loblaw's was convicted last month. Police magistrate said they bought merchandise with which they got six stamps. They said they tried to redeem the stamps and were told that a small number would not be redeemed. The company was fined $25. It has appealed.

Retail grocers' manager Gordon Ryan of Loblaw's said in Toronto the company does not plan any action against the Calgary druggist who has started to redeem trading stamps.

Calgary police were investigating to see if any action should be taken under the Criminal Code. The code says that must be redeemed at the store that issued them.

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton today promised to recommend a Criminal Code amendment regarding trading stamps.

It would plug any loopholes that may show up in the ban on trading stamp schemes which infringe on the federal government's currency powers.

However, he said in a statement that insofar as use of trading stamps exists "only in the terms and conditions attached by a retailer to the sale of a particular article or articles of merchandise, there is nothing to bring it within the ambit of criminal jurisdiction of the Dominion Parliament."

In this respect, only provincial legislatures can control, regulate or prohibit trading stamps as such, "acting under their exclusive jurisdiction over the laws relating to such matters as contract and sale of goods."

QUESTION REVIEWED

Mr. Fulton said an intensive review has been made recently "in a full cabinet council" concerning the stamps.

"Insofar, however, as such redeemable stamps are simply selling devices, and relate exclusively to the terms of individual sales upon which a customer buys and a merchant sells his goods, then their regulation or prohibition becomes a matter within the field of contract or detailed regulation of trade, which is within the exclusive jurisdiction of the provincial legislatures."

Because of the limited field of Parliament's jurisdiction, Criminal Code provisions "could not properly be made to extend to detailed regulation or merchandising or market transactions, but were confined to the prohibition of schemes which might be regarded as endangering the integrity of our currency system and of schemes which were so designed as to rest on an inherently fraudulent character."

WOULD RECOMMEND

Mr. Fulton also declared publicly that if in the course of any such actions 'provocations under the code' are discovered or disclosed, he shown to exist in the Criminal Code, provocations to extend to that a scheme which is clearly of the type which Parliament is under to prevent as being criminal in its nature can yet operate in such a manner as to avoid punishment at the earliest opportunity the enactment of an appropriate amendment.

"Until now, however, in the absence of any conspiracy there has been nothing on which any opinion could be based as to whether or otherwise of the Criminal Code provisions to prohibit effectively the type of trading stamp scheme they were intended to cover."

Fulton said responsibility and authority for enforcement of the Criminal Code "lies exclusively with the provinces and municipalities" and consequently in the case of widespread concern, not until comparatively recently had these authorities begun prosecutions.

The department officers were directing the progress of actions, based on the Criminal Code ban, now before the courts.

CITY and DISTRICT NEWS

38TH ANNIVERSARY WEDDING OBSERVED

Former city constable William S. Evans and Mrs. Evans yester. day observed their 38th wedding anniversary. Mr. Evans retired from the city police department last year after 37 years on the force and is now municipal parking lot attendant for the city.

DREARY AUTUMN DAYS AT HAND

The dreary days of Autumn are with us once again.

Yesterday the Quinte district was visited with a few flurries of snow which failed to even make an impression on the ground and this morning it was more of the same. Today, however, the snow flakes were more noticeable and after a few flurries turned into a slight drizzle.

HEADS ROTARY DISTRICT

OTTAWA (CP) — Ewart A. Rattray of Sherbrooke, Que., Tuesday was named governor of Rotary District 794 which covers Eastern Ontario, western Quebec and northern New York state.

Temporary Tap To Be Winterized In Hillcrest Area

With wells in the Hillcrest area still low, city council last night moved to lay a temporary water tap in that area winterized so that residents can more conveniently draw water during the winter months ahead.

Mayor Gerald H. Hyde noted that temporary taps in the Hillcrest area would soon be turned off due to cold weather and said that winterizing of at least one tap seemed to be the only solution to the problem. Unless this was done, residents of the Hillcrest area would be forced to obtain water requirements by tank truck which could prove costly throughout the winter.

The tap to be winterized would be the one nearest to Direct Wiglers Transport with the work to cost an estimated $100, this to be charged to the city.

One councillor raised the question of the city paying for the cost of water in this residents of the Hillcrest area. It was claimed that if they paid the cost this would mean subsidization of the Hillcrest area.

Premium Pays Off for City

Participation by the city in the Ontario Hospital Services Commission hospital insurance, residents liable to be a community charge has paid off for Belleville as was noted at council Monday evening.

In a letter to council city welfare administrator George A. Whitman noted that for a premium of $6,300 the city had already received over $11,000 in hospital benefits.

And in the case of one person for whom a $21 premium had been paid over $4,000 in hospital benefits had been received.

Under the act a municipality is entitled to register with the Ontario Hospital Services Commission any person who might reasonably be expected to be a charge against the city.

"The insurance is a good thing and has worked out remarkably well for the city", noted Mayor Gerald Hyde.

Three Members Inducted Into Rotary Club

The Belleville Rotary Club was increased by three on Monday as new members were formally inducted into the club.

The weekly dinner meeting held at the Hotel Quinte was under the chairmanship of club president Fred Wilson.

The new members were introduced to the club by their sponsors and are as follows: — Donald Campbell, of Campbell Monumental Co., Ltd.; E. Denton Taylor, a professional engineer employed with the East Central Region of the Ontario Hydro; and Dr. J. Findlay McCorquodale, district inspector for the animal diseases branch. Mr. Campbell was introduced by Jack Barber; Mr. Taylor, by K. G. Gurnett; and Dr. McCorquodale, by Dr. Max McLean.

The induction ceremony was arranged by Past President Chairman was Joseph Deneau who gave a brief explanation of Rotary and the four types of service — international, vocational, community and personal service.

The four aspects of club service were briefly explained to the new members.

K. G. Gurnett briefly discussed Rotary classification, and the duties of the classification committee. His explanation of reasons for the classification of membership were: to insure membership is a true cross section of the industrial and professional life of the community; to build the membership on a diversity of interest; and to prevent business and professional group domination. In conclusion he urged the new members to "make Rotary the classification loaned to you" because "your membership will be the active your organization or business gives the community."

Debenture Costs Of $57,000 Owed Thurlow Twp.

The city of Belleville will owe the township of Thurlow the amount of $57,000 in debenture costs for local improvements and for educational and health purposes, it was decided at the meeting of the township council Monday evening.

Notification of the amount was made to city council through a letter from Thurlow township clerk Earl Dafoe, who noting the city's present financial condition, said if the city was unable to pay the township would have to make payment back to the municipal board to allow if to borrow the amount over a period of several years, normally allowable.

The letter noted if the additional borrowing was required by the township to meet the debenture costs, the city would be required to pay any additional interest charges.

Mayor Gerald Hyde noted that adjustments between the city and Thurlow with respect to assets and liabilities in connection with annexation had not yet been completed, but said any debentures charges owing the township could have to be met.

RESIDENTS ASSESSED

Residents of the annexed area have been assessed by the city for local improvement charges, it was also noted.

The matter was turned over to the city treasurer and D. D. Arthur for verification of the claim and report back to council.

In connection with the city's financial position, the city finance department will exceed its 1936 budget by about $3,500.

This was the report last night of Fire Chief George Vance who said department expenditures would be slightly over $139,000 or $3,500 more than budgeted for.

Most of the over-expenditure would be as the result of a wage increase granted to firemen by council following setting of the budget.

Tree Trimming By Parks Board Is Advocated

Members of city council feel that the city parks board should have the opportunity of bidding on tree trimming work around hydro wires which has been contracted to an outside firm by the Belleville Utilities Commission.

Already at a measure partly to provide full time work for city employees, the city parks board is doing tree removal for the city, public works department and council feels tree trimming let by the utilities commission should also be done by local workers.

The utilities tree trimming program was brought to the attention of council by City Engineer Malcolm Turnbull who said that in some instances the work was exceeding mere trimming with complete trees being taken out.

Mr. Turnbull said that the hydro program was actually assisting the hydro works department by doing trimming which might otherwise be the work of the parks board and he suggested that his department be allowed to have entire trees were removed.

Council accordingly passed a recommendation asking the utilities commission to obtain the engineer's approval for removal of entire trees.

City to Retain Bailiff for Tax Collection

The city of Belleville will retain the services of a bailiff to collect business taxes which are currently in arrears.

City council at their regular bi-monthly committee meeting held last night voted to retain a bailiff to collect outstanding business taxes when advised by City Solicitor R. A. Pringle that this was the only course left in many centres and was also the practice in Belleville until a few years ago. The solicitor said a bailiff was empowered to seize chattels for delinquent business tax.

Council accordingly voted to retain Mr. William O. Tice as bailiff to collect the outstanding taxes on the basis of the regular bailiff's fee of $3, plus an amount of $5 for each name submitted to him, this amount to be paid by the city.

Outstanding business taxes to the end of 1935 amount to approximately $15,000 council was told last week by acting city treasurer W. D. McArthur.

Sidewalk Asked On Dundas St. E. To Herchimer

Members of the East Belleville Ratepayers' Association want a sidewalk on the north side of Dundas Street East from Herchimer Ave. to the Dundas Street firehall.

A deputation from the Association appeared last night before council in committee with the request, noting that a number of children now going to Queen Elizabeth public school were forced to walk along the side of the road in the absence of a sidewalk.

The spokesmen said that many people failed to realize this area was in the city and drove along at 50 to 60 miles an hour endangering the children in jeopardy.

Councillors stated that the Ontario Department of Highways several years ago had replaced a sidewalk east from Herchimer Ave. to Bayview School and suggested the ratepayers may look favorably on doing the same thing with the city.

It was pointed out that at one time there was a sidewalk in this area but it was covered up by the highways department during a period of road construction in the area.

City Engineer Malcolm Turnbull said he would approach the highways department on the matter.

Premium Pays Off for City

Participation by the city in the Ontario Hospital Services Commission hospital insurance, residents liable to be a community charge has paid off for Belleville as was noted at council Monday evening.

In a letter to council city welfare administrator George A. Whitman noted that for a premium of $6,300 the city had already received over $11,000 in hospital benefits.

And in the case of one person for whom a $21 premium had been paid over $4,000 in hospital benefits had been received.

Under the act a municipality is entitled to register with the Ontario Hospital Services Commission any person who might reasonably be expected to be a charge against the city.

"The insurance is a good thing and has worked out remarkably well for the city", noted Mayor Gerald Hyde.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Amid the lightest first-hour trading in 22 months, the stock market today floundered today. The guidance of Wall Street was missing because stocks and bonds elsewhere had closed the New York exchange.

The 11 a.m. volume of 300,000 shares compared with Monday's sales at the same time, 674,000.

Industrials palned a point on their index but trading was extremely light in most issues. Exceptions were MacMillan and Bloedel B, up 1¼ points at 38½ in active trade.

Mines were almost stagnant. Openskies jumped 30 cents to $7.85 in light trading.

On Monday industrials featured trading.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and outlet print prices were reported unchanged here today.

The egg market was reported quiet with offerings adequate for a light demand.

Country dealers are quoted by the federal department of agriculture as graded eggs, delivered Toronto, in fibre cases: A large S; A medium 41; A small 29; B 34; C 26. Wholesale to retail: A large 58; A medium 46; A small 34; B 3- C 25.

Butter prices: Canada, first grade: Ontario tenderable 64; non tenderable 63½-63¾; light trading; western 63¾ (nominal) ed on the invested assets of Canadian life insurance companies was 4.66 per cent in 1958. The 1958 rate was the highest since the general decline of interest returns in the early thirties. In 1938 the rate was 6.1 per cent — typical of the high rates earned through the 1920's.

Western oils with natural gas interests led gas pipelines surged ahead early but profittaking cut the gains and in some cases replaced them with losses.

The United States Federal Power Commission's announced Saturday that it has decided to allow Canadian natural gas to be imported to four midwestern states through the line of Westcoast Trans. Pipe Lines Ltd. Sellers looking for profits they made during the last week's strong surge in gas issues pushed prices down Monday.

The final volume of 2,626,000 shares was much heavier than Friday's 1,747,000.

Index changes: Industrials up 1.33 to 213.05; golds up 2.14 to 87.09; base metals off .22 to 118.31; western oils up .85 to 107.88.

Town Engineer E. C. Aldersey Resigns to Take Barrie Job

TRENTON — Mixed feelings of regret and of appreciation for a job well done were expressed by members of Trenton council last night over the formal resignation of E. C. Aldersey, town engineer, who has accepted the position of Director of Works and Engineer for the past three years. He has accepted the position of city engineer in Barrie, where he feels he will have greater scope to further his career. His resignation will become effective on November 27th.

Mayor Rose Burtt observed that Trenton seemed to be unable to hold its engineers and assessors. Councillor Wiese pointed out that Trenton had had seven town engineers in 18 years.

The suggestion was advanced by Ch. W. Lavry, that Alex Hoornweg, who has ably assisted Mr. Aldersey as assistant engineer and draughtsman, be given a raise and in addition Councillor Bradshaw advanced the suggestion that assistant engineers be employed from time to time to supplement the work which might be carried out by Mr. Hoornweg. The majority of the councillors felt, however, that a full-time engineer should be employed by the town and Mr. Aldersey should immediately advertise for such a man. Mr. Larry remarked that he had acquired a man "with the patience and the ability to deal with the public." Councillor Weese remarked that a bonus could be offered an engineer if he would sign a contract to stay with the town for five years at least.

PLANS SUBMITTED

Councillor Weese reported that Monday afternoon, Mr. Zeidler of the firm of Craig Zeidler and Strong of Peterborough met with Fire Chief Cecil Ellis, Chief of Police J. Tyrell Mr. Aldersey, Councillor Graham and himself to discuss plans for the proposed fire hall and police station. Councillor Weese submitted drawings of the building which would house both departments. The building would be in the form of an "H" and would be erected on the site of Victoria Park on Division Street.

The estimated cost of the building was quoted at $100,000. Councillor Weese explained the five points of contention to the other councillors existing as to the advantages to the two departments in the layout.

Mayor Burtt reiterated his belief that the construction of such a building was a matter for the ratepayers to decide. Councillor Weese remarked heatedly that the ratepayer had not been appealed to on the question of the addition to the hospital or the erection of the new public school. He stated that the town would spend more money in the next five or six years on the upkeep of the two old buildings than on the construction of the proposed building.

Mayor Burtt stated that Trenton had a fine station which was every bit as good as that of Belleville. "We're not Metropolitan Toronto," said His Worship.

Councillor Vagn Lange suggested that the councillors take the plans for the building home and study them for a period of at least 48 hours. It was decided to follow his suggestion.

Learn-to-Swim Program Under Way at YMCA

"Before any child enters high school he, or she, can swim". This is the motto of a learn-to-swim program now being undertaken by the Quinte Water Safety Council and the Belleville YMCA. Its scope embraces every boy and girl who cannot swim and is in grade eight of any of the city's public schools. Its object is to give free swimming instruction by qualified YMCA instructors to every child who cannot swim.

This winter program of water safety is underway at the local "Y's" pool with classes every Tuesday for the boys and every Thursday and Friday for the girls. There are 26 boys and 26 girls receiving instruction in these classes which are conducted during school hours, the only time at which the "Y" pool is available. The expense of this program is being borne by the YMCA local.

The water safety council also has several secondary projects which it hopes to initiate within the near future as well. One is to extend instruction to non-swimmers in the grade seven of public schools. Currently there are some 141 non-swimmers at this level in the city.

It is hoped that within the next few years all schoolchildren will have been given instruction in swimming down to the grade six level. This is the "safety level," according to statistics, at which to teach swimming as a child learns most rapidly at this time. Currently anywhere from three to seven lessons are required before a boy or girl can pass their beginner's tests.

It is also planned to inaugurate a learn-to-swim program in the grade nines of the city's secondary schools in order to give out-of-town students a chance for instruction. Plans for this are now underway with the cooperation of the physical education departments of the three secondary schools.

For all the students who pass their beginner's swimming tests the St. John Ambulance Corps a member of the water safety council, will be given instruction. Needless to say the local water safety people have planned a very busy schedule this winter in the interests of the community.

Canadians Buy Higher Amount Insurance in '58

TORONTO—Despite the many demands on the consumer in 1958, Canadians put a higher percentage of their income after taxes into life insurance and annuity premiums than in any year since 1951. The 1958 figure was 3.7 per cent, the same as in 1956 and 1951. In 1953 the ratio fell to a low of 3.3 per cent. Back in 1928, however, it was 4.4 per cent.

These figures, based on the business of life insurance companies in Canada, are among the many reported in the fifth edition of "Canadian Life Insurance Facts" prepared by The Canadian Life Insurance Officers Association and now off the press.

The average size of ordinary life insurance policies purchased during 1958 was $6,753, according to the Fact Book, and the average size of ordinary policy owned at the end of the year was $3,900.

Altogether, life insurance in force with the companies covered an estimated eight million policyholders in Canada for nearly $39 billion of protection at the start of this year.

The payment of benefits continued at a record pace in 1958, the Fact Book discloses, with $463 million being paid to Canadian families through their life insurance and annuity programs. Of this total $164 million was paid in death benefits and the rest — nearly two-thirds of the total — went to living policyholders in the form of matured endowments, annuities, disability payments, policy dividends and cash values.

No Major Fires During October

TRENTON — There were no major fires in the Trenton area during the month of October. One fire causing damage estimated at $3,720 was reported on the monthly summary of the fire department activities, compiled by Fire Chief Cecil Ellis, and read at the regular meeting of town council Monday night.

Three car fires were reported, one of which resulted in the total loss of the vehicle involved. Two oil burners flared out of control and were subdued by members of the department. Two shacks burned within the limits of the municipality; one TV set caught on fire; two calls were received for fires which had started in electrical equipment wiring; one oil furnace caused the housekeeper to call the department and the other calls made were of minor significance.

Miss Jean Mooney of the forces established a mutual aid meeting in Frankford. There were no mutual aid answers.

One emergency call was answered in true the head of a small boy from the iron hand rail at the Belle Telephone Company's building on Division St.

In connection with Fire Prevention Week, all factories, stores, Trenton Memorial Hospital, Pauda Villa Rest Home for Elderly People, garages and service stations, several residences, where the owners had requested inspection and all Trenton schools were checked for fire hazards by the chief and members of his staff. In the case of the schools, fire exit drills were carried out. The Trenton Community Gardens building was also inspected thoroughly.

Films were shown and lectures given on the subject or fire prevention and emergency measures to all school children, the Trenton Business and Professional Women's Club and to members of the Hydro Electric Power Commission. Grade 3 pupils of College St. School were shown through the fire hall and given instruction in fire prevention.

Fire Chief Ellis stated that in the current series of inspections he had been impressed by the improvement in all cases concerning the removal of possible fire hazards.

Exhaustion of Housing Loan Fund to Have Little Effect On Building Activity in Area

Exhaustion of the Federal Government's billion dollar housing loan fund as announced late last week will have little effect on home building activity in the Belleville area, a survey of local realtors has indicated.

The general feeling is that applications for most home building planned for the Belleville area this year have already been processed by the department and that these applications would be honored.

One realtor even went so far as to say that cancellation of future loan was actually a good thing as with unrestricted building there was a possibility of flooding the market with homes for which there might be no sale.

I think the government had its fingertips on the situation," this realtor concluded.

Most realtors felt sufficient loans applications had been processed before the cancellation order to put local builders through the winter months with much cut-back in construction. The general feeling is that local conditions preclude digging of basements during the winter months and any houses planned for winter construction would likely be have to be built while in the next month in any event.

City building inspector Grant Stickle also felt the department's action in cancelling housing loans for the balance of the year would have little effect locally.

PAYMENTS DUG

Payments dug for construction this year already have payments due and foundations in ready for construction this winter.

Construction in the city this year has been the greatest in the city's history, noted Mr. Stickle, who stated total building for the year will be closer enough to nearly $3,000,000. This had resulted almost entirely to annexation of township area last winter," he said.

A total of 35 building permits were issued during the month of October, the month's total of $329,410, including $234,600 for residential construction and $94,800 for institutional building.

Group Captain Gerard J. Edwards, DFC, CD; Chief Staff Officer, Operations, Air Transport Command Headquarters, Trenton, recently received his promotion to his rank from Wing Commander. Group Captain Edwards joined the RCAF in 1940, was transferred overseas in 1943 and won the Distinguished Flying Cross in that year while flying with the 428 Heavy Bomber Squadron. In 1944 he was named officer in command of this squadron.

Returning to Canada in 1945 he has served in the airforce in a number of administrative positions including that of senior administrative officer at Eastern Air Command, headquarters in Halifax, and at RCAF headquarters in Ottawa. Group Captain Edwards was also selected for exchange staff duties at United States airforce headquarters in Washington.

For the past two years he has been on the operational staff at RAF Staff College, Bracknell, England, before taking over his present position at Trenton.

Crews are Busy Preparing for Winter Season

The road crews of the Belleville Public Works department are starting work on asphalting the cross-overs along the dual highway east of town at the Parley Avenue, Bredgate Road, and Herchimer Avenue intersections. It is expected that this work will be completed in the near future and will eliminate several nasty crossings.

The footpath from Hunewood to Herchimer and from Victoria to Smith's Crescent is receiving a stone surface this week.

General maintenance is also being carried out by a number of crews. The catch basins and sewers are being cleaned and road grading and stoning is also being carried on.

A number of new sewer connections are being installed in the new subdivisions and two principal installations are being made at Bellevile Collegiate Church Street and at St. Joseph's School on Bridge Street East.

The city's two street sweepers have been in operation all over the past while and during the rest of the week, crews will be cleaning up leaves from the streets and sidewalks around the city.

Anglican Women Told of Need To Aid Retarded

TRENTON — At the monthly meeting of the Anglican Women's Auxiliary Year, held in Trenton last week, the guest speaker, Mrs. K. J. (Bobby) Reid told of the special needs of the local branch of the Retarded Children's Association, which will be formed at a public meeting of the association to be held in St. Peter's School auditorium tonight at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Reid stated that there is a need for volunteer canvassers for the 1960 campaign which will be conducted November 15-26. The funds collected will be used locally. In a very short time, classroom facilities will have to be provided to accommodate the children from Trenton and area. A more adequate means of transportation will have to be found for the children attending the school, and additional teaching staff secured.

The speaker pointed out that for every 100,000 persons across the dominion, there are twice as many retarded children as in the combined groups of children afflicted by blindness, permanent disability due to polio and cerebral palsy and rheumatic heart conditions. A certain number of these children, who cannot be helped, but a large number are capable of being trained and educated to the degree where they could lead happy useful lives within the happy useful lives within the community. Mrs. Reid urged community minded citizens to attend the public meeting and acquaint themselves with the plans of the local association.

Those Four-way Blinkers

A Belleville resident telephoned the other day to say that he thought the motoring public needed a few explanations regarding what was expected of car drivers when they drive up to the four-way red blinker lights at the intersections of Victoria Avenue and Bleecker and Bridge Street and Bleecker.

We heartily agreed.

He said that he travels a lot and that he had been impressed by the smooth way in which traffic flows through a similar four-way blinker on Queen Street in Kingston.

We emphatically disagreed.

Our first introduction to the four-way red blinker was at that Queen Street crossing. We drove up to the red light and stopped. A car approached the intersection from the right—and stopped. We waited. The other car waited. "Why doesn't the fool go ahead?" we fumed. "He has the yellow light." We waited. He waited. We started. He stopped. He stopped. It was not until much later that we learned there was a red, and not an amber, light on the other street and that our antagonist had, in all probability, been muttering "Why doesn't the fool go ahead? He's got the amber light."

Relating this to our telephone caller, we suggested that there ought to be some sign to tell motorists that these two-pay red blinker lights are four-way stops. There was ready agreement on this point.

Not so easy was the question of how to proceed after stopping. Our caller thought that cars should take their turn in crossing, first come first served. This, though, could get a bit involved when an intersection is as busy as a barber shop at 5 p.m. Friday—with nobody calling "Next!" Moreover, there is the possibility that the law would not uphold this first-come first-served principle. There is that business about the car on the right having the right-of-way. Of course, if four cars arrive at the intersection, each from a different direction, at approximately the same time, there is a car on the right of every car. We then reach that condition which, it is said, appertains at a certain railway crossing in France, where regulations provide that if two trains approach the crossing at the same time both must stop, and neither can proceed until the other has departed.

Same Old Story

In Toronto a coroner's jury investigating the death of seven-year-old Robert Cottress has urged that car manufacturers stop putting painted ornaments on car hoods.

Robert was fatally injured when a hood ornament drove into his back as he was hit by a car.

Our partnership with coroner's juries on this issue not having been dissolved, we now face the task of reiterating, once again, that coroners have no cars dominant infections that resist treatment. Instead, they have to be-come one of the most unsafe places to be, in terms of in'ec-tions. A new born baby is much safer being delivered at home than in a modern hospital ward.

In our Utopian seal for medical development, we lose sight of the fact that all men are meant to die, and that we did from illness of one form or another. The mere prolongation of life it is pointless if it merely adds to the intolerable burden upon society to support millions of ailing and helpless people.

If you imagine I am speaking as an irresponsible layman, let me con'ess that this column is a paraphrase of a lecture delivered at the Massachusetts General Hospital by Prof. Rene Dubos, the distinguished bacteriologist of the Rockefeller Institute, and that it may be found in the current book, "Mirage of Health."

It is pretty generally believed that we pour so much money into health endeavours, but we must first expend a like sum in improvement in the fabric of society un-til we are willing to devote an equivalent amount of time and energy to the unravelling of our emotional lives, the development of our spiritual lives, and the sharpening of our intellectual lives.

No TV For South Africa

There will be no TV for South Africa.

Dr. Albert Hertzog, minister of posts and telegraphs, has decided that the game isn't worth the candle. The "many moral harms and dangers" con-nected with TV are too great a hazard.

Not that TV is dangerous for everyone. Naturally the stout moral character of the white Afrikaaner is immune to the TV virus. But "the effect of wrong shows on children, less developed people, and other races (other than white) can be destructive."

Dr. Hertzog evidently has a Victorian view about child raising. Children should be seen and not heard, spare the rod and spoil the child, and that sort of thing. The Afrikaaners are doing an excellent job of putting theory into practice, if not with their own children then with the Bantus.

GOOD WORLD STILL

By EDGAR A. GUEST

hough now and then a man shoots down
Another's wife in bitter hate, nd thieves may prowl about the town
To rob and kill a man out late, hough women whom we once thought fair
Occasionally turn out bad, here is no reason, I declare,
For decent people being sad.

here are more women good than bad,
More honest men than thieves nd every day
ee happy marriages than sad,
Where smile than glum and angry looks,
are patient, sweet, devoted wives

Than those who stoop to folly's way.
There are more decent, noble lives
Than worthless ones on earth today.
Vice isn't running rampant
Sin isn't stamping virtue out
The world is not becoming drear
Though rascals freely walk about.
Good wives and mothers
Good fathers and good husbands, too,
Still live to make this old world fair—
The evil doers are but few.

Historic Hastings

The Last of the Gold Rush

ARTICLE 96

(Contributed by members of Hastings County Historical Society)

Although the Richardson gold mines at Eldorado proved unprofitable and soon ceased operation, the discovery caused a substantial gold rush to the surrounding areas.

A number of small gold mines were subsequently established in southeastern Ontario. Among these were the Madoc, Gilmour, Cordova, Williams, Golden Fleece and Hawkeye mines.

Further evidence of the gold fever is found in a "Geological Map of the Madoc Gold Region" published in 1866 by Henry Pellatt, a public land surveyor. A copy of this map (or-iginally drawn by Alfred A. Campbell of Belleville, inspector in the Madoc Gold Mining Division) was recently shown to the writer by Belleville surveyor Tom Ransom.

This interesting map, which covers the area from Stirling to Tudor township, shows the location of gold claims that had been made between August 14 and 25 in the concession, and Elsevir township, lot 8 in the 1st concession, and lot 4 in the 2nd concession.

While had not had time to check and see if gold actually did exist at these locations. The demand for such a map was apparently so great that time could not be taken.

Areas identified as positive sources of gold include Madoc township, lot 3 in the 5th concession, and lot 4 in the 6th concession.

In addition to locating known and alleged deposits of gold, this map also contained the locations of many other minerals and rock formations in the Central Hastings area.

Moreover, it attempted to describe the type of rock structure that is the favorable gold-bearing section of country" so as to be of assistance to prospectors searching for other minerals.

That the gold rush was not forgotten in this section of the country is shown by Belleton's Historical Atlas of Hastings County, published in 1878.

The first page of that valued reference work is largely devoted to the discovery of gold here, and the gold discoveries. This atlas noted that the Fiegel mine was "the most valuable of Mc-Mora township had yielded "a large amount of valuable ore and the precious metal" under Mr. McCrae's management.

Mining activity there is still going on in the ninth concession of Madoc. Only a few days ago flame mine and the Galling property have turned out some ore that yielded a few ounces of gold. More capital seems to be the only requisite to develop these mines and find the true value of the properties.

In 1866 the township east of Madoc, there are several veins of fine free gold. At Bridgewater gold was also found, and the Hon. Billa Flint is credited with one day's find in Hungerford more gold was discovered, and a further mine exists at Tudor."

And so ends our attempt to relive the days of the Madoc gold rush, the days when excitement and dreams of fabulous wealth went hand in hand, as when Belleville was known as the "Golden Gateway."

Medical Research Is No Cure-All

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Every man in his 40s is openly or secretly frightened of a heart attack, not because he has any known heart weakness, but because so many of his friends have succumbed to coronaries in the last few years.

While contagious diseases, and other dread killers of the past, have been brought under control by medical science, heart disease, hypertension, and certain kinds of cancer are increasing enormously in our generation.

As a result, we are not Utopian about politics, or about society generally but I find that we are very Utopian about our "medical research." We really think that sooner or later we will probably sooner — mankind will be able to cure or cure most human ailments.

But the wisest students of medicine are not so sure. Many of them are full of optimism. They have learned that at some disease or is knocked out, others rise to take their place. A changed environment, and new varieties of stress, produce different medical patterns, not necessarily improved ones.

We have, in our time, sharply decreased the infant mortality rate, so that more people are living longer — which means that more people are succumbing to those ailments peculiar to advanced age.

In our treatment of infections, we have every eliminated many of-ctures that were once outrageous; but we have, at the same time, developed new and virulent infections that resist treatment. Instead of having to be-come one of the most unsafe places to be, in terms of in'ec-tions, a new born baby is much safer being delivered at home than in a modern hospital ward.

In our Utopian zeal for medical development, we lose sight of the fact that all men are meant to die, and that we did from illness of one form or another. The mere prolongation of life it is pointless if it merely adds to the intolerable burden upon society to support millions of ailing and helpless people.

If you imagine I am speaking as an irresponsible layman, let me con'ess that this column is a paraphrase of a lecture delivered at the Massachusetts General Hospital by Prof. Rene Dubos, the distinguished bacteriologist of the Rockefeller Institute, and that it may be found in the current book, "Mirage of Health."

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

TRISKAIDEKAPHOBIA

Bet you don't know what the word means. It's a new word, less than twenty years old. It means fear of the number thirteen.

It would be hard to say how the morbid fear of that number got started. Perhaps it was because there were and are thirteen steps to your heavenly gal-lows. If the proposed new calendar is ever adopted, every thirteenth of the month will come on Friday. Then get ready to build bigger sanitariums. It will be really worth all an educational career costs a parent if he can just be sure his son will be a psychiatrist. Trade along that line will be brisk.

I have a friend who will go around the block, doors locked, or sometimes oftener, in order that a number called "thirteen" be avoided. He wouldn't take a salt cellar out of your hand for anyamount of money. You must lay it down and he will pick it up. It is a favored province in our town used to touch a certain number of pickets when he passed them. Sir Walter Raleigh stepped over all the cracks in the sidewalk because his mother told the acknowledged world authority on the subject that it was unlucky and he and two other men knew what it was all about.

Many a superstitious custom which really wearies and blights and has at its root a "God bless you" when somebody sneezed. Linking the Almighty's name to a silly phobia is just about the limit.

Right here I write me and tell me of the wholesome and reasonable things that we do not know — and I still think it's time to be superstitious and to parrot "God bless you" or "Gesundheit."

War technique has been difficult on the Western Front from what it was on the Polish Front. Reports now know that the Western campaign is the direct result of Hitler's attempt to crush the liberty of a free state by resort to arms rather than by submission of the question to arbitration over differences with Poland. Just Hitler's air force has made no great effort when one considers the number of planes which he is credited with having. But the submarine war goes on, as this both sides are accustomed, even have increased in the former war, but today they would not know what wholesale bombing would mean. Some observers see that Hitler is leading to the launching his boasted fury on British because he has no doubt a wholesome fear of the retaliation that might be visited delivered by the German military centres on conscientious objectors.

Man Is Weak Link in Air

Brockville Recorder and Times

An American Air Force official, Major-General Joseph D. Caldara, USAF deputy inspector-general for safety, has revealed the fact that since 1950 the USAF has lost 3,471 pilots and 7,061 planes in accidents. This figure, in planes lost, totals a larger air force than that possessed by any country in the world except Russia. The figure seems startlingly high for less than a decade of peace-time flying.

Yet the public must realize that the price for progress in flying, the development of better pilots and better and faster planes, must often be paid in this fatal manner. Many improvements are surging ahead so rapidly that the human factor, the accidental limitations of the pilots themselves, is fast becoming the weakest link in the chain of aerial progress.

Much developments seem to lead truth to the prediction that the majority of military planes in the near future will be pilotless planes, operated by ground control.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

LOSS OF EXCESS WEIGHT MAKES FOR LONGER LIFE

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am 35 and recently had a checkup. Breakfast does not appeal to me and I told my doctor so. He directed me to eat breakfast every day and to lose 20 pounds. He admitted that my physical condition was excellent. I can see no reason to make these changes as I am in excellent shape. What is your opinion? — Miss E. T."

If you are 20 pounds overweight, madam, your shape can be improved. Further, I don't think your doctor talks just to hear himself talk. He's glad you are in "excellent shape," as at 35 you ought to be. He wants you to be that way at 55 and 75 and maybe 95. You don't have to take a bag of gravel at breakfast: Juice or fruit, an egg, cereal, toast. If you give your body some vitamin, mineral and proteins that will be useful and you're retarding slightly (not enough) your taste at lunch and dinner for too much fat and starch. Your doctor makes sense. Try to understand what he means.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My son is 12 years old and has varicose veins. I am wondering if we could do something for him without having the veins stripped" — H. H."

Varicose veins do occur in young people and they aren't common. Has the lad's case been diagnosed by a doctor or are you worrying yourself unduly just because a leg vein is prominent?

A prominent vein is not necessarily varicose. Just because a vein happens to "pop up" in the leg, arm, back of the hand, etc., it doesn't mean that it's anything wrong with it.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have had a thickening of the left breast for a number of years. I am informed that a lump as large as a pea has developed in the uterus and have been told to go to the hospital for an operation, or it doesn't grow any larger, then I should wait. Are there any thoughts turn to cancer with both of these. I would like your opinion. — Mrs. H. L."

A good slogan in regard to cancer is, "Don't just worry about it — do something."

I think you are doing something with your regular check-ups. Every good doctor think a more frequent checking for cancer is necessary. I trust he'll tell you so if you're troubled that way. Your (physician) sometimes put too much stress on the "dragged out hint." Perhaps to be on the safe side, we ought to be a little less subtle and say, "I am sure you ought to come in every six or nine weeks for a checkup and open to the suspicion that we are merely "trying to make more business." It isn't so — so go!!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

"Where's the Ukraine?" asks lawyer friend asked me.

"Why, it was a part of Russia," I replied.

"Yes, but where about?"

"Well, it's the other side of Poland, up around ..er..."

"Is it where there are lines of filled on the wall of which was newly framed a large bright five by three map of Europe.

"Look: here's Dover, England." I began, putting my finger on it. "And here, one thousand, one hundred miles due east, is the capital city of the Ukraine."

The Ukraine is on the upper left of the map, in which side is on the lower side of the Black Sea.

I detected the lawyer's gaze on me as my eye roved, in some astonishment, from Ireland to Europe, showing where Hungary, turkey crop in the middle, much handier than I had realized; and Poland, a huge s'area squashed between Erst Germany and Russia on the sides, the Baltic states on top and Romania on the bottom.

"Now that we are getting to many points on Europe," I told the lawyer, "I think we Canadians ought to familiarize ourselves with the map of Europe. In the past, we have thought of Europe as being the Empire, by France, Italy, the near side of Germany, the rest, just a vague hinterland."

The multitudinous of our many new fellow-citizens are from countries than our schoolchave taught us to perceive. The vague hinterland should now be farther east.

Reform Golf For Lazy Man

Memphis, Commercial Appeal

Golf, as we first remember it, was a game played for exercise. The average player was only a few clubs, including a niblick, a mashie, a putter, a midiron, brassie and driver. Most of the players in our set used a brassie as a driver for economy's sake. We walked from tee to green and on all 18 holes. Many of us "toted" our own bags.

These days, we hear, electric carts are available to watch the golfer rides from one shot to another, and many golfers who would not dub one just a few inches or feet. Now, so we are told, golf is to be made still more mechanically sets a tee at any one of seven heights in any sort of soil so that the player does not even have to bend over. We started out making our own tee from a little bit of moist sand.

We fully expect that it will not be long until somebody invents a machine that will automatically swing the club in perfect arc to hit the ball that the player has automatically set on the tee without getting out of his electric cart. It will not questionably be reasonably interesting, but should it be called golf?

MEANINGS

Behind every worthwhile action, or enterprise, are silent meanings. They are what stir us to think and to speculate on ideas and mental discoveries. Life should be rich in plans and meanings. Initiative is what keeps feeding the world, and it was given to character its enduring foundation.

Nature has scattered seeds of meanings all over the world, and happily has stimulated the best man to search and discover. What is the meaning of so many perfect and beautiful designs? Why did Canada select the maple leaf as a national symbol? And why the Rose, and Stripes? How full of meaning both of them!

In the snowflake an angel message from the stars, and why the white cloud lily from a nest in the mud?

How wonderful the colors and formations in Nature! Take the smallest, perfectly created flower of the field, and what a lesson it is! Or the tiniest seed, and how full of meanings. Take the acorn

Keynotes Quartet Wins Novice Award at District Contest

All are proud of Belleville Keynotes Quartet who won the Novice Quartet award at the Ontario District Contest held in Ottawa this past weekend. The Escord Quartet from Toronto won the district championship. This was their third year of competition singing. The Four Gents' Quartet from London placed second in the district competition. They won the Novice Quartet award last year.

The Keynotes were among the five finalists of the 11 quartets competing for the district championship.

The Novice Quartets are those who have never before appeared in a district contest. Quartets competition is specialized with an intricate system of marking by five judges. Each judge covers one of the five categories of arrangement, balance and blend, harmony and accuracy, interpretation and stage presence. The Keynotes, who did exceptionally well with profit greatly from their experience.

CHOR'S CONTEST

The Regional Chorus Contest with six district choruses competing was won by the East York Chapter Chorus of appropriately so called, directed by George Shields. This chorus will represent the Ontario District at the International Contest to be held at Dallas, Texas, in June. The second place chorus award went to the Men Of Accord Chorus from London directed by Greg Backwell.

BELLEVILLE GROUP

The group from Belleville with its attendant fine convention and contest were Archie Murdoch, Ted Dynamo, Keith Chambers, Keith Lee, Ross Schryver (official delegate) and Bob Seymour. Special Chorus composed of John Kup, bass; Don Sexsmith, baritone; Alec Burns, lead, and Phil Squire, tenor. These were also five members of the local chapter of the "Sweet Adelines" who made the trip. All returned with high praise of the Ottawa Chapter for its excellent organization of the annual event.

Two weeks ago the Belleville Chorus and the Keynotes Quartet had the pleasure of putting on a 45 minute program of song for the residents of the County Home. They were an appreciative audience and all are looking forward to visiting them again.

The next chapter project will be a show for a "Masonic Ladies' Night" in Trenton, near the end of November. Tomorrow night rehearsal will be getting down to work in earnest for this project.

Alec Burns is chairman of the annual "Harmony Night" which will be held on April 7, 1960. John Kup is working on the selection of quartets for this show, and all hope to be able to announce soon who the headline quartet will be.

Plans for an "interchapter Night Out" to be held in Belleville are being formulated. This will include Belleville Limestone Chapter, Oshawa City Chapter, Motor City Chapter and the Belleville boys. This evening will be featured by contest of non-competitive quartets from the four chapters.

The next meeting, as usual, will be at St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Church tomorrow evening at 8:30 p.m. An invitation to any men in the district who like to sing or to listen to Barbershop harmony.

Brewery Head Rebuked in Court For His Answers

TORONTO (CP) — A former Hamilton brewery head was rebuked in the Ontario Supreme Court Monday by Chief Justice J. C. McRuer for his answers while testifying at the trial of Canadian Breweries Limited on a combines charge.

Arthur Peller of Ancaster, former head of the Peller Brewing Company in Hamilton, was asked what caused the breakup of the Ontario Brewers' Association in the fall of 1950.

Mr. Peller said he believed it was due to a misunderstanding between Canadian Breweries and John Labatt Limited. When asked what caused the misunderstanding, he laughed and said it was just over who had said what, and who did what about establishing a price for beer or getting prices approved.

WITNESS REPROIMANDED

"You are trying to be clear as mud," reproached the chief justice. "You are treating it as a bit of a joke. There is no joke."

Mr. Peller said he was telling the truth and was not treating his testimony as a joke. He said that to the best of his knowledge the misunderstanding between Canadian Breweries and Labatt's was over asking the Liquor Control Board of Ontario to approve a price.

He said that evidently Labatt's took a stand that prices to hotelmen were too high and broke away from a price that had been approved by the board in September, 1950.

Canadian Breweries has been charged with having formed or operated a combine by trust, merger or monopoly that operated or was likely to operate to the detriment of or against the public interest.

GOOD OFF IN 1953

Canadian Breweries bought out Peller Brewing in 1953, after Peller's had been in operation seven years.

Mr. Peller said he sold out because "some directors sold stock behind my back" and because he lost control of preferred shares acquired by Canadian Breweries.

Another witness, R. W. Hillmer, president and managing director of Brewers' Warehousing Company Limited, was excused from further testimony until today after the court was told he had a migraine headache.

At the morning session he was asked by the chief justice why the United States brewers did not set up stores in Ontario for distribution of their products.

Mr. Hillmer said "we are recognized by the Liquor Control Board and the Ontario government as their agents in the distribution and sale of beer."

Chief Justice McRuer said he couldn't understand why Mr. Hillmer said the company is recognized by the government as the only distributing agent.

ASKS BERING STUDY

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—Governor William A. Egan of Alaska has asked the federal government to consider a joint study with Russia in determining the feasibility and merit of a proposed dam across the Bering Strait. A Russian engineer, Academy Borisov, said recently that such a dam would change the climate of the Arctic and convert frozen land in northern Siberia, Alaska and Canada into fertile fields.

Sweeps Winner Of $140,000 Has Had Real Fling

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — George Brown, a 75-year-old pensioner who won $140,000 last week in the Irish Sweepstake Sweepstake, came out of hiding Monday feeling just a little bit sorry, for himself.

George disappeared on a celebration bender with his old skid road pals when he learned of his big win last Wednesday.

"And I'm paying for it now," muttered the former logger, holding his head and looking at the piles of empty beer and gin bottles stacked in the kitchen of a friend's room in the building where he lived.

"I've had my fun and I've got to sober up," he said. "It's too much—$140,000. What's an old man like me going to do with all that?"

"I'd have been much happier with only about $12,000."

Then he grinned.

"Man, I sure have. I've already gone through a couple of hundred. I got an advance on my ticket from Telford."

George shakily lit a crumpled cigaret and removed his hat to stroke his bald head.

"The money's not going to make any difference to me. I've lived alone and kept to myself all my life. I'm too old to change now.

"What do I want to move from here for? he asked, referring to the room with the window that he rents for $12 a month in a dingy rooming-house. "I'm quite happy."

The tall, rambling Scotsman said he'll probably put about $20,000 of the money in the bank and "give the rest away to friends who've helped me or would be if they have been tough."

George started his giveaway program Saturday by taking his old friend Vic Fairfield to get fitted for a new suit.

"We went to the best tailor in town," beamed Vic. "George said to me, 'get anything you want'."

The two elderly men were fitted with $153 suits Then they went back to skid road to continue the celebration.

"George was buying drinks for everyone," said Vic. "We toured all the old places and sat right in the middle of the rooms so his friends would see us when they came in.

"He even gave one guy $10 to buy a packet of cigarets.

"He's already started paying off his friends and he hasn't even got the money yet . . . no, not paying off debts — George doesn't owe a penny to anyone—he's paying them off for helping him when he needed it."

George has already been swamped with mail from banks investment houses, and people asking for money.

One letter was from a 63-year-old Kelowna, B. C. woman who said she owns her own home and if he's interested, she'll send her photograph.

"I am not interested in any women," said George. "I've never been married because I've never been in love, and I'm too old to start now."

CHECK TOWNSHIP BOOKS

TORONTO (CP) — The department of municipal affairs is going to take a close look at the financial affairs of East York, a Toronto suburb, it was learned Monday. A department audited is to inspect the township's books immediately, government sources said.

Professors Fear Monopoly in Communications

OTTAWA (CP)—Two University of Toronto professors expressed their alarm Monday at what they described as "concentration of ownership and the growth of monopoly in the vital field of communications."

Professors Donald Creighton and Percy Ford asked the Board of Broadcast Governors to help check this tendency toward concentration by turning down television-licence applicants who already have interests in newspapers or radio stations.

They submitted a joint brief to the BBG hearing on proposed television regulations. Said the professors:

"Control by fewer and fewer individuals of the media of communication is not salutary for democracy, and if those in control are of limited stature—it can be an adverse effect upon the moral tone of an entire society."

TWO BRIEFS

Earlier Prof. Creighton presented another brief on behalf of the Canadian Broadcasting League of which he is chairman, and which whole-heartedly supported the BBG's proposed TV regulations.

He made clear that the second brief submitted by himself and Prof. Fox represented their own personal views "alone." Meanwhile, the actual number of newspapers published in Canada in the last 50 years had declined by one-third while the Canadian population had doubled.

MUCH INTERLOCKING

This had been accompanied by considerable interlocking of ownership between newspapers and broadcasting, both in radio and television.

Carlyle Allison, full-time BBG member, asked Prof. Creighton whether he was aware that a good deal of local autonomy exists for individual newspapers in a publishing group.

Prof. Creighton said he is aware of that. Prof. Fox added, however, that he is "not as convinced as Mr. Allison about the autonomy in some chains."

Prof. Brief said at one point: "We do not hesitate to say that judged by their past performances in radio broadcasting and publishing, some of the applicants for licences have given no indication of their fitness to be entrusted with the administration of a public asset."

Gas Must Be Surplus Before Export Allowed

OTTAWA (CP) — Electricity or natural gas must be proved surplus to Canadian requirements before it can be exported to the United States.

This is a key requirement in export licence regulations listed Monday by the government as it brought the National Energy Board into force. Regulations also are laid down for import of natural gas.

Proclamation of the act, passed at Parliament's last session, gives formal status to the National Energy Board, headed by Ian N. McKinnon, Q.C.

The regulations give the cabinet veto power—requiring cabinet approval before any licence granted by the board becomes effective.

Export of propane or butane gas by any means other than pipeline is exempt from the licensing requirements.

Applicants for gas export permits must provide, among other things, detailed information about pipeline facilities, engineering courses, physical arrangements—including pipe lines design and capacity — costs and provincial authorization.

Applicants for power exports must produce similar data and

TO THE CITIZENS OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE:

RE: SUPREME COURT ACTION—Certain Belleville Manufacturers suing on behalf of themselves and all persons liable during 1957, 1958 or the first six months of 1959, or presently liable for payment of Municipal Property Taxes in the Corporation of the City of Belleville

—and—

THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE, Gerald Hyde, Ralph Graham, Frank Grandame, Claude D. Tice, William Argue, George Wishart, Robert Temple, Jack Ellis, Walter T. Elliott, Effie McCabe, Robertson Collins, Drury Denyes, Donald Whalen, John Ireland, Benjamin Safe, Leslie Digby, Bank of Montreal and F. A. R. McFadden & Co.

This letter is directed to the citizens of Belleville upon the question of the presently outstanding lawsuit launched some time ago on their behalf. Such a lawsuit is generally known as a rate payer's action.

Because of the considerable rumor and discussion about this action, it is important that the reasons for it and the views of the Manufacturers' Section of the Chamber of Commerce be made clear.

Nothing in this letter is to be considered as an attempt to trespass upon those matters which are presently before His Honor Judge Willmott as Royal Commissioner.

Further, it should be emphasized that many members of this Section have personal relationships and friendships with various members of Council just as most Belleville citizens have.

EVENTS, MAY - OCTOBER, 1959

★ Certain limited disclosures made as to City finances.

★ July 3rd, 1959. This Section wrote The Honorable W. K. Warrender, Q.C., Attorney General, asking for the early initiation of a Commission to investigate all aspects of Belleville's finances.

★ This letter took opinion of counsel and wrote Mayor Hyde pointing out wisdom of an action being commenced by the City against all who might be responsible for any sums misapplied, with particular reference to the possibility that if action were not commenced it might be lost due to the expiration of the six months' limitation period under the Public Authorities Protection Act.

★ Further correspondence between this Section and Mayor Hyde and between Malcolm Robb, Q.C., counsel for this Section and R. A. Pringle, Q.C., City Solicitor.

★ It being apparent that the City is not commencing lawsuit as urged by this Section, institution of above action on behalf of Belleville tax payers to prevent the right to take action being lost under Public Authorities Protection Act.

THE MANUFACTURERS' SECTION OF THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WISHES TO EMPHASIZE AS STRONGLY AS POSSIBLE THAT ITS VIEW IS THAT A LAWSUIT FOR RECOVERY OF MONIES SHOULD BE RUN, NOT BY 'SOME MANUFACTURERS', BUT RATHER BY THE CORPORATION OF THE CITY OF BELLEVILLE.

The City of Belleville is a corporate body, the sole function of which is to protect and advance the interests of its tax payers.

There has been much mention that three possible defendants are omitted from the 'manufacturers' action'. This occurred by reason of oversight and this is itself points out very clearly why the plaintiff should be the Corporation of the City of Belleville rather than any group of rate payers.

It has been suggested that it is very unlikely that the mayor and aldermen might have the City start a lawsuit in which they themselves might well be defendants. However, we think it will be agreed by all, including the mayor and aldermen, that a member of City Council occupies a position of trust, and he represents the interests of the public. If the interests of the public are in conflict with his own personal interests, he should lean over backwards to ensure that the public interests do not suffer to protect his personal interests.

There is a very simple and obvious procedure which the Council can follow to make clear that the interests of the public are protected. The facts could be put before a competent and completely independent lawyer having no affiliations publicly or commercially in Belleville, for the purpose of obtaining answers to the following questions:

1. In your opinion, are there persons or corporations against whom judgment could be obtained by this City Council for the misapplication of its funds?
2. Who are such persons or corporations?

If the answers to these questions justify action, then action should be taken promptly against such persons or corporations as the opinion names.

We are aware that the effect of such a lawsuit would be considerable. However, if such a lawsuit is warranted, and no action is taken, the effect of such a decision must also be weighed. If substantial monies can be properly recovered from defendants (and some of them may not be city officials) then what possible excuse can there be for not taking proper steps to recover such monies?

This City probably will have to apply to the Municipal Board of Ontario for certain relief and, on such application, it would seem unlikely that the Municipal Board would grant the relief if it appeared that the City had not taken proper action to recover that which could be salvaged.

Every $28,000.00 so recovered would reduce municipal taxes by approximately 1 mill.

This Section has no interest to serve except that which is the interest of the tax payers of Belleville. It is well known that Belleville seeks industry. More industries in Belleville means more employment. In every instance in Belleville means more employment. In every instance where an industry is sought, Belleville competes with many other cities and towns having much to offer. It would appear unlikely that an industry would locate in Belleville if the tax rate is inordinately high.

We hope that this letter will make clear the action taken by this Section, its views as to the present lawsuit, and its views as to a lawsuit by the Corporation of the City of Belleville.

E. H. HALL,
Chairman on Behalf of the Manufacturers' Section of the Chamber of Commerce.

4-H CLUB

The meeting of Bethel - Zion 4-H Club was held on October 31, at the home of Rilla Carson.

A discussion led by Mrs. Tufts on how much meat to buy and the amount for an average serving. The members discussed how to store meat carefully and the number of days meat can be stored in refrigerator.

Mrs. Tufts cooked beef stew with dumplings. It made a tasty lunch for all the members.

The next meeting will be on November 7 at the home of Mrs. Earl Snider.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Smith Hillier are shown following their marriage in Foxboro United Church, Foxboro, Ontario. HILLIER — LaRUE

White baskets of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums adorned the altar and chancel rail in Foxboro United Church for a recent lovely fall wedding when Lenore Alice Irene LaRue, of Foxboro, Ontario, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence LaRue, became the bride of Gerald Smith Hillier, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hillier, of Arden, R. R. 1, Ontario. The Reverend H. F. Darke, pastor of the church, officiated.

Miss Marie Hollinger presided at the organ and accompanied Miss Reta Vincent, soloist, of Belleville, who sang the "Wedding Prayer", and "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiantly lovely in her white, floor-length bridal gown of nylon net over rayon taffeta, featuring a fitted bodice and full skirt. She wore a crown style headdress encrusted with seed pearls and sequins, embroidered nylon net veil, and carried a cascade of red roses.

Miss Beverly MacKenzie, of Carrying Place, was attired in blue with blue feathered hat, blue accessories, and carried a nosegay of white and tinted blue roses centred by a pink rose.

The reception, which followed the ceremony, was held at the bride's home which was adorned with pink and white streamers, white wedding bells, and nosegays of mauve and white 'mums for the occasion.

The bride's table was prettily appointed with white damask and centred by a three-tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom beneath an arch of white bells. Tall pink candles in crystal holders and cascading pink and white streamers added a lovely nuptial note.

Serving were the Misses Helen Kelly, of Foxboro; Helen Hendric, also of Foxboro, and Miss Mary Jane LaRue, of Kingston, Ontario.

The guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing a two-piece blue ensemble of blue lace over taffeta with smoky - rose accessories, and corsage of pink baby roses and fern. Assisting her in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, attired in a silver-toned grey gown with navy accessories, and corsage of pink baby roses.

For travelling to northern districts, the bride chose a royal blue dress with white and black accessories, and corsage of white 'mums.

Guests attended from Harlowe, Kingston, Consecon, Belleville, Cloyne, Toronto, Halloway, Shannonville, Oshawa, Arden, and Stirling.

A shower was held in honor of the bride at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kelly, with Miss Helen Kelly, Mrs. Don Harris as co-hostesses. The bride was the recipient of many lovely gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Hillier are residing at 21 Bridge St. West.

Shannonville W.A. Makes Farewell Gift

On October 21st the regular meeting of the "Women's Guild" Shannonville was held at the home of Mrs. B. Houston. The president opened the meeting.

Mrs. A. McKenzie took charge of the devotional with Psalm 106 being read responsively.

"God Be With You Till We Meet Again" was sung in favor of Miss Clarke, prior to her departure on a trip to England.

The next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. A. McKenzie on November 5th. Mrs. B. Cook in charge of the devotional and Mrs. T. Whittle of the program.

Plans were made for a pot-luck dinner to be held at Mrs. B. Houston's on November 20th to start at 12 noon until 2 p.m. Mrs. B. Cook, Mrs. A. McKenzie, Mrs. G. Johnston and Mrs. B. Houston to make up the menus. Further plans to be discussed at the next meeting.

Mrs. Wilson took charge of the program with some interesting readings by the following: "Strength for the Day" by Mrs. Spencer; "Is Satan a Devil?" by Gloria Whittle; "The Weather" by Mrs. Fitzgerald; "Don't Believe All That You Hear" by Mrs. Jim Kent.

PRESENTATION

A surprise presentation was made to Miss Gloria Whittle with Mrs. Fitzgerald reading a short address and Mrs. B. Houston presenting a toilet case containing several cosmetic products, for which Gloria thanked the members for the lovely gift and promised to write and tell them about her trip.

Mrs. Fitzgerald closed the meeting with prayer and thanked the hostess for opening her house.

A social half hour was spent by the members enjoying the refreshments served by Mrs. Houston.

Immunization Talk Given at Point Anne H-S

The first regular monthly meeting of the Point Anne Home and School Association was held recently in the school auditorium, Mrs. Hart, the president, called the meeting to order. Mrs. James Juby presided for the opening at the piano.

The regular business was dealt with and the treasurer, Mrs. Green, read her report.

Mrs. Horwood reported on the tuffies the Girl Guides are presenting to the school and Mrs. Hart reported that a bazaar will be held on November 17 with a bake sale and a euchre following.

Mrs. Hart introduced the guest speaker for the evening, Dr. James Nelles of Belleville, who explained the reasons why children receive so many immunizing needles and why the "booster" shots are necessary until a protecting them from Childhood diseases.

Mrs. Hart thanked Dr. Nelles.

Refreshments were served in the west room and a social half hour was spent.

Emancipation of Moslem Women Getting Under Way

By MORTON van DUYKE

PARIS (Reuters)—The emancipation of Moslem women is getting under way in North Africa. Most progress has been made in the last 10 years towards freeing women from the age-old prejudices and Moslem religious traditions by which they were bound than in all the centuries past.

One significant indication of the acceptance of this new - found freedom for women, found in North Africa today, is the appearance of more and more Moslem women without the traditional veils which have come to be regarded as symbols of social slavery.

But female emancipation goes deeper than that, at any rate in Tunisia and Morocco, where one of the main reforms concerns the polygamy permitted to Moslem men.

President Habib Bourguiba of Tunisia, who has done much for the emancipation of Tunisian women than anyone before in the country's history, dropped a bombshell on Tunisia's centuries of tradition on Aug. 10, 1956, when he banned polygamy.

Regulations governing the marriage status of women, although not as strict as those in Tunisia, also have been introduced in Morocco. Whereas Tunisian law forbids polygamy, Moroccan law merely advises against the practice.

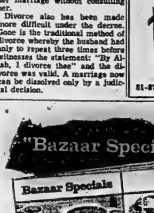
A leading figure in the movement to emancipate women from ancient social customs is Princess Lalla Aicha, the eldest daughter of King Mohammed V of Morocco, who has discarded the traditional veil as a symbol of the new freedom from binding customs.

"Discarding the veil is not important in itself," Princess Lalla Aicha once said. "What counts is that a woman has the right to wear a veil or not as she pleases."

Princess Lalla Aicha has gone even further. She wears two-piece swim suits on the beach and drives her own sports car.

In Algeria, where the emancipation of Moslem women has moved more slowly than in Tunisia and Morocco, great strides were taken last February when French President Charles de Gaulle signed a decree banning child marriages and granting Moslem women new social rights.

The decree sets the minimum age for marriage at 15 for the bride and 18 for the bridegroom.



For the first time, too, the free consent of the bride to the wedding is necessary. Previously, a bride's parents could negotiate her marriage without consulting her.

Divorce also has been made more difficult under the decree. Gone is the traditional method of divorce whereby the husband had only to repeat three times before witnesses the statement: "By Allah, I divorce thee" and the divorce was valid. A marriage now can be dissolved only by a judicial decision.

WOMAN DELEGATE — Mrs. Alene Holt, an alderman from Peterborough, Ont, is Canada's only woman delegate to the 14th General Assembly of the United Nations. The attractive blonde is shown with Constantin Stavropoulos, UN legal counsel, during a ceremony at UN headquarters in which Canada became the 18th country to ratify the convention on the nationality of married women. Mr. Stavropoulos receives Canada's instrument of ratification from Mrs. Holt. (CP Photo)

Mrs. Alene Holt, Alderman In Peterborough, Enjoying Session at United Nations

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Mrs. Alene Holt is not the type of blonde who gushes, but she's plenty enthusiastic about representing Canada at the United Nations.

"It's inspiring and just about the most exciting thing that could have happened to me," says Mrs. Holt, who's new to international debates but an experienced hand at municipal politics—an alderman, in fact, in Peterborough, Ont.

Canadian delegation of the 83-nation UN third committee, which deals with social, humanitarian and cultural matters, Mrs. Holt's initial task here dealt with a resolution defining the rights of children.

RICH EXPERIENCE

"When I first heard it was the 'social' committee, well, I thought it was only 'social' and that left me undismayed," she said after one meeting. "I've never cared much for social affairs, teas and the like, merely for the sake of social affairs.

"But this, of course, is something else again. I didn't realize what an experience it would be. I didn't know there was so much involved."

A couple of interested spectators for Mrs. Holt's first UN speech were her husband, Maurice, and her son, Conger, 15, who is named for his maternal grandfather, Ernest Conger, 84, a retired CPR employee now living in Peterborough.

As a mother, Mrs. Holt was particularly interested in attempts at bettering the lot of children around the world and hearing of their grinding hardship in some places. But even in this she soon found propaganda is involved.

"The Communists stress the role of the state. We say the state is important too but we stress the rights and duties of parenthood and voluntary assistance".

The attractive Mrs. Holt became Peterborough's first woman alderman in 1954. She's now city finance chairman and former chairman of the manufacturers' committee. She's president of the local Progressive Conservative Women's Association and has often campaigned for her party's candidates.

STUDIED VOICE

She gave up positions in various other organizations on entering municipal politics — all except the Canadian Cancer Society, of which she's an Ontario director.

"Cancer killed my mother so we'll always do what we can to fight it," she said. "I'm not a joiner, though. I work at anything I believe in."

Born Winifred Orr, Mrs. Holt studied voice and later voice, and is a member in voice of the Royal Conservatory of Music, formerly Toronto Conservatory.

"As a girl I dreamed a little of a musical career — and it wasn't until I was married and moved to Peterborough that I thought seriously of entering municipal politics. I was influenced a lot on the role women can play by the late senator Iva Fallis."

Mrs. Holt, a vivacious conversationalist, is much in demand at UN social functions—which she enjoys in moderation—but misses the golf and, in season, curling that help fill her spare hours at home.

"Aren't you going to ask what my husband thinks of all this?" she suddenly demanded with a flair of theatrical timing to impart good news.

Maurice, Peterborough manager of a finance company, and Alene will have been married 25 years next June—"but I'm not going to tell my age because a woman never does that."

HUSBAND HELPS

"He's proud that I'm at the UN and he's been a wonderful help in my campaigns. He's interested in politics himself although he never ran for office. We both like this sort of thing."

At intervals during the interview Mrs. Holt absent-mindedly reverted to being alderman and chaired the praises of Peterborough, "an expanding model city of nearly 48,000 people with a trade within a radius of 100 miles."

Peterborough's elections come early in December and Mrs. Holt plans to run in absentia because the UN will still be in session.

Fluffing out the skirt of her silk print dress, Mrs. Holt declared—a little primly: "I bought a lot of nice new things for the UN, enough them all in Peterborough, not New York. I'm very clothes conscious. I was advised a long time ago to stay feminine in all my interests, and I consider that most important."

Mrs. Holt finds some differences between political techniques in Peterborough and at the UN.

"In Peterborough there's none of this business behind the scenes," she said with a trace of severity. "We call that pressure. We try to keep everything above board."

QUESTION BOX

Question: When you are attending a party at any kind, is it permissible to go up to people whom you do not know (who obviously are strangers in a strange land) and introduce yourself? Is this being forward and rude?

Answer: It is entirely proper, and also extremely thoughtful gesture, to aid stranded strangers at any party. Aside from being a kindness, it is following the old rule that helps guests meet and automatically serves as an introduction.

Question: When next door neighbors, with whom you have been very friendly, unfortunately get divorced and move away, how do you keep the friendship you value, with both of them?

Answer: First, never take sides when seeing either one of them. Second, and most important, never ask them both to your home at the same time. The well-meant desire to help "patch things up" can, and probably will, result in a crazy quilt of unpleasantness for all concerned. Much better to ask each one (the other (separately) to any parties you may have, and let time take care of the future.

Question: What is the proper use for the little folded cards, known as "informals"? Sometimes they are plain and sometimes the name is engraved in the center of the outside.

Answer: These handy little cards are really substitutes for what used to be known as "correspondence cards," seldom seen today. They serve many purposes. Among them: for sending informal invitations, the invitation itself being written on the inside of the card; for replying to such an invitation; to enclose with a gift or when sending flowers; to write short notes to friends. Reminder: These cards should never be resorted to when issuing a formal invitation, or announcing an engagement.

Question: What do you do when you are asked to dinner at a specific day and at nine-thirty no food has yet put in an appearance? Cocktails, many of them, have been served, and everybody is beginning to bog down. Is there any way of tactfully suggesting to the hosts that it's time to eat?

Answer: This is an insidious habit that too many hosts have cultivated during recent years. It is inexcusable. At the very latest, dinner should be served one hour after the guests have arrived. If not, there is nothing a guest can do but sit it out, or go home. The latter procedure is perfectly proper and can be done graciously. At the same time, it may teach the hosts a lesson.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies.

Family F. — My wife won't apologize.

Sylvia F. — I can't go on being a hypocrite.

Frank F. — What is a man to do when he has a wife who is determined to speak her mind frankly to everyone — no matter whom she hurts?

In a recent family argument my wife said some harsh things to my sister-in-law. I think she was right in what she said, but she shouldn't have said it. As a result there is a terrible feud. We don't visit one another. We are losing touch with one another.

I have begged Sylvia to apologize or at least respond to the invitations my sister-in-law issues from time to time, but she is the most stubborn woman who ever lived. Does it pay to have a lifelong feud for no important reason?

Sylvia F. — My husband may think it is "no important reason," but it happens to be very important to me. My sister-in-law has hurt me many times in many ways and I have tried to overlook it, but I can't go on being a hypocrite.

I was willing to take it from that woman as long as she didn't interfere with my life. But when she had the nerve to criticize me to my husband for the way I manage my children I felt I had to tell her off in a way she would never forget.

I am not trying to keep my husband from seeing his brother. It he wants to. That's his business. But I won't apologize because I used a little bad language to a woman who has hurt me.

The Council: It's too bad Sylvia felt forced to use "a little bad language." She could so easily have kept herself entirely in the right by telling her sister-in-law in good language that she doesn't want her interference in her family affairs and that she certainly expects her to have the good taste and good sense not to criticize her to her husband.

However, that part of the damage is done, now the sister-in-law has shown that she doesn't want to perpetuate the feud. Her invitations are a clear enough indication that she is ready to call it quits.

When sisters-in-law feud the real sufferers are invariably the husbands. The women get certain satisfaction about being stirred up over something and over the various points they score in the campaign. The husbands are true to their loyalties. They must stand up for their wives, but this imposes a hardship with their brother.

It is nonsense for Sylvia to say she is not standing in the way of her husband's relationship with his brother. He cannot feel comfortable and happy about seeing his brother without her. It implies disloyalty to her. This forces Frank in an ugly position whatever he does.

It is difficult to be a hypocrite, to smile and behave pleasantly when one is seething with anger. We would, therefore, suggest that Sylvia try to do a more difficult but better thing — let love help her overcome her anger. Her apology for her husband is the only thing that can save her from this foolish, destructive feud.

Fall Salads

by Mary Moore

The present high cost of tomatoes and lettuce must not hamper your daily salad program.

Until the supply starts reaching our markets in volume and the price goes down, manage with look cabbage and celery and carrots and fruit, etc. that are available and reasonably priced.

SHREDDED CARROT SALAD:

(Herbie's Favorite). On the finest shredder, shred clean raw carrots — about 2 cups to serve 4. Chop finely chives or green onions to make 1 tablespoon and add moisten with mayonnaise or boiled dressing, sprinkle with a little salad tift and mix. Serve garnished with parsley on individual plates on a leaf of leaf lettuce if available.

CABBAGE AND PINEAPPLE (OR ORANGE OR APPLE) SALAD:

To serve 4, shred firm green cabbage — about 4 cups. (I use a Feemster shredder — but because it is razor-sharp always wear an old white glove.) Add 1 cup drained, pineapple cubed or cubed — or chopped unpeeled red apple or sections peeled orange or drained canned Mandarin oranges. Add about 1-2 cup boiled dressing or mayonnaise and if desired, 1-4 cup chopped celery or 1-2 teaspoon celery seeds. Toss. Sprinkle salt over top. Do not mix it in.

PEACH (OR PEAR) WINTER SALAD:

1 package lemon jelly powder, 2 cups hot water, 13 canned peach halves, 2 tbsp. lemon juice, 1-4 cup chopped walnuts, 1-2 cup chopped dates, 2 tbsp. chopped candied orange juice, French dressing.

Dissolve gelatine in 2 cups hot water and chill until almost firm. Drain peaches. Combine peanut butter, walnuts and dates with juices and mix well. Fill the peach cavity with a spoonful of this mixture, press half peach on top to reconstruct a whole peach. Put filled peach into individual mould. Fill moulds with gelatine, chill until firm, Unmould on lettuce. Serve with sweet French dressing. Serves 6.

NOTE:

If desired, pear halves may be used in place of peaches. Use fairly deep moulds or an 8 x 8 x 2" pan and cut in oblong servings.

NOTE 2:

If desired use hot strained peach juice instead of some hot water.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY

Chilled Mixed Vegetable Juice; Sloppy Joe Barbecued Beef Sandwiches (tasks sufficient Sloppy Joe mixture for Thursday's use Monday); Diced Carrots; Brussels Sprouts; Lemon Cake-Pie; Coffee.

WALDORF SALAD:

2 large dessert apples, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 cup julienned celery, 1-2 cup coarsely chopped walnuts (preferably freshly cracked), 1-4 cup mayonnaise, 1-4 cup boiled dressing.

Do not pare apples, cut in quarters and remove cores. Cut quarters into thin ... slices. Sprinkle with lemon juice. Chop celery, add to apples and toss. Cover and chill. Just before serving time, add nuts and combined mayonnaise and boiled dressing to mixture, and toss lightly. Pile lightly into lettuce cups on individual salad plates.

Mrs. M. S. Allen, of Toronto, Ontario, with her Inglis Royal pair

Why 136,969 Canadian housewives were glad to pay more for Inglis automatic washers and dryers

Inglis pioneered the manufacture of the automatic washer and dryer in Canada. They have concentrated on laundry equipment (and glass lined water heaters) ever since. The engineers at Inglis will tell you that they are interested in selling one thing only, when it comes to washers and dryers. Clean laundry, all done automatically!

This is exactly what you are assured of when you buy Inglis. It is perhaps the most important reason why (to date) 136,969 women were very happy to pay more to get Inglis. Now, you want to know the other reasons.

Let us join Mrs. Allen (above) as she uses her Inglis Royal pair. Notice that washer and dryer are identical in size and shape.

First, she selects the washing cycle that best suits the load she wants to wash. (Two of these ten cycles are Wash'n Wear actions that absolutely refuse to put wrinkles into wash and wear garments. The Inglis secret? As the wash water intermittently drains away, it is immediately replaced by cold water. This allows the garments to cool while in suspension; thus restoring the wrinkle resistance of the fabric). Having selected the correct button, Mrs. Allen puts in her soap or detergent and switches the washer on. This is what happens. The washer fills to the proper level at the proper water temperature for the type of fabric in the machine. Then, it selects the right washing speed (this is very important), the exact time needed to do the wash, the correct rinse water temperature, and the proper, safe spin-dry speed. This is all done automatically.

The Inglis Royal even has a water selector that saves water on partial loads by using just the amount of water needed for the size of the wash.

The moment Mrs. Allen switches on her Royal, the "Sani-Sun" germicidal lamp comes on. This remarkable device helps destroy common germs while it gives the clothes a sweet, fresh air fragrance. At the same time, the built-in lint filter goes to work and works all the time the wash is on! Furthermore, the Inglis filter works just as effectively on partial loads.

Perhaps the most popular feature with housewives is the Inglis Suds and Water Saver. When big loads are being washed, hot sudsy water is ingeniously pumped into Mrs. Allen's laundry tub for re-use with the next load. All she does is press the button marked "SUDS," and only the clean water is pumped back. No, the suday water doesn't cool off because the thick suds form a very effective insulation. Inglis engineers discovered this while developing the amazing Suds and Water Saver.

The Inglis Royal also has wonderful things like an automatic built-in rinse conditioner dispenser; Free Flow draining, in which wash and rinse water are drained away from the clothes—not through them; four automatic water temperature selections—hot, medium, warm and cold.

Her wash completed, Mrs. Allen puts it into her Inglis Royal dryer. It has no less than eight automatic cycles to fit every fabric need. She turns the dial to the number she selects from the Console Fabric Guide. She starts the dryer and this amazing machine automatically sets the temperature, drying time and cooling-fluffing time.

True, other dryers have somewhat similar features, so what made Mrs. Allen—and many others—choose Inglis? For one thing, the Royal has a Moisture Minder that automatically shuts off the dryer at "dry enough." Secondly, there are no dangerous hot spots in an Inglis—the heat is tempered before it sweeps through the clothes in a scientific pattern. Thirdly, a built-in sani-lamp with "sunshine freshness," without the danger of fading, and gives them a pleasing scent. It also helps sanitize the garments. Finally, the fabulous Wash'n Wear Time Cycles, which provide a 10-minute fluffing, cooling off action at room temperature . . . the only way you can dry Wash'n Wear garments in a dryer without wrinkles!

Mrs. Allen, and 136,968 other housewives, are very glad that Inglis concentrates on laundry equipment, and is consequently able to produce the very best and most efficient washers and dryers in Canada.

All that's left for you to do is visit your Inglis dealer. He will show you all three Inglis automatic models—the Royal, Citation, and Superb. Did you know that the lowest priced Inglis models give you more features than the highest priced models of other makes! Do see your Inglis dealer.

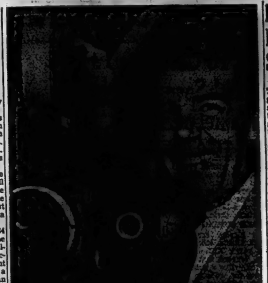
Cookie Gilchrist Is Big Four Scoring Champ

TORONTO (CP)—Cookie Gilchrist, who has played in every pro football league in Canada with some distinction, is the Big Four scoring champion for 1959.

The 26 - year - old American, traded to Toronto Argonauts early this year by Saskatchewan Roughriders, wrapped up the title as the Big Four's 14-game schedule ended Saturday.

It was the first time the six-foot-three Negro from Tarrytown, N.Y., had won a scoring championship after stints with Sarnia and Kitchener in the Ontario Rugby Football Union, Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four and Saskatchewan of the Western Interprovincial Union.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press show the 24-year-old backfielder with the last-place Argos has 75 points on five touchdowns, 16 converts, nine field goals and two singles. He ended with a nine-point bulge over Ottawa Rough Riders' Dave Thelen who had 66 points on 11 touchdowns.



Ron Howell of the Tiger-Cats was third with 60 points, six more than team-mate Gerry McDougall. Bobby Simpson of Ottawa was fifth with 48 points and Gary Schreiber, also of Ottawa, followed with 43.

John Wydarany of the University of Western Ontario Mustangs and Bill Mitchell, also of the Mustangs, hold the lead in the senior intercollegiate Union with 18 points each. Five others follow with 12 points each.

Motor Sales (0) 2796; National Grocers (5) 2842, Pruden Motory (2) 2953, Welsh Com. (4) 2807, Tryers (3) 2561.

High triple — C. McKenna 713.

High single — J. Taylor 382. Other good scores — D. Vanderwater 358, H. DeRushie 373, C. McCrimmon 355, D. Martinson 347, J. Allen 347, L. Luciola 345.

FOOTBALL MOVIE MAKER — Ken Davey of Winnipeg, poses with some of the equipment he uses in making movies of western football games for the five coaches. As official photographer for the Western Interprovincial Football Union, Ken has been shooting the games for 19 years. He was also the first man to photograph a Grey Cup final—1933. (CP Photo).

WINNIPEG (CP)—Ken Davey has hands that amaze him.

In 19 years of shooting movies of western football games, Ken estimates he must have frozen his hands a few hundred times. But not so much in recent years. He thinks the football seasons are getting milder.

As official photographer for the Western Interprovincial Football Union, and the man responsible for providing movie films to the five team coaches, Ken's most painful recollections go back a good many football seasons.

He recalls the days in 1934 when he stood on the roof of the Amphitheatre Rink battling biting north winds as he shot pictures of games in the adjacent Osborne Stadium here. And a later occasion when he spent an afternoon strapped to a hydro pole high above old DeYoung Park in Regina.

NOW SYSTEMATIC

But that was many, many feet of film ago, and Ken now is organized. At Ken Davey Productions, he supervises filming of all WIFU games and processes all the film except Vancouver shots.

He estimates he goes through 60,000 feet of negative per game, supplying films to interested coaches. Usually there are five prints of each game.

The movie films are provided basically for the coaches. Few, if any, of football's strategists pass up an opportunity to scan films of the opposition's performance.

But it wasn't always this way. In 1934, when Davey and Jon Ryan, then Winnipeg's football manager, pioneered football filming in Canada, the pictures were considered fine for entertainment and a cheap source for laughs.

Reg Threlfall, who coached Winnipeg in the late 1930s and early 1940s, was the first western mentor fully to appreciate the value of game movies. He used Davey as a part-time employee, advising him what and when to shoot. Threlfall even insisted the club photographer should accompany the team on the road.

CHANGED CAREER

Up to then, Ken was just another member of the photography branch of a departmental store. But with this new horizon opening up, he went into the movie business on a large scale.

Business went well until the Second World War broke out and football and the movie business clattered. Rejected by the services, Ken worked in the paint shop of an aircraft factory.

It took a while for football to regain stride after the war, and the Winnipeg club didn't send for Davey until 1948. Coach Frank (Butch) Larsen was interested in game movies and Ken Davey Productions was back in business.

There have been times when Ken wondered if the job at the department store might not have been a better idea. The first year, 1952, when he went to work for the league, his schedule had him in Edmonton on Saturday night, back in Winnipeg processing film Sunday, and off to Calgary for a Monday night game. Once he went five days without sleep.

Davey can point with pride at his work. He was the first man to photograph a Grey Cup final—1933. He also likely was the first man to refuse a bribe in western football. In the old days, the players were willing to barter $5 a strip of the film which could have embarrassed them in front of the coach.

Hamilton Cubs Lead Junior Scoring Race

TORONTO (CP) — Hamilton Tiger Cubs have scored the most goals in the Ontario Hockey Association junior A series after three games and four of their 12 goals belong to Larry Jeffrey, the league's leading scorer.

Jeffrey, held scoreless in Hamilton's last game, managed to pick up three assists in the first two games for a total of seven points and a two-point lead.

Official statistics released Monday show Dave Keon of St. Michael's College Majors, Wayne Boddy of Peterborough Petes and Lowell McDonald of Hamilton with five points to their credit and tied for second place. Keon, who has only played two games has scored twice and assisted on three others while Boddy in three games has three goals and two assists and McDonald one goal and four assists.

Tied for third place with four points each are Marcel Awrey of Barrie Flyers, John Brenneman and Murray Hall of St. Catharines TeePees, Dale Rolfe of the Flyers and Wayne Connelly of Peterborough.

Larry Cheevers, a Junior B graduate from last year's St. Michael's Buzzers, has allowed his opposition only three goals in the Major's two games for a 1.5 goals per game average. Ken Broderick of Toronto Marlboros is second with a two goal average after two games.

SELL JORDAN CONTRACT

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Examiner said Monday that the co - managers of welterweight boxing champion Don Jordan want to sell out for $125,000. The paper quoted comanager Don Nesrsth as saying: "I don't need the grief of this any more. I'd just as soon get out."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARROT, Sports Editor

When Lammy Lamirande ordered his seasonal year for his 1958-59 edition of the Windsor Bulldogs he asked Manager Bill Butcher to toss in a half dozen extra "collars."

He had one all ready for the McFarlands here last Friday night until with 45 seconds to go "Whitey" spoiled the draping act but Lammy hung another very effectively around the jugulars of the Whitby Dunlops on Sunday afternoon. The score was 5-8.

The Western Ontario teams, Windsor, Chatham and Kitchener, left the barrier on the dead gallop leaving the pe' easterners in the rack. The tobacco belt chaps are riding high only the crest of a victory wave, taking unholy delight in walloping the bejabers out of the clubs that proudly bear the titles of Allan Cup and world champions.

However, it is too early to get the crying towels out. The down-at-the-start easterners might prove to be Silky Sullivans and give those proud westerners a jolt when they round the first turn into the back stretch.

Down Windsor way they're searching the eighth cloud plaisance for Lammy. After the Bulldogs tied the figurative can to the Macs' tails in a reversal of procedure last Friday night, a gleeful Lammy announced to all and sundry and they heard him in suburban Detroit, that two would have thumped them (the Macs) even if they'd had Bell in the nets. That's the way the guys were playing."

After the Dogs stripe-kitted the Dunlops Sunday, Lammy took off for the clouds like a Cape Canaveral firecracker. He is expected to parachute down in time to unleash his Dogs at the Kitchener Dutchmen in the Border City tonight.

Meanwhile, the Dunlops, smarting under a brace of weekend setbacks will be quenching McFarland's thirst tonight when the teams meet for the second time this season. The Macs' lone victory came at the expense of the Dunlops last week, when they walloped the Blairmen 4-1 in their own ballyhoo.

The Dunlops have won but two of their starts and are in fourth place, two points ahead of the McFarlands. It's been quite a few moons since the Dunlops have looked up and down three clubs grinning down at them, but as they have no intention of taking over the janitor's apartment, tonight's tussle should be an old-fashioned Whitby-Belleville battle.

The Macs' big question mark is the goal-keeping department. Gordie Bell, who was a guest in the penalty box Saturday night, said the condition of his eye was improving. It did not look too good to this observer, and it is extremely doubtful if Gordie will play tonight, or for that matter, the rest of the week.

BOOSTER CLUB

The Macs' Booster Club is holding a general meeting in the city hall Wednesday night, starting eight o'clock, and Prexy Jim Matthews would like to see a full representation out. There is important business on the agenda and "Snipe" wants as many out as possible. Booster Club membership tickets are now off the press and potential members can secure their cards at Bill Cook's Cigar Emporium, Front Street, or from any Booster executive member. Then don't forget the "Meet the Macs Ball" scheduled for Saturday, November 14 at the AMAF auditorium, Front Street. Tickets cost one dollar and that includes luncheon.

WISH WE HAD HIM

Russ Kowalchuk is setting the Okanagan league afire with his brilliant play thus far in the young season. The speedy winger scored three goals, including the winner, the other night against the Kamloops Chiefs when Silvertowns eked out a 5-4 overtime win. Russ has accumulated for thirteen goals in six games and seems headed for a fine season.

Pollock Up to Old Tricks Now Accused of 'Tampering'

TORONTO (CP)—Sammy Pollock, chief of Montreal Canadiens' farm system and a director of Peterborough Petes of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series was accused Monday night of violating a gentlemen's agreement against tampering by members of the OHA Junior A council.

Hap Emms, owner - coach of Barrie Flyers told a council meeting that Pollock signed two players to junior cards who were on Boston Bruins' sponsored list and apparently destined to wind up in Barrie. The Flyers are a farm club of the National Hockey League Bruins.

Emms said "members of this group have a gentleman's agreement against tampering with a player who is on the list of a pro team that sponsors a team in this league."

Pollock said he had paid for the releases of the two players from their previous team but had never heard of any agreement.

Staff Smythe of Toronto Marlboros said the agreement was one of the first adopted by council "12 or 14 years ago."

He said the move was unethical but the OHA has sanctioned it and the OHA should take it up with the NHL "to unsanction it."

Eddie Bush of Guelph Biltmores said he objected to Pollock sitting in on council meetings and then "working against the council behind our backs."

A resolution was passed urging that a recommendation be made to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association that amateur teams agree to recognize and abide by the pro ruling on tampering.

SUSPEND ABSENTEE

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions of the National Football League suspended fullback John Henry Johnson Monday for an indefinite period after he missed the team plane back after Detroit's 23-7 drubbing by the 49ers in San Francisco.

Coach George Wilson would not say whether Johnson would be fined or whether he would be held out of next Sunday's game against the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Whereabouts of Johnston, who played for the WIFU Calgary Stampeders in 1954, remains unknown.

Bronco Bucks Way To National Scoring Derby Lead

Boston Centre Has 10 Goals Boom Down Next With Seven; Sawchuk Tops Goalkeepers

MONTREAL (CP) — Bronco Horvath's four goals and one assist in last week's play sent him from fourth place to the front in the National Hockey League scoring derby.

At 15 points the Boston Bruins' centre now is tied with Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of Montreal Canadiens, last week's leader, but the Bronco gets top billing because of his goal production.

The league's official statistics, released today, show Horvath with 10 goals and five assists. He's the pace-setter on goals. Geoffrion's Geoffrion with seven. He picked up only one goal last week and no assists.

Montreal's Jean Beliveau, in a second-place tie a week ago, got only a single point and now is fifth with 12 points.

THIRD-PLACE TIE

Tied at 13 behind the leaders are Jerry Toppazzini of the Bruins and Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers.

Toppazzini's harvest for the week was four assists, while Bathgate scored a goal and an assist and slipped from a second-place deadlock. Bathgate leads the assist parade with 11.

Bob Pulford of Toronto Maple Leafs and Dean Prentice of New York are tied for sixth place with 11 points each. Pulford bounced up from a 10th-place tie on a goal and three assists.

GOOSE COMES ON

Six players are tied at 10 points. Dickie Moore of Montreal, last year's NHL scoring champion, reached that bracket with two goals and an assist as eyes D 00 a week ago. Plante trimmed his average to 2.33 from 2.67. Johnny Bower of Toronto, with 2.00 a week ago, now has a 2.40 average.

Terry Sawchuk of Detroit Red Wings slipped a trifle and Jacques Plante of Montreal improved his average in the tussle among the leading goalies. Sawchuk has a goals-against average of 2.33 because he wouldn't be like the wet track at Aqueduct."

Russ Jackson Pass Titlist, Red O'Quinn Top Receiver

TORONTO (CP) — Quarterback Russ Jackson of Ottawa Rough Riders has won the Big Four Football Union's passing title and end Red O'Quinn of local Alouettes the pass-receiving championship.

Fullback Dave Thelen of the Rough Riders captured the rushing crown to give Ottawa the top honors in two of the major individual statistics division. The scoring championship went to Cookie Gilchrist of Toronto Argonauts with 78 points.

Official statistics released Monday show Jackson had an 11.3 yards average gain on 45 completions in 89 pass attempts. He had a completion percentage of .506, threw seven touchdown passes and gained a total of 1,009 yards in the air.

Tom Dublinski of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, who only played in a few games, registered the second best average gain—9.6 yards on 34 completions in 56 attempts for 540 yards and a completion percentage of .607.

15 TD PASSES

Bernie Faloney of Hamilton tops last year, averaged 8.9 yards with 139 completions on 347 attempts, a completion percentage of .563 and 2,187 yards gained. His 15 touchdown passes were five more than thrown by Sam Etcheverry of Montreal. Etcheverry completed 211 of 402 attempts for an average gain of 7.8 yards, a completion mark of .575 and the most yardage—3,127.

O'Quinn was the leading pass catcher for the third straight year. He caught 33 passes for 622 yards. Dick Shatto of Toronto was second with 46 for 518 and Bobby Simpson of Ottawa third with 36 for 787 yards.

Thelen averaged 5.9 yards a carry in winning the rushing title with a record 1,346 yards. Gerry McDougall of Hamilton gained 1,012 yards and averaged 4.4 yards. Shatto rolled up 950 yards, averaging 5.5.

Ralph Goldston of Hamilton intercepted nine passes to head that department and teammate Cam Fraser led punters for the fifth straight year with an average of a 45.1 yards.

Ron Howell of Hamilton was the best punt return runner with 278 yards and an average of 7.8 yards. Jim Roumine of Toronto led in kickoff returns with 433 yards and an average of 27.1 yards.

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) — Three jockeys were injured when their horses tangled and fell in the first race at Bay Meadows Monday.

Ruben Lopez, 22, and Roy Lumm, 21, were knocked out and are still in hospital.

Eddie Burns, 28, was examined and released.

The horses were not injured.

OHA Suspends Three Juniors

TORONTO (CP) — Cracking down on rough play, the Ontario Hockey Association handed out suspensions to three junior players Monday night.

An OHA council meeting suspended Barclay Flagler of Peterborough Petes and Ed Wright of Barrie Flyers for incurring match penalties in a Junior A game at Peterborough last Thursday.

They have a choice of paying $ 250 fine and taking a one-game suspension or sitting out three games without a fine.

Tom Sherry of the Burlington Junior B team was suspended for the first three games of the regular season because of a match penalty he was given in an exhibition game against Woodbridge Oct. 26.

American League Race Tight

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Sweeney of Springfield and rookie Stan Baliuk of Providence are tied for the lead in an American Hockey League scoring race that's so tight there's only a four-point spread over the first 21 players.

The two leaders have 15 points each, official statistics show today. Sweeney has collected his in his nine games on seven goals and eight assists. Baliuk, playing in 12 games, has scored only three goals, but leads the league with 12 assists.

Another rookie, Ed Hockstra of Cleveland, is third with 14 points.

Ray Ross of Providence, tied for fourth with 13 points; Larry Wilson of Buffalo and Bob Barlow of Quebec are tied for the goals lead with eight. Wilson scored four against Cleveland Sunday.

Ed Chadwick of Rochester remains the top goaltender with a 2.00 goals-against average.

Carter Leads Eastern Pros

OTTAWA (CP) — Centre Bill Carter of Hull - Ottawa Canadiens moved into an eight - point lead atop the Eastern Professional Hockey League scoring race in games up to and including Nov. 1.

The classy pivot of the Habitants' big line has scored 15 times and assisted on nine others for 24 points, eight up on Cleland Morinan of Sudbury Wolves who in turn is one point ahead of teammate Sam Bettio.

The Canadiens and Montreal Royals are deadlocked for first place with 14 points each, but Royals have played two games less. One point back of the leaders are Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds.

Charlie Hodge of Royals still is the league's stingiest netminder, allowing 27 goals in 10 games for a 2.7 average. Second is Dennis DeJordy of Sault Ste. Marie with a 3.0 average.

Organizations Oppose Ban On Morning TV in Canada; Briefs Presented to Board

By DON HANRIGHT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — A suggested ban on regular morning television in Canada was almost unanimously opposed today by a variety of organizations appearing before the Board of Broadcast Governors.

Their basic argument against such a BBG regulation was that it would be contrary to efforts to make maximum use of available TV channels, and would put Canadian stations at a competitive disadvantage with United States outlets broadcasting into Canada.

A probable outcome would be that U.S. TV signals would be boosted to fill Canada's morning vacuum. And where they couldn't reach, there would be a big drop of community antennae and pay-as-you-go TV to provide "American morning programs.

Net result would be that Canadian stations starting programs at noon would have trouble moving viewers back to Canadian channels. Thus, the use of television in expanding national identity would diminish.

Generally supporting this line were the CBC, CTV, Canadian Federation of Agriculture, the Central Canada Broadcasters Association, the Western Association of Broadcasters, CKGN-TV North Bay, CFPL-TV London, Ont., and Metropolitan Television Limited of Vancouver.

Only one group among the 13 appearing at the second day of the two day BBG hearing supported the proposal — the 2,300-member Associated Radio and Television Employees of Canada. The union said of this proposed regulation:

"We welcome this proposal and support it. We see it as a means to control the quality of broadcasting and to avoid at the outset some of the cheaper practices likely to be introduced. Future growth and proof of performance may justify later changes. Meanwhile, we believe control to be necessary at the outset."

Elsewhere in its brief, the union said:

"We have an interest in broadcasting as employees, and we hasten to declare it. Nonetheless, we urge that all matters of broadcasting policy must be judged only in the light of the public interest."

Among those appearing today to support written briefs—none of which dealt specifically with the morning rule—were the United Church of Canada.

The ban on regular morning television was included in a July BBG statement of principles on which to base Canada's first TV regulations, to take effect some time next year. Both Canadian radio and TV now operate under the same rules.

As proposed by the governors, morning television would be prohibited except for religious programs, children's Saturday shows, school broadcasts, special events approved by the BBG, and straight-advertising announcements of limited duration sanctioned by the board.

"This appears to be incompatible with the over-all aims of our broadcasting system," said the publicly-owned CBC. It would mean Canadian viewers within range of U.S. stations would see only American programs, while those outside that range would see none at all.

The CBC noted the BBG also proposes that 55 per cent of weekly television programming of any TV station be Canadian in content.

Disagreeing, the CBC proposed a minimum of 50 per cent for its network service. In the circumstances, it suggested 30 per cent Canadian content in the 6 p.m.-to-midnight period and "somewhat lower" the rest of the day.

The content requirement "might well prove too inflexible for network operations."

Network stations would be guaranteed 50 per cent Canadian content in the three-hour period through their 7 p.m. affiliate. The proportion now was averaging 65 per cent Canadian content weekly in the English-language network, 85 per cent on its French-language network.

However, there were many often-unchangeable factors governing the length and time of broadcasts and the integration of Canadian and imported programs in a network "reelpe."

SAY UNNECESSARY

Whatever the percentage, the CBC contended that with BBG controls over program content and standards the limitations on broadcast hours would not be necessary or desirable.

Ad Company Limited, which operates CKGN-TV North Bay, said the morning TV proposal raises an important principle—the right of Canadians who own TV sets to use them "without outside interference and subject to such restrictions as they may wish to impose themselves within the privacy of their own homes."

The Canadian Federation of Agriculture sympathized with the board's apparent object of protecting the quality of programming and its Canadian content by limiting morning TV.

However, such before - noon broadcasting should be permitted "if it is possible without danger to standards, to stem the tide of Canadian advertising dollars that are finding their way south of the border."

HITS PROPOSAL

The Central Canada Broadcasters Association, representing 14 private-owned TV stations in Ontario and one in Quebec, said the regulation would create second class citizens in the one-third of Canadian TV area not exposed to U.S. television signals.

The Western Association of Broadcasters said representing 12 private TV stations in the prairie provinces, said their areas now do not get U.S. TV reception and the regulation would bar their viewers from morning programs simply because of geographical location.

The Radio - TV Employees Union welcomed the content regulation as realistic and necessary. Some stations would argue that there isn't enough Canadian talent available to meet the goal. But "talent did exist and would increase when full-time jobs became available.

The United Church agreed with the necessity of ensuring a minimum of Canadian content on private commercial broadcasting, but expressed concern that a number of good religious programs originating in the U.S. would not qualify under the regulation.

Foremost Pantomime Artist Wants to Meet Old Friends

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Today's foremost pantomime artist is glad to pay homage to some of the great names who created the golden age of comedy.

"I want very much to see Mack Sennett," said Frenchman Marcel Marceau. "I would like to meet Buster Keaton and pay a visit to my old friend, Stan Laurel. They are great men who lifted pantomime to a fine art. I owe a great deal to them."

Marceau, world famous as the man in a talking, white-faced clown whose supple body can enact almost any human situation, came here for Dinah Shore's television salute to France. A wry - faced man, he paused to explain the sorrows and hopes for pantomime.

"It was a great, great art in the silent films of Hollywood," he said. "It is a pity that it is virtually disappeared with talking films. And yet, there is still much room for pantomime. Some Like It Hot was very much like a silent film in its use of pantomime. The action had to be done with great taste in order not to offend."

I mentioned what a leading American comedian had told me recently: That pantomime is dead in comedy today because audiences need the added punch of the spoken word.

"I do not think that is so," Marceau replied. "Audiences still like pantomime — if they can get it. That was proven when I played New York to a packed house every night.

"The trouble is that there is no training ground for pantomimists in this country. It is like the ballet; if you do not have schools to train young dancers, you will have no ballet."

Marceau is doing what he can to promote his art. Several months a year he operates a school in Paris for 200 students at $80 pupils, and he had to turn away more than double that number.

This is his second visit to Hollywood; he played his one-man show here three years ago. He is best known to American audiences for his two appearances with Dinah and a spectacular that won him a TV academy award.

He is proud of the Emmy, not so of his numerous appearances on the Ed Sullivan show. He said that when Sullivan couldn't come to terms with Bob Newhart for short films Marceau made in France early in his career.

Marceau has had offers for feature films here and abroad, but they present a problem.

"I won't talk," he said. "Ever since I created the clown character in 1947, I have not spoken while I perform. I think people expect the character I play to be mute, to express himself only with his face and body.

"In the films I am offered, I don't think I could step out of the character and read lines. I don't think I could do that. It would destroy the illusion."

Educational Help Reported Great Need of Asian Lands

By JOHN CIFFIN

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — New educational aid programs for South and Southeast Asia's needy peoples were discussed Monday at an annual Colombo Plan conference opened its second day.

By the week's end, delegates from the 21 member countries of the Colombo plan will have finished a report reviewing aid projects over the last year and recommending needs for the future. This will be discussed by senior diplomats meeting here in central Java Nov. 11-14.

The report, a new stress in educational programs was reported today by Canada's chief Colombo plan administrator, C. O. Ault, who heads the subcommittee on technical assistance.

NEED EDUCATED HELP

Dr. Ault told Associated Press that reviews of conditions of the developing countries show a need to broaden the base of scientific and technical education.

"These countries are going to need more and more skilled persons as development continues," he said. "A start has to be made to train more people on lower school levels so they will be prepared for specialized training later."

He said his committee is likely to recommend increasing emphasis on such things as teacher training, since this growing need for broad basic education programs is a common concern at a recent Commonwealth education conference.

Last year's Colombo plan report said many new countries were finding the need for qualified persons more acute than the need for development funds.

The committee, which is preparing the Colombo plan annual report, is expected to complete its work by Tuesday. Then the delegates will gather in a plenary session for a general review.

AID MORE AREAS

T. F. M. Newton, chief Canadian delegate said Monday that an increasing share of Canada's foreign aid through aid funds will go to Southeast Asian countries outside the Commonwealth.

Newton, Canadian ambassador to Indonesia, cited arrival of $400,000 worth of Canadian wheat flour in Indonesia this month as an example. The flour will be sold, with the funds to be used for various development projects here.

"We are spreading our efforts further outside the Commonwealth — to Indonesia, Burma, Cambodia, Laos and Viet Nam," Newton said.

For each of the next three years, Canada would budget $50,000,000 for Colombo plan money grants and technical assistance in the form of training Asian students and sending experts abroad.

Canada spent $35,000,000 on such programs during the past year, and also has made large grants of wheat to India, Pakistan and Ceylon.

News of Quiz Show Rigging Not Seriously Affecting TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The headlines are big and black, and the news of quiz show rigging is shocking and disappointing. But the programs affected (only slightly the public's enjoyment of, and its attitude toward, television in general.

That, in essence, is the finding of a survey conducted by Broadcasting, a weekly trade publication. The survey covered almost 2,000 households in 187 different areas of the United States and was made by a professional research firm.

The current issue of the magazine — published before Charles Van Doren made his dramatic confession Monday to the congressional committee — states that less than 10 per cent of those sampled say the investigation has affected their enjoyment of the medium. Just about twice that percentage say it has affected their attitude toward television—but in what way the survey report doesn't specify.

Perhaps the most interesting statistic: The survey reports 57.1 per cent say that, in spite of everything, they'd like to have the quiz shows back on the air.

Charles Goren, the bridge whiz, has come up with a 30-minute Sunday afternoon show on ABC, to be called Championship Bridge, and it is presented so that the players from Kibitzer can sit behind the bridge and playing hypertic. Each hand is followed by a post-mortem by Mr. Charles, as his followers call him.

The late Errol Flynn, playing his own man, will be seen on Goodyear Theatre (NBC) next Monday night . . . CBS has signed up Dmitri Shostakovich, Russia's most distinguished composer, for next week's Face the Nation.

Be very basic in afternoon, evening.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Be certain to attend to all matters of importance currently or you may suffer real loss, plus lose a good will. Later you will be able to make great strides in any ventures or plans carrying through boldly with present ones.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Imperative you put new system into operation, though you may feel like it's very much, for it is important you compete properly in this modern world. Then co-operate with associate and key people, especially in civic matters. Be generous.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Look to bettering your situation in life by getting obligations out of the way, collecting monies owed, conducting self and business more efficiently and wisely. A day for unabating activity and dynamism. Expand.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Come to better understanding with associates, keep promises made, regardless of how humdrum this may seem. Latter part of day is then fine for relaxing and having lots of fun with congenials and kin at the pleasurable activities you like best.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Get those dull but important duties out of the way early in a.m. Latter part of day you then have time to put surroundings in better order, P.M. entertain at home leisurely with perfect poise. Make some fine contacts.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — While you don't like to take the time, do make an effort to see your beautician or barber early. Then you can go about your daily routine, conferences, shopping, etc., with real poise and get infinitely better results. Be smart, active.

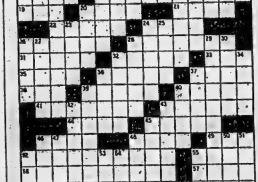
Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) — Family affairs may be a nuisance in A.M. but you had better get close ties and affairs straightened out in jig time. Latter part of day fine for money, business deals, etc. Be wise with time and holdings.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Although you may think others are aware of your particular talents, it is best you make sure with key people. P.M. can then be delightful in a social way and in expressing your wants and goals. Make friends. Expand.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — You must meet an important duty in a.m., so be sure you get an early start and put it behind you. Later, study why your are not progressing as swiftly as you had planned, and take right steps to remedy the situation.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Morning is depressing since you do not seem to have sufficient energy to carry through with your plans. However, the afternoon is better and you can make up for lost time, see friends, meet people and enjoy better contacts.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Investigate methodically matters concerning your basic affairs. See where and why operational activities are failing. Make adjustments necessary. P.M. look into ways and means that will increase prestige and acclaim.



Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Pay attention to the wise counsel of personal advisor, for it is accurate and to your best interest to follow. Later you can get the data you require and be with new friends for making rapid strides toward your goals.

If your child is born today . . . The fine child born today is the type who learns more slowly than others, but will possess a retentive mind which is best in the long run. So be patient and helpful instead of demanding and harsh. Middle life is the most productive in this chart, and there can be a tremendous success here, especially in fields of big business and banking, accounting and the like.

100,000 ANIMALS KILLED

PEKING (Reuters) — Hunters and trappers killed 100,000 grey wolves and bears since last spring in a campaign to protect crops from marauding bears. More than 18,000 persons, organized into about 7,500 groups, scoured mountains and caves using guns, traps, and sometimes poison and explosives and wiped out over 100,000 animals, the Peking Evening News says.

100,000 ANIMALS KILLED

PEKING (Reuters) — Hunters and trappers killed 100,000 grey wolves and bears since last spring in a campaign to protect crops from marauding bears. More than 18,000 persons, organized into about 7,500 groups, scoured mountains and caves using guns, traps, and sometimes poison and explosives and wiped out over 100,000 animals, the Peking Evening News says.

Tallest Stack in Manitoba Welcomes Potential Citizens, Visitors to New Townsite

By AL. VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

THOMPSON, Man. (CP) — A giant 500-foot smelter stack, jutting from the northern bush, stands out as a beacon to welcome potential residents and visitors to Manitoba's newest town of Thompson.

Tallest structure in the province, it marks a clearing in a wilderness of bush and lakes where in three years a modern town has sprung up.

The town of Thompson, situated on a 3,000-acre site on the banks of the Burntwood River, is the centre of a $175,000,000 nickel development around Moak and Mystery Lakes, 400 miles north of Winnipeg.

Its rapid development is being undertaken jointly by the International Nickel Company of Canada, Limited, and the Manitoba government.

The town and plant site, two miles apart, were named in 1956 — 10 years after the company's exploration in northern Manitoba began in earnest—after John F. Thompson, chairman of the company's board.

The mining project, scheduled to start operations next year and to come into full-scale production with an annual output of 75,000,000 pounds of nickel in 1961, will constitute the biggest nickel-producing operation in the world next to INCO's plant in the Sudbury district of Northern Ontario.

A 2,100 — foot mine production shaft, 1,027 - foot development shaft and 6,284 feet of underground development from these shafts have been completed.

A few years ago, this area was nothing but bush, water and rock. Now, buildings and homes are springing up every day.

The thousands of tons of steel and other materials needed for construction work are brought into Thompson by rail. A 30-mile spur line connects the town with Hudson Bay line at Sipiwesk, 15 miles northeast of Thicket Portage. The spur was officially opened Oct. 20, 1957.

It provides year-round transportation for men, equipment and supplies. Until it was completed, heavy materials were hauled from Thicket Portage, by tractor train during the winter months.

Aircraft, operating from The Pas, Man., about 190 air miles southwest, carried men and food, and still are being used to some extent.

Nature provided one bonanza. Four miles from the plant site, the company found a mammoth gravel pit which officials say will provide their needs for years to come.

"This certainly was a stroke of luck," one official said. "We found out later that there was another gravel pit within a 100-mile radius."

BIG HEADFRAME

Next to the smelter stack, the most eye-catching structure at the plant site is the 264-foot headframe above the mine production shaft. Two hoists now are being assembled in the headframe to replace temporary hoisting ropes.

The lower part of the massive concrete structure contains the coarse ore bins, which have a capacity of 2,000 tons.

Steel work on the smelter is completed. The stack, built extra high to disperse waste gases well above the townsite and plant, also supplies draught to the smelter building. Basic steel and concrete work on the nearby refinery is well advanced.

A company official blamed bad weather and the United States steel strike for the holdup in completion of the refinery.

With this refinery, Thompson will be the first fully-integrated nickel plant in the world all in one location. Mining, concentrating, smelting and refining of nickel all will be done in a single plant area.

Also on the plant site are work shops, a general changehouse, administration building, Hudson's Bay Company store, dining rooms and living quarters for 2,200 men working on the site.

Clean, modern quarters are divided into several heated rooms containing two beds each; washrooms, which include basins with running hot and cold water, mirrors, showers, clothes - washing facilities and hvatsorium; a combined reading, writing and games room.

Dr. Thompson, the 78-year-old board chairman, told newspaper men on a recent visit some by-products of nickel also would be produced at Thompson, but not in as large a quantity as at Sudbury.

He said this is a nickel operation. Production of by-products, which include small amounts of copper and cobalt and some precious metals such as platinum and gold, is secondary.

Panama Rioters Protest U.S. Rule In Canal Zone

86 Persons Are Hurt In Wild Demonstration

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) —Panama was out of bounds to American living in the Canal Zone today following violent anti-United States demonstrations during the 56th anniversary of Panama's independence. At least 81 persons were injured, three seriously.

Crowds of demonstrators protesting U.S. control of the canal tore down the American flag at the embassy Tuesday, stoned the embassy and the U.S. information service office, overturned and burned several automobiles and battled U.S. canal police for hours.

The mobs finally were routed by Panamanian national guardsmen. Canal zone police and firemen and U.S. troops armed with rifles, submachine guns.

Demonstrations also took place in Colon, Panama's second largest city. No casualties were reported from there.

9,000 Americans

U.S. Army troops stood guard along the Canal Zone's borders. The 9,000 Americans living in the zone were ordered to stay off the 500 square miles of U.S. territory.

The target of Tuesday's outbreaks, touched off by Panamanian students protesting the unusual hold the U.S. has over the canal, was the planned control of the zone in perpetuity after it helped the Panamanians gain their independence from Colombia early in the century. In recent years Panamanian nationalists have been demanding that their government establish its sovereignty.

While there was no evidence of government participation in the demonstrations, the government frequently has complained that Panamanian employees of the Canal Zone Company were paid as well as U.S. employees and also that Panama should be paid more rent for the canal.

U.S. PROTESTS

Ambassador Julius Harrington called on Foreign Minister Galileo Solis Tuesday to protest the Panama foreign office against the desecration of the American flag and the damage to U.S. property.

There was no immediate comment from the Panamanian government.

The demonstrations in Panama City followed a decision "about of the flag" in the canal zone led by two nationalist leaders, Ernesto Castillo Pedrevo and former foreign minister Aquilino Boyd.

Order was restored about 6 p.m., 6½ hours after the initial clash.

Lt.-Gen. Ridgely Gaither, U.S. Caribbean commander, said the troops would guard the Canal Zone border "as long as the situation demands."

HEADS FOLK MUSIC GROUP

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. Marius Barbeau of Ottawa was elected president of the Canadian Folk Music Society at its annual meeting here. Vice-presidents include Prof. Graham George, Queen's University.

Fail to Break Deadlock in UN Council Voting

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — The UN General Assembly smashed all records Tuesday in casting ballots to fill a Security Council vacancy but failed to break the deadlock between Turkey and Poland.

Victor A. Belaunde of Peru, assembly president, declared there appeared to be no prospects at present of resolving the deadlock and balloting was postponed for weeks until Nov. 11.

The 81-member political committee meanwhile postponed until today debate on France's decision to explode a nuclear bomb in the Sahara Desert.

The African group was reported divided on whether to seek UN censure of France, or merely to ask that France refrain from holding a test.

Union Demands Served Railways Likely This Week

MONTREAL (CP)—The long awaited contract demands of 130,000 Canadian railway workers will likely be served this week on Canada's major railways, it was learned today.

Sources indicated the contract proposals will be delivered to the railways within 48 hours — thus launching Canada's biggest single labor talks involving all unions on six railways and an express agency.

The unions bargain for almost all railway workers in Canada except those who actually run trains. Their ranks include electricians, clerks, telegraphers, shop and track repair men, freight handlers and clerks.

While most of the talks concern more than 11 months after the union settled with the railways for a series of wage increases amounting to about 11 cents an hour.

The 1958 talks went almost to a nation-wide strike before the union was refused to meet a conciliation board recommendation of 6% wages and other benefits until they got a freight rate increase to cover the cost.

The contract due to expire Dec. 31 was originally for two years, with retroactive provisions to January, 1958.

The new contract demands have not been disclosed yet. The unions have indicated that they plan to discuss higher wages, severance pay, holidays and other points.

India Has Sent Strongly Worded Note to China

NEW DELHI (Reuters) —The government today sent a strongly worded note to Peking denying Communist China's claims to Indian territory in the northeast frontiers, an official spokesman said tonight.

The Indian note replied to a Chinese statement of Sept. 8 which reserved the right to order Chinese troops to patrol south of the McMahon line claimed by India in the Northeast Frontier area if India did not stop establishing police into areas of Indian Kashmir claimed by China.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: North of Georgian Bay precipitation should take the form of snow. Half a foot of snow is likely in those areas by Thursday morning. As the storm moves by on Thursday the rain and snow will let up and cold air will move down to cover Southern Ontario as well as the north country.

CANADA'S ATOMIC POWER PROGRAM IS UNDER FIRE

U.S. Expert Claims System Inefficient

WASHINGTON (CP)—A United States Atomic Energy Commission official has disputed the economic feasibility of Canada's proposed atomic power system.

Frank K. Pittman, the commission's director development director, suggested to an atomic industrial forum Tuesday that power could be produced cheaper from a number of other systems than the heavy-water natural uranium plant idea Canada has adopted.

W. B. Lewis, research vice-president of the Crown-owned Atomic Energy of Canada, immediately shot back that Canadian system would be as efficient as any in existence.

Lewis claimed U.S. and Canadian commercial atomic efforts with that of the Soviet bloc have table. At present, he said, the U.S. is ahead, but in a few years Canada may catch up in development.

DIFFERENT RETURNS

However, he conceded in an interview after the conference that his estimate of cost for Canadian commercial reactors is based on a lower return than the one made by Pittman.

Pittman downgraded the Canadian system to seventh place in the international race for commercial power from various atomic systems. Comparing the U.S. to Canada, he said a 10 mills a kilowatt-hour for the pressurized water system now being used in U.S., he estimated the potential Canadian heavy-water power cost at 8.63 mills.

"I am sure that all of you recognize that our evaluation of the potential of the heavy-water natural uranium system is not completely consistent with that of the Canadians," he told the forum.

Lewis estimated Canada's proposed big CANDU commercial reactor, to be completed in 1964, will produce electricity at a cost of 4.75 to five mills a kilowatt-hour. He based this on a seven-per-cent rate of return on investment. Pittman made his estimate on a 14-per-cent return.

Lewis said that if his estimates of low operating and fueling costs are realized by events, the Ontario CANDU project will be only one of a series.

Alberta Passes Law Outlawing Trading Stamps

EDMONTON (CP)—The Alberta government announced today a sweeping legislation to outlaw all forms of trading stamps and similar schemes "for the purpose or intended effect of any commodity or service."

The legislation as amendment to the Alberta Trades and Business Act, was approved by Premier Manning's cabinet today. The ban on stamps became effective immediately.

E. C. Hansell, minister of industry and development, told reporters the legislation is "as wide as we could possibly make it."

Electronic Brain at $600,000 Yearly Rental Added to Command

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF today broke through the paper barrier.

Air Materiel Command, the people's business is Canada — $500,000,000 a year — put into operation an electronic data processing machine which can do in 1¾ seconds the work which it would take a clerk two weeks to accomplish.

Defence Minister Pearkes M.P. pushed a button and the switch put the machine in business. And replied, with a mechanical voice: "Thank you, Mr. Minister. I'm glad to be a member of the defence department."

The computer rids the RCAF's Air Materiel Command of the mountainous flow of paper required to keep track of 300,000 items in the air force inventory and order and supply them as needed.

Now, as requests stream in from squadrons and other units for items ranging from jet engines to paper cups, the computer by use of the 60,000 instructions stored on its memory drums will issue orders for replacements from the nearest available supply depot.

Dead machine eliminates people?

"No," says Air Vice – marshal Clare Annis. "The computer eliminates routine and allows the people in the command to be employed in things which matter."

"Our people will be lifted out of humdrum and will be employed in what they're educated for and worthy of humans.

"I think that a good work waiting for humans to do. It will require a lot of retraining, of course."

Other government agencies are considering switching their routine work to similar electronic brains. The Bureau of Statistics, from International Business Machines for $600,000 a year. The Bank of Nova Scotia in Canada but the CPR Dominion Bank, Sun Life, Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and Imperial Oil Limited are rooo to acquire them.

In Air Materiel Command, paper-pushing by clerks and junior executives will be done away with and the time required to issue orders for equipment replacements will be reduced to hours from days or weeks.

Cold and Snow Key Words In National Weather Report

By The Canadian Press

The cold, white word "snow" today lay across the weather reports of Canada, almost from coast to coast.

Some areas were digging out; others were wailing.

Southern Alberta reported the worst snowstorm so far this season. It stopped traffic and crushed hopes that grain—still standing in the fields — might be harvested.

Calgary reported seven inches of snow; Medicine Hat and Lethbridge more than five. Up to 10 inches fell in the Crowsnest Pass area in the southwest. The Trans-Canada Highway was all but impassable.

The storm raged from Red Deer in central Alberta down into the United States. Temperatures, under a blanket of very cold Arctic air, were in the 20s.

Another area hit was Gander, Nfld., where transport department snowplows were busy on the runways of International Airport for the first time this fall. Four inches of snow fell Monday night and more on Tuesday.

Any prospects? A disturb-

PC Govts.' Accomplishments Told by Diefenbaker, Frost

TORONTO (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Premier Frost of Ontario took turns Tuesday telling of the accomplishments of the Progressive Conservative party.

They addressed 1,500 delegates to the annual meeting of the Ontario Progressive Conservative Association.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he had spoken up to the United States Ambassador because he thought could do it and that his frankness had resulted in $75,000,000 in new Sub-contracts for defence in the first 10 months of this year.

"When we, in opposition, asked the government to speak up to the United States, they said it would be counter-he said.

FROST CITES GROWTH

Mr. Frost said Ontario's "unprecedented" growth was apparent in the 500,000 new dwelling units in 10 years—a $20,000,000,000 investment in physical assets; the increase in the people in the province each year, and the growth of electrical power and services.

He said capital requirements for the province "in the next 10 to 20 years are going to be something in excess of $17,000,000,000."

He said that a complete reconfederation of Dominion - provincial-municipal tax sharing must be approached next year at the Ottawa conference to achieve Ontario's goals.

He said he did not want to go

Egypt, Israel Fighter Planes Clash in Desert

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli and Egyptian fighter planes clashed today near the Israeli-Egyptian border.

The two governments, officially at war despite a long-standing armistice, gave differing accounts of exactly where the clash took place and of what happened.

The Israeli version is this:

Four Egyptian MiG-17s, Soviet-made jet fighters, penetrated 15 miles into Israeli territory and Israeli Defence Minister Ben Gurion's Chief Aide Dies

Three-Week Tour of Europe, Asia Is Planned by Ike Before Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower will be away from home for three or four days starting Dec. 19 for the Western summit conference.

Ike will be the most extensive overseas trip Eisenhower has undertaken.

He said the purpose of the trip —particularly the visit to Asia— is to build better understanding of the United States and goodwill.

Eisenhower noted that no American president has visited Asia. He said the countries of that continent are important to the U.S. particularly in view of the fact that a great portion of the world's population is centred there.

He expects to do most of his travelling in his new jet airliner.

Broadcast Body Sits in Camera For Final Word

No Announcement Before November 15

OTTAWA (CP) — The Board of Broadcast Governors sits behind closed doors today to prepare its final word on the ground rules for Canadian television.

It is expected to be a tough session, lasting two or three days, but no announcement of a decision is expected before Nov. 15.

Monday and Tuesday, 12 members of the board—and two assistant and three to one vacancy—listened to varying opinions on its proposed TV regulations.

In two days of oral argument it supported the principle that broadcasting industry generally and some elements of allied fields raised objection to the proposed regulations.

On the one hand, labor and groups interested in — but not directly involved with broadcasting were all in favor of the board's proposals.

NO HINTS FROM BOARD

The board members listened patiently and asked questions, but gave no hint whether they will stay with either stick to their guns or modify them to any extent.

The major issue is the board's proposal that 55 per cent of television programming must be of Canadian content.

Private broadcasters, represented by the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, flatly opposed any "percentage regulation," but offered alternatives. The percentage could be 55 per cent at the start and increased gradually or, better still, a percentage could be set for the CBC and the private broadcasters required to meet half that mark.

The CBC suggested a flexible quorum be set at "50 per cent or more" during the peak viewing hours between 6 p.m. and midnight, and somewhat less during other parts of the day.

Such radio and TV watchdogs as the Canadian Association of Consumers supported the 55-per-cent rule, and Montreal group representing dozens of artists and technicians suggested 75 per cent would be economically profitable.

Perhaps the bitterest arguments on one of the board's proposed regulations came from Toronto radio station CHUM and CKGN-TV, North Bay. It was objected at a proposed ban on "disc jockey" programs, or telecasting during the forenoon. CKGN-TV's licence is restricted to the mornings regularly for 14 months.

Harry McLeod described the proposal as an invasion and an infringement of freedom and freedom to watch TV in the morning.

Other private broadcasters, especially from cities close to the U.S. border, said the prohibition would mean the loss of viewers to the American stations.

The CBC also disagreed with the ban on morning programs, though it said it had no plans for them at the present.

J. F. Smethurst, chairman of CKCW-TV, Barrie, who appeared for the Canadian Broadcasters Association, said the morning - television ban would only result in a falling and declining wired television in its various forms.

Private stations must have freedom to compete against CBC for commercial revenue," Mr. Snelgrove said. Any television channel should be free to enable stations to provide the viewer with a service that will satisfy his hunger without giving him indigestion."

Cost Of Living Hit Record High In September

Consumer Price Index Jumped Point to 128

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian living costs rose in September for the third consecutive month, pushing the consumer price index to a record high of 128 on Oct. 1 from 127.1 a month earlier, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The rise of .7 per cent was due mainly to a 1.5-per-cent increase in food prices, described by the bureau as "seasonal."

But all other sectors of the consumer budget also showed price increases in September, moving the index two points above its level of 126 on Oct. 1 last year. The index is based on 1949 prices equalling 100.

The previous high for the index was the 127.1 level at Sept. 1.

BEEF PRICES STEADY

The sub-index of food costs moved to a record 124.2 from 122.4 during September under the impetus of a sharp seasonal gain in egg prices, and price advances for fresh tomatoes and lettuce. Milk prices rose one cent a quart in some Ontario cities for the first price change in this item in nearly two years. Prices of potatoes and other fresh vegetables showed little change but fruit and pork prices held steady.

Consumers also faced higher prices for a wide range of household goods and services.

The September rise in the price index followed an August increase in the index figures. The index of industrial wages and salaries at Sept. 1—latest figure available—was 171, down from 171.7 on Aug. 1 but up from 164.5 at Sept. 1, 1958. The index is based on 1949 figures equalling 100.

This wages index, computed from a survey of firms employing 200 persons or more and covering a wide range of industries, represents an average of total wages paid.

RECORD LEVELS

Apart from the gain in food prices, there were increases averaging .2 per cent in the other major sectors of the consumer budget making up the consumer price index. All but two reached record levels.

The sub-index of shelter costs rose to 142.4 on Oct. 1 from 142 on Sept. 1. The yardstick of clothing prices moved to 110.5 from 109.8, equalling the record high of May 1, 1952. The sub-index of household operations increased to 124.2 from 123.8 and that of other commodities and services increased to 135.5 from 133.3.

Canada and U.S. Defence Talks Will Be Staged

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada and the United States will have a new round of ministerial talks on joint defence problems in Nov. 30 at which Canadian officials said today.

The talks, to be attended by three cabinet ministers from each country, will be held at the White House, the presidential retreat where President Eisenhower and Premier Nikita Khrushchev held their talks last September.

Owner of Store Holds One Man At Rifle Point

WALKERTON (CP) — Police were alerted throughout Bruce County Tuesday for two men who defied the storekeeper's rifle and escaped after breaking into the general store at Pinkerton, eight miles south of here, early in the day.

A third man was held at rifle point by owner Roy Cramm until police arrived. Mr. Cramm said he heard the noise of the break-in from his home across the road, grabbed his rifle and met three men coming out the door.

He told police he shouted, "Stop or I'll kill you." Two men ran back into the store and leaped from a rear window. They fled on foot but investigators believe they later stole a car at nearby Carlsruhe.

John Buttler, 36, of Windsor has been charged with breaking, entering and theft.

Mr. Cramm said he fired several shots into the air as one of a car parked in front of the store, the other side of the building. Intruders out. The car was stolen recently in Windsor.

The Pinkerton store was robbed Oct. 28 of $700 in merchandise and two rifles. One of the rifles was found but the other, a shotgun, and fleeing suspects Tuesday. Other merchandise was in the trunk of the stolen car.

Check Candy For Alcohol

TORONTO (CP) — Chocolates are still being checked by the Ontario Liquor Control Board for any alcoholic content, a Toronto Supreme Court was told Tuesday during the trial of Canadian Breweries Limited on a combines charge.

E. Collings, LCBO chief commissioner said chocolates were checked.

Col. Charles Woodrow, LCBO solicitor, said Ontario law must have an alcoholic content of five per cent by volume but brewers were allowed a margin of margin above or below the figure.

The trial will continue it's strong enough to be intoxicating it shall not be sold," the chief justice said.

"I suppose that's one way of putting it," Woodrow said.

Owen Sound Man Is Sentenced

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Ernest Lloyd Hall, 30, of Owen Sound was sentenced to 18 months in jail Tuesday after he pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of $1,000 from the Owen Sound Transportation Company.

Hall was employed by the company as a bookkeeper.

Car Shatters Hydro Pole

A city hydro pole came to grief on Highland Ave. near the Devil's Elbow Tuesday afternoon when an eastbound auto went out of control and skidded off the roadway and over-turned onto its side.

The two occupants of the car were shaken up in the mishap with one receiving minor lacerations. They were treated at the hospital and allowed to go.

Police said a car driven by Donald Moore, 164 James Street, was eastbound when it attempted to pass another vehicle near the corner. The car went out of control on the slippery pavement and skidded to the north side of the street where it slammed into the hydro pole just west of Parker Street.

Pleasing Review Is Presented At Armouries

Over 200 people were present at the Hastings and Prince Edward Regimental Armouries here today evening to enjoy the O'Keefe Fall Review. This year, as usual, the review contained several top show business acts from both Canada and the United States to fill out a one and a half hour show, which certainly ran close to two hours in length as act after act was warmly received by an appreciative audience.

The review opened with a selection from the O'Keefe Quintet, led by Bill Badgley, and this group managed to give the listener an impression of an orchestra much larger than was to be seen before him. Under the happy handling of Jimmy Casanova, the acts moved along smoothly and quickly, although called back for encores on several occasions by the audience.

The opening number was by the Garrick Twins, Lee and Low, with a delightful display of pantomime, singing and superlative talent. They were followed by the dance team of Phil and Mirji, who performed several spirited selections, including an old soft shoe number, which greatly pleased the audience.

The master of ceremonies, Jimmy Casanova, then took up the role of performer with several comedy routines which tickled the fancy of his audience.

Undoubtedly one of the audience's favorites of the evening was Baron Buicks, who appeared recently on the Ed Sullivan television show. Displaying a tremendous agility with his violin, coupled with a keen sense of comedy, the Baron gave the audience a "really great" show alternating between comedy and classics with equal facility. His act was well received and several encores were demanded by the appreciative crowd.

The show was topped off with that famous Toronto trio, the Hi-Lites. Their vigorous harmony and pleasant buffoonery provided a fitting climax to a thoroughly enjoyable evening's entertainment. Certainly their act was evidence that Canada has the greatest amount of talent in the entertainment world. The keenness of the house was undoubtedly the reason that they were not allowed more encores.

All in all the 1959 O'Keefe Fall Review was a great success and was very well received by those in attendance, who soon forgot the cares of the Armouries parade floor.

Lois Smith, Prima Ballerina Of Ballet Company, to Appear Here

Vancouver-born Lois Smith, prima ballerina of the National Ballet Company of Canada, will be one of the stars when the company makes a one-night appearance here on November 9 in the Collegiate auditorium. Miss Smith enjoyed an annual busman's holiday in Europe last summer, when the Canada Council, a recently-established organization financed by the government to encourage the "arts, sciences and humanities," in Canada. She spent three months in London and Paris in the midst of the thriving theatre in these centres. Daily classes with a number of London's prominent ballet personalities were followed night by night by a wealth of theatrical entertainment.

Lois Smith and her husband, premier dancer David Adams have been with the National Ballet since its inception in 1951. One of the best-known husband and wife teams in Canadian theatre, they have been joined in the company by a couple from London's Festival Ballet, David Scott and Joanne Nisbet.

Miss Smith is best known for her lyric portrayals of the principal roles in "Swan Lake," "Les Sylphides," and other classical ballets. Several million people viewed her performance in "Swan Lake," when the classic had its first full-length television production in North America. At the same time she has created memorable roles in several contemporary works.

Described as a dancer of "unaffected and feminine grace," Miss Smith and her husband live in a Toronto apartment which they have turned into a sort of Dr. Coppelius' workshop. Home movie equipment, records, books and miscellaneous paraphernalia show the dancers' varied interests. Their household has been joined recently by David Adams' brother Lawrence, a soloist with the National Ballet.

Kiwanians Hear From Delegate To Convention

A report on the Ontario-Quebec-Maritimes district convention held in Montreal and a talk on the economics of inflation equal billing at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Belleville Kiwanis Club Tuesday at the Kiwanis Centre.

The meeting was under the chairmanship of Kiwanian President, Gerry Wishart, who announced that Bruce Lund will get an honorable mention award at the district convention for achievement in 1958. The award was planned on the Kiwanis banner by last year's president, Charles Lusk, who said he was honored the club had won this award during his term of office.

Mr. Lusk then gave a report on the highlights of the convention, which seven members of the local club and their wives attended. In attendance the local club was third best in the district, he stated. The Madoc club, with 11 members in attendance won the Len Foxard trophy for highest attendance in this division.

Of the many resolutions passed at the district convention, Mr. Lusk felt one was of particular importance, the resolution that Kiwanis clubs should observe a "work and pray for peace" observance each week, the second week in November.

He also reported on the election of Bob Stroud of the Oshawa Westmount Club as new district governor, and related greater local attendance at the Kiwanis convention to be held next year in Windsor, Ont.

Mr. Chandler was Kiwanian A. O. Drysdale, vice-president of the Canada Cement Plant at Point Anne, who spoke briefly on its 50th anniversary this year, and the method of inflation to address Mr. Drysdale described the process of producing cement.

He illustrated his talk by showing bags of the materials, which he said, were composed quarter of a bag or one-sixteenth of a barrel of cement. He explained the basic ingredients were limestone, crushed limestone and wet clay.

In his address he noted Canada was only second best in the world to Nova Scotia is used in the making of cement as though the United States coal is cheaper. The plant is subsidized by the federal government to encourage the use of Canadian-mined coal, he said.

The Canada Cement plant produces four million barrels of cement a year, he said.

Mr. Drysdale was introduced and thanked on behalf of the club by Kiwanian Gerry Wishart.

Prior to the address, President Wishart on behalf of the Belleville Kiwanis Club presented a wastani to volunteer their services as chair of the campaign. He emphasized the Appeal campaign, for start of its operation, will be the first for the residential canvass currently being conducted by the Red Feather objective of $35,000.

Dr. Ben Brain, vice-president elect, gave a report on the Kiwanis Travelogue series which opened with Dr. Brain, Mr. Wishart and local treasurer Bob Firestone, and Mr. Drysdale, who will be in charge of the subject for the next season.

A letter of appreciation from Bob Weese for the Kiwanis prize presented to him at the BCVS Commencement, Brighton, was read.

Initial Re-assessment Work Is Reported Well Underway

Field work on the initial phase of the program which will ultimately see a complete re-assessment of the entire city is well underway, it was noted today by Leighton Thompson, city assessment commissioner.

"We have received excellent co-operation from the property owners although in some instances residents don't seem to realize that to carry out a re-assessment we have to go completely through houses and check interiors," Mr. Thompson said.

East and West Bridge Street, running completely through the city from east to west, is being used as the trial run for the re-assessment program, which it is hoped will be complete in 1960 in time for 1961 tax notices.

This particular street was chosen because all types of properties in the residential and commercial fields, are represented. The remaining field work on Bridge Street is expected to be completed in another three or four weeks, following which the valuations will be computed.

Mr. Thompson said that the Department of Municipal Affairs assessment manual was being basically used but noted that was being adapted to suit Belleville standards.

Generally speaking the result of the re-assessment would be the raising of assessment standards in the city and unequal assessments would be levelled out.

It was expected that the primary basis of assessments would be 75 per cent of today's values, or about full valuation for the 1958 period.

With the completion of re-assessment along the Bridge Street area, Mr. Thompson said his workers would swing into the city itself in 1960 or what was previously known as Foster Ward. Other wards in the city would then be taken up in general order with the exception of those in the outlying areas and overall probability would be felt for the late 1960's.

Mr. Thompson had a note of advice for householders when assessment agents call.

"We want householders to make sure they are the assessors' identification cards before they are allowed into the house," he said. "Any unauthorized persons will have no opportunity of passing themselves off as assessors to gain entrance to a home."

Dec. 31 Now Completion Date For Moira Secondary School

December 31st has been established as the final completion date for the Moira Secondary School, the classroom section of which is now under the beautifying of the fall school term in September.

Still remaining to be completed by the general contractors, Fidelity Construction Company of Oshawa, are the various shops, the combined gymnasium and auditorium, and office accommodation for school administration.

Bay of Quinte High School Board secretary Roy Dulmage said today that the school art room was put into use a few weeks ago, while equipment is currently being moved into the auto shop for opening in the near future. Some rooms will not in use at the school are the machine shop, woodworking, auto shop and electrical shop departments.

Original deadline for the completion of the school costing $1,- 988,000 was set for September but at that time only the temporary general classroom section was completed and Principal James Munroe has since been forced to "make do" until the remaining accommodation is completed.

Despite the delay in final completion, Mr. Dulmage said the over-all picture was not too bad, although progress had appeared slower since the classroom section was completed in time for the school opening.

October Had 3.52 Inches Of Rainfall

District farmers whose wells are still low may still remain to be convinced, but October saw considerably more than the average amount of rainfall in the Bay of Quinte district.

This is shown by the monthly statistics from the city water filtration plant which lists the October rainfall at 3.52 inches, as compared with but 1.88 inches last year, and an average of 2.30 inches over the past ten years.

The month also was a bit cooler with a mean temperature of 48.7 degrees as compared with 50.3 degrees last year. The ten year average mean reading for October is 47 degrees.

Maximum temperature during October was 72 degrees with a low of 22, as compared with 71.2 degrees maximum, and 23.8 degrees minimum last year. The average maximum temperature for October is 75 degrees with a low of 26 degrees.

JAMES D. FORD
Tweedale, Belleville

Belleville citizens and former friends will regret to learn the passing of Mrs. Alberta Ford at her home, 5 Tweedale Ave., Toronto, on Monday, November 2, 1959, following a short illness.

Mrs. Ford, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Large, was born in Thurlow township, near Zion Hill, but had lived many years in Belleville.

Her husband, the late James D. Ford, was editor of the former Belleville Intelligencer from 1900 until 1910.

While living in Belleville Mrs. Ford was organist and choir leader of the Reformed Anglican Church, Isabel and Bridge St., and later at Emmanuel Church, Victoria Ave., where she and her husband made a great contribution to the spiritual life and growth of that church.

After their removal to Toronto, Mrs. Ford became a member of St. John's Anglican Church, York Mills, where she lived for 30 years, taking an interest in the church so long as her health permitted.

Although past ninety-four years of age, Mrs. Ford had retained her keen interest in all phases of cultural living.

She was a devoted wife and mother and leaves to mourn her loss two sons, Robert of Ottawa, and H. Gordon, Toronto, one daughter, Dorothy (Mrs. Whitney E. Cameron), Toronto, and two grandsons, Dean Ford and Gordon Ford, both of Toronto.

Her brother, Sydney Large of Belleville, survives, and a sister, Mrs. Elmer Cameron, predeceased her.

Resting at the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Chapel, 32 Everett Street, from 2-4 and 7-10 Friday, November 6th, until Saturday afternoon. Interment announcement appears elsewhere in this issue.

MRS. RICHARD SOBLE

Funeral of Mrs. Richard Soble was held Tuesday afternoon from the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Chapel, 32 Everett Street, where service was conducted by Rev. Gordon Woodcock.

Interment was in Burr's Cemetery.

The funeral was largely attended and numerous floral tributes were received.

Bearers were Bill, Allen, Kenneth and George Soble, Delbert Latchford and Edward Gunter.

MRS. REGINALD R. KESSLER

The funeral of Mrs. Reginald Robert Kessler was held Monday evening from the parlors of the John R. Bush Funeral Home, 89 Hillcrest Avenue, where service was conducted by Rev. Wilbert W. Coleman.

Interment was in Brampton Memorial Cemetery on Tuesday.

MRS. WILLIAM LANE

The funeral of Mrs. William Lane was held from the Roslin High School auditorium where service was celebrated by Rev. William McKim.

Interment was in St. James's Cemetery, where prayers at the graveside were said by Rev. Peter Murphy.

JAMES H. BAILEY
(Eldorado)

The funeral of Mr. James Bailey, R.R. 1, Eldorado, who passed away on Wednesday, October 28th, was held from his late residence to Eldorado United Church, where the service was conducted by the Reverend R. Fleming of Marmora. The many relatives and friends and the profusion of beautiful floral tributes testified to the high esteem in which the deceased was held in the community. Interment took place in Eldorado Cemetery.

Bearers were Findly Shaw, Hedley Shaw, George Palmer, William Chambers, Glen Davis, and Elmer Chambers.

PERCY CLAYTON GUNN
Madoc

The funeral service of Percy Clayton Gunn of Madoc, who died in the Belleville General Hospital on Saturday, October 31st, was held from the MacKenzie Funeral Home, Madoc, on Monday last. The Rev. Sinclair officiated.

Interment was at Hazard's Cemetery.

Mr. Gunn was a garage proprietor in Madoc district, where he lived all his life, having been born in Madoc Township the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Gunn. A bachelor in his 63rd year he had been ill for the past three months. He received his education in Madoc Township and attended the Presbyterian Church. He was active in community affairs, being a member in the Madoc village council and the local Chamber of Commerce and was well known and highly respected in the community. He was also a member of A. F. and A. M. No. 48, R.A.M. 161, the Canadian Legion, Madoc Branch No. 340 and the Royal Black Preceptory of Belleville.

Surviving are three brothers, Fred of Oshawa, Clifford of St. Catharines and Hugh of Port William.

Bearers were Douglas Sears, Gordon Lebow, Milo Chapman, Tom Burnside, Murray Smith and Ken Hall.

MRS. DONALD R. HANNAH

The funeral of Mrs. Donald Bruce Hannah was held Monday afternoon from the late John R. Bush Funeral Home, 89 Highland Avenue, where a service was conducted by Rev. Leslie E. Price.

Interment was in Belleville Cemetery.

Bearers were Jack Henderson, Vern Crawford, Bernard Foley, Keith Hannah, Eugene De Rushie and Bill Hannah.

PETER MURRAY

The funeral of Peter Murray was held Tuesday afternoon from the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Chapel, 32 Everett Street, where service was conducted by Rev. Alexander Page.

Interment was in St. George's Cemetery, Trenton, where prayers at the graveside were said by Mr. Page.

Bearers were Harvey, Raymond, Wesley, William, Harry, and Albert Murray.

A lodge memorial service was held in the chapel on Sunday evening by the Royal Black Preceptory, No. 853, Belleville, conducted by Worshipful Master Preceptor M. Blakely, Chaplain F. Kerr, and Registrar R. Ostolfi.

Expect Opening Of Federal Building In November

Although no official opening ceremonies have been announced, the new Federal Building at the corner of Station and Pinnacle Streets is expected to be ready for occupancy by the end of November.

Mr. Fred Wiegand of the architectural firm of Wilson and Wiegand stated today that interior painting and other finishing touches have been being done at the new $1,300,000 structure which is to house all federal offices in the city.

Scheduled to be moved into the handsome new structure are the post office, customs department, income tax department, unemployment insurance commission, department of agriculture, weights and measures, citizenship and immigration department, and the department of health and welfare.

Plans call for re-location of Station Street immediately in front of the new building to take up the slack in traffic caused at this point. The city is currently negotiating with the Federal Department of Public Works with respect to the cost of the re-paving.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market, with morning trading returning to its normal pace, today was moderately lower.

Volume at 11 a.m. was 325,000 shares compared with 308,000 at the same time Tuesday.

Stocks were led lower by industrials. Most losses, however, were fractional. Goodyear Tire, on two sales, eased three points to 184. Gainers included Standard Paving and Canada and Dominion Sugar.

Western oils eased a half point on index as profit-taking continued to wipe out gains recorded earlier this week and late last week. Mines were mixed to easier with base metals showing no definite trend. Coppers lost some ground but uraniums showed strength with Denison and Gunnar both adding fractions.

New York's Wall Street was closed Tuesday because of state and local elections. It reduced trading on the Toronto exchange considerably with the final volume of 308,000 shares the lightest in more than eight years.

The lack of interest helped point out the fact that Toronto needs Wall Street as a leader.

The volume was the lightest ever recorded since the TSE adopted its 9½-hour day. Monday's total was 2,038,000 shares.

Index changes: Industrials up .36 to 314.08; golds off .05 to 97.64; base metals up .80 to 107.22.

Macmillan and Bloedel B and Powell River, contemplating merging, shared gains. Macmillan added 1¼ points to 38½ and Powell River ¾ to 17¾.

Street Services Discussed by Town Council

TRENTON — The question of water and sewer services to Elizabeth Street was discussed at the session of town councillors to a marked degree again at Monday night's regular council meeting. A letter had been received from the Public Utilities Commission to the effect that, the water main and sewer main could be laid in the same trench, providing the water main were laid on a shelf formed of a solid bank of earth, three feet above the sewer main. The opinion was expressed in the letter that the cost of one trench, incorporating the necessary qualifications would be about the same as that for two separate trenches.

A letter had been sent out to the owners on Elizabeth St. by D. W. Larry, clerk-treasurer, pointing out to them the total cost of the improvement over a 15 year period, and asking them if, considering this cost, they still wanted the town to go ahead with water and sewer services in the area as indicated by a petition which they had presented to council some time ago. Mr. Larry stated that owners of 51 lots on the street had replied in the negative, bringing the total of those desiring these services below the required 66 per cent necessary to make installation of the services obligatory.

Councillor Lange stated that in his opinion, the town should provide services for the three householders who had made a direct appeal to have the services installed before the end of winter. It was the opinion of other members of council that if the work was to be done at all, it should include the entire street.

Councillor Claude Graham talked why the cost of the services on Elizabeth Street was so much higher than on Ramsay St. in the same vicinity.

Mr. Larry explained that it had not been necessary to install water mains in Ramsay St. when the sewer mains were laid, due to the fact that these mains had been installed by the P.U.C. at no direct cost to the lot owners, previous to the installation of the sewer mains.

Councillor Lange remarked that persons desirous of building houses in town in the future were going to find that they could not afford to build and pay the local improvement taxes at the same time. He insisted, however, that council had a moral obligation to provide services for the three householders he had mentioned earlier in the discussion. Councillor Brisbane said that he agreed with Mr. Lange. Councillor Wrenn felt that since the council had agreed to provide the services if the majority of the lot owners petitioned for them, that the work should proceed.

"I agree with Councillor Wrenn," Mayor Burt interjected, "Once houses are built on the street, the town will get a larger revenue in taxes. We don't get much out of vacant lots."

It was decided that the distances from the petition should be contacted and the local improvement costs discussed with them, in an effort to clarify the situation.

Trenton Group To Aid Retarded Children Formed

TRENTON—William R. Kirk, executive director for the Ontario Association for Retarded Children, was the speaker at the monthly meeting of the Quinte branch of the association held in St. Peter's School at Trenton on Tuesday evening. Mr. Kirk stated that he had gone into the work with reservations, but that he had found new meaning and purpose to his life through his work with the retarded. He said that the first class for retarded children had been started in Kirkland Lake in 1947, and at the present time schools, institutes and local associations are springing up all over Canada. The speaker stated that the Ontario association had a brief before the provincial government at the present time seeking "permissive legislation" which would enable school boards could take the schools for the retarded children into their own hands and lift the load of the local association from a financial standpoint.

Mr. Kirk urged the Trenton members to form their own association. He assured them that they were on the backing of the provincial association. He told his audience that this was a problem of the retarded child would be brought to the attention of the public by every publicity means available, to assist in the door-to-door canvass for funds which will take place Nov. 15-28.

Mr. Kirk was introduced by Barry Neiler, chairman of publicity for the Quinte association, and thanked by Mrs. Margo Scott, education chairman.

Mrs. Ruth Kennedy president of the Quinte Association, conducted the meeting.

Following Mr. Kirk's address, Mr. Stovell led in the organization of a branch of the association. The local group will be known as "Trenton and District Association for Retarded Children." Temporary slate officers for the charter association was announced: honorary president, Mr. T. Greenwood; president, Mrs. Eula Bonter; vice-president, F. K. Boulton; recording secretary, Mrs. McLaughlin; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Kay Richards; treasurer, Mrs. Stol.

Miss Helen Salter will head the local campaign for funds.

The nominating committee consisting of Mr. Greenwood and Mrs. D. Scott.

Over 30 Trenton residents joined the local association at the meeting, thus becoming charter members.

Frank Follwell, chairman of the Belleville campaign for funds spoke briefly to the group, assuring them of the continued support of the Belleville association.

Bench Suspends Sentence for 17-Year-Old

TRENTON — A seventeen-year-old youth who last week pleaded guilty to a charge of having stolen a car, driving it and selling it for $10., was given 2 years suspended sentence by Magistrate T. Y. Wills at yesterday's court in Trenton. A provision of the sentence was that the youth must stay with his father during the two-year period. He will report to a probation officer at set intervals. On the subject of restitution of the $10 being made by the youth to the man who bought the machine, Magistrate Wills expressed impatience with anyone who would buy such an article from a minor without investigating the circumstances. However, the youth was ordered to pay the $10 and the court cost.

Mark Borsma of Brighton pleaded guilty to the charge of being in illegal possession of an automobile and a jacket, the property of G. Cronk of R.R. 4, Frankford. He was remanded until Nov. 10 for sentence.

Kenneth Brooks 21, of 187 Marmora Street, pleaded guilty to a charge of driving a car while his license was under suspension. He told the court that "he wasn't going anywhere, just backing the car out of the yard by way of his home". Magistrate Wills pointed out to him that he had driven on a road, which constituted a breach of his suspension. He was remanded for $25 and costs and a further fine of $13 was levied on the charge of having a bottle of wine in the car.

Victor Lafee of 124 Division Street was given 14 days in jail for careless driving. The car, owned by his wife, Marion Lafee was driven by the accused while his licence was under suspension. His licence had been suspended in 1958 when he had served 7 days on the charge of driving while his license was suspended, but had failed to have the licence reinstated. On October 10th of this year he had been involved in an accident with a car driven by Leonard Dennis, on the corner of Dundas and Bay Streets.

John Pringle, barrister, appeared for the crown.

Trenton Council Briefs

TRENTON — In the opinion of a number of town residents, Trenton is, to a great extent, "in the dark". Petitions were read at Monday night's council meeting from residents on Louis Street, and members of the Library Board, regarding additional lighting in this street and in the vicinity of the library. In addition to these requests for a "little more light on the subject," Councillor Bradshaw asked that the matter on Marmora Street be increased by 100 watts, Mayor Ross Burtt stated that new lights be placed on Joseph Street, and quoted a resident of McCann Street to the effect that the extra wattage bulbs placed there by the PUC a short time ago were ineffective. It was agreed in the latter case that members of the council would visit McCann Street at night to ascertain the number of additional lights required and the most suitable location for these lights.

A request from the Victorian Order of Nurses that the rate for the hourly rate of $2.25 an hour for the visits of the VON nurses to the separate schools be increased to $2.75 an hour, will be considered by the next meeting of the Board of Health and members of the separate school board to this council for same.

A letter to the council from Dr. W. W. Weaver, stating that the sanitary sewer near his home and those of the rest of the VON and College Streets had "backed up" into his cellar three times in the past three years, causing him and his patients annoyance, was read. Dr. Weaver stated that his patients came to his office to be treated for illness, and to incur it. Councillor Bradshaw said that several large tree roots had been removed from the sewer on College Street, and that he felt sure he could be found when requested this year. E. A. Alexsey, town engineer, suggested that a check would be taken.

Mr. Larry reported that the Ontario Municipal Board had approved the by-law authorizing the borrowing of $140,000; 80 percent of the cost of the project will be borne by the commission.

Mr. Aldersey also reported that the work on the sewage disposal plant was being completed, stating that the pump house would not be ready for use until the middle of November at the earliest, and the sewage disposal system could not be put into effect until this was completed.

Council voted to rescind the by-law allowing employees at the municipal garage to work one half day Saturday as a statutory holiday. Councillor Bradshaw said that several large tree roots had been removed from the sewer on College Street, and that he felt sure he could be found when requested this year. E. A. Alexsey, town engineer, suggested that a check would be taken.

Will Employ Operator for Sewage Plant

TRENTON — At a special meeting in council chambers on Tuesday, Mr. W. Evans and Mr. D. S. Caverley, representatives of the Ontario Water Resources Commission met with members of Trenton council to discuss the formation of a local advisory committee and the appointment of an operator for the sewage disposal plant.

It was recommended that the committee be composed of the mayor, the clerk-treasurer, the town engineer, the chairman of sewage and sanitation and the chairman of finance. It was felt that this representative group would be able to act as a liaison between the operator and the Water Resources Commission to ensure efficient operation of the sewage system.

In reference to the operator, Mr. Caverley stated that the commission would place advertisements in the Trenton papers, and interview applicants. He said that local men would be given preference if they could come up to the qualifications the board required.

The standard conditions of employment set down by the committee require that the operator be given a six month probationary period, that he have an X-ray examination before being hired, that he be given a salary comparable to other local employees engaged in work of a similar nature, and that he receive other benefits, such as sick leave, vacation extra time allowance for overtime work.

The commission arranges hospitalization, pension fund and job training details.

It was pointed out at the meeting to adopt these suggestions of the commission representatives.

Who Would Have Resisted?

Before anybody gets too critical of Charles Van Doren, the university instructor who has confessed that he was coached on the answers which "won" him $129,000 on the TV quiz show "Twenty-One" he had better ask himself whether he would not have participated in the deception for $129,000. Most of the people who would answer this question in the negative are, we suspect, as guilty of deceiving themselves as Van Doren suggests he was when he "perhaps wanted to believe" that "it was all entertainment."

The thing that bothers us is not that Van Doren, and other individuals, should have been tempted to act a part in the offer of vast sums of money, but that other individuals who were responsible for the show should have apparently seen nothing wrong in the fake. This does not speak very highly for the calibre of the men who are in charge of television in the U.S.

Nor are we convinced that NBC has kept its skirts clean by suspending Van Doren from his $50,000 a year job when the possibility of him participating in a "rigged" program arose. With the present state of public opinion, it is obvious that NBC can no longer afford to employ him. The question arises, though, of whether he had been giving honest value for the $1,000 a week he had been drawing at his job.

If not, why was the company paying him such a high stipend? If so, would he have been given a chance to earn it had he applied for the position when he was merely a university instructor and not a celebrity.

If this incident does not give rise to some serious thinking about the entire scale of salaries in TV, it ought to do so. For, in the final analysis, whenever anybody gets paid more than he is worth, it is the public which finally pays the bill. That is true regardless of whether the person in question is the employee of a public or private organization. Every pay cheque entitles the receiver to the ownership of a certain share of goods which society, as a whole, produces. And if one man gets title to more goods than he produces, another must, of necessity, receive fewer goods than his just share. Do TV celebrities, on the average, by the promotion of the sales of products the sponsor sells, make possible such economics in merchandising and provide such entertainment that they are worth every cent of the salaries they are paid? We doubt it.

Greater Love - - -

A dislocated hip would be, we suspect, a painful injury. If it were received in the crash of an airplane the attendant jolt would be likely to add to the sufferings. If, after such an injury, one had to wait for hours before receiving attention, it would be expected that the pain would be greatly enhanced. If this ordeal were passed strapped in a seat, alone, in the open, we could be sure the victim would be overjoyed when rescued.

Yet 16-year-old E. Phil Bradley of Valley Forge, Va., who went through such an experience when a Piedmont Airlines plane crashed in Virginia, was not thinking of himself when the first rescuer reached the scene.

"I'm all right. Go on up and see if anybody else is alive," he told Air Force Sgt. John Wels.

Bradley was the only survivor. And, on the strength of his reaction, this miracle could not have happened to a more worthy man.

New Parking Solution

In Krestova, B.C., some Doukhobors have started to give up their drivers' licences because "the Doukhobor faith, being against sacrifice and violence, does not allow us to use the modern vehicles which result in hundreds of young lives sacrificed in violent highway deaths."

Parking authorities throughout the land ought to weigh the possible advantages of financing a few Doukhobor missionaries as an alternative to the expensive business of providing additional off-street parking lots.

Clears up a Mystery

A Piccadilly leather merchant in Old London has proven to be a brilliant abstract painter when he is hypnotized.

It is evident from the Associated Press report that not only the merchant, Ted Sterrett, but many others regard this as a passing strange.

We cannot agree. Far from creating a mystery, this report clears up one. It explains why some painters paint the way they do. Obviously, they are all hypnotized and know not what they do.

THE TREE IN SCARLET

By EDGAR A. GUEST

All year I passed it by.
It merely seemed to me
An ordinary tree
With naught to catch the eye.

Like others of its kind,
It stood among a throng,
Neither tall nor strong,
With no charm man could find.

That if some purpose had
In that particular spot

All year had struck me not
'Twas neither good nor bad.

And now these autumn days,
Where scarlet ought to be,
That long unnoticed tree
Is scarlet is ablaze.

A picture past compare
Makes all beholders pause;
Perfect the scene, because
That one red tree is there.

Drama Critics Cannot 'Make' a Play

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A friend of mine asked me why drama critics, present company excepted, are such a crabby lot. "Scurbalis all," he proclaimed.

In defence of this much-maligned breed, I asked him how he thought doctors would feel if they could diagnose illnesses but were unable to cure any — that is, if all their power were negative.

"They'd feel terrible," he shrugged, "but what has that got to do with the schlumps who write drama reviews?"

"This is exactly the position a drama critic finds himself in," I explained. "He can generally influence people to stay away from what he considers a bad play — but he has practically no power to make them attend a good play."

In my dozen years as a professional aisle-sitter, this has been the single most frustrating part of reviewing the drama. The public delights in an adverse review, and will stay away in huge numbers if the critics turn their well-formed backs on a production.

But the converse is not true. If the public intuitively feels it does not want to see a play, no amount of critical huzzahs can make it patronize the theatre.

When the anti critics insist that reviewers have too much power they point to the fact that they are stating only a half truth. Thus, a sensible destructive influence is out of proportion to his total impact.

I suppose this is the nature of the beast. We are always readier to believe something bad about a person than something good: ugly gossip may make us avoid a certain person, but goodness will not necessarily attract us to him.

Newspapers, generally, fall into the same unhappy category. Headlines about train wrecks, shark-crash, dealing with catastrophe, brutality, or sweetness-and-light story is hardly what we call "news" at all.

It is not true that most critical men is "negative," in that it true that most negative criticism is found and remembered, while positive comments are quickly forgotten.

Everyone remembers what Eugene Field said about the actor in "King Lear," or what Dorothy Parker called the "Rose Beautiful," or what Robert Benchley said to "Perfect-ly Scandalous" — but who remembers any of their laudatory remarks?

The human mind invariably reacts, not to the good, the true, the malicious, and the depreciatory. And the critic shoulders the blame.

STORTHOAKS, SASK.

This town was named to honor Sir Harry Brittain, organizer of the Imperial Press Conference. He experienced great difficulty in arranging transportation, and enlisted the aid of Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, then president of the CPR. Sir Thomas co-operated still formed such a liking for the Britain that he asked Sir Harry to select a name for this town. He responded by suggesting that his birthplace, Storthoaks, England, be used.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

IT CALLS FOR THE CURSE OF MAN

Have you ever asked yourself why sensible beings as most humans are get involved in war?

Think about war for a minute. Who wins a war? In the old days the king won. Later, flamboyant leaders won. Now the losers come to the day when nobody wins. And never in the history of all mankind have the enormous people gained by war. They have sloshed through the mud and taken spear and bayonet into their bodies and somebody else got the glory and the gain. The Napoleonic Wars! The Franco-Prussian War! The Spanish American War! The First and Second World Wars! What about the people who have fought these wars? The women who sat at home and wept! The children who grew up orphans? The children born who might have been, but were born because a man who might have been gotten them died in his youth in battle.

Are we insane? No place on earth, I believe, is insane. Nor warsat war. War is a game played by leaders and their governments. There is no sense to war. It is the cruel use of others by a selfish few. Sometimes the motivation appears to be their own interests at any cost.

Let us not be calm about the peace movement. We need to get on fire about this thing. War is an outrage.' It is a cruel procedure by which the strong and prominent climb over the weak and inconsequential to selfish glory.

War has upon it the curse of God. It needs also to have upon it the curse of man.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 4, 1933.

The war in Europe has likely dealt Britain a long economic blow, Wyatt Rupert Davies, publisher of the Kingston Whig-Standard and president of The Canadian Press, declared yesterday. Recently returned from a pre-war survey that carried him through most European countries, Mr. Davies described public opinion and other factors bearing on the war. In Germany, he had concluded after personal observation, the Nazi party individuals that 90 per cent of the people appeared to be behind Adolph Hitler. But he emphasized their support might be inclined to be a little lukewarm if effective enough to leave much of the population in semi-starvation.

The Ministry of Economic Warfare announced today that the Allied contraband control system had "intercepted and detained" about 500,000 tons of contraband suspected of being destined for Germany.

Forsaking highly-paid jobs, in many cases to get into the "big show," northern bush fliers are coming from all over the Dominion to Camp Borden to man the huge bombers and assault planes of the Royal Canadian Air Force, Men experienced in flying the mails in the northwest territories, veterans of the tricky Rocky Mountains skyways, and the manifold dangers attendant on reaching isolated mining posts of the north — all of them have in a back to school. For mastering the technique of military planes with speeds ranging up to 400 miles an hour is an art in itself — even for men with such a Short' experience with commercial ships.

Says Fat Men Poor Drivers

Toronto, Star

"Who drives fat oxen should himself be fat," quipped Dean Joel Johnson. That was 200 years ago, when driving had a different meaning. Now that automobile age, the fat man has been pitted against driving and fast chariots.

Dr. Rozaire Robillard of Sacred Heart Hospital, Montreal, told a medical panel that overweight sometimes is a menace behind the wheel because they get into more accidents than slim people. One reason is that fat men are less agile, he said. Then again, they are less argon so dear to psychiatrists, he blamed also the euphoria common to people whose sensibility is concentrated on food," to other words, how can you be alert to traffic signals if your mind is dreaming of delicious and sweet scents of beef boiling, of broiling chicken, of fried potatoes?

Dr. Robillard does not back his case with statistics purporting to show that fat men are more involved in accidents than the slim fellow? We have no statistics ourselves to prove such arguments as women being equal to men drivers. Yet what man believes that?

Instead of statistics, we invoke the wisdom and quotation of the wisdom of Julius Caesar: "I like not men in fear of these fat, sleek fellows, but rather of those pale, thin ones."

And true today as when he wrote it is Ben Jonson's line: "Enough and be fat, sir, your penance is known."

Howard Green Speaks Well

Ottawa Journal

There was a workmanlike air in the first speech of Mr. Howard Green to the United Nations. He wasted no time on the grand phrases, knowing well that grand phrases have a tendency to be empty phrases. He also did not make the mistake, so often made at UN, of trying to refer to all the matters before UN's coming months of session.

Mr. Green's handling of the Khrushchev speech in the UN was done with deftness. Note this:

"I listened with much interest to the disarmament plans outlined last week by Mr. Selwyn Lloyd for the United Kingdom and by Mr. Khrushchev for the USSR. We shall of course want to study these plans carefully and shall reserve detailed comments on them for a later occasion. For the moment I will say that I am entirely sympathetic with the general objective stated by Mr. Khrushchev in his proposal — namely, a world without arms. We would all like to see the world an complete disarmament. However, we are looking forward to some detailed explanations of his proposals, particularly with regard to inspection."

This was wise and cautious comment, done with simplicity. For note the last line. It goes also in this paragraph:

He mentions Britain's Selwyn Lloyd's plan because Lloyd happened to speak first but because this plan is similar in principle to that Khrushchev has had no monopoly on appealing to the world with. Lloyd's and others had been working for it these many years. Khrushchev's plan is Khrushchev has said nothing new; he simply accepted the plan. Something Mr. Khrushchev should say on disarmament will be carefully noted.

He proclaims without reservation that of course Canada is in agreement with the plan to ensure better without arms; and it is Khrushchev's plan that is being proclaiming our desire for a peaceful world. Then he asserts with what we like to think is Canadian realism that we look forward to the details of how such a happy goal is to be achieved. Then he continues:

From that opening paragraph he went on to discuss, not Mr. Khrushchev's plan — but Mr. Lloyd's — and then Mr. Khrushchev's.

Mr. Green, it would seem, though obviously he is anxious to fairness, is not likely to impair the reputation that Canada has gained for his fine distinction of its earlier envoys.

Deautraise and French pastry?

If you drink, don't drive, mu. Yes! But starting it early is essential, too. Not after a party, after some years, the really serious results of the disease have started to appear. When you start treating early, and keep at it, there is a very marked reduction in attacks, fewer disease and the other things that otherwise would be going on, tend to develop.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What causes bursitis? Is there a permanent cure?—P. S."

Bursitis is a sort of ache with a little fluid in it, which helps the joints, ride smoothly, as they move — elbow, knee, shoulder, etc. If too much pressure, strain or a blow inflames a bursa, that is bursitis. Draining, resting, sometimes injecting drugs are among the effective treatments. Avoiding new damage or pressure, to prevent recurrence, is obviously important.

To Your Good Health

POLYCYTHEMIA VERA IS THE OPPOSITE OF ANEMIA

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have been told by a hematologist that I have polycythemia vera. Could you explain this to me? Symptoms, treatment, cure? I am 68. — Mrs. P. C. G."

Polycythemia strikes three men for every one woman. It is usually seen at or after middle age — rarely often earlier.

It's a rather curious case in which there is excess of having too many red cells in the blood, the opposite of anemia. Normally there are 4 to 5 million red blood cells in a cubic centimeter. If the count is over 6 1-2 million, we consider the case as being polycythemia.

The symptoms are on the general side — possibly some weakness, headaches, dizziness, indefinite stomach distress, bloating, gassiness, sometimes easy bruising, and itching. These are not necessarily the kinds of symptoms that is definite enough to send a patient off to the doctor, you see.

The result is that polycythemia is usually found more or less by accident on a routine — is taken either as routine or for some other purpose, and it shows up. Likewise, victims of it do have ruddy, even florid complexions. They are regarded as being in good health.

Invariably we find that the spleen also has considerable hardening of the arteries, and usually the liver is enlarged along with it. (That's expectable.)

The disease itself is slow and stretches out over the years. In the old days, it had a "cessation" than a "disease" in the ordinary use of these terms. The red cells built up, but we must guard against, rather than the disease itself.

Mainly they are the things we guard against in hardening of the arteries and high blood pressure: heart disease, strokes and kidney disturbances.

In years past a drug (phenylhydrazine) was used because it depressed the red cells and helped get the count back toward normal. Also, X-ray treatment of the bones (the bones do take longer for the red cells to replace themselves).

After a time, four or five blood lettings a year may be all that is required for this line of treatment. On some cases, all three (X-ray, radioactive phosphorous and blood-letting) may be combined.

Is the treatment effective? Yes! But starting it early is essential, too. Not after a party, after some years, the really serious results of the disease have started to appear. When you

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

First, we had the general store in the countryside. Its function was to deal in everything from pain-killer to wedding gowns. Inci. dentally, it was a great place around it swelled into a town, we got grocery store, dry-goods stores, butcher shops and drug stores. The business was divided up.

Then, when the town grew into a city, the general store and general store hadn't been a bad idea after all. They reintroduced it under the name of department store.

But the department stores gave ideas to the corner drug stores, and they began to sell bathing caps, then bathing shoes; and the next thing you knew, you had trouble finding the little drug counter at the back of the drug store.

This gave ideas to the grocery stores, seeing all those people helping themselves around the drug stores. So they became supermarkets, and the department, grocerits weren't enough; and they began to sell children's underwear, then kitchen utensils, then packaged tours.

And pretty soon they were general stores too. What all commerce was suffering was nostalgia. They were all trying to be country general stores again.

But I bring you news from Texas, Arizona and points in-between.

The gas stations have caught on.

Now you haul into a service station, and they have cute little circuits and all around the lot, offering kitchen utensils, bargains in fishing tackle, tin plates, light berchiefs, footwear and sweat shirts.

Sell, sell, sell. That's the idea.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEWS ADAMS

HUMOR

So long as a man retains his sense of humor, just that long shall he grow and remain young.

The "funny papers" of the world and the jokes and pieces of humor published in Reader's Digest and other newspapers are really the saviors of humanity. "Laugh and the world laughs with you." They will always be true. A joke, a funny story is like a ray of sun or sunshine into the hearts of men.

"You!" this man never be serious!" cried Secretary Chase, referring to the great War President, during the trying days of the Civil War. "We meet to discuss tremendous issues and he asks us to listen to a story."

Bruce Barton, former editor of "Every Week," in an article about the humor of the late Woodrow Wilson, tells of a time when the President was visiting for members of the Reception Committee who had come from the Halls of Congress to deliver his great Peace Terms but were delayed by the Public Printer, who was a genial, Irishman and who insisted on telling a story. When the Committee found the President in a very jolly mood and heard the story and replying in kind with one in Scotch dialect.

If every man and woman could form the habit of hearing and telling "a joke a day," there would be fewer sour faces and stomachs in the world by some millions.

Instead of taking a "pill" before laughing and going to bed, why not try a joke?

ATTACK WEAPON — Seized by Toronto police Monday was this sawed-off shotgun with shells following a shooting attack on a doctor in downtown St. Michael's Hospital. Dr. George Callahan, 35, was shot in the back by a man who strolled through the hospital wearing a tweed coat, a peaked cap and a homemade linen mask. Dr. Callahan's condition after surgery Tuesday was described as "very good." A suspect, Alfred Hugh Darrese, 28, of Toronto, was arrested after the incident and charged with attempted murder. COLD AND SNOW

ance is reported heading east into the Maritimes, with more snow.

In the Montreal and Ottawa areas, there were flurries. About two inches fell Tuesday in Ottawa, most of it melting quickly. Montreal, with temperatures about freezing, greeted its first flakes about dusk.

In Manitoba, the word was "Generally cloudy with snow-flurries and temperatures dropping to the 15 to 25 degrees above zero mark in the southern to 15 above in some northern regions."

Southern Saskatchewan reported light snow falling with a high temperature for today set at 35 degrees. Snow in the north was the word with colder temperatures.

Even the normally warm west coast lay under a blanket of Arctic air. Heavy frost was forecast in the fruit-growing districts.

In the Espanola area of Northern Ontario, the fighting snow and turbulent water a the falls on Whitefish River hindered the search for Arnold Esquimaux, a 24-year-old Indian guide missing on the river since Thursday.

Temperatures were below freezing in the Medicine Lodge district of Alberta where the search for Jim Herman, trapper missing since Friday, continued. He had light clothing and only six rounds for his rifle.

Mrs. Inez Warkman, 53, lost on Seymour Mountain near Vancouver since Sunday, was found Tuesday near the 4,000-foot level. She was picked up by helicopter and flown to Vancouver where she was reported in satisfactory condition.

What happened to her between Sunday and today was not immediately known. She was lightly dressed and had no food or matches. The weather on the mountain has varied from fog to heavy rain and wind, and night temperatures ranged in the 40s.

COLONY CLOSED

VICTORIA (CP)—Lacking any patients since 1956, the British Columbia leper colony on Bentinck Island near here has been closed. The three cases of leprosy found in Western Canada in recent years were sent to a treatment centre at Tracadie, N.B.

SHOT IN HOSPITAL — Dr. George Callahan, 33-year-old doctor at St. Michael's Hospital in downtown Toronto was shot over the left kidney Monday by a man who walked through the hospital wearing a homemade linen mask. Dr. Callahan's condition after surgery Tuesday was "very good." Alfred Hugh Darrese, 28, of Toronto, was charged with attempted murder. Police said the suspect had been receiving treatment at the hospital. A sawed-off shotgun and 20 shells were confiscated by police.

Sports Editor George Dulmage Dies of Leukemia

TORONTO (CP)—George Dulmage, former sports editor of The Telegram, died in hospital today of leukemia. He was 50.

Mr. Dulmage, who resigned from The Telegram in June because of poor health, had been in and out of hospital for the last year.

Born in Guelph, he was the son of Mark Dulmage, editor of The Sun-Times for 28 years. George grew up in Owen Sound where he covered his first sports story at the age of 12. After high school he spent two years as a candy-maker, hardware clerk, railway lineman-recorder and waiter before going into the newspaper profession permanently.

During the Second World War, he was in the RCAF for three years, including 18 months as a bombardier overseas.

His father was born in Amelasburg.

Brighton Potato Club Wins Competition

The members of the team are seen in the photo being congratulated by their member of parliament, the Hon. W. A. Goodfellow, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, who addressed the banquet at which the winners were announced and trophies presented, left to right: Hon. W. A. Following the business meeting, the members worked on bazaar articles.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. T. Colfyer, and her group.

Wedding

CLARK — JOHNSON

Grace United Church, Peterborough, was the scene of a lovely autumn wedding on Saturday, October 10, at 3 p.m., when Marian Eleanor Johnson, of Peterborough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Johnson, Springbrook, became the bride of John Matthew Clark, also of Peterborough, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Mathew Clark, of Springville.

The Rev. W. D. Elmslie, pastor of the church, officiated at the double-ring ceremony before a lovely background of white chrysanthemums and ferns. White satin bows decorated the pews.

Mrs. E. Redmond rendered the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Adam Hawley as he sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "O Love That Casts Out Fear."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Elwood Johnson, the bride was charming in her full-length bridal gown of white brocade, sprinkled with sequins, embroidered with a modified scoop neckline, bordered with hand-clipped brocade flowers at the bodice veil was edged with lace and caught to a pillbox lace cap enhanced with sequins. She carried a cascade bouquet of red Sweetheart roses. A single strand of pearls completed her costume.

She was attended by Miss Barbara Marchen, Peterborough, maid of honor, and Miss Pauline Johnson, of Mount Pleasant, Rawdon, niece of the bride, as bridesmaids. They wore similiar gowns of royal blue velvet with white accessories featuring unpressed pleats and rhinestones, matching white headdresses and shoes, wrist-length white gloves and carried bouquets of red and white carnations.

Mr. Keith Fairburn, Peterborough, was the bridegroom's attendant, while Mr. Donald Johnson, Mount Pleasant, Rawdon, brother of the bride, and Mr. Jim Cleland, Peterborough, nephew of the groom, ushered the guests.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. The bride's table was tastefully appointed with white and silver and centred by a three-tier wedding cake, decorated suitably for the occasion and topped by an ornament of white doves bearing double wedding rings, misted about the base with white tulle and scattered petal pink and white roses. Tall white candles in crystal holders and the bridal bouquets added a nuptial accent.

The guests were received by the bride's mother, who wore a gown of Dior blue figured arnel, with matching hat and gloves in forest glow shade. Kolinsky furs and wore a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. T. Clark, mother of the bridegroom, assisted in the receiving line, was attired in royal blue crepe gown, with rose accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

For a wedding trip to the U.S.A., the bride donned a cinnamon wool crepe dress, with matching leather hat and bag, accessories and a corsage of bronze Sweetheart roses.

Guests were present from Stirling, Belleville, Perth, Madoc, Campbellford, Marmora, Springville, Bethany and Frankville.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained to a kitchen shower by Miss Barbara Marchen. Mrs. Howard Clyde held a miscellaneous shower in her honor and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Fairburn entertained at a dinner party and presented the happy couple with a purse of money. Associates of the DeLaval Company presented them with an exceptional chair and a magazine table.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark are residing at 732 Gillespie Street, Peterborough.

This — and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

There are some odds and ends from the last two weeks' shopping sprees that might as well be rounded up for a while. First, maybe we should repeat that before a homemaker ever goes into a store, she should sit down and decide what it is she really wants. She should take a good look at her family and her way of life. Will what she chooses suit the way it will be kept? Also, a good homemaker should know just what her budget will let her spend and make up her mind that she is going to keep within her price range. With all the scientific selling, a woman has to be smart to make sure it is she and not her subconscious that is doing the shopping.

Do you shop for your husband's shirts? If so, you are in good company, since we are told that four out of five men would rather this little chore. Clerks in men's wear shops insist that eight out of ten men wear the wrong size collar and so equal number have only a dim idea of the correct sleeve length. So before your next shopping trip, and especially before Christmas, work out the tape measure and be sure. The collar should fit comfortably and sleeves should end at the wrist bone. Any man over-quarter to one-half inch shows beneath the coat sleeve.

The design and color of the shirt you buy may need more consideration than they have been giving. Even though white is still the most popular, many men like a slight pattern or a stripe. We are told that an average weight man generally looks better in a striped shirt. Collar styles have changed and there is much more variety today so that you should consider the shape and contour of your husband's face - and his overall build.

To turn to another kind of article, we find that, despite the fact that our houses are warmer, the demand for flannelette is especially for nightwear, shows no sign of diminishing. Indeed, cotton flannelettes are popular as ever. Canadian fabric and seem to go with Canadian winters. They are more widely used in this country than anywhere else and our designs and patterns are copied by other companies the world around. Soft and warm for winters, our cold weather clothing is very important. We find that this is becoming lighter in weight and more comfortable without sacrificing warmth. This season there is a new, soft, light-weight interlining which promises to achieve the ideals of this trend. It is a plastic foam substance that is feather-weight, soft enough to drape like other fabrics and yet wonderfully warm. It is being used as an interlining in coats, snowsuits and many other cold weather fashions. It is said to insulate the body with its millions of tiny air cells which allow the fabric to breathe but still prevents the escape of body heat or the infiltration of outside cold.

The fabric can be washed in many thicknesses and is guaranteed completely washable and dry cleanable. Wafer-thin types are used in jackets while thicker versions go into hunting jackets. It can be laminated directly to fabrics and suit and town with them and is said to transform even lightweight fabrics into winter proof protection as warm as fur.

Experiments with paper fabrics have been going on for some years. Recently, under the border word comes that fabrics made of paper are an actuality. A designer has created a wardrobe from woven paper fabrics, most of them brightened by metallic threads. They are sewn on standard machines; the skirts and dresses are said to require a lining but the coat has sufficient body to remain unlined. The idea behind this fabric is that the garments are made from it would be so economical that they would make it possible to toss out clothing items without bothering to get them cleaned.

Why not paper clothes then, when we have had the disposable tissue handkerchiefs with us for a long time, indeed, we give the elegant handkerchief on. If paper fabrics catch on, the as a gift and it may be used as dry-cleaners won't like it.

'Need of Parents In Sec. H-S' Topic at Assoc.

The November meeting of the Belleville Collegiate Home and School Association was held at the Collegiate on November 2, at 8:00 p.m.

Mr. M. Linscott, president, welcomed these present, including a number of new members, and opened the meeting in the usual manner.

Mrs. R. Jones, president of the Belleville Home and School Council, introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs. L. S. Raper, chairman of Secondary Schools Committee, Ontario Home and School Federation. Her topic was, "Why are parents needed in Secondary Home and School Associations?"

This, Mrs. Raper felt, was a question parents should study and also attend the Association meetings. In this way, parent and teacher may both better relationship and so benefit the student.

A pamphlet "Don't be a dropout parent," issued by the Ontario Education Association, gives comprehensive reasons why a parent should continue to support the Secondary Home and School Associations.

Dealing with the problems of finance, Mrs. Raper explained the necessary advance in the cap-itation fee for the coming year, and gave various instances of how money is being spent to the best advantage.

She further enlarged on the need of parents to visit Secondary Home and School Associations now held four meetings only per year, so each meeting should have a program of high standards, carefully planned.

At the conclusion of her address, Mrs. Raper was thanked by Mr. Linscott.

The entertainment provided by the "Key Notes" quartet was greatly enjoyed. Their selection of songs was pleasing and tuneful and they gave freely of their time and talent.

A vote of thanks was heartily responded to by those present.

Refreshments served in the cafeteria to bring a rewarding evening to a close.

Renowned Dutch Organist Delights Local Audience

By EUGENE LANG

This city was indeed fortunate to be included in the itinerary of the first North American tour of the renowned Dutch organist, Fedja Asma, who made his initial appearance here last evening at the console of Bridge Street United Church organ. Mr. Asma has been playing the organ since the early age of five and today is recognized as perhaps the finest organist in The Netherlands. He gives about two hundred organ recitals annually before a stabilized audience of over 100,000 listeners and has promoted interest in this king of instruments through the medium of recitals, radio broadcasts and recordings. Well known in Europe, he is now making his first tour of Canada and the United States in a series of about thirty recitals.

The program chosen by Mr. Asma was one that included some of the finest examples of organ music written in the last two hundred years and consisted of all original works for this instrument. It is a pleasure to report that this was not marred by the inclusion of any "transcribed" music for the organ, as so many organists today are wont to dress up their recitals with these transcriptions.

Perhaps the most popular and familiar of all Bach's organ works, the mighty Toccata and Fugue in D Minor, was chosen as the opening selection by Mr. Asma. His performance of this masterwork was one of solidarity and grandeur and he did not play it as a vehicle for display only, letting it's virtuosity unfold from the secondary position instead of using them for physical calisthenics as so many organists have a habit of doing. The fugue was played at a more measured pace than usual, but this only heightens the effect as the tonal edifice builds in a more grandiose way towards its blazing close than when taken too quickly.

Two movements, from Handel's 13th Organ concerto and the Cantilene from Rheinberger's 11th Organ Sonata were two smaller compositions that were beautifully realized by the soloist. Next came the Prelude and Fugue on the Name of B.A.C.H. This is said to be one of the most difficult pieces ever written for the organ, and one that demands the utmost in dexterity from the performer. Liszt barred no holds here, but under the capable hands and feet of Mr. Asma the Canaval yielded to the fullest and gave with shattering power the waves of sound that Liszt packed into its measures. Truly a memorable interpretation of this great mass of sound and fury.

Two hymnlike chorals preludes on Music from the Psalms, arranged by Leo Smet, a former teacher of Mr. Asma and one of Holland's great organists till his death in 1937, were the final two works played before intermission. One slow and stately, and the other rushing and furious, both attested in no uncertain terms to the stature of Mr. Asma as an organist of exceptional genius.

Three movements from the Fifth Symphony in F Major of Charles Marie Widor, that grand old man of French organ music, were next played by Mr. Asma. Here utilizing the organ in the so many different tonal choirs and combinations that Widor was so fond of writing into his music, Mr. Asma created new pinnacles of varied sound and symphony in his conception of this great symphony. Again, at no time did he use exhibition or exhibition's sake alone, but made it subservient to the fuller realization of the composition as such. Tremendous degrees of sound poured forth in this great work, crowned with very agile pedal work.

A short and lyrical Andante by Simon Landsman followed by Mr. Asma's own improvisation on an old Dutch folk song. "Merck toch hoe sterck." brought the recital to a close. In his improvisation Mr. Asma demonstrated remarkable ability in his handling of the theme upon which he built tier upon tier of embellishment and variation, with four voiced fugue included. All in all the soloist gave a recital that left his hearers pleased and satiated to the utmost with his fine interpretations. One short encore was given following the scheduled program. This recital was sponsored by the Dutch Community of this area which is to be commended for bringing its distinguished native musician, Mr. Asma, to Belleville.

Eggleton WMS. W.A. Sponsor Fine Bazaar

MADOC JCT. — The annual bazaar under the auspices of the Eggleton W.M.S. and W.A. was held last Friday afternoon at the home of the W.A. president, Mrs. William McMullen.

There was a good number in attendance from the neighborhood families and these were welcomed by Mrs. McMullen as they arrived.

In the double living room many attractive articles were on display.

A long table on one side of the room held embroidery work, cushions, towels, tea towels, foam rubber flowers and corsages, dresser scarves, tiny dresses and baby clothes.

At one end of this table was a display of aprons, both large and small, fancy and practical. All these displays were in charge of Mrs. S. Danford and Mrs. McMullen.

The home-cooking table was presided over by Mrs. C. Pitcher and Mrs. N. Wannamaker. Appetizing pies, cakes, cookies, sale squares, macaroons, tatty tarts, found a ready sale. At this table, too, there was a large table filled with bags of homemade candy, which was quickly sold.

FLOWERS

Two tables holding a variety of flowers, African violets, single and double in a great variety of colors, ferns and hanging baskets were well patronized.

Other displays were the 25-cent touch and take mystery parcels, and the table with jars of home-made pickles, jams and jellies.

Later, the guests were all invited to the dining room which was attractively decorated with sprays of autumn flowers.

Here the five quartet tables, appointed with white embroidered tea cloths were centred with small red apples, filled with chrysanthemum blossoms, sitting on tiny white doilies.

Those serving were: Mrs. Maurice Cleary, Mrs. Forde Stapley, Mrs. Harold Chambers; and Mrs. Keith Johnson.

Mrs. Bruce Stapley was in charge of the tea-making, while Mrs. Murney Kirkey, Mrs. Selton Frost and Mrs. Frank Smith assisted in the kitchen and replenished the plates of sandwiches, relishes, cookies and tarts.

The W.A. treasurer, Mrs. Warren Harlow, reported that the proceeds from the bazaar were most gratifying.

Officers and members of Eggleton W.M.S. and W.A. wish to extend thanks to all who helped in any way to make this such a successful event.

Fitted Flattery

By ALICE ALDEN

Fitted flattery is here again in fur and fabric coats. Here is an outstanding fitted topper, in a rich black and cognac brown plaided woolen. Paneling lines march in front in a dual plumb line under a full shawl collar. The black leather belt accents the fitted waistline with concealed slit pockets adding detail.

St. John Ambulance Corps Sponsors Party

St. John Ambulance Cadet Crusader Division held its Hallowe'en party with 43 present, at the Kiwanis Centre on November 2.

Between the skeletons, ghosts and cat calls, costumes were judged for the best original and funniest. The junior prizes went to Patsy Dawkins, Christine Hall and Barbara Burchill.

For Cadets: Mary Dawkins, Dianne Blair, Mary Ann Burns.

Best dancing couple on the floor: Lillian Reid and Marilyn Phillips.

Games and a peanut scramble were enjoyed.

Mrs. Ashley was the fortune teller, while Mrs. Reid was the gypsy and Mrs. Baverstock played the ghost. Refreshments were served with candy and goodies handed out.

SCHOOL ALLOWS SMOKING

SALISBURY, Md. (AP)—Should high school girls be allowed to smoke during school hours? Apparently many Salisbury parents think so. George H. Corddry, principal of Wicomico High School, says the school has lifted its ban on smoking by girls because "considerable pressure has been exerted by some parents to allow it." Boys had been allowed to smoke in certain areas of school property for years.

55 years in Belleville

Wedding

MALLORY — STEWART

Holloway United Church, Belleville, was the setting for a recent lovely autumn wedding when the Rev. C. W. Coleman united in marriage, Audrey May Stewart, of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. Alfred Stewart, and the late Mr. Stewart, to Robert Maurice Mallory, of Frankford, R.R. 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice F. Mallory. Baskets of large Commercial chrysanthemums adorned the church rail, and white satin bows the guest pews.

Mr. Clifford Tempier, church organist, provided the traditional wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Allan Stewart, of Toronto, was radiantly charming in her bridal gown of bridal-white nylon chiffon over net and taffeta, featuring a fitted bodice with mid-riff bow, square decolletage neckline, offset with camisole inset of crushed pleats and short sleeves. The bouffant floor-length skirt, of shirred folds was accented by a back butterfly bow. She wore a shoulder-length veil of silk nylon held by a coronet encrusted with seed pearls and sequins and carried a white Bible crested with red Sweetheart roses and rosebud-knotted streamers of white satin ribbon.

Mrs. Cecil Smith of Bellerville, as matron of honor, sister of the bride, was gowned in medium blue crystal charm fashioned with round neck deeply "V"-pointed at the back, having short sleeves and full skirt with crossed nylon sash of cascading streamers to the hemline at back. The bodice was in fitted style, and she wore a matching bandeau headdress, and mitts, and carried a nosegay of white 'mums mingled with ivy.

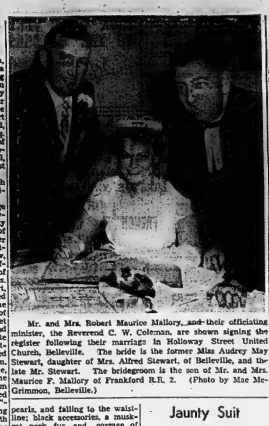
Miss Wanda Mallory, of Belleville, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Edmund Hinze, also of Belleville, were bridesmaids, attired alike in coral-rose crystal charm fashioned similarly to that of the matron of honor, with matching mitts, white feather headbands, white satin pumps and carried nosegays of white 'mums and ivy centred with pink 'mums.

Mr. Cameron Sine, of Frankford, R.R. 2, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. John Stewart, of Toronto, brother of the bride, and Mr. Donald Pierce, of Brigden, Ontario, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, were ushers.

At the reception held in the church parlor, the bride's mother received, wearing a cocktail-length gown of Italian silk in navy blue, fashioned with empire lines accented with a cummerbund of shirring. The bodice featured a low "V" decolletage and bracelet-length sleeves. The sheath skirt was accentuated by a panel of self-shirring. A two-toned blue feather hat, short muskrat jacket, white and black accessories, and corsage of pink roses completed her ensemble.

The bridegroom's mother, attired in rose brocade taffeta in street-length, with fitted bodice having a neckline softened by matching nylon chiffon caught at the shoulder with seed pearls, and falling to the waistline; black accessories, a muskrat neck fur, and corsage of yellow roses, assisted in the receiving line.

The bride's table, appointed with white damask, a three-tiery wedding cake adorned with pale pink roses and blue birds and cockeled about the base with pink tulle flanked by pink candles in crystal holder, and the bridal bouquet, completed a pretty nuptial setting.



For travelling to Niagara Falls, Buffalo, N.Y., through the States of Pennsylvania and West Virginia, to Ohio, Michigan, and on to Sarnia and back to Belleville, the bride chose a medium blue wool dress on simple lines, with round neckline, and softly pleated bodice, grey Persian lamb jacket, white silkknit hat and gloves, and black accessories, with corsage of red Sweetheart roses.

Guests attended from Ottawa; Brigden; Toronto; Actinolite; Stirling; Trenton; Frankford; Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Two miscellaneous showers were held in honor of the bride prior to her marriage; one at the home of Mrs. Clifford Wheeler given by the girls of Royal Bank of Canada, business associates of the bride; and the other at the home of Mrs. Edmund Hinze, of Belleville. She was also the honored guest at a pantry shower given by Miss Jean Vickers, and So-Ed friends and at a trousseau tea given by her mother.

The bride's gift to her bridegroom was a cuff-link set, and the bridegroom's gift to his bride, cultured pearls.

Mr. and Mrs. Mallory are residing at Frankford, R.R. 2.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maurice Mallory, and their officiating minister, the Reverend C. W. Coleman, are shown signing the register following their marriage in Holloway Street United Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Audrey May Stewart, daughter of Mrs. Alfred Stewart, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Stewart. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice F. Mallory of Frankford R.R. 2. (Photo by Mac McGrimmon, Belleville.)

Bail fringe, a nice softening detail, is used at the collar and down the front of this wool jersey suit, which comes in black, beige and mauve. This very useful suit is slightly shaped and has its flapped pockets placed at about the waist. Good on its own, with a fur or fur jacket, and, later on, under a winter coat.

Fall Fruits For Fatties

by Mary Moore

Every mail that arrives brings at least one wistful letter telling me the writer is overweight.

One thing that puzzles me is why would-be reducers ask such questions as "How many calories in an average piece of lemon pie?" or "do cake mixes have as many calories as homemade cake?" Why tantalize yourself with such calorie-packed deserts?

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY

Garlic-salted Baked Spareribs; Applesauce; Fresh Frozen Peas (flavor with butter and a little sugar); Cabbage and Pineapple Salad (see Tuesday); Hot Rolls; Honey Dew Melon with Lemon; Coffee.

I ply you — I even nag you to eat more fruit in its natural state for good nutrition and since it has no added sugar or cream or butter it too is low in calories.

If you really want to reduce, simply eat fresh fruit for dessert as one of your steps toward lower calories and better nutrition.

The next best idea is to serve fruit candied up a little so the rest of the family does not have to feel they are on your Spartan diet too.

The recipes I am giving you are foe fruits available now.

BAKED APPLES :

On my market I can buy Gravenstein and Wolfe River apples and they are wonderful bakers. With your sugar bowl and sharp-pointed paring knife remove cores, being careful that the little eod case comes out too. Fill with 1 tablespoon sugar (reducers could use 1 saccarin tablet dissolved in 2 tablespoons hot orange juice) and sprinkle top sparingly with nutmeg. Bake in very hot oven of 425 deg. Fahr., to make them puffy and tender, for about 20 to 40 minutes. Serve with top milk or cream if allowed or home if not.

RUBY PEARS:

Prepare Ruby Sauce first: Juice and grated rind of 1 orange, grated rind of 1-2 lemon, 1-2" stick cinnamon, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 cups water, 2-3 cup sugar and 1-2 teaspoon (30 drops) red food coloring (or instead of sugar and red food coloring add 1 cup (8 ounces) red currant jelly.) Simmer these ingredients together 5 minutes while you pare but leave whole, with stems on if possible, pears and halve and core, 4 or 5 large Bartlett or Anjou pears. Arrange cut side up in buttered baking dish. Pour prepared hot sauce over prepared pears, being sure all surfaces have been coated to protect them from air. Let stand 30 minutes. Then baste and cover dish with aluminum foil and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. about 40 minutes or until pears are tender. Serve warm, spooning some sauce over each portion.

ORANGES:

1) Glamorize oranges by arranging a tray of fancy cheeses and crackers surrounded by sliced oranges or 2) oranges the skins of which have been peeled back into 6 "petals," tucking tips under. 3) Arrange orange slices or sections in a border around a mound of cottage cheese.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mrs. L. L. — We don't know what to do for Ethel.

Ethel L. — I'm a hopeless case.

Mrs. L. L. — How can I help my daughter Ethel, who has grown to almost six feet at the age of 17?

She is so unhappy and self-conscious that it breaks our hearts. I have tried to encourage her to stand straight and be proud of her height, but she says she is just ugly and nothing can change the facts. She doesn't go out to parties or on dates and things are getting so bad she doesn't even want to go to school.

I am ready to spend anything to get lovely clothes for her and I sent her to take an expensive course in makeup so she can improve her appearance and gain confidence, but nothing works with her.

Ethel L. — Everyone gives me that old line about how wonderful it is to be tall, models are tall, etc. But models are beautiful and I'm not. Even if I were short my face would look ugly. I am just hopeless.

My mother keeps begging me to go out with the girls at least but the girls don't want me either. It's embarrassing for them because they can't get any dates for me and they have to leave me out of their parties. There are about three boys in our whole school who are taller than I am and they go out with short girls

I have tried everything, but boys just can't stand me as I am now.

The Council: Perhaps it would help Ethel and her mother to realize that very few individuals get through adolescence without some more or less serious problem involving appearance. To Ethel the girl with stringy hair or a bad complexion is lucky, but she can be sure that that girl suffers just as much anguish over her difficulty as she does with her height.

The understanding and intelligent help of parents can do a lot at such times, but the adolescent must also do much for himself. We get the impression that Mrs. L. L. is overdoing the sympathy to the point where her daughter is substituting it for the other satisfactions in life she is now missing.

Mrs. L. L. hasn't taught Ethel the importance of attitude in making friends. Ethel does not realize that when she looks at herself in the mirror decides she is ugly and then goes out among people, she wears a hurt, disconsolate, angry expression. Others don't realize that Ethel's anger is directed against herself. They consider themselves the target and steer clear.

Countless individuals with serious appearance problems manage to have many friends and find dates and marriage partners as well. They can do this because they have learned the art of getting their own feelings aside and trying to interest themselves in others. Nobody in this world is so ugly that he or she can't look attractive with lively eyes and a sincerely warm smile.

Aside from these considerations, there is the obvious fact that appearance isn't everything. Skill with a musical instrument, dancing ability, knowledge of a few interesting subjects could make Ethel the life of the party. Boys, as well as girls, will like all six feet of her.

'Wills' Topic At W.I. Meeting

BETHEL-ZION — The regular meeting of Bethel-Zion Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Roy Sills with a fair attendance.

The president, Mrs. Don Sills, presided and opened the meeting.

Mrs. Sills conducted the business part of the program. Correspondence was read and dealt with; a report of the area convention was given by Mrs. Elmer Tufts and Mrs. Roscoe Robson.

Mrs. Roy Sills gave a Thanksgiving reading and all joined in community singing, led by the song leader, Mrs. Roy Sills, and assisted by Mrs. Allen Lott, at the piano.

Mr. Roy Sills introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Rod Cameron, barrister, from Belleville, who gave a fine talk on "wills." At the close he was asked numerous questions.

Mrs. Sills thanked the speaker and a social half hour followed.

C.W.L. Sponsors Most Successful Tea, Bazaar

DESERONTO — On Wednesday afternoon the Catholic Women's League held its annual tea and bazaar at the Legion Hall. The hall was beautifully decorated with large baskets of autumn flowers.

Receiving at the door was the president, Mrs. M. E. Dowling.

The tea table, with its white embroidered cloth was centred with a lovely bowl of colored 'mums, flanked by tri-branched candelabra, with white candles.

Presiding at the tea table was Mrs. Ernie Dorey.

Round-about, at pleasing intervals, were placed the small guest tables, each with its white cloth, centred by the small vases, with clusters of yellow 'mums, completing the autumn setting.

The tea room hostesses were: Mrs. Merven Sherman; Mrs. Peter Whalen; Mrs. Terry Whalen; Mrs. Chas. Doran; Mrs. Graham; Mrs. Gill; Mrs. Sarriff; Mrs. O'Ray; Mrs. Charles Beyette; Mrs. Ted Murphy; Mrs. Valliquette; Mrs. O'Brien; Mrs. Anson Lord and Miss Louise Sarriff.

The several booths included the homecooking, convened by Mrs. Cal Roach and Miss Nora Fox, had a splendid assortment of pies; delicious cakes; home-made bread and buns; date and orange squares; tarts; cookies; candies, and pickles.

The apron booth brought ly aprons, of half and all-over designs of assorted colors in print and ginghams. This booth was convened by Mrs. Alex Therrien and Mrs. M. Buck.

The miscellaneous booth had some fine handicraft articles, tea towels; embroidered guest towels; pillow slips; pot holders; stockings; infants clothing as well as children's dresses and blouses. These were under the supervision of Mrs. Joe Roach, and Mrs. Frank Tyrrell.

WHITE ELEPHANT

The white elephant table and fish pond were very busy with the little ones, eager to get the surprise packages.

The conveners were: Mrs. Jim Gaulin and Mrs. Leo Palmer.

In charge of the tickets for the hamper of apples, was Mrs. Irene Cartland and the holder of the lucky ticket was Mrs Flossie Chalmers.

In charge of the tickets for the draws was Mrs. Jack Edwards and the lucky winners were as follows: coal or oil — Mrs. I. McTavish; turkey — Mrs. Martha Maracle; 25. — Ernie Haslip, 9 Grove St., Belleville; casserole — Leonard Palmer; embroidered pillowslips — Mrs. A. Kimmerly; a basket of assorted groceries, which was donated by Mrs. K. Martin, was won by Mrs. Valliquette.

A most delightful tea and bazaar with appreciative thanks going to the conveners, Mrs. Ernie Dorey and Mrs. Anson Lord, and to all others, whose helping hands made it so successful.

Teen-Agers Enjoy Party On Hallowe'en

WELLINGTON — Saturday evening the Canadian Legion hall was the scene of a weird teen age dance party. This was sponsored by the Canadian Legion Ladies' Auxiliary.

The boys and girls all came in costumes of every description and danced to the hit tunes played on a record player.

The spot dance prizes were captained by: first, Joe Van Haarlem and Marilyn Whitton; second, Jean Thompson and Audrey Sanderson.

After dancing for a while, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lavender kindly acted as judges of all those in costume and masked. They had no easy task as all the characters were good. Finally they announced first prize winner to be Beatrice McQuaid, dressed as an Indian squaw, complete with papoose on back; second, Gwen Tuttle as a hard-up tramp; third, Lynda Head of Peterborough (a guest of the McNaughton's) as a pirate; and fourth, Gloria Tuttle as a beautiful angel.

Chocolate bars and pop were sold during the evening. The chaperons for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hudson and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Tuttle

MODERN MANNERS

...Carolyn Hagner Shaw...

A GUEST, OBSERVES GUESTS

With the winter social season getting into full swing, it would seem that hints (and not so gentle ones, either) should be directed toward those of us who will assume the role of guests at parties, be they formal or informal. Frankly, I have been appalled at the lack of common courtesy and thoughtfulness by others that I have observed at some of the functions I have attended recently.

Among the offenders against courtesy on the part of the guests were the careless smokers. Ashes dropped everywhere, cigaret butts ground out on the floor, with complete disregard for hostess's property, if the hostess has neglected to supply sufficient ash trays, there it some excuse for this universal habit, but if ash trays are spread around, there is no excuse whatever.

Why will people stop and chat at length in the very middle of a doorway through which others must pass to reach the receiving line? By the way, while on this subject, it is well to remember that there is no point to a receiving line unless those receiving and those arriving are made known to each other. The arriving guest gives her name merely as "Mrs. Smith" or "Mrs. Green" — the first name is never given. The hostess should shake hands with the guest, greet her briefly, then turn to the next person in line with the introduction, "Mrs. Green, Mr. Brown." It is to be hoped that the incoming guest will not hold up the line by stopping to chat. Save the news about mutual friends and lengthy effusions until later.

After passing through the line don't congregate near it to greet your friends, thereby forcing new arrivals to walk around you after they have greeted their receiving. To keep the receiving line from being engulfed by this thoughtless practice, the clever hostess, knowing that she will by-pass the line, will ask several of her friends to "assist." This means that, as a guest leaves the receiving line, one of these assistants it at hand to show her to the buffet table. In addition to showing a gracious hospitality, this keeps traffic clear for new arrivals.

Now, for our buffet manners! Too often rather deplorable, I'm afraid. At a recent party I attended, the buffet was lavish and delicious, but I didn't help wondering if most of the guests were near starvation, from the way they shoved and pushed to get to the table, and from the heaping plates they took away.

"Took away" is the wrong description for two many of the guests piled their plates with the delicious food, then stood idling at the side of the buffet table while eating, thoughtlessly blocking the way for others to approach. The same procedure took place around the table where liquid refreshments were being served. It was almost reminiscent of the days when a ward in the old jail.

And how do the hostesses take it all? They are charmingly polite, but I often wonder what they privately think of the rudeness and destructive acts taking place in their homes!

Question: I am private secretary to a rather prominent man. He insists that I type his name at the closing of a letter, rather than signing it himself, or letting me do it for him. It says this is correct. I do not think so. What is your opinion? — Miss F. D.

Answer: You are absolutely right. The signature on a letter should always be handwritten. It is too lazy to do so, and if you do sign for him, your initials, in small lettering, should appear under the signature to indicate that he did not sign it himself. This is better by far than typing it in, which couldn't be more wrong!

No 'High Society' in New Townsite in Manitoba

By AL VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

THOMPSON, Man. (CP)—"If it isn't for the mud and slush, everything would be perfect," says Mrs. Margaret Goddard, who came to Manitoba's newest town with her husband and three children about a year ago.

"One thing about living in a town such as this, there's no 'high society'". the attractive housewife said. "We get pretty rugged weather at times, but nobody is afraid to dress for it."

She was right. Most of the women wear slacks and sweaters, car coats or parkas, and rubber boots.

But this doesn't mean" the women in this nickel mining centre, 400 miles north of Winnipeg, don't like frills.

MUD BIG FACTOR

"It's just that it's more practical to wear these things until the cement roads and sidewalks are finished and we get rid of all the mud," Mrs. Goddard said.

On Sundays and on any special occasions, naturally we wear more feminine attire."

Geologist Carl Goddard, originally from Montreal, brought his Montreal-born wife, and children, Bruce, 7, Patti, 5, and Joan, 4, to this frontier town from Sudbury, Ont., the move was made as part of his work with International Nickel Company of Canada Limited, which opened up this area with a $175,000,000 mining venture, two miles from the townsite.

"We're not sorry we made the move," said Mrs. Goddard. "We've been doing things like this ever since we were married."

Mr. Goddard worked around the Moncton area, at Chipmanbrook, N.B., in northern Quebec, and in Sudbury before coming to Thompson.

The Goddards live in a modern, 6-storey, three-bedroom house, which compares favorably with a city home.

HEATING COSTLY

"Heating is the biggest expense," Mrs. Goddard said, explaining that all homes are heated by oil. "We found we had to keep the burner on all year except for July and the early part of August. It averages about $30 a month."

Last winter, the temperature dropped to 60 degrees below zero.

At one time, but Mrs. Goddard said the dry cold doesn't seem as bad as the damp cold in Eastern Canada.

Most of her problems are similar to those of any city housewife.

"We get plenty of hot water for washing but we probably have to do more of it because of the muddy streets," she said.

Mrs. Goddard does much of her shopping by mail order, especially for clothes. Prices at the only store here are slightly higher than in the cities, due to the freight costs. There always is a good supply of milk from The Pas, Man., and fresh vegetables when in season.

GOOD FOR CHILDREN

Mrs. Goddard believes children have a much better life in a town such as Thompson than in the city.

"They get plenty of fresh air and they learn to do things for themselves", she said.

"There's no television—in fact we've never had a TV set so our children don't miss it. They play outside most of the time, and make up their own games. This play is more constructive than the city child."

Afternoon bridge parties and evening house parties are the main source of entertainment for the adults.

Mrs. Goddard is a below-the-average artist. Several of her oil paintings decorate the family walls.

Holidays can present a problem. There are only two ways out of Thompson—by air or railroad. A highway to the south is in the making but not yet completed.

Last summer, the Goddards and their automobile, travelled by train to The Pas, from there they motored to Banff for a camping holiday.

"Actually," she added, "you don't have to go away. If you like fishing, camping or hunting it's all here, right in our own back yard."

FAMOUS CARILLON

Bells in the carillon of the Rainbow Tower at the Canadian Legion of the Rainbow Bridge at Niagara Falls, include the 10-ton Bourdon.

Trim and Fitted

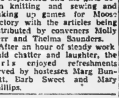
By TRACY ADRIAN

Gliding into fashion's limelight are classic princess coats such as this one. Always a popular choice, the silhouette seems smarter and more feminine than ever this season.

Made of nubby wool, the topper pictured has a spread collar of white mink, a double-breasted closing and tapered sleeves. It comes in black or brown.

Club Activities

CHRIST CHURCH C.C.

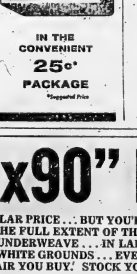


On Monday evening the members of the Central Club, Christ Church gathered in the parish hall for a business and work meeting.

Secretary Nadine Thorne read the correspondence and thanking letters.

President Mary Fletcher announced next week will be another work meeting, completing the packing of the parcel for Moose Factory. The following Monday will be "Study Group" meeting. The arrangements are also being started for the final party of the year which will take place early in December.

The past presidents adjourned to another room and nominated the executive for the next year. The business meeting was adjourned and the girls began knitting and sewing and making up games for Moose Factory with the articles being distributed at conveners Molly Kerr and Thelma Saunders.



After an hour of steady work amid chatter and laughter, the girls enjoyed refreshments served by hostesses Marg Bunnett, Barb Sweet and Mary Phillips.

Makes a man feel ten feet tall! What does? Why, having money in the bank, of course! When you've got a nice pad of savings behind you, you can take advantage of sale prices. And when you spot something you want, you can pay cash for it. Or, if someone in the family gets sick, it's nice to know the money is right there to look after him. The fact is, everything in life looks better when you've got cash in the bank. And it doesn't take long to run up a nice sum when you make small but regular deposits. Yes sir, money in the bank really does give a man that ten-feet tall feeling. Do you know where I save my money?

New Canadians Bewildered By Knobs, Dials on Stove

TORONTO (CP) — The knobs and dials of a modern electric stove may be a boon to the average Canadian housewife but they often bewilder New Canadians.

That's one of the findings of a two-year study made of the food habits of new Canadians in Metropolitan Toronto.

Nine study groups were involved in the study, completed last spring, and since then more than 2,000 copies have been distributed to people professionally interested in nutrition. The work was done by the Toronto Nutrition Committee, a voluntary organization of people working in public health, welfare and education.

Committee chairman Dr. George H. Beaton said the study was made "strictly as a guide and was never intended to be a survey."

Compiled into a compact booklet, each chapter gives the nutritional food habits of the race, the comparable habits of the race in the Toronto area, the good points, and finally the points to encourage.

"Many of these people have fine food habits in their own country but run into difficulty when they change their habits here," Dr. Beaton explained.

Here are a few of the findings of the study:

Chinese people coming here quickly begin to use green peppers, celery, spinach, tomatoes, cauliflower, broccoli, asparagus and brussels sprouts but turnips and potatoes are not popular.

Czechoslovakians adapt to the use of fruit juices for breakfast and tomato juice for lunch and dinner, almost immediately.

Those of Greek origin use prepared breakfast cereals. They dislike Canadian bread, preferring French or Italian breads.

Hungarian residents usually grow their own poppy seeds. Pastries, baked on Sunday, are served throughout the week as dessert or for a snack.

It was found Italian women have great pride in their cooking and try to retain their homeland habits. Typical Italian foods are sometimes in better supply in the Toronto area than in Italy.

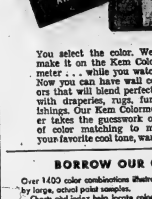
Dutch housewives do their weekly shopping in supermarkets and try to avoid specialty stores. The heavy meal is served at noon if possible.

Polish immigrants cook their vegetables for a long time and use a lot of potatoes.

Ukrainians use milk extensively both as a beverage and for cooking.

Generally, it was found immigrants need information regarding various cuts of Canadian meat and the wide variety of fresh, frozen and canned vegetables available here during the winter.

The use of enriched flour and the value of milk as a beverage for children needs more emphasis and the advantage of a nourishing breakfast needs to be stressed.



The committee found new arrivals are confused by our stoves and utensils and often need an explanation of their uses.

The booklet was designed primarily as a guide for professional people such as public health nurses who deal directly with these New Canadians," Dr. Beaton explained.

Approximately 10 to 15 families were interviewed from each nationality.

Light Meter, Color Film, Vertical Enlarger Have No Place in Alfred Blyth's Kit

By GERRY McNEIL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — Alfred Blyth disdains the modern photographer's light meter, color film and vertical enlarger.

When he takes a picture, he likes to use an old reflex or a view camera mounted on a tripod and lugged about in an awkward suitcase.

The view camera provides an 8-by-10 negative which, when enlarged on an old-type horizontal machine, provides microscopic detail.

The clarity and sharpness of his photographs — mostly scenic shots—have won the free-lance commercial photographer hundreds of awards in international competition.

WINS HIGH HONOR

A photograph of the Columbia Icefield, in the Rockies north of Banff, brought the lean, 58-year-old bachelor first prize in the 1949 world competition in India.

The next year, a Vancouver waterfront scene also won honors.

The latest recognition of his work is a letter from Balmoral Castle expressing the Queen's thanks for photographs sent to Princess Anne and Prince Charles.

They show a smiling Queen glancing from a limousine at square dancers in Calgary during the 1959 Royal Tour.

The letter is to be mounted near another from King George VI, thanking the photographer for pictures taken during the 1939 Royal Tour.

TOUGH TRAINING

Mr. Blyth, born in Ayrshire, Scotland, got his start 43 years ago in a tough school of photography in Edmonton.

The Byron and May Company exposed discipline as well as ability. A photographer was polite, neat and well-spoken—or he didn't last.

"Those boys were really busy," Mr. Blyth said in an interview. "Some of their methods yielded results that most others are just getting around to with today's equipment."

He absorbed the training so well he was offered a job as head of a photography studio when he was 17.

"Since then, I've taken pictures from every flagpole in Edmonton," he said. "I've watched the city grow."

Mr. Blyth's favorite subjects often were the wild and woolly bush pilots who pioneered northern flight — Wop May, Punch Dickins and others. But one of his aversions was flying.

"They tried to get me up to give me the works, but I always got out of it," he said, explaining that this sometimes took more ingenuity than getting a good picture.

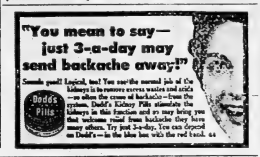
WELL-KNOWN SCENES

Mr. Blyth is probably best known in Canada for his pictures of Lake Maligne or Lake Louise and other beauty spots in the Rocky Mountains. His Calgary Stampede action photos also are familiar.

He has no use for light meters. "I wouldn't know how to use one," he said.

He hand-colors his photographs, which, because of the big negatives, can be blown up without loss of detail.

More than 1,500 of his pictures have been accepted in international competition.



One big winner is a winter scene taken on a poplar-treed hill near his Edmonton home. Another is a shot of a bighorn mountain goat in the Rockies.

"He was pretty nervous—I had to trail him all over the place—then I found out what was wrong, a wolf was trailing both of us."

Mr. Blyth tossed a stone at the wolf, driving it away, and then took his picture.

MODERN BOOM TOWN — Modern homes such as these with two, three or four bedrooms are available at low cost to residents of Thompson, Man., one of Canada's newest boom towns. Created less than three years ago in the wake of a multi-million-dollar nickel development, the town has reached a population of about 2,700. Concrete sidewalks and cribs will be ready next year. U.S. Elections See Democrats Record Gains

WASHINGTON (CP) — Democrats generally consolidated political gains on state and local levels in Tuesday's scattered "off-year" elections throughout the United States. In the main contests they easily retained the Kentucky governorship and the Philadelphia mayor's office.

Democratic politicians, looking for a 1960 presidential year trend, could point to a strong showing as well in Indiana and Connecticut municipal elections.

But the Republicans gained in New York state, where they ended seven Democratic mayoralties losing four municipalities. And in New Jersey the Republicans not only staved off a Democratic bid to win control of the state Senate, but apparently raised the Democratic majority in the assembly.

In Philadelphia ever-hopeful Republican Harold E. Stassen went down to a predicted defeat by Mayor Richardson Dilworth, a Democrat. The margin was overwhelming.

Stassen has not won an election since the 1930s when he was the youthful governor of Minnesota.

Democrat Bert T. Combs won a landslide victory as governor of Kentucky over Republican John Robison. Combs had had an intra-party squabble with retiring Gov. E. B. "Happy" Chandler, the former baseball commissioner, but it hardly affected his standing with.

Democratic New York Republicans wrested city halls from Democrats in Utica, Amsterdam, Canandaigua, Auburn, Ithaca, Rome, Mount Vernon, Troy and Corning. But Democrats ousted Republicans in Cortland, Ogdensburg and Poughkeepsie.

New York state voters rejected a $500,000,000 spending plan for New York City schools, but readopted two constitutional amendments advanced as tax-saving moves.

Passed by a solid margin was an amendment to allow the state to run a superhighway to Canada through a section of state-protected forest lands in the Adirondack Mountains.

Supporters of the plan said the state would save $20,000,000 in building along the forest reserve route rather than an alternate favored by the agency.

Voters authorized the legislature to transfer $25-mile state barge canal to the federal government. The state now spends $1,070,000 annually maintaining the toll-free waterway—a facility in which the federal government has expressed no known interest.

Teen-Age Girl Choked, Raped In Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — A 19-year-old girl was choked with her own kerchief and raped behind a home in Toronto's east end Tuesday night by a man described as short and dark.

Police Chief James Mackey has ordered an all-out manhunt for the attacker. Police said the girl may lose an eye.

The girl told police she was returning from night classes at a high school and was standing alone at a bus stop when the man grabbed her by the arm and said "Come with me."

When she screamed, the man punched her in the face and dragged her behind the house where he struck her repeatedly, then choked her into semi - consciousness.

The girl was taken to hospital after she staggered into a fire hall.

Town of Thompson, Carved From Wilderness, Has Shown Wonderful Growth Since '56

THOMPSON, Man. (CP) — The town of Thompson, carved from the wilderness 400 miles north of Winnipeg, has shown phenomenal growth since its creation in December, 1956.

It was built on a 3,000-acre site of former rock and muskeg on the banks of the Burntwood River. It has mushroomed into a town of about 2,700 residents, on the stimulus of a $175,000,000 mining venture by International Nickel Company of Canada, Limited. Included are 2,300 employees of contractors now housed in temporary quarters at the plant site two miles away.

Unlike old jerry - built boom towns, Thompson has a well-laid settlement of modern homes, with paved streets, up-to-date water system, oil heating, electric power and sewage and garbage disposal services.

PLANNED AREA

The area was planned by the Metropolitan Commission of Winnipeg under agreement with the company, and subject to all provincial planning regulations.

Thompson has eventually spend about $8,500,000 on the community. The serviced land and the land it is rented under an agreement with the Manitoba government become the property of the local government district and the district school board when completed. At present, Carl Nesbitt is chairman of the school board and resident administrator of the local government district called Winnipeg River.

Officials hope that by the resale of the fully-serviced land for residential or business purposes, even at a nominal price, the township should be able to expand beyond its initial size without levying a cent. Without debt charges, it is expected that municipal taxes can be kept relatively low.

Houses are being built by private contractors for sale or rental to employees of the nickel company and other residents of the town. Prices range from $9,880 for a two-bedroom model to $13,-500 for a three-and four-bedroom houses. Down payments range as low as $300, plus the cost of the land. Lots are being sold by the local government district at $7.50 per front foot for residential and $15 per foot for a 50-foot lot as $375.

Terms of the houses are financed by mortgages insured by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation under the National Housing Act.

WATER PROJECT

Diesel generators now supply electric power but next May it is expected power will be available at $40,000,000 hydro - electric plant being built at Grand Rapid on the Nelson River, 50 miles southeast of Thompson. Initially, it will supply 100,000 horsepower. Officials say this will be doubled by the following year.

Modern water and sewage treatment plants are in various stages of construction. Nine miles of underground water mains already are under construction at a cost of $530,000.

Officials hope a permanent exchange building of the Manitoba Telephone System will be ready by next year. Meanwhile, a temporary portable automatic exchange is in use.

Bus and taxi services operate in the town. There are 150 other privately-owned cars. There is no railway to Thompson from the south and all vehicles were bought in by rail.

Recently, 40 miles of right-of-way for a highway south from Thompson was cleared. The provincial government intends to connect this highway with a road now being constructed north from The Pas. However, it may be two or three years before the town is connected by road to the south.

Knocked Down Twice by Own Auto

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP)— "I'll bet I'm the only woman in the city who was knocked down twice by her own motor car."

Mrs. Nona Kitchell explained Tuesday that she parked her auto on a hill to take her six-year-old son to a baby-sitter's home. As she returned to the car it began rolling. She grabbed for a front door handle but was flung to the ground and a wheel passed over her leg.

"I got up and started chasing the car," she said. "It was not moving too fast and I tried to grab the rear door handle." Down again she went and again a wheel passed over her leg.

The auto struck two parked cars and stopped after a 300-foot run.

X-rays revealed no major injury to Mrs. Kitchell.

Canadian Plan To Aid Refugees Outlined to UN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — Details of Canada's plan to assist handicapped refugee immigrants were reported Tuesday by Dr. Alene Holt, Canadian delegate to the UN social and humanitarian committee.

Mrs. Holt spoke during a discussion on world refugee year, in which Dr. Auguste R. Lindt, UN high commissioner for refugees, and earlier that new homes have been found within the last year for half the refugees living in camps in Europe.

The impact of world refugee year had awakened new hopes among homeless refugees, the 27,000 still are in camps in Austria, West Germany, Italy and Greece, said Lindt.

In praising the high commissioner's work, Mrs. Holt emphasized the role of immigrants in Canadian growth, saying "Canada would not be what it is today without the contributions that these new Canadians have made."

She referred to External Affairs Minister Howard Green's earlier announcement that Canada will take about 100 tubercular refugees under its new plan, and 1,000 more by next year.

"This group will be transported from Europe at Canadian expense and their treatment in sanatoria in Canada will also be at Canadian expense," she said.

"Furthermore, whenever the family of a refugee undergoing treatment is unable to support itself, it will receive maintenance payments.

"It is estimated that the cost of this project in the first year may approach $750,000. . . .

Some Progress on Peaceful Uses of Outer Space Seen

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The success of the United Nations initiative on disarmament negotiated by Vasily V. Kuznetsov of the Soviet Union and Henry Cabot Lodge of the United States gives hope of some progress on the peaceful uses of outer space.

The Russians, riding high on the prestige of moon missiles and Premier Khrushchev's sulkiest diplomacy, have been playing a starring role at the 14th General Assembly. It's likely they'll try its continuing.

Kuznetsov took the initiative on the disarmament proposal and apparently made some fairly worthwhile concessions, in phrasing at least, to get unanimous agreement.

The Russians really wanted this one," said one diplomat. "They didn't want anything to go wrong."

True, the resolution reads along the lines of the proverbial injunction against sin, which is all the more reason people aren't scoffing at it.

No one was scoffing, either, at Khrushchev's plea for total disarmament within four years. That would have sounded like mockery.

It would have been equally foolish to dismiss Lodge's call for an international conference of scientists to swap experiences in exploring outer space, especially in view of Russia's feats and lore.

Lodge let it be known that he was ready to meet with anyone at all with Kuznetsov, leading observers to believe that he was looking to see what progress is agreeable, or nearly so, as the one on disarmament.

A working paper was drawn up containing the essential points of a resolution for establishment of a permanent body to encourage the peaceful uses of outer space.

But the working paper left aside the crucial question of the membership of an outer space body—the issue on which East-West negotiations foundered last session.

The Soviet Union, Poland and Czechoslovakia were placed on a temporary 18 - nation committee established by the General Assembly last December. However, the three Soviet bloc members boycotted the group on the ground that it had a Western majority, and they were joined by India and the United Arab Republic.

Other members of that committee are Argentina, Australia, Belgium, Brazil, Britain, Canada, France, Iran, Italy, Japan, Mexico, Sweden and the United States.

Canada, among other countries, has been trying to work out a formula that Russia could accept. The Russians won parity on the 10 - nation disarmament committee that will begin work in Geneva early next year, but that body was established without debate the UN, and few—if any—Western nations are willing to grant the Soviet bloc parity on any similar committee within the UN.

It is believed that in the outer space issue the Russians—eager to bring their initiative to successful conclusion—are in a good to negotiate the members' problem without demanding parity. That might be enough to get the show on the road.

STARS IN NORTH — Film stars Anthony Quinn and Yoko Tani stand at the bow of Hudson Bay near Churchill, Man., during shooting of the full-length Eskimo feature film "The Savage Innocents." Labor Movement in Canada At Crossroads Meeting Told

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)— The Ontario Federation of Labor was told at the labor movement in Canada is at a crossroads and must either "advance or die."

"We do not intend to die," said Donald MacDonald, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Labor Congress.

He told the more than 800 delegates that there have been organized and consolidated attacks by big-business organizations against labor and the unions must launch a counter-offensive.

The union movement could not be static and expect to survive, he said.

"We must organize the unorganized, consolidate the organized, retard-building members, utilize all the techniques and knowledge of public relations and put greater emphasis and emotion in our political action efforts."

The convention, which winds up Friday, passed yesterday a resolution calling for a drive to get 2,000 members in Ontario to commit themselves to support of a new political party embracing labor and the CCF.

Claude Jodoin, CLC president, told the convention labor must accept converts from any political party.

Earlier the federation called for a national crusade to elect "people who are dedicated" from the statute books of New-foundland premier Joseph Smallwood, the International Woodworkers of America (CLC) and the Canadian Seamen's Union.

Delegates also voted to petition the Ontario government for provincial labor relations board following political candidates levels of wages, hours of work, seniority, pensions or employment.

Re-elected president Douglas Hamilton, both of Toronto, were re-elected president and secretary-treasurer respectively.

Vice - presidents include Richard Courtney of Oshawa and Wilfred Stelling of Fort William.

What Language She Must Have Used!

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP)—Operator, my telephone is dead. It was just sitting there and it melted."

Mrs. Elizabeth Molly had run to a neighbor's home early Tuesday to report to her telephone company.

She said the instrument began smoking, then the plastic casing melted down, and the wiring that set fire to a cloth under the phone. She doused it with a pan of water.

"I think the operator thought I was crazy," said Mrs. Molly, society editor of the Joplin Globe.

The company manager said after two repairmen had inspected the phone: "We haven't yet determined what caused it. We've never seen anything like it."

Travelled Wide Area With Two Murder Suspects

BRACEBRIDGE (CP) — A 17-year-old girl Tuesday told how she travelled for several days with two Hamilton youths now on trial for murder before a Supreme Court jury.

She told the three slept in a stolen taxi, in barns and on the banks of the Muskoka River.

Marilyn McKee, 20, and Wayne Sluman, 17, are on trial jointly with the June 17 slaying of Francis Grosso, 29-year-old Hamilton taxicab owner. Angela companion Bruce Spiers, 22, is charged only with theft.

Police found the decomposed bodies of the two men in a grave near Lake Dwight, Ont., about 11-day search. Both had been shot in the head and their rockets emptied. Spiers' skull had been smashed.

Speaking without apparent emotion, Ann Young of Hamilton told how Miss McKee picked her up from a friend's home in Hamilton on the night of the murder and drove her to the Sluman home nearby on Lake Ave., 190 miles north of Huntsville.

During the drive north, she said, the car left the highway briefly when it skidded on gravel to a small gravel pit. The boys left her in the car while they walked around the pit for a few minutes.

Leaving the gravel pit the car became stuck and McKee found herself with Sluman and Spiers by construction site who helped them push it out, she said.

The girl testified she has known both boys for about four years and had dated Sluman and McKee for the last year and a half. She said McKee was the leader of their escapades and gave the orders and made the decisions.

While they were staying with McKee's sister, police officers here were searching for them and told McKee. That night they left and Miss McKee drove rowed a boat and travelled to Sluman's cottage.

She said they travelled by night and slept ashore for four days before Elk Horn police arrested them.

Other witnesses said Grosso and Spiers had left to pick up rockets and a machine gun after getting a call at the Huntsville cab stand, on the murder night.

Robert Boothby, a local carpenter, said he saw a Huntsville taxi on the highway near his home on June 17 and together with other workers helped McKee push a taxi out of a gravel pit by the road.

He said he jotted down the licence number of the vehicle because he thought it was an unusual place to see a taxi cab.

Eskimos Great Aid in Filming Shots of Far North, Frankly Puzzled at Antics of Crew

OTTAWA (CP)—When an Eskimo shoots a bear he shoots it dead, but that doesn't always fit in with making a movie.

The problem of getting shots of a polar bear in its death throes was just one of many faced in filming the full - length Eskimo feature The Savage Innocents.

Made at Churchill, Man., Coral Harbor and Resolute Bay in the Northwest Territories, and in Greenland and London, England, the film is nearing completion.

TWO UNITS IN NORTH

Its trials and tribulations were outlined here in an interview with Basil Dearden, executive producer and director of one of two field units working in the Canadian North this summer. Doug Wilkinson, former northern service officer, National Film Board head and an author, handled the other unit seeking action shots of polar bear, walrus and other outdoor life.

Mr. Bandini, a tall, diffident Italian working in the Arctic for the first time, told wryly that he believes the film was the first big one made in the North in 20 years and "I think it may be set other 20 years before they make another one here."

The Eskimos—"the nicest people I've ever met"—were frankly puzzled about the antics undertaken for the benefit of the camera. But they worked willingly as costume makers and extras, formed out wrangling, assisted in the hunting scenes and even as technicians.

They wondered, for example, why the directors had the dog-sledge sleds carefully packed before when smoother — but less dramatic — stretches were close at hand.

At Resolute Bay, 1,700 miles north of Churchill, the Eskimos handled the hunting. Asked to shoot a bear, he did so neatly and efficiently — but the animal dropped in its tracks without warning, thus wasting grimace for the cameras.

COSTLY PLANE CRASH

Mr. Wilkinson lost 2,500 feet of film in a plane crash. He and two others escaped when the plane fell 40 feet into a lake on Southampton Island in the mouth of Hudson Bay and turned bottom-up on a rock-strewn hillside and burned.

Mr. Bandini had to go north to Resolute to make up the loss, returning later to Coral Harbor to get more hunting film. Dog teams were loaded into a plane that proved unsuitable, and after getting close as possible on the sea ice, in Greenland, a crew member got the "calving" of icebergs, which plunge with a mighty roar from parent glaciers into the sea to start their slow drift south as far as commercial shipping lanes.

The Savage Innocents stars Mexican-born Anthony Quinn and pretty Japanese actress Yoko Tani. It's set anywhere in the North in the days when first contact was being made with the Eskimos. Despite its many problems of guns and other aspects of civilization on a primitive society, it was adapted from the novel Top of the World and will be distributed by Paramount. Rank, Consortium Pathe and Magic Film.

SOVIET ARTIST DIES

Ben Gurion's Party Gains In Israeli Vote

TEL AVIV (Reuters) — David Ben Gurion's Mapai (labor) party gained against its 23 rivals in Israel's national election Tuesday, according to early tallies today and the veteran premier's party was assured of at least holding its place as chief group in parliament.

The breakdown after about half the votes were counted gave Mapai 40 per cent of the poll and its chief rival, the right-wing Heruth party, 12.4 per cent.

Mapai polled 37 per cent of the votes in the last election in 1955 and Herudi's share stood at 12.5 per cent. Those percentages gave Mapai 40 seats in the 120-seat Knesset and Herudi 13 seats under Israel's proportional representation system.

COALITION GOVERNMENT

Following Heruth in the early vote count were three of the four parties allied with Mapai in the Ben Gurion coalition cabinet. A coalition government—the National Religious Front (10.5), the Mapai Socialist Workers Union and Ahduth Havoda (6.8).

The greatest Zionists group, an opposition party ranking third in the last Knesset with 18 seats, was sixth with 5.7 per cent in the early counting.

Official results of the election will take three days to be completed.

More than 70 per cent of the 1,250,000-strong electorate voted in modern Israel's fourth national election.

Ben Gurion, 73, urged the electorate to give his party a "clear majority" over all others. Mapai has been the strongest party since Israel's foundation in 1928, but it has been forced to govern in coalitions with smaller parties to the left and right.

Tuesday's election was forced by the July 3 resignation of Ben Gurion because one group in his government, the Mapai Ahdut Havoda, opposed a proposed arms deal with West Germany.

JOHNSTOWN

United Church Marks 83rd Anniversary

JOHNSTOWN — Johnstown United Church held its 83rd anniversary on Sunday morning, October 25th at 11 a.m., with a good attendance.

Quiet music, played by the pianist, Mrs. Alex Vandervoort opened the service. The girls' choir gave a fine rendition. Mis Marion Bush and Miss Gai Lohnes sang duets at both services.

Rev. Eleanor Leard, assistant minister of Tabernacle Church Belleville, was guest speaker. Mrs. Leard and her children have come from India to let he children get an education here. Her husband is still carrying on in that country as a missionary

The speaker spoke on "I will pull down my barns and build greater," saying, "we Canadians have marvellous tools to work with, the automatic things are wonderful, but to have tools we must have hands, for with all the automation, we will never be able to build anything, that will dream dreams, or love like a man does, and yet with all our dreams, have we made anything that will make us better people?

"The marvellous way the Lord takes care of the birds and flowers should dispel our doubts that He will take care of us, too. Larger barns will not be necessary if we have love in our hearts we will want to divide with others who need it."

Three laymen of Grace Church, Trenton, took the evening service. Those were Mr. Herb Brooks, the speaker; Mr. Herb Kern and Mr. Armstrong.

Johnstown people were given a piece of land in 1874 to build a church on by Lewis David. Before this they held their services from house to house going in sleigh loads in the winter.

John N. Stickle was of U.E. Loyalist descent, coming to this country when a babe. In 1813 his father moved to lot 3, concession 3 of Sidney. They made a clearing and built a log house, and it was in this house that the first religious services were held in Johnstown.

WILDERNESS PART

This part of the township was then a wilderness, without roads and with only a few paths through the woods by which the two or three settlers who preceded them were enabled to get in and out to their log houses. The meetings were held every two weeks, and later, when a more commodious frame house had replaced the shanty, regular religious services were held in the first Johnstown church house. The Johnstown Methodist church was built in 1878. Mr. Stickle's daughter married a Mr. John Smith, and he was the first person to be buried in Bayside cemetery.

There were so many men in the community named John that the place was called Johnstown, John Harry, John Stickle, John Simmons, John Munn and John Harder.

CHURCH BUILT

In 1878 all set to work to build a church which was a Methodist Episcopal Church. One person says that it was put up for around $2,500, with all and sundry helping.

In 1886 Johnstown Church, along with Grace Church, Trenton, became a separate charge with a minister, Rev. George Davey, serving the two churches. Before this time it was served by laymen

The head men building this church were Edward Stickle and Randall Meyers, the church being built on part of the farm that is known as the Harder farm.

1st. W.A. PRESIDENT

The first Woman's Association president was Mrs. Charlie Munn, in 1906. The Rev. Wesley Down was the minister at that time. Mrs. Munn now lives in Trenton.

BATAWA

A.O.T.S. Club Addressed by Arthur Duncan

BATAWA — Mr. Arthur Duncan, public relations manager of the Bata Shoe Company was the guest speaker at the A.O.T.S. men's club of King Street United Church at their meeting in the church parlors on Tuesday evening.

Mr. Duncan gave an interesting and informative talk on "Church Loyalty and Welfare".

The meeting began with a pot-luck dinner served by members of the club. This was followed by a short devotional period conducted by Mr. Gordon Davis and a sing-song led by Mr. Ted Stevens for which all the members took part.

A brief business session followed when members discussed matters of interest to fellow members of the club.

Gore

GORE — Several ladies enjoyed the musical program put on by an Alberi College choir at Centre Church on Wednesday evening. Centre W.A. sponsored the event and members of neighboring W.A.'s were guests.

The musical numbers by the College Young People under the directorship of Mr. McKay, were greatly enjoyed.

Some from here attended anniversary service at Albury church on Sunday morning. The Rev. Dr. Swan, of Albert College, was guest preacher.

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Hubbs and children were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Art Adams, 3rd concession.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Redner were guests at the wedding of their niece, Miss Margaret Parliament, and Mr. Ross Foster in Bloomfield United Church, on Saturday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Rex. Gray and son, of Port Hope and Mr. and Mrs. R. Dafoe and son, of Fenwick, spent the weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Redner and also attended the Foster—Parliament wedding on Saturday at Bloomfield.

Miss M. Brickman and friend, of Belleville, called Sunday on Miss Audra Brickman, and Miss Irma Booth.

Local teachers attended the A. H. Polver.

PLANT IDLED BY STEEL STRIKE — The long assembly line of the south plant of General Motors at Oshawa, is idled after layoffs resulting from the United States steel strike. Union officials said 7,000 employees would be laid-off by the end of the week. The GM south plant at Oshawa, Ont., is the largest auto assembly plant in the Commonwealth. The union said the steel strike could turn Oshawa into a ghost town facing its worst winter since the depression. (CP Photo).

Roslin

ROSLIN — Mr. and Mrs. Ben Seale have returned from Alberta and Saskatchewan where they spent six weeks visiting the former's sisters and brother, nieces and nephews.

Mr. and Mrs. John Farrell of Moira attended the United Church anniversary service and were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Seale.

Mrs. McArthur and Brian, of Kingston, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Reid.

The funeral of Mrs. Anne Cardham, of Toronto, was held in St. Chad's Anglican Church, Toronto, on Wednesday morning, following interment in St. Paul's Anglican Cemetery, Roslin, on Wednesday afternoon.

WELLINGTON

47 Cubs Hold Hallowe'en Party in Hall

WELLINGTON — About 47 Cubs of the Wellington Pack enjoyed a Hallowe'en party on Monday evening in their new room over the Town Hall.

They all came dressed in different Hallowe'en costumes and all had a jolly time playing games and contests under the supervision of their leader, Mrs. Jack Ogilvy.

Cubs winning prizes for the best costumes were: Larry McKenzie; Jeffrey Singleton; Alan Vandusen, and Carl Morden.

All enjoyed a treat of candies, cookies and potato chips before leaving for home.

Radio Astrophysical Laboratory At Penticton Costs $700,000

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP) — Set delicately on a piece of grassland in the mountains near here is $700,000 worth of curiosity.

The curiosity is that of the staff that will work at the radio astrophysical laboratory at White Lake. The money involved is provided by the federal government.

A six-ton radio-telescope with an 85-foot diameter is the centre of the project. When the observatory goes into operation later this year, Canada will join six other nations in the new realm of astrophysics.

"We are engaged in pure research. It is just curiosity about the universe in which we live," says Dr. John L. Locke, the man in charge of the operations. He says there is no practical use for Canada's first radio-telescope, at least for the present.

SPECIAL AREA

The observatory site 15 miles from Penticton was chosen because any other location in Canada because an area free from radio-wave interference, including machinery and power lines, was needed, Dr. Locke explained.

There are two ranch houses nearby, but neither has electricity.

The observatory has no fluorescent lights, because these emit radio waves which would upset the meaningful squiggles which the radio - telescope produces on paper.

"The only man living on the site will be the caretaker, and we will install suppressors on his electrical appliances," said Dr. Locke.

The "big ear" in fact is so sensitive that if intelligent life exists on other planetary systems, it will probably detect their radio broadcasts.

This is a very interesting question, Dr. Locke said, but it is pure speculation.

SPAN CENTURIES

Telescopes such as this one look effectively back into time. "The signals we get from distant galaxies originated millions or billions of years ago, and what we see is not what is happening now, but what happened then," he said.

But Dr. Locke hopes they won't have to use the radio-telescope for tracking satellites, like the world's biggest 'scope at Jodrell Bank in England.

"I suspect Jodrell Bank finds satellite tracking a nuisance," he said. "It interferes with the main purpose—research."

RAID GAMBLING DEN

NEW YORK (AP)—A favorite lunch-hour hangout of Wall Street employees who like to play the horses was raided Monday by police. A plainclothesman slipped into a line—mostly employees of financial houses carefully scrutinizing scratch sheets before placing their bets—during the noon hours in the basement of a cafeteria.

Trade Deficit Of $503,400,000 In Nine Months

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada ran up a trade deficit of $503,400,000 in the first nine months of this year as the country's fast-rising import buying continued to outstrip gain in exports.

The trade gap, reported Tuesday by bureau of statistics, compared with a deficit of $196,700,000 in the first three quarters of 1958. The deficit was about 25 per cent below the record set in the same period last year.

Exports in January-September were by $105,200,000 to $3,721,600,000—an increase of 2.9 per cent that was due to a gain of $101,700,000 in sales to the United States.

But imports climbed much more rapidly, rising by $411,900,000 to a total $4,225,000,000. All main areas contributed to this 10.8-per-cent rise, and imports from the U.K. and Kingdom reached record levels.

In the third quarter, imports rose by 13.5 per cent to a record $1,410,800,000. Exports for July-September gained 5.7 per cent to reach $1,304,900,000—close to the third-quarter record set in 1957. The trade deficit of $105,900,000 was 13 times larger than the $8,100,000 deficit a year earlier, but was substantially lower than deficits in the first and second quarters of this year.

But for the month of September, however, exports rose more rapidly than imports and the Trade deficit was cut to $9,600,000 from $25,000,000 a year earlier.

Here is the trade picture for January-September, in millions of dollars:

	Exports 1959	1958	Imports 1959	1958
United States	$2,320.2	$2,128.5
U. Kingdom	566.8	563.2
Other Cmnwth	390.7	417.8
All other countries	633.9	707.6
Total	3,721.6	3,616.4
Imports	1959	1958
			$1,623.4	$1,554.1
			429.1	388.2

Canadian Navy Not Likely to Get Jet Interceptor

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—It's a good bet that the Canadian Navy, like the RCAF, won't get a new manned jet interceptor, informants said.

The navy itself, let alone the government, hasn't made up its mind yet on this problem, basically the same as that in the air force.

The carrier - borne Banshee jets, which provide air defence for the Atlantic fleet, still have a few years of usefulness.

A compact, inexpensive, long-range ship-to-air missile which could fit onto a destroyer has not yet been developed, but it is hoped such a missile will come along before acquisition of a manned interceptor to replace the Banshee is necessary.

ANTI-SUB WORK ONLY?

There is also the possibility that the navy will accept the risk of no air defence at all for the fleet and concentrate strictly on improved means of detecting and destroying submarines.

If the navy discards interceptors, the aircraft carrier Bonaventure likely will carry more anti-sub hunting helicopters besides her Tracker anti - submarine planes, informants said.

The navy had to spend only $27,500,000 for 39 American Banshees, including lifeline spare parts, while re - equipping the RCAF's nine home defence squadrons with a new interceptor would cost around $500,000,000.

It is interesting to note that the Banshee is better equipped for air defence than the RCAF CF-100 jet because it carries the operationally - proved American air-to-air Sidewinder missile. The CF-100 carries no missile at all.

In fact, when the navy's two Banshee squadrons are not at sea they fit into the North American air defence system and are exercised in this role.

Laymen's Sunday Services Well Attended

Laymen's Sunday at Stockdale and Zion United Churches was well attended. Wesley Brooks, president of the AOTS Men's Club, conducted the services and Jack Williams presided.

The sermon was a rousing call to the laymen of the church. A choir of 37 male voices, under the direction of Mrs. G. S. Marlin, Frankford United Church organist, led the congregation in enthusiastic singing. There was a whole row of young men in the Williams' Sunday school class in the front row at Stockdale as well as many other representatives from Frankford, Batawa, Stockdale and Zion. Both churches were well filled.

Arthur Asselstine of the Zion Church, expressed appreciation of the Official Board for such an inspiring service.

Two Junior Farmers Win Trip to Jamaica

TORONTO (CP) — Two young Ontario farmers won a five-day trip to Jamaica when they were crowned prince and princess of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture at the annual meeting Monday.

The princess is Doreen Garrett of Dashield, runner-up for the title last year. The prince is Francis Lewis of Peterborough.

The awards were made after a province - wide competition in which young farm people were asked to provide answers to questions about the federation, its policies and operations.

Frankford

FRANKFORD — Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mowen and Miss Florence Hawens attended the funeral of Mrs. Marjorie McGregor, (formerly Marjorie Weever, of Wooler), in the Wooler Funeral Home, on Thursday afternoon, in Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Andrews, of Campbellford, spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Andrews and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Doug. Gee and family of Kingston, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Harold McLeod and Kerry.

The Rev. and Mrs. James S. Pierce and son, Terry, of Oshawa, were Saturday guests with the Rev. and Mrs. Gordon Pierce.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Charlesworth spent the weekend in Toronto.

Miss Connie Wood, of Belleville, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wood.

Miss Henrietta Wood spent last week with friends in Toronto, and with her parents, at Millbrook.

Mr. Jack Pierce, of Knox, spent last week with his uncle and aunt, the Rev. and Mrs. Gordon Pierce.

Mr. Gary Weekes spent the weekend with his parents, in Cobourg.

Mr. and Mrs. Wes. Pierce, of Petrolia, and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Pierce, of Springbrook, were guests with the Rev. and Mrs. G. Pierce.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Chase and family, Mr. and Mrs. Gil Gilmour were Sunday guests with Mr. and Mrs. D. McCrea, in Tweed.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Patrick and son, Richard and daughter, Helen and Mr. C. Wright, of Wallbridge were Sunday guests with Mr. and Mrs. Herman Cox and family in Hillier.

Girl Must Wait For Decision On Ordination

WATERLOO (CP) — Shirley McLeod of Waterloo, faces at least eight months of waiting before a final decision is made on her application for ordination to the ministry in the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Rev. John Murdoch of Knox Presbyterian Church here said Monday that letters will be sent to Presbyterian clergymen across the country outlining the case in preparation for the general assembly which meets next June 3 in Guelph.

Miss McLeod, 19 - year - old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George D. McLeod, was recommended for ordination by the congregation of Knox Church in September. The application was approved by Guelph presbytery Oct. 19.

If her request is approved by the general assembly, Miss McLeod would become the first woman minister in the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

Ordination of women was discussed by the general assembly two or three years ago and overwhelmingly defeated.

Crushed to Death

TORONTO (CP) — Vittorio Cordina, 29, a construction worker, was crushed to death Monday night when he was caught in a front-end loader wedged him against the loader's driving cab.

PLAN CENTENNIAL

OTTAWA (CP) — About 100 national organizations are expected to send representatives to a meeting here early next year to discuss ways of celebrating Canada's Confederation centennial in 1967. They will include groups representing education, government, industry, welfare and service clubs.

3rd Hillier

THIRD HILLIER — Several of Hillier Women's Institute members accepted the invitation to Demorestville in November 5th to a social evening.

Miss Joyce Benway was at her home over the weekend and spent some time on Saturday, with Mrs. Wesley Wright, of Hillier.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Alexander, of Oshawa and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Solder and children, of Wellington, spent Sunday with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Trumpour.

Christ Church had early morning service at 9.30 a.m. Rev. J. J. Rogers in charge.

The Guild will meet on the evening of November 4th in the basement of the church when plans for the annual bazaar will be made, to be held in Hillier town hall, November 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris entertained company from Colborne recently.

Miss Evelyn Wright has returned to Kingston University, after spending the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Trumpour, of Belleville, spent Sunday afternoon with his mother, Mrs. Richard Trumpour.

Several from this vicinity attended the funeral of Donald Kerr, of Hillier, who was accidentally killed at Trenton. Mr. Kerr resided with Mr. Kennedy Ida Hilgit and three married daughters and several grandchildren to mourn his loss. The family has the sympathy of its many friends.

DONATES MANUSCRIPT

KINGSTON (CP)—The original manuscript dealing with the discovery of radar in 1935 has been presented to Queen's University library by Sir Robert Watson-Watt. Written by Sir Robert in January, 1935, the 11-page manuscript marked the beginning of radar research.

Loss Leaders Attacked by Federation

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Federation of Agriculture decided Monday to ask the provincial government for legislation barring the use by retailers of agricultural products as loss leaders.

Loss leader products are sold by retailers at less than cost to attract customers to buy other goods.

Delegates also agreed that the federation approach all other organizations interested in a uniform daylight time to organize a joint appeal to the provincial government to lend the way in maintaining uniform time in that section of the province in the eastern time zone.

An amendment seeking to have daylight time terminated at midnight on the Saturday prior to Labor Day was defeated.

NEW INDUSTRY — This plant of Quebec Iron and Titanium Corporation at Sorel, Quebec, is turning out a special kind of pig iron for small foundry use. The new product has helped build up markets and keep 1,000 men at work after their jobs were threatened by a five-month shutdown early in the year. (CP Photo).

Special Low Phosphorous Pig Iron of High Purity Being Produced at Sorel

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SOREL, Que. (CP) — One of Quebec's newer industries, an iron smelter using Quebec ores, has devised a special kind of pig iron for use in small foundries.

The Quebec iron and Titanium Corporation, set up 10 years ago to smelt ilmenite ore from northeastern Quebec, has produced the new pig iron in a bid to build up its markets after a five - month shutdown earlier this year.

The jobs of some 1,000 workers in this area, 46 miles northeast of Montreal, were at stake in developing the new line, chiefly to meet the needs of small foundries within Quebec. The company also markets elsewhere in North America and in Europe.

GOOD CHARGE MATERIAL

Called Sorel-metal, it is a special low phosphorus pig iron of high purity, the company says. Its high carbon and low sulphur features also make it a useful charge material for steel plants in the production of high carbon steels.

Ilmenite ore is an oddball ore. It contains iron and titanium oxide. The iron makes the titanium unsuitable for the paint industry, while the titanium makes the iron unsatisfactory for conventional processes.

The ore comes from Allard Lake, almost 600 miles northeast of Sorel. It is shipped in bulk up the St. Lawrence River to the Sorel plant and put through a series of processes to separate the iron and the titanium.

During the last decade, a number of new processes have been devised to reduce the cost of smelting and improve the quality of the final products. Capacity of the Sorel plant is 303,000 tons a year. The main ore body at Allard Lake contains more than 100,000,000,000 tons of ore, averaging 36 per cent iron and 32 per cent titanium oxide.

CONTINUOUS OPERATION

At the Sorel plant, which operates around the clock, the ore is crushed, graded, roasted and mixed with anthracite coal before smelting.

The Sorel plant heats its smelters with electrical arcs, using enough electricity each year to light a city of 250,000 people.

The final pig irons are poured in 50-pound trays for shipment to foundries. The slag from the smelting process is high in titanium content and is smashed into small pieces for processing into pure white titanium—used as a pigment in colors, in white-wall tires and stove enamels.

Bisons Start To Make Move

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It took two weeks to get going, but Buffalo Bisons—defending pennant winners in the American Hockey League — appear to be ready to make their move toward the top again.

The Bisons, in last place until last weekend, scored their third victory in four nights, a 4-1 decision over Quebec Aces Tuesday night that boosted them to within two points of second place.

Things are on bunched up that the Bisons still find five teams in front of them—league-leading Providence with 16 points, Springfield, Rochester and Quebec with 12 apiece, and Hershey with 11. Buffalo has 10 points on a 5-6 record. Cleveland trails with seven.

Howie Glover, Larry Wilson, Dicky Gamble and Gus Mortson scored for the Bisons. Wilson took over the league lead in goals with his ninth. Gerry Glaude scored for Quebec, which had a four-game winning streak snapped.

Tiger, Giardello Fight Tonight

CLEVELAND (AP) — Joey Giardello calls Cleveland "this lucky town of mine." He bets that luck for the fifth time tonight against Dick Tiger who won a unanimous decision over Giardello in Chicago five weeks ago.

The two middleweights are matched in a nationally televised 10-rounder. Giardello has won all four previous times at the arena here, defeating Bobby Boyd, Rory Calhoun, Boyd Lang and Charley Cotton.

Giardello had straight victories over Chico Vejar, Holly Mims and Del Flanagan when Tiger, British Empire middleweight champion from Nigeria, upset him.

The 30 - year - old Tiger, who lives in Liverpool, England, has won 35 of 45 bouts, 10 by knockouts.

Giardello, 29, will be a slight underdog for this bout.

Majors Blank Marlboro 3-0

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto St. Michael's College Majors won their third straight game of this young season Tuesday night moving into sole possession of first place as they shut out Toronto Marlboros 3-0 in an Ontario Hockey Association Junior A game at Toronto.

In a fast and exciting game at Guelph, Barrie Flyers bowed 7-2 to Guelph Biltmores who flashed their all-round offensive power for the first time this season.

It was the first win for Guelph in three starts and the first loss for Barrie.

"For sentimental reasons, Moose would like to wear number 54, coach. It's the total of guys he hooked out last season!"

AT THE BELLE — Facing Adult Problems — Macdonald Carey, Brandon de Wilde, Marsha Hunt and Carol Lynley, co-stars in "Blue Denim", a film story of teenagers and young romance, opening today at the Belle Theatre.

Frankie and Dino Had Good Help from Mickey in Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—The Rover Boys, Frankie and Dino, turned up again Tuesday night.

A couple of weeks ago it was the Frank Sinatra Show; this time it's the Dean Martin Show. In addition to Sinatra, Martin played host to Mickey Rooney, who, in a couple of sizzling and dancing numbers, displayed considerable talent as an entertainer.

The two singing stars acquitted themselves like professionals when they were singing old songs, but the show sagged remarkably in the gay banter department.

While the television industry is discussing the pros and cons of a czar to prevent a repetition of the corrupt quiz show scandals, they might also consider an arbiter of good taste. He should have the power to banish commercials which go outside the bounds of subjects normally discussed in the living room by relaxed company.

Jack Benny's CBS special Saturday night gives Perry Mason stock off by pre-empting the mystery show's time spot. Part of the special will be a re-run of a bit Jack played with a troupe of monkeys last March

Rooney, who, in a couple of stints with Arthur Godfrey started a TV vogue for conversation last year, will match wits with lefty playwright Brendan Behan and lecturer John Mason Brown next Sunday on Ed Murrow's Small World.

Stirling, Marmora Capture Honors In COSSA Volleyball Tournament

Stirling Seniors and Marmora Juniors captured top honors at OSD yesterday in the Bay of Quinte District COSSA Girls' "B" volleyball championships.

Twenty teams, ten junior and ten senior, took part in this "B" tournament, the largest number of entries in the history of the event.

The "A" schools championships are being held at OSD today with teams from BCIVS, Quinte Secondary School, Napanee, Picton and Trenton high schools competing.

The All-Ontario championships for "B" schools will also be held at OSD this year. Marmora and Tweed in the junior division and Stirling and Tweed in the senior class will have entries in this tournament to be held on November 21.

Competition was very close in the round-robin play yesterday.

In the senior grouping, Stirling, OSD and Tweed were tied for top spot. Stirling drew a bye into the finals while Tweed defeated OSD 15-9 and 15-10 in the semi-finals.

Stirling then shaded Tweed by scores of 15-13 and 16-14 in very close finals to capture the championship.

Marmora and Tweed met in the junior finals with Marmora taking the honors by virtue of 16-4, and 15-9 victories.

Taking part in the "B" championships were school teams from Albert College, Brighton, Campbellford, Deseronto, Madoc, Marmora, Moira Secondary School, OSD, Stirling, Tweed and St. Michael's.

Life Lengthened For Occupants Homes for Aged

TORONTO (CP) — A recent study by the Ontario welfare department indicates that life is lengthened if the worries of insecurity, loneliness and boredom are removed.

The study, published in the current issue of the Canadian Medical Review, involved the case histories of 365 residents over 65 years of age who died in Ontario homes for the aged during the 27 months before last May 1. They lived an average of 4.89 years longer than the average for the general population at the time of death.

Dr. C. Keith Stuart, the department's senior medical specialist, wrote that persons in a home for the aged live longer because of the security of assured shelter, food and clothing, the stimulus of companionship, and the presence of trained nurses and doctors on the lookout for incipient disease.

SWASTIKAS LEGAL

PFORZHEIM, West Germany (Reuters)—A court here today ruled that two men convicted and sold cuff links and tie pins decorated with swastikas were not guilty of anti-constitutional glorification of the Nazi regime. The public prosecutor had demanded a fine for a breach of a law forbidding the sale of "filth and rubbish." The accused told the court they had made the jewelry to meet orders from American souvenir hunters.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Ontario Minor Hockey Association has built its tremendous reputation over the years through the ability and hard work of its elected representatives and the co-operation of minor hockey men throughout the province.

Starting primarily in Toronto it expanded gradually throughout western and southern Ontario. Today it is known as the greatest organization of its kind in the world.

Then one day Sam Gorry of Tweed, decided the hide around this part of the Eastern Ontario neck of the woods were entitled to the benefits of organized hockey.

He approached the OMHA powers-that-be who being told he came from the upper stretches of the Moira River, were somewhat surprised that he spoke English. Their geographical knowledge being limited to the tobacco and sugar beet belts of southern Ontario, and the pig-tail and spare-rib sections of the western part, they presumed Sam's home territory was Lower Canada.

The name stuck, and still sticks. But regardless of nomenclature, or whether Sam's counterparts lived in igloos, grass huts, shanties, or beach-houses, they extended the glad hand and bade him welcome.

Few years under Sam's guidance the OMHA enjoyed the eastern fringe benefits of its large territory. Likewise we Lower Canadians were blessed with the organizational and other fine efforts which has made the OMHA what it is.

Time passed. Sam was forced to relinquish his position as Lower Canada minister without portfolio in the OMHA cabinet, but promptly named his successor, thus betraying the fact he knew a "damned good man when he saw one."

Enter a small compact package of minor hockey spirit, five and one, Douglas Patterson, who gets his mail in Stirling. An apt pupil under Professor Gorry, Doug caught the torch, took up the cudgels, shed his coat, rolled up his sleeves and shouted a figurative "Gangway."

Meanwhile, a similar occurrence was taking place in Peterborough where Albert Watkins, now a household name in minor hockey up in Cec Perdue's bailiwick, was doing sterling duty for the moppets of the Liftlock City district.

For years now this Damon and Pythias of the eastern minor hockey bailiwick have combined efforts, knowledge and general "ee-gitideeness" in the sport of minor hockey from the Kawartha Lakes to where the St. Lawrence laps the shorelits of Gananoque.

They have done a tremendous job. During the past few years they have seen to it that between 2,000 and 3,000 hockey-minded youngsters in their "Lower Canada" area have received the benefits of the OMHA.

For some time both Doug and Albert have labored unselfishly on the OMHA executive. These "Lower Canadians," through their shrewd hard work, cooperation and not a little sacrifice, have earned the well-deserved respect of not only the OMHA "brass" but minor hockey men all over the province.

Now at long last well-merited recognition has come their way. "Lower Canada" will be represented in the ranks of the OMHA mighty. Adding dignity and swank-fabre to that grand total, Messrs Watkins and Patterson will take over the second and third vice-presidential chairs, respectively, come Saturday.

They will be members of a team that ranks with the best in the long if honorable history of the association.

"Skipper" of the team will be that popular bachelor from Thorold, Frank Doherty. Locally popular and a native of Galt will be the "Nixon" of the cabinet. A slate of six will be selected to round out the executive at the annual convention of the OMHA set for the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, on Saturday.

This department has always enjoyed fine co-operation on the part of the OMHA executive. Especially from Messrs. Patterson and Watkins. They have gone out of their way to establish fine public relations with their associates in general and minor hockey in their own areas in particular.

Extending congratulations, we can only say "It couldn't have happened to two nicer guys."

Ottawa 9-Point Favorites Over Montreal in Playoff

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal fans may be passion-ate supporters of their teams but the Ottawa Rough Riders are just as headed rivalry.

The two sides have a little ground Tuesday to the Montreal fans' solid betting support of the Big Four champions but still the bet-or Ottawa Rough Riders by 9½ points when the teams meet in Ottawa Saturday to decide who will meet Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the eastern football final.

The bookmakers are looking at the season's statistics as they size up the sudden-death game. But many Montreal fans figure this the over-lay of the season. The Larks edged the Tirats 15-14 last Saturday and will go on to the finals, they argue.

The reason, they say, are the late additions to the club of Curt Tanks, Wes Gideon and Milt Campbell. They pick Iaukea to stop Ottawa's big ground-gainer, Dave Thelen, while Gideon and Campbell are picked to stop Ottawa passing.

Statistics favor the Riders.

Boston Ukes Reaching For New Scoring Heights

Horvath, Stasiak and Bucyk Account for Five Markers In 6-3 Win Over Chihawks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Boston Bruins' The line is reaching for new heights in the National Hockey League.

Ever since Bronco Horvath, Vic Stasiak and Johnny Bucyk were united at the start of the 1957-58 season, they've averaged better than one goal a game. They combined for 72 in the first season and got 70 last year though Horvath missed 35 games with a broken jaw.

With the present campaign only four weeks old they appear certain to better their previous accomplishments. In 12 games they have scored 31 goals, Horvath setting the pace with 12. Stasiak has five and Bucyk four.

Tuesday night in Chicago the line scored five goals as the Bruins moved into third place with a 6-3 victory over Black Hawks. The defeat was the ninth for the Hawks in their last 10 games. They tied the other one.

GET 12 POINTS

Bucyk scored twice and got two assists, Stasiak added two goals and one assist while Bucyk had one goal and four assists.

Les Lahtne got Bruins' other goal.

The outburst put Horvath atop the scoring race.

Murray Balfour, Eddie Litzenberger and Phil Maloney scored for Chicago. It was Litzenberger's first goal in 11 games this season after getting 32 last season.

The sometimes - temperamental Horvath attributes his goal-a-game pace to the fact that he's stopped shooting more often. A centre who would normally feed left wings, he is set up by Stasiak and Bucyk because they know he has equally effective forehand and backhand shots which have made him a feared scorer.

Goalie Glenn Hall had a bad night as he dropped out to make room for Don Simmons, in the Boston nets, dropped the 4-3 decision.

The Hawks, with a surprisingly inept offence this season compared to an attack that once lit goals last season, drew only 2,000 fans to the game. The Hawks have managed only 14 goals in their last 10 games.

CHICAGO (AP) — Bronco Horvath of the National Hockey League's scoring sensation because he heeded a goaltender's advice, instead of the coach's.

The 29-year-old centre contributed two goals and two assists as Boston Bruins beat Chicago Black Hawks 6-3 Tuesday night.

Bronco, who has 12 goals in 13 games, said of his success:

"It's not how hard you shoot, it's how you shoot and where you aim. The secret of surprise is the flip shot. If you hold your shot to get it into the goalie gets set too. But if you get your shot away fast, the goalie isn't ready and you can beat him easily.

"Rocket Richard (of Montreal Canadiens) is the best-example of that. He shoots the instant he gets the puck and you know how many goals he's scored."

Bronco is no novice at making the red light flash either. He scored 20 goals and 36 assists in 1957-58, the year he joined Bruins, and 19 goals and 20 assists last season.

Horvath's winning streak has forced him out for part of the time.

In 1954 - 55, with Edmonton Flyers, he led the Western Hockey League in goals and 60 assists.

Since his youth in Port Colborne, Ont., Bronco has been the leading scoring. Much of this was acquired by talks with Port Colborne neighbor Don Cherry, a goaltender with the Bruins.

"One of Simmons' tips concerned the element of surprise. Horvath began practising snapping his shots quickly for speed at a time—he still does. Simmons also told Horvath, a six-foot, 170-pounder, to shoot low to keep it along the ice.

"A goalie has only two weaknesses," Bronco said, "A high shot or one along the ice. The tougher of the two is along the ice because you can't move your feet as fast as your hands."

Girls Hinder Pro Athletes Says Coach

EDMONTON (CP) — Girls hinder the careers of modern professional athletes, said Bud Poile, coach and general manager of the Western Hockey League's Edmonton Flyers.

"It's very seldom today that you find a young pro athletes who is obsessed with improving himself and his lucks," Poile, never renowned for pulling punches, told a businessmen's association meeting.

"His mind is on too many other things, and it is the so-called weaker sex I blame."

"Rather than helping the players, the girls hinder them."

Specifically, wives and girl friends kept players out late at dances, parties and movies.

"The women are after them to take them shopping—or if they agree to let the players stay at home, then a job of baby-sitting goes along with the privilege with the girls head off downtown."

The difference could be noted when a club was away from home, the form of National Hockey League star pointed out.

"The players take it real easy before the game. Perhaps they will have a show, then eat their steaks around 6 o'clock and go back to their hotel rooms for a good night's sleep.

"His wife, Marg, interviewed later, said:

"I never had a chance to argue. Bud, the moment he got right over after we were married."

The Poiles, married in 1944, have two children.

Ernie Pitts Set Two Records

REGINA (CP) — End Ernie Pitts of Winnipeg Blue Bombers set two Western Interprovincial Football Union pass receiving records this season and equalled another one.

Pitts caught 68 passes for 1,126 yards to surpass the 1955 mark of 1,094 yards set by end Bob Cameron of the Winnipeg peders.

They set aerials equalled the league record set in 1953 by Ron Grant, an end who now is Bombers' head coach.

Pitts also caught 10 touchdown passes to beat the mark of 14 set last year by Jack Hill of Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Halfback Jackie Smith of Edmonton Eskimos also broke Shaw's mark, kicking 42 goals to set aerials for 1,108 yards.

Calgary halfback Gene Filipski set a new receiving record, catching all 46 aerials thrown to him. The previous competitive percentage mark was set in 1957 by end Stan Williams of Riders who caught 62.5 per cent of the passes directed his way.

In passing, Calgary quarterback Joe Kapp led in almost every department, completing 156 of 288 passes for a percentage average of 59.7 per cent and 2,450 yards.

Edmonton's Don Getty had the best average pass at 10.5 yards.

Wolves Win Over Soo 6-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A blend of rookie enthusiasm and veteran experience put Sudbury Wolves into sole possession of first place in the Eastern Professional Hockey League Tuesday night.

The Wolves took a 6-1 decision over Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds and withheld a third-period attack to take the game 5-4 before a Soo crowd of 3,732. They outshot the Thunderbirds by a 40-25 margin.

The league has been serving the fans consistently at the Soo and Tuesday night was another one the six - team loop's first four games.

Sudbury leads with 15 points. Sault Ste. Marie - Ottawa are tied with 14. The third - place Thunderbirds, with 13, can move into the first-place tie when they host last - place Trois - Rivieres Lions Thursday night.

Eighteen penalities were handed out though the Wolves lead the league in minutes penalized, the Soo had more Tuesday.

Two rookies and four pro veterans handled the goal - scoring for the Wolves.

QUICK CHANGE

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Falcons have changed coaches after playing only three games of the International - Pacific Hockey League season. Playing coach Johnny McClellan was replaced by Belleville McFarlands of the OHA Senior A series where he coached last season. Joe Goegan, 28, defenseman, succeeds McClellan. Goegan played under McClellan at Belleville and also played at Sudbury and North Bay.

Frigid Weather Will Greet Lions, Eskimos in Playoff

EDMONTON (CP)—British Columbia Lions and Edmonton Eskimos will test out on a rock - hard field tonight in numbing 15-degree temperature for the deciding game of the Western Interprovincial Football Union semi-final.

Eskimos hold a 10-point lead in the two-game, total-point series, after their 20-6 victory over Lions Saturday in Vancouver.

About 18,000 hardy fans—little more than half the 34,000 in Vancouver Saturday—are expected to turn out to see whether Eskimos can repeat in frigid weather indicating they gave Lions in sunny, 60-degree heat in the sport's first game.

The game starts at 10 p.m. EST and will be televised nationally by the CBC.

What effect will the cold weather have on the game?

"Naturally we'll have to adjust to the cold," Eskimos' head coach Wayne Robinson said Tuesday night. He was happy about the prospects of a dry field.

"I don't think it'll affect us too much," he said.

Eskimos are nine-point favorites in the second game. How did the coaches feel about that?

"I feel we'll win the game as one in which we're 12 points favored," said Robinson. "I think of it as just a game we have to win by 1 point."

Again the note of pessimism from Keys: "I said after we won the second that it was going to be better we didn't win by more in case we got a little over confident . . . I think now they have had a cushion of 20 or 25 points and I think most of the players feel the same way."

Keys said quarterback Jack Parker is almost a certain starter. A pulled leg muscle bothered him during Tuesday night. It was doubtful whether Ron Stewart, injured Ecuyer, with a broken bone in his left thumb, would play. The other Exks will be on hand for the B.C. lineup was announced.

Though Lions defeated Eskimos twice in four games during the regular season, they haven't been able to break through the Edmonton defensive unit for more than 14 points in any game. The Eskimo victories were by 29-7 and 35-14 scores.

The game itself: Winnipeg Blue Bombers, defending Grey Cup champions, in a best-of-three series beginning in Winnipeg next Wednesday.

Lords Crush Dutchmen 26-0

LONDON (CP)—London Lords came up with a great defence and a scoring offence Tuesday night to beat Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 26-0 and advance into the Ontario Rugby Football Union senior championship series.

Lords open the best - of - three final set against Sarnia Golden Bears at Sarnia Saturday night. The second game is set for London next Tuesday night.

Coach Al Bruno's defensive unit made mincemeat of their miserable showing last Wednesday when they dropped a 50-12 decision to Sarnia in the game that decided first place.

DEFENCE STRONG

The London defence held the usually powerful Kitchener-Waterloo rushing attack to 63 yards and had veteran quarterback Bob Celeri continually on the run.

Quarterback Jerry Thompkins directed a well-mixed London attack. He ran the ball mainly on the ground as Lords rolled up 229 yards and 21 first downs.

Dutchmen made only nine first downs as their attack failed to get anywhere until late in the third quarter.

Fullback Ron King, who picked up 125 yards of the 229 gained by the carries, scored two touchdowns for the Lords. Wankling and Thompkins got the other touchdowns. Eric Keiser kicked two converts.

WIMBLEDON OPEN?

LONDON (AP) — Wimbledon, the stronghold of world amateur lawn tennis, considered its official status Tuesday and discussed a revolutionary idea—that of holding a Wimbledon Open.

This is the first time Wimbledon officials have recognized the open tournament problem.

Macs Drop 2-0 Verdict To Whitby Dunlops

First-Period Fluke Marker Sends Winners on Their Way; Bradley, Bell Out of Action

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Despite the fact it was a rugged, hard-fought battle you wouldn't have known that at one time both clubs received accolades as world champions.

The McFarlands, sorely in need of player help and hit by injuries, bowed to the Whitby Dunlops 2-0 last night and flirted ensconced themselves in the basement of the Senior "A" Hockey League.

It was their sixth defeat in seven outings in a game that saw brilliant goaltending, a couple of near-brawls and lack of finish around the nets on the part of both clubs.

The McFarlands lacked centre ice power with Bart Bradley out with rib injuries. Turk Barclay again took over the goalie duties in place of Gordie Bell whose hockey future hangs in the balance. Barclay, despite a fluke goal in the opening minutes came up with a fine performance

HENDERSON GOOD

Although outshot 25-30, the Macs never got that margin below the Dunlops. Long John Henderson was at his best and when the Macs were not missing by inches or hitting the post, he took care of everything they tossed at him.

All the scoring was done in the first period. The McFarlands handed the Dunnies a gift goal by poking the puck in themselves and after six minutes had elapsed Harry Sinden scored the clincher on a passing play with Sandy Air.

Twelve penalties were handed out by Referee Art Castrilon of Kingston, seven to the Dunlops. The second period saw plenty of roughen and highlighted by a couple of hassles that brought Majors to Ted O'Connor of the Dunnies and Whitey Youngberg of the Macs.

The game was a close, hard-checking affair with spasmodic gangling efforts that saw both clubs swarm around the fecmes net in futile attempts to score.

The breaks "jinx" started early for the Macs when after two minutes of play in the first period Chazerwski attempting to clear the puck from the goal mouth accidentally poked it in the Macs net. Attersley twenty feet out was given credit for the tally.

The Dunnies drew all four of period penalties but Long John Henderson and a packed defence kept the Macs off the scoresheet.

Kane went off for slashing and Bus Dagnon went through the Whitby club only to have Henderson push his shot aside. Four minutes later Harry Sinden took Sandy Air's pass close-in to backhand a low corner drive past Barclay.

The Macs had an edge in the play outshooting the Dunnies 10-7 but they failed to finish their plays around the net or have Henderson kick them out.

Time was heaved for tripping midway through the heat and the Macs poured in hitting the post twice behind the Dunnies goalie. McBeth smothered a Macs drive by falling and grabbing the puck and was chased with less than two minutes to go. The Macs were pressing in when the period ended.

Tempers flared, gloves dropped and referees' thumbs waved as in hectic hard-driving scoreless second frame. Eight penalties were dished out including majors to Youngberg and Ted O'Connor for starting a brawl, while Smrke drew two minors and Treen one for hassling by themselves. Both teams played four men aside at one time but neither capitalized on the advantage. Both Henderson and Barclay came up with some brilliant saves as play surged from one end to the other.

Midway through the heat the Macs swarmed all around Henderson and later, the Dunnies surged around the Belleville net but close checking and good goalkeeping kept the host scoreless.

The scoreless third period was a close, hard-checking affair with the Dunnies bathing hard to protect their lead and the Macs driving desperately to rut the margin. Both goalies again came up with some outstanding saves as first one team, then the other took over aliout offensives.

Keith MacDonald drew the only penalty of the period but the Macs are not only held the Dunnies out but nearly scored when Dauy Jones broke through alone only to have Henderson kick his drive aside.

The period and the game ended with the McFarlands still smashing hard at the close-packed Whitby defence.

LOCATE IN BUFFALO

NEW YORK (AP) — Harry Wismer, member of the new American Football League's expansion committee, said Tuesday that Ralph C. Wilson of Detroit has decided to locate a franchise in Buffalo. Buffalo is the seventh city in the new professional league which plans to start play in 1960 with eight teams.s

CANADIENS' MAN IN THE PLASTIC MASK—Jacques Plante, Montreal Canadiens' goalie, is back in action in first period of game with New York Rangers at New York, wearing a plastic mask to protect face from more injury. He was hit in face near start of game by a flying puck. It took seven stitches to close wound around Plante's nose and upper lip. Game was held up 20 minutes before surgery and fitting of mask was completed. Other players are not identified. (AP Wirephoto).

Cats Haven't Reached Peak Says Top Tabby Jim Trimble

HAMILTON (CP) — Jim Trimble, coach of the team that has ruled Eastern Canada football for three years, says his Hamilton Tiger-Cats haven't hit their peak for this year.

At this stage of the season, he said, the 1958 team isn't as advanced as the 1957 or 1958 squads.

"If we have hit our peak, then we're in trouble." He's hoping that Hamilton has yet to reach that razor edge of efficiency which took them to the Grey Cup in 1957 and just shy of it last year.

This year's team has outscored the other two and has had fewer points scored against it. This year, for 298, against 342; 1958, for 221, against 235; 1957, for 250, against 183.

RECORDS ABOUT EVEN

All three clubs won 10 regular league games. The 1958 team lost only three and tied one, compared to four losses and no ties for the other two.

However, this year's club was beaten by only 10 points in their four losses and only once did the defence allow more than two touchdowns in any game.

The 1958 version of the Tiger-Cats averaged 21.3 points per game; in 1958 it was 20.8 and in 1957 it was 17.9.

In total offence, the 1958 team was tops, grossing 3,099 yards. This year it was 4,493 and in 1957 the addition came to 4,537

In rushing Hamilton netted for 900 yards more than this year and 537 more than the 1958 team. Ticats' passing was tops last year at 3,019 yards, almost 1,200 yards more than 1957 and 202 yards more than this year.

LESS FIRST DOWNS

In first downs, Hamilton's total for each year was 222—244 in 1957, 247 in 1958 and 241 this year.

This year's team intercepted more passes—32—than in either comparative year and had fewer picked off—14.

Last year, Hamilton intercepted 20, while their foes' 22; in 1957 it was the other way around.

This year's team has held onto the ball longer than the 1957 and 1958 crews. Ticats fumbled 42 times in 1957, recovering 29. In 1958 it was 36 fumbled and 12 recovered. This year, Hamilton fumbled and lost only 23 times, recovering seven.

Reese Joins Dizzy Dean In TV Booth

NEW YORK (AP) — Pee Wee Reese, Los Angeles Dodger coach and onetime star, is switched from the playing field to the broadcasting booth.

The 40 - year - old Dodger has accepted a two-year contract to join Dizzy Dean as a commentator on CBS' Saturday and Sunday television games of the week-it was learned Tuesday.

He will succeed Buddy Blattner, another former major league infielder, as Dean's sidekick, on the payroll of a beverage sponsor.

A source close to the former all-star shortstop said Reese will receive $32,000 a year for two years with an option for two more years. He reportedly received $18,000 as a coach.

Reese quit as Louisville manager job would give him more time with his family and more time with his business interests there.

Reese has been with the Dodgers ever since he came up from Louisville in 1940. He became a full-time coach last season. He played in seven world series and eight all-star games for 19 years and in 1953 was offered, and refused, the job as manager's job as successor to Charley Dressen.

Lions Have 'Hot Dogs' Ready for Fans

VANCOUVER (CP) — The odds are against another Western Interprovincial Football Union team in the Canadian stadium this year but Sam, Tony, Jiggs and King will be ready to trade if the British Columbia Lions manage to reach the final.

In the course of their duties they'll probably save another set of cross - bars and some valuable stadium turf.

Sam, Tony, Jiggs and King are four police dogs who will be the fans in check at Lions' last two games here.

When the fans milled around the goalposts after B.C.'s stunning West Coast Conference win, constables walked two of the dogs on the sidelines. The fans meekly dispersed.

Deputy Police Chief Gordon Sansbury admits even the four dogs would ever be able to handle the entire crowd.

If the crowd doesn't disperse immediately after the game, all the handler has to do is speak a command and the dogs, still on leashes, lunge and snarl at the fans.

"We've never found any bad - ly behaved fans won't back away from a snarling dog."

King and Jiggs are German Shepherds, Sam a black Belgian shepherd and Tony a golden Labrador. Only two of them are needed to control one football crowd.

TRACKS MERGE

MONTREAL (CP)—Jean Louis Levesque, president of Blue Bonnets Raceway in Montreal, announced Tuesday night its merger with the city's other harness racing track, Richelieu Park. The announcement also said racing will continue at Blue Bonnets as long as weather permits.

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS

Re: Expropriation — Reclaimed Land Formerly part of the bed of East Moira Lake in the Township of Sidney, now known as Island 'B' in the Township of Ailsa, County of Prince Edward and Province of Ontario.

TAKE NOTICE that by registration of a Plan and Description on the 6th day of October, 1959 in the Registry Office for Registry Division of the County of Prince Edward, Ontario, Her Majesty the Queen in right of Ontario, as represented by the Minister of Public Works for the Province of Ontario, has expropriated the lands set out in the said Plan and Description.

ALL AND SINGULAR that certain parcel or tract of land and premises situate, lying and being in the Township of Ailsa, in the County of Prince Edward and Province of Ontario, containing by admeasurement 14 land formerly part of the bed of East Moira Lake, which said parcel of land is more particularly described as Island 'B' and is known as Island 'B', containing by admeasurement 14 acres more or less and which may be more particularly described as follows:

PREMISING that the bearings used herein are astronomic and are referred to the meridian passing through the point of commencement.

COMMENCING at a point in the meander line of the waters of the said Lake Moira, said point being North 29° 52' 40" West a distance of 1,000.00 feet from the intersection of the said meander line with the easterly limit of Lot 20, Concession 'B' in the Township of Sidney, more particularly described as follows:

THENCE in a general northwesterly direction following the said meander line of the waters of the said Lake Moira to the point of intersection with a line drawn south 21° 29' 20" East from the point of commencement;

THENCE south 21° 29' east 36.72 feet, more or less, to the point of commencement.

AND FURTHER SHOWN colored Red on Plan and Survey by H. E. Smith, Surveyor-General, dated October 1st, 1959.

THE SAID land is required for the use of Ontario Hospital, Belleville.

EVERY PERSON having any claim upon the said land is required to file in the Office of the Minister of Public Works, Toronto, Ontario, full particulars of his claim and the amount thereof within the notice date after publication of this notice, and in the case of lands immediately adjoining a highway within six months after the notice date after publication of this notice, and in default thereof he will be barred from thereafter asserting any such claim and will not be entitled to any compensation in respect thereof.

THIS NOTICE is given in accordance with Section 22 of The Public Works Act, 1952 (c. 323).

THOMAS RAY CONNELL,
Minister of Public Works,
Province of Ontario.

TORONTO, Ontario.

New Mercedes-Benz 220 S

NEW MERCEDES-BENZ MODEL 220S—Mercedes-Benz, the world's oldest car manufacturer, announces the introduction of the new 220S Sedan.

Showing the same attention to detail that has distinguished the company's products for more than 70 years, the new 220S Sedan embodies many new features: a lower, broader grill; 30 per cent more window area; 50 per cent more luggage space, and such new safety features as a padded dash, sun visors and side belts with switches and knobs of a resilient material (recessed where possible.)

In addition to styling changes that give the 220S a lower, sleeker look, the 6 cylinder overhead camshaft engine now develops 134 h.p., with increased torque. Also available is a fuel-injection model, the 220SE, that gives 134 h.p.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Thursday, November 5,

General Tendencies: This is your best day in a long while to get everything on a very solid and secure foundation and basis for yourself. Make sure you look into property matters and get started in whatever will bring you a greater sense of the practical benefits that await your acceptance. Fine for happy moments personally as well.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — This is a very good day for purchasing new clothing, beauty aids and artistic furnishings, etc., for the home, P.M. make surroundings more harmonious which will help lift your spirits. Be very kind to those who work for you or with you.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Social ideal day to come to better understanding with those persons whose experience and background are quite alien to yours. Take pains to entertain most charmingly during your free hours. Much can be gained by such rapprochement.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Seek experts to guide you in all monetary property or security affairs. Then follow advice to the letter. Day is good also for any romantic interest you may cherish. Make this a very productive and happy day through constructive activity.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 21) — Consult with all the right people who can assist you to greater heights in your profession or career. Excellent time to make new deals, cement better relations with those you want to be allied with in the future. Be in nice surroundings.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — A fine day to accomplish a great deal. You are filled with inspiration and can bring these colossal ideas down to practical, workable size. Also fine for collecting modern owed you, increasing regular income. Labor with vim.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — Ideal day in some time for having a whale of a time. Dress very nicely in sport garb and then go, go, go. P.M. is especially fine for any romantic leanings or seeking happiness in artistic fields.

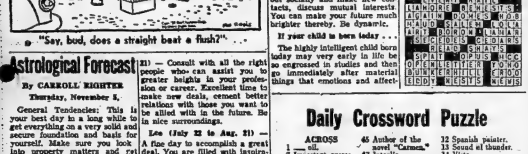
Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — You can get all personal property or home affairs nicely attended to today. Convince ills of deep affection through some overact. Confer honestly with regard to ambitions. Get backing.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — Surely the best day to confer with those persons you wish to have allied with you in the future. Discuss your ideas and get their support. Excellent day to take short trips, shop, make important visits.

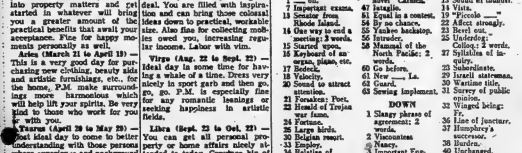
Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — All financial affairs can be handed very wisely today, so attend to them early. Then set up a more workable budget. Study holdings and real estate and make better arrangements. P.M. is time for treatments to improve health.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — You can go after your goals very efficiently now. Do so. However, be certain you know what it is you want so you can converse most intelligently with key persons. P.M. fine for fun and frolic, romance.

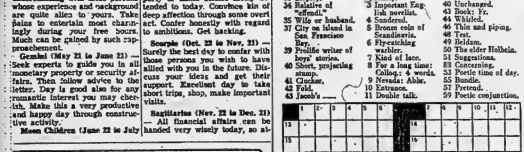
Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Long talks with experts reveal best way to operate in the future to secure greater abundance, make more rapid strides toward career goals. You also have a chance to assist others, which is so important in your life.



Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Work harmoniously with key persons toward mutual goals and make big headway now. P.M. go out socially and make new contacts, discuss mutual interests. You can make your future much brighter thereby. Be dynamic.



If your child is born today . . .



The highly intelligent child born today may very early in life be so engrossed in studies and then so immediately after material things that emotions and affections may be entirely neglected. So be sure you early give courses in spiritual studies as well. Then, the great potential can be attained in this interesting chart. And a very loyal citizen will be in this horoscope.

GROOM FULLS OUT

OFFENBACH, Germany (Reuters) — A civil marriage ceremony in this South German town ended abruptly Monday when the registrar asked the 41 - year - old bridegroom whether he wished to take the 37-year-old bride 'for his wife. The groom answered, "No, not today," asked for his documents, took the bouquet the disappointed bride gave back to him, and hurried from the room.

15 Rail Unions Ask 20-Cent Hike In Hourly Wages

Would Cost Railroads Over $50 Million a Year

MONTREAL (CP)—Wage demands running to millions of dollars have been submitted to Canada's major railways by 15 unions representing 130,000 railway workers across the nation.

The demands were served today on six railways—including the CPR and CNR—and on the press agency.

There was no comment from either the railways or the unions on the specific details of the demand.

However it was learned that the unions asked for wage increases of more than 20 cents an hour spread over a two-year contract.

If this is the case, the demands will cost the railways more than $50,000,000.

Frank H. Hall of Montreal, chairman of the board-of-negotiating team, is expected to disclose the demands when he meets reporters at a press conference Friday at 10 a.m.

NO BIG OTHERS

There may be other issues involved in the non-op proposals, but the wage demand will be the limelight.

Other proposed contract revisions may apply to severance pay, holiday and vacation allowances, rule changes and many others.

A railway method of letting outside contractors do work that the unions regard as within their jurisdiction.

The railways are expected to ask for time to study the union proposals before they sit down to meeting between company and union negotiators.

When the talks start probably sometime next month—the unions will be armed with an economic research staff recently set up in Montreal. Executive of the 15 unions established an economic research bureau to provide special economic data "to enable them to negotiate to maximum advantage."

The other union—the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers (CLC) already has had a research unit in operation.

WIDE RANGE

The non-op unions represent a wide range of railway workers, including electricians, machinists, freight h a n d l e r s, clerks, telegraphers, porters and others.

The labor-management scene in the CNR, CPR, Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway Company, Ontario Northland Railway, Algoma Central and Hudson Bay Railway, Midland and Pacific, Manitoba and the Railway Express Agency Incorporated.

Delivery of the proposals launches Canada's biggest single labor - management negotiations less than a year after the two sides signed a contract.

The present contract—due to expire Dec. 31—was signed last November amid threats of a nation - wide strike of the non-op workers.

Engineer Makes Report on HEPC Atomic Reactor

MONTREAL (CP) — Nuclear engineer Winnet Boyd said Wednesday he has submitted a report on Ontario's Resources Minister Robert Macaulay.

Ontario is developing the 500-to-700,000 reactor jointly with Atomic Energy of Canada Limited.

Mr. Boyd said he was requested to write the report by Mr. Macaulay after an exchange last month with Atomic Energy of Canada.

Noel-Baker British Labor Member Named Winner Nobel Peace Prize

OSLO (Reuters)—Philip Noel-Baker, British Labor member of the House of Commons, was named today as winner of this year's Nobel Peace Prize.

Noel-Baker, former Labor secretary for Commonwealth relations, is one of the party's chief speakers on disarmament, on which he has written a book.

The award, worth $42,600, was announced by the Nobel committee of the Norwegian Storting (parliament).

He held several ministerial posts in the post-war Labor government. He is a former chairman of the Labor party and one of the party's chief spokesmen on international affairs.

The spare and ascetic-looking Noel-Baker marked his 70th birthday four days ago and is the son of a Canadian-born Quaker industrialist.

Noel-Baker will come to Oslo to receive the prize at the customary ceremony Dec. 10, anniversary of the death of Alfred Nobel, Swedish chemist and engineer who left the money for the five prizes awarded annually.

AFRICAN LANDS BERATE FRANCE FOR BOMB PLANS

Sahara Test Site Called Fertile Area

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) The question of expelling a nuclear bomb in the Sahara went into its second day of debate at the UN today with France, her first A-bomb built and ready to go, under assailing fire from African countries.

Liberia, listed to speak first today, has a streak of lambasting France's plan.

Jules Mosoh, French disarmament expert, gave the first official confirmation Wednesday that the bomb had been completed. He said France could no longer risk "sending her military weapons in a world of "agonizing insecurity."

Spokesmen for Morocco, which asked for the debate, and the United Arab Republic declared the test had spread anxiety in all the countries of Africa and imperilled France's role throughout the continent.

But Moch replied that the bomb —equal to 70,000 tons of TNT—is small in comparison with the thermonuclear island-busters unleashed by the United States, Russia and Britain.

It was the first off in a virtually uninhabited place called Desert of Thirst in the Sahara, 1,000 miles south of Algiers, near Algerian coastlines, and would endanger no one.

Morocco's Ahmed Talbi Benhima challenged the argument that the site is worthless desert, saying some 200,000 people live in the area which he described as fertile territory with rich palm groves, pasturing for camel herds and sheep.

Moch said that for 10 years France has carried out an exemplar in disarmament but needs been forced to turn to the bomb, not without "painful renunciations."

Says Canada's Arm Twisted After She Supports Poland

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Green says some countries—he won't say who—are trying to twist Canada's arm over the issue of electing a new member to the United Nations Security Council.

"We don't believe in being pushed around or having our arm twisted," the minister said in an airport interview Wednesday on his return from Europe.

However, at a press conference later Mr. Green said that diplomatic adeptness by lightening, understanding.

He said the arm-twisting was done by persuasion and added with a grin: "We try to persuade other people ourselves but that is normal activity."

Canada is supporting Communist Poland for the Security Council seat held by Iraq and the United States is backing Iran, a NATO ally of Britain.

Mr. Green said at the airport that Turkey was "dragged in at the last minute" in opposition to Poland.

There had been "great relaxation" in world tension lately and that was not going to make a cold war issue out of the UN election."

At the press conference, Mr. Green said Canada has suggested at the UN "we are twisting arms"—that the two-year term on the Security Council be split evenly between Poland and Turkey. Such a solution appeared "very possible."

Mr. Green also dwelt on a feature Canadian delegation of reconsultation among the 15 NATO nations.

The NATO council is not being given enough responsibility, he said.

He had "insisted" in his talks with French and British leaders that there be a full discussion in the NATO council so that a united Western policy could be presented to Russia at an East-West summit conference.

Plane Bound for Baffin Is. Explodes North of Montreal

ST. CLEOPHAS de BRANDON, Que. (CP)—A Wheeler Airlines DC-3 exploded in the air over a pasture near here Wednesday night, killing 22 persons, including a woman, to their deaths.

The plane carried no passengers.

Witnesses at the scene, 50 miles north of Montreal, said the wreckage was spread over a mile area. They said the plane was on fire before in flight. They said the cockpit was the area which he described as fertile territory with rich palm groves, pasturing for camel herds and sheep.

Moch said that for 10 years France has carried out an exemplar in disarmament but needs been forced to turn to the bomb, not without "painful renunciations."

Labor Gathering Asks Revision Of Liquor Laws

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—The Ontario Federation of Labor convention closed Wednesday with a demand that the provincial government form a commission to study liquor laws and revise existing liquor legislation.

Delegates described present Ontario liquor laws as old-fashioned and obsolete.

Criticizing liquor advertising from Ontario outlets is a ridiculous and ineffective law," the federation resolution said.

SUNDAY PROPOSAL FAILS

The resolution committee rejected a proposal by Stanley Mason of the Brewery, Malt and Soft Drink Workers International Union that the convention support a resolution calling for sale of beer and wine on Sunday in licensed dining lounges.

Mr. Mason and several speakers said Ontario's liquor laws are having a detrimental effect on employment in the liquor industry and the tourist trade.

Also passed unanimously by the more than 800 delegates was a resolution calling for the Ontario government to amend hours of work legislation so as to reduce the permissible 48-hour week to 40 hours. Provision for payment of time and a half for employees working in excess of eight hours in a day and 40 in a week was also recommended.

The resolution recommended that the Vacations With Pay Act to provide two weeks vacation after one year's service and three weeks after five years.

Delegates expressed dissatisfaction at a shortage of inspectors in the safety inspection branch of the Ontario department of labor.

The resolution was passed requesting an increase in the number of foundry inspectors.

Cold Weather Due Tonight In Southern Ontario Areas

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The first general cold wave of the season struck most of Canada today but skipped past southern Ontario and its pleasant Indian summer weather.

Southern Ontario residents should enjoy the balmy breezes while they last—because it won't last long. The weatherman said a cold front will hit the area tonight and drive temperatures down to the freezing mark.

The west was locked in a cold air mass that pushed down from Alberta Wednesday and spread over Manitoba. Calgary recorded a low of 16 degrees and below zero during the night. It was three above at Regina, 10 above at Winnipeg, 16 above at Edmonton and 32 at Vancouver. Prince George had a low of 20 and the same in other southern British Columbia points. On the east, with Quebec at 39 and Halifax at 49.

You Pull the Old Chain Down, Water Goes Down and Around

TORONTO (CP)—The tale of an ancient toilet intrigued Toronto's board of control Wednesday.

The board was pondering the case of a street with only one water meter on it.

City Treasurer William Campbell notified the board that unless they ran a line to collect the water bill of $300 run up by 32 families at 40 Thousand on Napanee St., a private thoroughfare, he will have to cut off their water supply.

He said the 12 homes are served by a single water meter and there is a dispute as to how much each owns.

"Apparently one fellow decided to put in a modern toilet to replace the ancient one he had," Mr. Campbell said. "He says he has had a chain up here like this and you pulled the chain like so."

The board laughed.

"Well, it ain't my rate," Mr. Campbell went on, "this fellow broke the water pipe and the water came gushing out in the over the place just like Niagara.

"Instead of shutting the water off, he bent the pipe back and plugged the hole in the bathtub and just let it run like that."

Mr. Campbell said the second-floor tenant complained on the street ran to 600,000 gallons, largely as a result of broken or defective plumbing.

To equip each house with its own water meter would require installation of shutoff valves.

"The plumbing in some of those homes is so ancient that if you tried to fit a valve on it, it would fall apart," Mr. Campbell concluded.

FALLOUT SHOTS NEEDED TO GUARD WORLD'S HEALTH

Canadian Delegate To UN Voices Plea

UNITED NATIONS N.Y. (CP) —Studies of atomic radiation and fallout must be "greatly enlarged" on a world-wide basis to protect the health of mankind, Dr. Wallace R. Nesbitt said Wednesday.

Speaking to UN correspondents from some 20 countries, Nesbitt said this was the purpose of a global basis to determine the extent of radiation, whether natural or man-made.

The resolution — which envisages an expenditure of nearly $300,000 over the next five years for survey workings—was tabled last Friday and now has nine co-sponsors ,including Ghana, Ireland, Argentina, Austria, Italy, Japan,Pakistan, New Zealand and Norway.

People really do not know what are the effects of radiation but we all feel there is some danger," said Nesbitt, vice-chairman of the Canadian delegation. "Fortunately nothing was definite, there was "reason to believe" the radiation was more pronounced in the north — central part of the hemisphere — which would indicate that there were more populous areas — than in the southern hemisphere.

Nesbitt said it had been established that if no more nuclear tests were made, the radioactive fallout would return to earth by natural processes in about what happen then—whether this factor would form a harmful part of the human diet through such foods as and milk.

We hoped for a unanimous resolution, since this is the sort of thing on which we should have complete agreement. We don't know why we shouldn't," he added.

Canada was still "reasonably confident" of receiving some kind with the cooperation before the resolution reaches the General Assembly. The resolution is expected to be so some time next week.

Await Canadian Reply to Missile Order

WASHINGTON (CP) — Pentagon sources said Wednesday they still are waiting for the Canadian government to decide whether it will accept the Lacrosse guided missile from the United States.

They said the Canadian administration was considering months ago whether it would place an order for the ground-to-air weapon but so far there has been no reply to the inquiry.

The sources made the report that the Canadian Army has been testing the Lacrosse on grounds it no longer needs artillery to missile interceptor Prime Minister Diefenbaker says there is no evidence to support such reports.

The Lacrosse, which can be fired from the back of a truck, is in limited production at the Martin Company plant at Orlando, Fla. The Army said today it has acquired sufficient weapons to equip several battalions for training purposes.

CARDINAL SAID FIT

MONTREAL (CP) — Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger was released from hospital Wednesday after being given a clean bill of health from his doctor. Cardinal Leger, after a checkup and rest from overwork, will gradually resume normal activities.

Nehru Rejects Defence Alliance With Pakistan

Can Guard Border Alone But War Would Spread

NEW DELHI (CP) — Prime Minister Nehru today rejected suggestions of a defence alliance with Pakistan and said the Indian Army can defend the border against Communist China "adequately and efficiently" if it has to.

Nehru told his monthly press conference that his firm policy is still to seek peaceful settlement of the border dispute with Peking "but at the same time firm policy to fight if necessary."

He expressed confidence that the dispute would not develop into war between the two countries. If it does, "it would not be the main an isolated, limited thing—the rest of the world would be drawn in."

Nehru declared, however, that India has no intention of seeking outside aid or alliances. "We are rather proud that we have no alliances anywhere, in any way."

The prime minister's comments followed a private meeting Wednesday at which members of his Congress party in Parliament angrily questioned him about the border situation. Some members of the group said it "expressed strong and grave concern" over border situation and conveyed the feeling of the people and their "deep resentment at the week's fear that India has been weak."

Nehru is understood to have told the private meeting that he had ordered the Chinese professions of friendship. He also is understood to have told the private meeting that "thousands" of Chinese Communist troops massed there are in Indian territory.

It was understood most members left the meeting dissatisfied with the government's policy. Further meetings are expected.

Nehru became angry today when a reporter suggested that more might be done to protect India's northern frontier against Chinese penetration.

WON'T TEAR HAIR

"What do you expect me to do?" he demanded. "Tear out my one to dance and stand on my head and scream and shout every morning and evening? I don't see that I should tear my hair."

Nehru argued that "to attempt to defend every inch of the border would be a disproportionate amount of energy from our main defence problem."

Nehru expressed doubt that the border intrusions by Red Chinese troops resulted from any world Communist strategy. They were "more a sign of the age of national Chinese expansionism."

Nehru said he discussed the border situation with President Eisenhower during the latter's visit to India last December. He presumed it would come up in the course of their conversations.

Canada's Defence Production Up

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Wednesday that Canada has enjoyed about $50,000,000 more in defence production sharing in the first nine months of this year than in any previous year since the program began.

Mr. Diefenbaker, elaborating to reporters on remarks he made in a speech at a Toronto speech, said contracts received from Jan. 1 to Sept. 1 total about $75,000,000. In the past, the most that had been received had been about $26,000,000.

France Follows Britain in Lifting Quota Bars on Long List of Goods

PARIS (AP) — Quota restrictions on the import of many goods from the United States, Canada and countries in the European Economic Community organization were lifted by France today.

Among articles affected are textiles; clothing for men, women and children; building materials; household gadgets, tools, refrigerators, cameras and agricultural machinery.

The French action followed Britain's announcement Wednesday that British markets are opening next to a vast array of North American goods and a longer good long barred under import quotas.

The freed French items are those imported mainly from the about 25 per cent in quotas remaining with the countries concerned.

The OEEC had asked its 17 member nations to lift import restrictions progressively over a period of years. The U.S. and Canada are associate members.

In addition to the quotas delayed lately lifted, the government has temporarily suspended customs duties on many foodstuffs which may be imported freely until the end of the year. The move is part of a domestic production shortage due to drought.

Missing Priest Turns up, Wed, Working

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest who disappeared March 4 from Hawaii, a spokesman for the diocese here today, married and working for one of his parishes.

He is David P. Meyer, 38, an Air Force security commission interviewer.

After his disappearance, Meyer was relieved divorced until late in March, when he was received alive but ill. He was assistant pastor of St. Anthony's parish at Wailuku on the island of Maui.

He and his wife, Rofina, declined comment on their secret activities. Mrs. Meyer was the former parish secretary, a mother of four children, she was divorced from her husband five years ago.

Today's Chuckle

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: In Southern Ontario Wednesday night's temperatures held in the mid-40s. Then, without warning, they dropped to freezing and north from there to near zero. Holding up the cold air is a storm centre which was located near Chicago during the night and which is expected to move through Central Ontario during the day. Once the storm is by, ice cold air will plunge down to bring the coldest weather so far this season.

Home Builders Protest Tax On Sheet Metal

Several recent developments at the federal government level in respect to the building industry received serious consideration yesterday evening by members of the Quinte Home Builders Association at their regular monthly dinner meeting. It was estimated that the proposed tax levy on all sheet metal products would boost the cost of a new home by as much as $40.00. It was moved and passed that the local association write to the Minister of National Revenue protesting this tax and requesting that it be dropped.

The coming shortage of federal support of building also came in for discussion. It was felt that the public was not fully aware of the fact that housing loans were not for builders but rather for the prospective home owner. A motion was passed that the National House Builders Association be asked to designate a responsible income and more federal financial aid.

It was pointed out that the NHA provided for the lending of the total amount of money to the people with it being returned to the government with interest. A motion was passed that the National House Builders Association be asked how much profit the government has been making from loans under the National Housing Act and that this and other information regarding the facts around this be brought to the public's attention.

A special club project is to be investigated by the executive concerning the pro's and con's of possible land development schemes by the association members in a co-operative venture to provide low-cost building lots and sites in the Belleville area. It was pointed out the other builders' associations had successfully engaged in similar projects to both their own and their customers' benefit.

Following the business meeting members were shown the Carling's Conservation film "Whispering Wings," which covered duck hunting in Northern Ontario. A brief but interesting conservation was given by Elmer Hartle.

Guests were introduced to the executive by Reginald Clapp of sergeant-at-arms. The meeting was conducted by Earl Demille, president. Award of race was given by Bert Houston.

Senior Citizens Hear Appeal To Donate Eyes

Last evening the Senior Citizens' Club held their November meeting in the Recreation Centre. The meeting was opened with the singing of the Grace and Happy Birthday to members celebrating birthdays this month.

Guest speaker for the evening was Mr. Soldier who spoke about The Eye Bank, in which people give their eyes after death so blind people may see.

The ball was then called for the Halloween party with the members dressed in costumes to compliment the setting. The grand parade was played by Mr. Bruce Sills and Mrs. Adams for which all in costume marched before the judges. Mrs. Fred Cooke as Dr. Goldilocks and Mrs. Haley as Nurse Haley won the first prize. Mrs. Trotter as a tramp and Mr. Fred Cooke as Witch won the second prize. Mrs. Acorn favored the group with two beautiful solos.

The Trenton Band enjoyed some square dancing and round dancing. Mr. J. Simpson was the door prize.

Lunch was prepared by Mrs. Haley, Mrs. Simpson, Mrs. Preston and Mrs. Cooke.

Mrs. Gilbert Brennan, president, thanked all for coming and making it a most successful evening, and thanked the Trenton Club for coming down. Everyone left very happy.

Everyone over 60 is invited to join this fine club.

St Ola Girl Shows Champ Angus Heifer

From Hastings county 21 calves, 4 pairs of gilts and several oat, grain corn and potato exhibits were displayed at the Hastings county Fair 4-H classes. They were judged on experience by county in the basis of superior quality within the local club.

Miss Sandra Wood St. Ola, exhibited the champion 4-H Angus heifer at the fair while Owen Ketchenson, Marmora exhibited champion pair of 4-H Yorkshire gilts. This year 7 of the 21 calves were placed in the A group. These were shown by: Owen Ketchenson, Moira; Sheridan Lott, Trenton; St. Ola Angus; Bill Vermilyea, Thrasher, Holstein; Allan and Robert Hamilton, Trenton, Holstein and Ron Hamilton, Marmora, Jersey.

Experience in the county placing in the potato class were: 1st prize and best exhibit, Ron Douglas, Hillcrest; 2nd, Nita Hicks, Bird's Creek; 3rd, Wilmer Baldwin, Palmer Rapids; 4th, Mary Hickey, Bird's Creek; 5th, Alvin Hickey, Bird's Creek; 6th, Ross Smallman, Wooddville.

Help People to Eat Better Way to End Farm Surpluses

Eligible Voters Here Increase By a Thousand

The number of persons eligible to vote in Belleville municipal elections has seen a big jump for the second year in a row this year, according to Deputy City Clerk Adam Stalker.

Last year the total was swelled as a result of the annexation of parts of Sidney and Thurlow township, while this year the total will be again swelled by non-property owners entitled to vote under the municipal franchise extension act.

The total number of property owners and tenants in the city is given by Assessment Commissioner Leighton Thompson as having just over 18,000, while the voters' list will have an additional 1,000 persons will be entitled to vote this year under the franchise extension act.

Mr. Stalker said that to extend the franchises in the city to allow residents other than property owners to vote on all except money matters.

Yesterday afternoon the county court of appeal was held before His Honor Judge J. E. Anderson for adding names omitted from the voters' list.

Approximately 25 names were added to the list, each such person made personal appearance before the judge to have his name entered.

The others had called previously at city hall and had the required information and their applications passed on to the court of appeal for approval by the judge.

The voters' lists have been posted in the city since Oct. 15th.

At the November meeting of the Belleville Camera Club, president John Lewis extended his congratulations of the members to Edgar Buchanan and Wallace Kirkpatrick on winning consolation prizes in the nationwide Toronto-Dominion Bank Photography Contest held recently. He hoped that this would encourage everyone else to enter their slides and prints in competitions.

Some of the results of the October mid-month meeting were shown. During meeting a "work shop" with Christmas card processing was set up on table tops. Many variations in lighting, props and arrangements are under the control of the photographer in this field. The next mid-month meeting will be November 17 and the subject will be portraits. There will be a model and floodlights, so anyone interested in this phase of photography should come to the Kiwanis Centre that night.

As a move to help the newest group of the club, the movie section, it was decided to join the Belleville Film Council.

After the business meeting two films were shown. The first was called "The Four Seasons" and was presented through the courtesy of Imperial Oil Company, Limited. It was filmed Christopher Chapman entirely in the Lake Simcoe area, and was a beauty.

The second picture was produced by the National Film Board and presented the life of Tom Thomson, one of Canada's great artists. The film showed many scenes in Ontario's outdoors, along with the pictures they presented to Tom Thomson, whose love of nature and the north shone in his paintings.

The evening closed with coffee and cookies being served.

Police Court

Four Marilimers facing charges of robbery with violence in connection with the holdup of a gasoline service station and operator about two weeks ago, have been remanded until Nov. 13th.

The members of the quartet, two young men and two girls, were arrested by provincial police some hours after the gas station operator Roy Brown reported he had been struck over the head with a pop bottle and robbed of $72.

The quartet appeared this morning before Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Russ Ice Bases Float Into Canadian Waters

TORONTO (CP)— RCAF Arctic patrol planes have watched Russian polar ice bases float into Canadian waters in a series of sightings, they say.

Air Commodore F. S. Carpenter, commanding Air Transport Command, said Wednesday night the bases are being watched closely on numerous occasions.

He spoke at a dinner RCAF Association meeting and said two bases well known to the RCAF have been spotted as deep into Canadian waters as latitude 86 north—about in same with the northern tip of Greenland.

The two bases were known as North Pole Seven and North Pole Seven. Air Commodore Carpenter said North Pole Seven has been abandoned since the photographs were taken.

The Arctic flights are carried out by No. 408 Squadron responsible for defence-intelligence operations under the code name Air Romp.

Air Romp consists of regular and special air patrols to and beyond northern Canadian coastlines. Canadian territory for the RCAF's purposes refers to the North Pole and includes the vast regions of the Arctic Ocean.

Birth Control Is Supported By Archbishop

NEW YORK (AP)—The Archbishop of York said Wednesday that after long thought on the question of the use of contraceptive birth control he is right to say it to use them as part of the Christian fulfilment of marriage.

But he added:

"I don't counsel indiscriminate use. Parenthood is definitely a part of marriage and it is wrong for people to marry and avoid parenthood."

Shirtless Man Awarded $1,250 For False Arrest

WINDSOR (CP)—A 44-year-old unemployed Hungarian immigrant was awarded $1,250 in damages Wednesday by a Supreme Court jury in support of a claim of false arrest and imprisonment.

Three Windsor police officers and two police auxiliary policemen.

Zoltan Szabo originally sought $50,000 damages.

In the damage suit, Szoborcsik charged he had been arrested, imprisoned and assaulted July 22, 1958, after he refused to put on a shirt in a city park.

The jury dismissed the action against chief defence witnesses, James Larkin and Douglas Purser, but levied a $1,250 assessment against Windsor Police Sgt. Alikna Robinson for false arrest.

Two city constables, Donald McClarty and Louis Maiconville, were ordered to pay $30 damages for assaulting the plaintiff.

Szoborcsik was carried from the park by two police officers. Taken to headquarters, he was released without any charges being preferred. He told the court he had been scrubbing in a pail of Bermuda shorts.

Soviet Proposal Setback to Hope Of Ban on Tests

GENEVA (Reuters) — Russia Wednesday foiled Western hopes of making rapid progress on a treaty to end nuclear weapon tests.

The setback proved as surprising as a Soviet turnabout Tuesday in agreeing to a meeting of United States, British and Russian experts to study new American data on underground nuclear tests.

Soviet delegate Seymon Tsarapkin told Wednesday's session of the year-end three-power conference the experts should study "the use of objective instrument readings" in the inspection of suspected explosions.

Western officials said that the Soviet terms are wholly unacceptable. They complained that Russia is trying to restrict the experts' work to a decision on the kind of dial readings required to be kept by the inspectors.

Informed quarters Wednesday night said U.S. delegate James Wadsworth and Britain's Sir Michael Wright are preparing their own version of what the experts should talk about. It is not yet known whether the Western version would be an amendment to the Soviet text or a completely separate proposal.

Tsarapkin, chairman at Wednesday's 15-minute session, proposed that the experts start their study Nov. 9 and report back to the conference Nov. 30.

IN MEMORIAM

GORDON — In everlasting memory of John Gordon who passed away November 5th, 1953.

Within my heart I always keep,
A special place for you;
And there I'll hold you safe and dear,
As I loved you, do I miss you,
In my memory's eye each day,
Remembered, treasured now forever.

Treasured with a love unsurpassed,
Is the memory of a dear husband,
Today I cannot hear or see,
Yet I know you walk beside me.
Sadly missed by wife Ida,
Ida and to walk the road alone,
Is hard to bear,
With all the memories we share,
When the years of life divide.
Memories are all we have to guide.
Then came sorrow and tears;
against cruel defence testimonies.
I will treasure throughout the years
Of the love and companionship
we shared.

To remember my whole life through
Is the whole desire of my heart.
Yes, I cannot hear or see,
But I treasure the image of you,
Deep in my heart and memory,
Always true, thoughtful and kind,
Always ready to help a friend in need,
You made no one a fast farewell,
Sadly missed by wife Ida.

Sorrow came before we knew it,
And pain before we knew it was near,
We had to suffer and bear
Upon the path we trod;
Then it was time to part with you,
And leave the rest to God.
Sadly missed by wife Jean, daughter Frances, sons Donald and Alan.

BURKWORTH. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Annie Elizabeth Burkworth, who passed away November 5th, 1958.

A silent thought, a memory fond,
Keeps her memory ever dear.
— Ever remembered by the family.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market was mixed to lower today a dull morning trading.

Trading in the first hour today was the second lightest in four weeks, beaten only by Tuesday's total of 300,000 shares. Today's volume was 469,000 compared with 325,000 at the same time Wednesday.

Price changes in all sections were extremely narrow. In industrials one of the bigger changes was a 9-point jump to 87 by Loblaw B.

Mines and oils were slightly lower with seniors losing fractions in both sections.

On Wednesday the market lost ground.

The final volume was 1,912,600 compared with Tuesday's 880,000.

Wall Street was closed Tuesday for U.S. state and local elections.

Index changes: Industrials up 26 to 313.19; golds up .35 to 88.35; base metals up .22 to 188.22; western oils off 1.23 to 184.98.

Declines off losses of 29 to 25 cents went to Bailey Selburn, Canadian Devonian, Central del Rio and Royalite.

Industrials had several key issues off fractions but Ford A climbed 3¼ points to 179¼.

Trans-Can showed some strength in mines while senior golds remained mixed in quiet trading. Lower - priced mines showed no definite trend.

Planning Board Holds Busy Regular Meeting

TRENTON — Members of the Trenton and Suburban Planning Board met last night in the Legion Room at the Municipal Office. Present at the meeting were Dr. W. L. McDonald, chairman; O. W. Larry, secretary-treasurer; Reeve Campbell, vice-chairman; board members Donald Sutherland, James MacDonald and H. Blabsby; E. C. Alderney, town engineer and Arie Hilsenrad.

Dominic Angelo came before the board to ask that he be allowed to buy the section of road allowance on Bridge Street which adjoins his property. Mr. Angelo stated that his lot, between Wall Street and Bridge Street, fronting on Front Street, was cut up by a drainage ditch. He said that he would like to build a house on the lot, but could not do so unless he had additional land. He pointed out that Bridge Street is not being used as a road.

Mr. Alderney observed that in this particular case it seemed the best policy to close off the street. Mr. Sutherland objected to the proposal and stated that he was against selling street allowances. However, the majority of the members were of the opinion that there appeared to be no reason why the street could not be closed from a planning point of view. A resolution was drafted and will be presented at the next meeting of council.

O. W. Larry gave a brief report on the meeting held on Tuesday of members of council with representatives of the Ontario Municipal Board. The board had received applications from the Allore Company to enlarge their buildings on Dundas Street; Mr. Selena Isles to enlarge a private dwelling on Bentinck Street; Mrs. Ivy Smith to enlarge her store on Sidney Street, and Mr. and Mrs. G. Hanna to enlarge a private dwelling on Dufferin Street. Trenton Steel and Finishing Company was given permission to enlarge its building on Wall Street. Fred Parker, manager of the plant, told the board that the company planned an expansion program over the next two years. He stated that the company planned to build a one-storey building on their property south of the original buildings.

A letter was read from John Pearson, representative of the Ontario Development and Planning Association, suggesting that a meeting be held in Trenton during the week of the year, to which a cross-section of community-minded citizens of Trenton and the surrounding rural areas would be invited. The purpose of this meeting would be to acquaint as many people as possible with planning. It was suggested that the group be composed of persons in the professional, business, manufacturing, members of service clubs, representatives of the Board of Education members of, the Retail Merchants' Association, and the public senior high school students.

O. W. Larry will represent the board at a conference which will be held in Queen's University November 6th and 6th. Delegates attending this conference will consider certain aspects of planning as applied to various urban and rural areas.

The board members decided that they would consider two or three planning problems which have come to the attention of the board in recent weeks, at each meeting. One such application from the Canadian Pacific Railway to re-zone land east of the CPR property on North Byron Street from residential to commercial property, will be considered at the next meeting.

Mr. Sutherland suggested that something be done in the near future to present a unified front between the board and the outlying townships, with a view to helping the townships with their planning problems.

Mr. Campbell and Mr. Sutherland requested that the secretary send out copies of the minutes of each meeting with notifications of meetings. It was agreed that this would be done.

Armistice Day Arrangements Are Completed

TRENTON — At an executive meeting of Trenton Branch No. 119 of the Canadian Legion, held in the Legion Hall on Monday evening, Comrade Carmen Livingstone, membership chairman, informed members that his committee had approximately 65 applications for membership on hand.

Branch President W. T. Lawson was in charge of the meeting. He reminded the members of the church parade to be held on Sunday November 8th, at No. 6 Repair Depot, under the direction of P/L C. W. Bryce, Protestant Chaplain of the branch.

Carl Taylor, chairman of the Red Cross Blood Bank, reminded members of the blood donor clinic to be held at the Legion Hall on Thursday, November 12.

Albert Cunnell, Remembrance Day parade marshal, reported that arrangements have been completed for the November 11 parade. The parade will leave the Legion Hall at 10.15 a.m. and proceed down Division Street to Dundas Street where the salute will be taken by the marshal, F. S. Carpenter, air officer commanding Trenton; Commissioner RCAF, Trenton, in front of the Century Theatre. The parade will proceed down Dundas Street to the Cenotaph at Fraser Park, where a wreath will be placed there by deputy Branch Padre C. W. Bryce.

It was unanimously decided to sponsor a public speaking contest in all school classes in the Trenton and vicinity up to and including Grade 8 in which Provincial Scripps will be chairman of the contest.

Mrs. Tyrrell, chairman, William Taylor stated that a record number of poppies had been received by the Community Gardens on Saturday, Nov. 7th, for Legion Poppy stating.

It was decided that the Trenton Legion branch would sponsor a float in the Santa Claus parade.

Citizens of Trenton wishing to place a "wreath at the Cenotaph on Remembrance Day are invited to contact William Taylor at 392-4364 after 5 p.m. or to call the Legion hall at Ex 3-3740.

Trenton Woman Hurt in Three-Car Crash

TRENTON — Mrs. Bessie Button, of 43 Birch Street, was admitted to Trenton Memorial Hospital last night for observation following a three-car collision on No. 2 Highway east of Trenton.

Provincial Police said that Harold Pilgrim, of Glenora, Prince drove out of the airforce gates on the highway when his car was in collision with a vehicle driven by Joseph A. Button of Trenton. The Button car in turn was struck in the rear by the third car driven by Calvin Arm-strong of R. R. 4, Warkworth.

'Kids' Smash Window in Paper Office

TRENTON — The rash of vandalism in the business section of Trenton was continued today with the discovery by the Trenton representative of the Ontario Intelligencer, that the window of the office at 74 Dundas Street West, had been broken during the night. A large stone had been thrown through the window and a considerable amount of glass was lying about the desk in front of the window. Constable George French of the Trenton Police Force investigated and voiced the opinion that it was the work of "kids."

Fast Growing Cancer Virus Reported Found

TORONTO (CP) — University of Toronto researchers say they have found a virus that produces the fast-growing cancer ever observed in animals.

It grows so quickly that it has already provided a far better picture of how the disease develops in some animals, Dr. A. T. W. Hare, head of the department of medical biophysics, said Wednesday.

The virus causes hamsters to die of huge tumors within two weeks, after the disease has passed through a stage unlike cancer and far more like a typical virus ailment, he said.

"To date the growth has been observed only in hamsters."

Dr. Hare said the researchers regard the development as important but not "sensational."

Port Perry Boy May Have Died From Rabies

TORONTO (CP)—The death of a seven-year-old boy who contracted rabies 11 months before after he was bitten by a skunk is under study by pathologists here.

Richard Knight, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Knight of Port Perry may have died of rabies. A report on the pathologist findings is expected in a week.

The boy was bitten by a baby skunk Sept. 11 while walking in the woods near his home with two young friends, Teddy Williams, also 7, petted the animal and it ran into a hole. Richard had his arm bitten.

"It grabbed Ricky's fingers and he has still holding them when he pulled his hand out," said Marcia Williams, 12, the only girl who saw it and I forced its jaws open."

Richard was taken by his parents to the medical centre at Port Perry, a village of 2,200 north of Oshawa. He was given an anti-tetanus injection.

Dr. George Rennie, Port Perry medical officer of health, said the boy refused to see a doctor after the cuts. "If we had known how he had been bitten we would have given him anti - rabies shots," Dr. Rennie said.

Women Testify Mann Smoked Marijuana

TORONTO (CP) — Two women testified at a county court trial Wednesday that Gerald Mann, 27, and football star Dave Mann, 27, was smoking marijuana with three other persons in a Toronto apartment the night before it was raided by police last summer.

Geraldine Chipman, 24, and Gail D'Arcy, 24, who are charged with illegal possession of the drug, denied knowledge of marijuana in their apartment but admitted they had smoked it with Mann and Jack Kane, 25-year-old ship painter.

The two women have pleaded guilty to the charge. Mann and Kane have also been charged with illegal possession of marijuana found in the apartment they shared and were committed for September 14 trial before a judge and jury.

Mann, a halfback import with the Big Four Argos, was suspended from the team pending the outcome of the hearing.

RCMP made the arrests last August.

Deseronto Council Notes

DESERONTO — The regular meeting on Monday night of the Deseronto council was a brief one. All members were present and council adjourned shortly before 9.30 p.m.

In the correspondence there was a letter from J. D. Dawson advising council that Mrs. Dawson was willingly sign a quit claim deed for all those water rights in Lot A with the exception of the water rights immediately in front of his property. Council also received a sample of the type of nomotor to be used in the numbering of houses which the council decided to have done. This work is to be completed early in the new year.

On recommendation of the police committee, Constable Gloster is to be given an increase of $200 per year effective December 1st. Councillor Howard of the property committee reported that the roof of the town hall was leaking and some immediate repairs would be required. His committee was given power to have the work done.

Councillor Lake was appointed by the town to provide fire protection for certain portions of Richmond township. Further is to take effect immediately.

Councillor Spencer reported on the meeting of the Athletic Association and William McGregor resident of the association, also spoke of the work the association is doing.

On motion of Councillor Lott, council decided to declare November 11 a civic holiday.

F. Topping of the boat club spoke of the pollution of the water in the mill pond. Council asked the clerk to write the Board of Health asking for a written report on action taken about the pollution complaints as reported by Mr. Topping.

HAPPY HUNTER — Roger Barlow-of New York poses with a buffalo he shot during the first North American hunting hunt in 66 years. Accompanied by a guide, Barlow stalked and considered a trial affair. Hunters shot the overflow from Wood Buffalo National Park in the Northwest Territories where the buffalo herd is increasing. Barlow held licence No. 1. (CP from National Film Board.)

Sportsmen Engaged in First Buffalo Hunt Want to Take Whole Animal to Their Home

FORT SMITH, N.W.T. (CP)—Federal game officials never thought so many buffalo hunters would want the whole buffalo.

Head and horns for trophies maybe, but not hooves, hide and meat. The meat is tough, the hides can be had for $30 and nobody knows what the hooves would be good for.

These facts turned out that sportsmen engaged in the first North American buffalo hunt in 66 years want every scrap of their kill — posing the biggest problem of the two-month hunt which began Sept. 15.

Federal authorities were prepared to carve the kills into leathery steaks and distribute them to Indian and Eskimo bands in the Northwest Territories.

TOUGH HAUL

They made no provisions to have to four tons of meat a week lugged across bush, swamp and plain to a landing on the Slave River and stored in Fort Smith until it could be flown out.

"We will next year," said Game Superintendent Joe Bryant of the Mackenzie District. Hunters apparently want to take their bull home to prove they aren't just shooting the bull in tales of the hunt, he said.

The hunters are taking much more meat than was expected, he said, considering that the sleek are well removed from the flies' pigmon category. Ten thick buffalo steaks per hide.

Felix -Morales and Keith Osmond, two Texans, each shot more almost a ton of meat. The cost was an extra to be added to the $500 outfitters' fee, the $30 licence, and the air fare to Fort Smith, an isolated community 300 miles north of Edmonton.

The hunters cool's seem to count the cost as they lounge in Fort Smith's Pinecrest Hotel, boasting of getting a buffalo for 76 cents per pound of two bullets.

The hunt has been successful, aside from complaints about meat-moving difficulties. Excitement, good trophies and wilderness lodging have added up to a good time for the hunters.

One said the camp near Grand Detour, where hunters leave the plane and take to bogsback, is the best he has seen,"since he began roughing it in 1904.

Another has bagged a bull with a silk handkerchief outside horn spres. The world's record is 6 inches.

Mr. Bryant says the hunt may be given more northern flavor in future if a suggestion from one hunter is carried out. The suggestion was that the hunt be held later, with dog teams transporting hunters 50 miles north to Grand Detour. Planes or helicopters do the job now.

The 1959 hunt, limited to 36 licences, is considered a trial affair. The hunters about the overflow from Wood Buffalo National Park, a haven for 15,000 buffalo. The park dips into the Territories from Alberta and the hunt takes place midway between Fort Smith and Great Slave Lake.

Guides try to lead hunters to wood buffalo—larger and darker than the plains species which were transported to the park refuge in the 1920s. However, it is believed the pure wood species remain.

Each hunter carries an official big game score - card and his trophy is measured by the sum of points obtained from a number

Abolish Hallowe'en?

Mayor Lloyd Burrows of Lindsay says that the Federal Government should give "serious time and study to the abolition of Hallowe'en."

Mayor Burrows ought first to have given some serious time and study as to how Hallowe'en could be abolished by government decree.

His annoyance with Hallowe'en is understandable. Vandalism in his town on Saturday evening included the burning of a railroad bridge just outside Lindsay.

Asking the Federal Government to abolish Hallowe'en, though, is useless. There are already laws against vandalism. What additional protection is proposed would be provided by a law "abolishing" Hallowe'en? How do you abolish a date on the calendar, anyway? We suppose it would be possible for the government to pass a law making it a criminal offence to wear a mask on Hallowe'en, or to don a costume, or even to venture out of the house between the hours of sunset or sunrise. But how would the government enforce such a law? Would it be any easier arresting millions of ghosts and hobgoblins and witches than it is apprehending a handful of vandals? The truly amazing thing about Hallowe'en these days is not that so much damage is done, but that damage is so light, compared to what was once commonplace. The burning of Lindsay's bridge was the exception which proves the rule that today's Hallowe'en celebrants are, on the whole, fun-loving rather than destructive.

Contrast With Dulles

There is a strange sound about that story from London, describing how Hon. Howard Green, Canada's Minister for External Affairs, found that city little changed from the last time he saw it, back in 1912 when he was homeward bound from service in the First Great War. Strange, too, is the report that his recent visit to Paris was his first, although he had served in France forty years ago.

We have become so used to foreign ministers like the late John Foster Dulles, continually flitting from continent to continent, that we are apt to forget that there was a time when many of the statesmen charged with the responsibility for the foreign policy of their country had travelled but little. Nor do we think it is necessarily true that Mr. Green is handicapped by the fact that the capitals of many nations are strange to him.

Foreign travel could certainly be useful and informative for a man in his position, but we have some doubt whether the type of knowledge needed is acquired on official visits and while attending conferences. And, of course, even more important than a knowledge of the capitals of the countries is a knowledge and an understanding of the hopes, fears and temperament of the people of one's own country.

Dictator Resigning

From Rangoon, in Burma, comes a story which could best come appealing, in other days, with happy results. A dictator is about to step out of office and hand the running of the country back to elected politicians.

The dictator in question is Gen. Ne Win and his resignation is not the only unusual feature of his record. Under his rule, and that of his army, the last year has been the most democratic in Burmese history.

Gen. Ne Win, a Japanese-trained officer, is said to have a marked distaste for politics, but he assumed the position of prime minister on Oct. 28, 1958, at the request of his predecessor, U Nu. He put an end to the terrorist insurgency that ravaged the country, cut the incidence of murder from seven a day, plus kidnappings, twelve a week; deported profiteers; arrested hoarders; controlled and lowered prices, and opened new stores, some of them operated by the army.

Now, his clean-up job done, he is ready to step down and hand control back to elected representatives, but the army will supervise the elections to prevent corruption which was prevalent during earlier Burmese votes. These elections will be held in late January and early February.

It will be interesting to watch what happens, to discover whether this benevolent dictator has worked a permanent cure for his country's troubles, or whether when the doctor is away, the patient will suffer a relapse. It is to be hoped not. There is no guarantee that a doctor of Gen. Ne Win's capabilities will always be available—nor that the people will always copy the example of U Nu and relinquish office at the proper time.

Letters To The Editor

Ex-Mayor Forrester Vigorously Defended

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

Although I am not well acquainted with Mr. Forrester when he left to defend, to bear off a letter to a friend, or because he is a man, has become the w a s good mayor, as opposed one who was not elected, rather than the unfortunate unless in all the did and, I feel, a great credit to our city. His

I would like to be allowed to defend ex-Mayor John Forrester who was in a position to defend himself, and not because she is a friend, or because he is a woman, but because she was a good mayor, as opposed one who was not elected, rather than the unfortunate unless in all the did and, I feel, a great credit to our city. His remembering the memorable ballot that brought Mr. Forrester into the Mayor, with the members of the city council, I feel sure that all will agree that good city government at every party, it was necessary at times to have different groups of aldermen. Certainly no hockey team which was ever at all times could succeed by be compared to the group of men who have served the city for the past three years. It is unfair at this time to blame her for the present server of affairs.

Actually it would appear that the hockey team is being used as a political football in the current investigation, and although I am not a hockey enthusiast, even I can see that its deficit is pennies compared to the total deficit of $800,000. At the same time the taking of whipping boys reminds me of a football team who had a very fine boy who worked hard for his parents, going to school all day, delivering papers, working in his father's garage in the evening, and then coming home by bringing home a report card stating that he had failed in algebra! It appears that Drury Downes is in very much the same position as the boy. In other words, "let George do it." If any hockey fan should attempt to carry the burden put on this man's willing shoulders, he would be the first to admit that a paid chairist long ago. I feel that the people of Belleville would be condemned for allowing this man to take on such a load, and as well, they should be ashamed for casting the city manager, Mr. Harring. Incidentally, I am not a hockey fan, at least there would have been one confining hand on the city's behalf.

At the risk of being fairly windy, I feel that it is time we were thanking ourselves and our civil servants, and looked at our own shortcomings. How many people in this city would be willing to run as mayor or alderman in the first place, and how many people do not cast and vote for those who are running in the elections, and if they go to the polls, are they voting for a good man, or incompetent because somebody uncle, say they say he's a very nice man? It is about time to sit on the sidelines and throw spit balls, and get down to the business of being a personal stand corrective.

In conclusion, I notice that the next meeting of the Carnegie Public Library has large metal letters proclaiming it to be a Public Library. Is there a sign over the man who originally gave the money to the city, "Keep out, and reduce it. It wouldn't be a bad idea if someone in authority would put some spit balls, and throw spit balls, and get down to the business of being a personal stand corrective.

In conclusion, I notice that the next meeting of the Carnegie Public Library has large metal letters proclaiming it to be a Public Library. Is there a sign over the man who originally gave the money to the city, "Keep out, and reduce it. It would it not have been a gracious gesture to have put some public library signs in the lot addition — after all, we haven't had too many public citizens who have anything to the city.

Now that the small winds and doubt and no more note and therefore shall not sing this "disgusted citizen."

Wants Councillors Given Acclamation

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

It seems to me that we might be best served in Belleville next year by re-electing by acclamation the present city council as municipal officers.

At first blush this may appear to be a somewhat startling thought but it has recommendation to me after considerable deliberation for the following reasons.

One of the important qualifications of a municipal councillor is that they have experience. Certainly no one in civic life can have had as much experience — or experiences — as our present council.

Secondly, familiarity with the present problems of a municipality is of considerable assistance to any qualified member of council. Certainly these ladies and gentlemen have this attribute.

Thirdly and most importantly is the desire to serve the public. It is my belief that after the public castigation which these people have received and which no doubt has caused them some considerable degree, I can think of few of the candidates who would have such a great desire to re-establish themselves in the confidence of their fellow citizens.

Lastly I fear greatly that the alternative to the present council will mean the election of quite a considerable number of firebrands and zealots with little or no experience who will be more interested than their desire to proclaim the virtues of their political regime.

I would not perhaps personally be averse to another and more of the present council as my own choice but as a whole, I am sure that it has the sincere desire to serve the public faithfully and I think they should evince some remorse and an acceptance of the responsibility for their actions and not only dictate their desire for further public service but to offer their entire servants at this time for re-election.

I think the general public would also be much interested in some sort of an expression from your newspaper concerning this matter and perhaps indeed some invitation to the public to put forward their own views through the press.

In this manner I respectfully submit my views and contribute as well an important service to our city.

Yours very truly,
Kenneth G. M. Ross.

Repeal of the arms embargo under the United States neutrality law satisfies the viewpoint of most Americans that the "cash and carry" plan is a safeguard in keeping the United States out of war. Under the embargo Britain and France and Canada and the rest of the British Dominions have been unable to purchase munitions in the United States, while neutral nations could make purchases if they desired. There is a moral importance in the measure for it can lend a great strength to the spirit of the Allied peoples to know that other nations assume towards Germany with her lack of chivalry on the seas, and her small ability to pursue a conducting the strain she has been laboring under for years, tending armaments from which has resulted the very war which is now raging and which has upset world conditions.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

YOUR MOST INTERESTING FRIEND

Your most interesting friend is the one about whom you know the most. A magazine editor asked the late Dr. Frank Crane to write a piece about the most interesting man he ever met, and so he wrote a story about himself.

We think that we know our best friend, but we do not. We do not even know much about ourselves, but we do know our most interesting friend. That is why we should make it a life job to learn all we can about ourself, for we can best profit from all sucn knowledge, growing better and being happy with each day given to us.

It is all well and good that we have friends to teach us and to lead us where we may learn the most, but we shall forever owe most to ourself for what we are, and this applies to the best as well within possibilities. Those famous two words by Socrates, "Know thyself," should be of first consideration. For other people are our own inspiration. Every practical precept we have about the phrase "self-esteem," but each of us may keep adding to it. Every day we are making it more and more personal, and refusing to others.

Be good to the friend within you, and you will be good within the mind of others, as regards yourself, but walk us. Don't be afraid to be good for it. And think as you go. Perhaps you can make another person be add to the one that you are! You may well be the most interesting person in your life!

YOURSELF

All people are alike.
All people are different.

Both these statements are true. We are all alike in that we are bipeds with certain physical and mental characteristics shared by all people in being. Further more, from the highest to the lowest in the human scale of creation, all have certain rights and privileges that may not be denied or denied.

But all people are different. No two people look alike. No two finger-prints are alike. Of the World System out of long words.

Any motorist who would ask a gas station attendant if he knew "a good place to eat in town" deserves exactly what he gets.

Women who make a great fuss about all are generally disappointed in their husbands' gifts. satisfied wife turns to culture for appreciation, as a dissatisfied one may turn to a bottle or a mistress.

Only a mild diversity. Common rights shared by two and a half billion widely different persons. Most important of all, the widely different rights and privileges which creatures are created by the same Heavenly Father, owe Him their allegiance, and are loved over by Him so that the very hairs of their heads are numbered.

Whether we like the arrangement or not, we are part of a vast universe of life. We have to live whether we like it or not here or elsewhere, in our present condition or in some other, amid these circumstances or amid different or perhaps worse, circumstances. We may as well learn to accept the inevitable. It's glorious. It means a glorious God is at the head of it.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

ELECTROLYSIS IS ONE OF METHOD TO REMOVE EXCESS HAIR

Dear Dr. Molner: I would like your advice on electrolysis for removal of excess hair. Does it leave any harmful effects? Can it cause cancer? Will it leave a permanent mark on the skin? — E.W.

Sometimes it seems as though the only question I receive is "How do I prevent falling hair?" Here is one of the latest.

There are two ways to remove unwanted hair, the cause is hereditary. There is nothing wrong with the body's activity. You may have too much one or appearance or what the person considers to be matter of appearance.

The fact is, and I've said this before, people are so conditioned to notice a slight darkening on the forehead, a few hairs on the chin that they think it is an overwhelming blemish. Their friends hardly notice it.

So, for practical purposes, the excellent answer is bleaching. Light-colored hair is difficult to see.

Some legs, for example, either chemical preparations for removing hair, or shaving is entirely practical. I have a complaint, "but doesn't shaving make the hair darker?" The answer is absolutely no. The thickness of the hair is determined at the hair follicle and cutting it further up, either shaving or plucking, has no effect. Incidentally, in the days when men wore long black beards instead of shaving, the beards were just as heavy and wiry? Shaving removes only whiskers heavy.

Now, the final solution is electrolysis, or treating the hair follicle with an electric needle. It is the one method which offers any permanent results — and this method only.

Definitely this treatment does not cause cancer. In rare instances, it must be done by skilled people — most electrolysis is done by women but men do this work.

Even when properly performed it it expensive and it can be painful. It is always a slow process as each hair must be destroyed individually. No matter how carefully the work is done, there is always a little pit-like scars. Further, a certain percentage of the treated hairs may grow back, and have to be treated again, although of course when the follicle is thoroughly destroyed, it can't grow back. That is different from the first time.

There are the bad points as well as the good ones. Electrolysis is an accepted method of removing hair, but before you refer you to a trained electrologist if that is the treatment decided upon.

Dear Dr. Molner: I had an operation for removal of my uterus, but was told I will not go through a change of life, as I have two good ovaries. Some of my friends say I will, and this to be true. What is your opinion? — Mrs. M. C.

This isn't a matter of opinion. It's a question of fact. With the ovaries remaining, you will not be affected by the change of life until you reach the normal age for change of life, in any time after 35 or 40, or may be later or in the early 50s. The average is the latter 40's. The uterus has nothing to do with it.

Note to Mrs. D. D.: Sunlight is a wonderful agent for everything that bothers patients with lupus erythematosus. The cause is not known.

Are you a victim of "vitamin jitters"? To make sure that your diet always contains proper foods, write to me in care of The Chicago Sun Tiesel Syndicate, 211 W. A professor of my acquaintance has a lot of plumbing in his mouth. Over the years, due to some sort of a mistake, he has put on in the mouth of an intricate, but, to my mind, useless, system of his teeth. And whenever he thinks of it, which isn't often in the routine nature of most of his thoughts, he goes to the dentist and has to be, a task of construction work done.

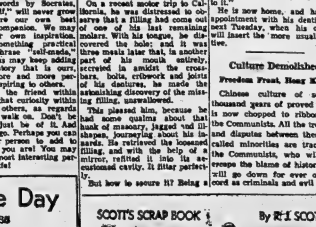
On a recent motor trip to California, he was attacked in Oklahoma by a filling had come out of one of his upper molars. With his tongue, he discovered the practical cavity in three meals later that, in another part of his mouth entirely, recurring to the dentist, he found bolts, cotwork and joint and his dental castle, like giant's the astonishing discovery of the missing filling, unravelled.

This pleased him, because he had some qualms about the bank of moderate charged with filling sheepen, journeying about his insane, he retrieved the loosened filling, and with the help of a mirror, refitted it into its appropriate cavity, I suppose, sufficiently.



But how to secure it? Being a professor, he has a certain simplicity and directness of mind. He went to the hotel desk and soon met with the manager. He put on in the mouth of an intricate, but, to my mind, useless, system of his teeth. Society Reports Successful Year

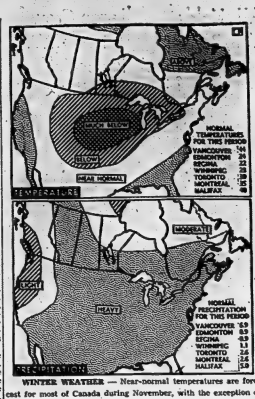
PICTON — The annual meeting of the Cancer-Polio-Tuberculosis committee of the Odd Fellow and Rebekah Lodges was held Monday night. Reports indicated a busy and useful year of service, with donations to aid many in distress, provision of special nurses for emergencies, loan of wheel chairs, gifts to TB patients, furnishing a room in the new County hospital, furnishing a room in the Odd Fellows home, provision of ambulance service, loan of crutches and hospital beds.

Retiring after seven years as chairman, Phil Dodds stressed the value of this work to the community, it being carried out in all parts of Prince Edward regardless of class or creed. Thanks was expressed to officers for their support especially that of the retiring treasurer, Ralph Hobbs.

Willis Sills was elected chairman with D. G. Reynolds as vice-chairman; Mrs. Rex Rolston continues as secretary and Mrs. Florence Tucker remains as treasurer.

Committees included Milton Dulmage, Mrs. Dorothy Post, Mrs. R. Rolston, investigating; Phil Dodds, wheel chairs; D. G. Reynolds, Tom May, Mrs. George Hubbard, Mrs. Reg. Moore, ways and means. The Noble Grands, Robert Rolston and Mrs. Clarence Brumnell are members of all committees along with the chairman.



It was planned to hold a series of games in December.

Proceeds of the recent C.P.T. pencil tag day were reported as $913, and thanks expressed to all for their support.

Assistance with ambulance and doctor fees in connection with a polio case was passed. It is planned to remember TB patients at Christmas time.

LIVELY TRIP

LONDON (AP) — Lady Montagu of Beaulieu rolled out recently in a fire engine 180 years old drawn by a horse aged 14, to promote the Chelsea antiques fair. The horse bolted in London traffic and a policeman was dragged 30 yards before he and Lady Montagu succeeded in halting it. No one was injured.

WINTER WEATHER — Near-normal temperatures are forecast for most of Canada during November, with the exception of southern Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec where below-normal readings are predicted.

High School Activities

By TRINA JANITCH

The past week has been a tremendously exciting one at B.C.I.V.S. Fred and Bernard were Friday's commencement exercises and graduation ball. The auditorium was overflowing with proud parents, interested friends, and many other people eager to hear Hon. Keiso Roberts, Minister General for Ontario, who delivered the address to the graduates on their return to his native town and school for Mr. Roberts who was born in Belleville and educated at the old Belleville High School, now B.C.I.V.S. Looking at the rows of graduates we wondered if, someday, one of them would come back covered with fame to address some future commencement audience. After the exercises, a successful reception was held in the gymnasium, during which parents, teachers and guests discussed the night's events over coffee and cookies.

Meanwhile, in the girls' gymnasium, the most exciting dance of the year got underway. The gyms were decorated with thanks to the magic wand of the Art Club which, in a mere two days, transformed them into dazzling 19th century ballrooms. The girls' gym was especially beautiful with its chandeliers, pillars and statuettes. Done in pink, blue, and white. Over one hundred and fifty couples danced happily till one o'clock to the strains of the Dixie Five. Bill Fenwin was the perfect "emc " as he introduced novelty dances, distributed prizes and saw that everyone had a good time. At twelve o'clock an intermission was called and everyone partook of the delicious lunch served in the boys' gym. Everyone agreed that the graduation ball was a most successful formal dance and much credit must go to Brenda Black and Carol Hickson, the convenors.

Beatniks, cowboys, pirates, tramps, cavemen and even a few civilians congregated in happy profusion at the Hallowe'en Hop held at the Armouries Saturday night. Entertainment supplied by the Dolphins and Sheila Canning provided the finishing touch to a dance that proved you don't have to be destructive to have fun on Hallowe'en.

The day before Commencement was a very important one in the football history of BCIVS. The teams, the cheerleaders, and hundreds of students left BCIVS and journeyed to Quinte for the final game of the year. Spirit was high, and the Keyette Club did a roaring trade in noisemakers. The senior game — a fight for the district championship — resulted in a 38-18 score for the other team. In spite of the tremendous push put on by BCI in the last half of the third quarter when they scored two touchdowns. This made the score 38-18 and the BCI fans went wild pleading for another touchdown. However, the very strong QSS team proved a little too much for the BCI crew as the final score showed.

The junior game was a different story. A fast, clean, hard - fought game resulted in a score of 18-17 for BCIVS. The victory over Quinte made the bitter pill of defeat by Trenton easier to swallow. Both BCI teams had a very successful season, losing only one game each and congratulations go to the team members and their hard - working coaches.

On Wednesday's assembly the "scrap - say - die" cheerleaders presented a pep rally following the introduction to the school of the two rugby teams. The school cheered and sang with great gusto, proving that we really do have school spirit way down deep.

Many BCIVS students are laying in heavy supplies of midnight oil in preparation for the dread November crams. Remember, today is the nineteenth and the exams will continue till graduation Tuesday, the twenty-fourth. Students will write three exams a day, so (if we may borrow a saying from the Boy Scouts) "Be Prepared!"

Women's Hospital Auxiliary Holds Charming Fashion Fiesta

One of the finest "Fashion Fiestas" yet presented adding credence was that displayed last evening by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary in the Collegiate auditorium to a capacity audience.

While outside there were drizzling skies of stygian darkness, soggy streets with sodden leaves; within there was bright lights, a beautiful stage setting depicting a French salon of elegance and simplicity with glistening white appointments of a leafless tree; flanked by Victorian chairs upholstered in scarlet velvet; a lamp with scarlet-carpeted steps; a tall white vase of gleaming fern-like branches mingled with scarlet carnations, and scattered to pleasing abandon little cushions in fewer colors adding their own peculiar accent. On the narration while dark, twin candelabras of the same colored creations with white floral touches, and over all the strains of the Hammond organ with Miss Leona Rigg as organist.

WELCOMES GUESTS

Mrs. R. E. Burley, president of the Auxiliary, extended a cordial welcome to the vast assembly and appreciative thanks to the exhibitors, to the models and the ushers; to Miss Riggs for the music; to the Auxiliary; to Mrs. Kenneth G. Smith and Mrs. E. MacDonald for the stage decorations; to the commentator, Mrs. Robert Tanner; to Dr. Harold Williamson for colour in the scenery; to Mrs. J. R. Casey; to Mrs. J. R. Scott; to Mrs. A. J. Wolfenden and to all who had a part in the arrangement without whose assistance the Fiesta would have been impossible.

The program consisted of three parts, designers' collection of casual and afternoon wear, under the caption, "Treasure Treasures"; Lingerie, original holiday and resort wear, captioned, "Hawaiian Honeymoon"; and the exclusive party and evening wear, for "Formal Fete", with Dr. Harold Williamson introducing each part with a solo appropriate to the theme; Mrs. Stanley at the Corner Watching All the Girls Go By"; "Here's Your Mail You Are," and "A Pretty girl is Like a Melody," respectively.

Mrs. Tanner has still the position as narrator several times before, was lovely in turquoise blue peau de soie featuring a plain front shirt with simulated panel sides, and full back with grey mink stole, did a marvelous piece of commentating, which, added to her vivacious humor and subtle naivete, highlighted an already charming occasion.

The display included sports styles among which was eye - catching gold-toned slacks and blouse; while another was in black and white, a teen - ager's dream.

The lovely lingerie, floating gossamers, were dreams of crepe and chiffon, over pale pink gowns with large, flowing sleeves, and full skirts, featuring satin ribbon. Another was in white with deeply embroidered hem, and one in heaven blue with flowing back and ribbon insertion belt. These were designed by Norman Hartnell, the Queen's costumer.

RICH FURS

Furs were rich, many coats and suits with mink being the favorite trim. The coats shown included blue mink in shorter style with shawl collar; Quebec beaver in three-quarter length with deep cuffs, and slim sleeves; a Canadian otter in white was in full length with mink collar; as was a natural grey Persian lamb with sheer lambskin collar, and a China mink in three - quarter length with shawl collar, having light sleeves with the whole beautifully lined in yellow.

Fur was the spotlight, and included black diamond mink; desert gold; white, natural wild mink; Persian lamb; Black Persian, lamb is still a good buy.

Short jackets were real short, with flat casual backs, and fitted waistline with mink collars, more or less. A red coat gleaming in richness showed a deep sleeve with shawl collar.

SAILING TOGS

The frocks for the Hawaiian honeymoon, included gold and blue allin blue jims : blue linen skirts with striped blue and white reversible jacket; a French printed silk with V front, and full back; and one of golden shantung and crepe de chine with wide waistband. A navy and white polka dot with cape-like collar, and a promenade dress of navy jersey, and also one of pink were adorable.

FORMAL WEAR

For forma lwear an adorable gown was in Allez blue fashioned on Grecian lines with shirred waist; another was in Italian brocade featuring a bell type skirt showing the Italian scene. A slipper petal-white satin ensemble was worn over brown with mink collar, and accented at the waistline with a cluster of satin petal-white flowers of the material. Another gown was of green patterned brocade satin with elbet sleeves, and a waltz-length creation in lovely blue of sapphire tone, shorter at the front and low in the back, was enchanting, as was a classic eighteen yellow crepe back satin with fitted deep-V bodice buttoned down the back, and one for the teenager in light tobacco shade fashioned with flared ruffles.

OPERA GOWNS

Opera gowns were sparkling creations with their bodices of sequested sequins. A regal gown by Norman Hartnell featured a black with flowing panel, was of silk jersey with wide shoulder to shoulder collar in white.

There is a trend to return to the finer materials as jersey, crepe de chine, shantung, and woollens rather than to the synthetic materials. Hemlines are slightly higher than last year, coming just below the kneecap. Shoes are still needle-pointed, and for evening wear are accented with enticing buckles or rhinestone clips. Waistlines smooth and tight and wide.

As a fitting and colorful finale the models appeared in their colorful evening gowns each wearing a mink stole.

DOOR PRIZES

There were eight door prizes, drawn by Mrs. Gilbert Scott, a former president of the Auxiliary. The prize winners were: Isobbe handbag, donated by McIntosh Bros., won by Mrs. W. Hutchinson, 34 Bridge St. East; gift certificate for footwear, donated by Leslie Shoe - Store, won by Mrs. James F. Fox, 97 Queen St.; slip, by McNabb, won by Mrs. Wilfred Laycock, of Corbyville; floral arrangement, donated by Barber and Son, florists, won by Mrs. F. M. Yarrow, 195 Dufferin Avenue; mink collar, donated by Ashley Furs, 98 Pinnacle St. The $200 draw was won by Mr. C. E. James, donated by the W.H.A.

FASHION FIESTA COMMITTEE

The fashion committee included: Mrs. W. H. Finkle, convener; Mrs. Eva Doolittle, who had charge of assembling the lovely costumes; Mrs. B. E. Burley, president; Mrs. J. B. Casey, Mrs. L. G. Irvine, Mrs. M. F. Hoose, Mrs. Russell Bird, Mrs. K. G. Smith, Mrs. E. T. Scott, Mrs. A. J. Wolfenden and Mrs. G. S. Wonnacott.

Mrs. R. G. Lanning, Mrs. Stephanie Keller and Miss Donna MacDonald.

Those ushering included: Mrs. H. S. V. Gibson, Mrs. R. G. Burley, Miss Billie Waldron, Mrs. J. D. Godwin, Mrs. D. Lane, Mrs. W. Slade, Mrs. H. House, Mrs. K. Douglas and Mrs. L. G. Irvine concerning the prize distribution.

Taking tickets: Mrs. A. S. McConnell, Mrs. A. R. Vagg.

VON Spends More Time With Babies

OTTAWA (CP)—The Victorian Order of Nurses is beginning to spend more time with newborn babies and fewer cases and less with old people and chronic cases.

Christine Livingstone, retiring VON director-general, reported this reversal of a previous trend to senior VON officials meeting here recently.

Miss Livingstone said part of the change is a growing use of oral medications.

But the new trend was just beginning. "Long term chronic illness still accounts for a major part of our nursing services."

North America is in danger of becoming "an efficient sick colony," Dr. Alexander Laidlaw, national secretary of the Co-operative Union of Canada, said in an address.

He warned Canadians to guard against becoming a country of "dull conformists."

He also said the Canadian home is becoming a "sterile factory with all vital activities removed from it, including recreation."

He warned of as "ever-present menace of mediocrity" in Canadian society. "We are victims of a strange attitude in Canada that is satisfied with some vague average performance far below what we could be doing."

Mrs. J. N. Anton, Mrs. W. W. Shand, Mrs. J. F. Fluchey and Mrs. E. G. Kennedy.

Mrs. Kenneth Scott was in charge of the gift wrapping, and Mrs. L. L. Scott of the puppets. Over 700 had been distributed to children at hospital during the past year.

APPRECIATION EXTENDED

Appreciation of the Auxiliary is extended to Mr. H. H. Thurston, R. H. Tanner, George Cerwinix, Kenneth G. Smith and to the exhibitors, who made the Fashion Fiesta possible: J. A. McMahon Ltd., Ashley Furs, S. Barber and Sons, the Capri Beauty Salon, Ronald Keel, Jeweller, Ltd.; Lattimer's Drugs, Leslie Shoe Stores, Ltd. and McIntosh Bros. Stores, Ltd.

Holy Rosary C.W.L. Holds Successful Yule Tea, Bazaar

Despite the rainy weather Wednesday afternoon, the Catholic Women's League of Holy Rosary parish held a successful tea, bazaar and bazaar in the Knights of Columbus Hall, Front Street.

The hall was attractively decorated with blue and white streamers and each bazaar table was centred with a Christmas ornament.

Guests were greeted at the door by the C.W.L. president, Mrs. J. McGuigan and Mrs. Smith. Treasurers were Mrs. J. Barrett and Mrs. M. Bradden.

The large bazaar table offered sale a variety of useful items, from dolls and doll clothes to bath slippers and wall plaques, and those in attendance had a wonderful opportunity of doing some of their Christmas shopping a little early this year. In addition the bazaar also featured a variety in the food line, from-salads to fancy iced cakes, to tempt the prospective buyer.

The parcel conveyor was Mrs. W. Smith and the co-convener was Mrs. A. Irwin. Ticket convener was Mrs. F. Mulvihill.

DELECTABLE HOMEMAKING

The home baking table, featuring fruit and lemon pies, iced layer cakes, loaf cakes and coffee cake, muffins, buns, fancy iced cupcakes, was convened by Mrs. J. O. Grady, Mrs. B. Thompson and Mrs. J. Snider.

A treat for the children was the candy booth offered a variety of homemade sweets including chocolate fudge, maple creams, peanut brittle, sponge taffy, cocoanut and candy "pills."

This table was convened by Mrs. K. Schleicke and Mrs. H. Guay.

The pantry shelf offered potato and jellied fruit salads, jellies, jams, pickles, and other bottled goods for sale, and this was convened by Mrs. L. Farrell and Mrs. F. Enright.

The apron table contained a variety of colorful print aprons in various styles, and this table was convened by Mrs. L. Donovan, Mrs. F. Bedard, and Mrs. F. Daley.

with white and silver satin streamers, were present to the models, the commentator, and to Miss Leona Riggs who provided the musical accompaniment.

Large Crowd Attends W.I. Pie Social

STIRLING — River Valley Women's Institute sponsored a pie social and program in the school house on Friday evening with a large attendance.

The receipts at the door amounted to almost $35 and this will be applied to the building fund.

Glenn Bush was master of ceremonies and Mrs. Ralph Ultan officiated at the pianos.

Mrs. Ernest Carr extended a welcome and on behalf of the Institute and she also read two humorous selections. Two little tots, Pamela Zoldesi and Jane Bush, each contributed solo numbers. The junior children sang "Five Little Pumpkins" and "Jack O'Lantern." Mrs. George Heasman gave a Hallowe'en story for the children.

Miss Marilyn Conley and Miss Cheryl Ultan each played a piano solo. Mrs. Percy Mackillican read two humorous selections. The seniors sang "The Hallowe'en Visitor," and "The Ghost and the Broom." Mrs. Glenn Brooks sang "A Humorous Melody" and the girls sang "Three Little Witches," and "The Hallowe'en Ride." The children concluded by singing "Over the River" and "The Witches' Song."

Mrs. Ernest Carr conducted two games with several folk in the audience participating and prizes were given to the winners.

Mrs. Glenn Bush, convener of the group who sponsored the pie social, thanked everyone for their assistance.

The school room was appropriately decorated with yellow streamers, black cats, witches, Hallowe'en pictures, and lighted Jack O'Lanterns.

Refreshments were served by the group in charge, to conclude a delightful Hallowe'en party.

St. George's Guild Bazaar Most Successful

Bouquets of golden mums brought sunshine into St. George's Chapel on Tuesday afternoon for the Guild tea and bazaar, making a pleasant comparison with the cold, dreary day outside.

Many were the guests who braved the blustering weather, and wended their way to this little Chapel with its hospitable smile, and the welcoming receptionist, Mrs. F. R. Welch.

The focal point in a well-appointed room was the tea table, with its white cloth, and centre-piece of golden mums in a cream-tinted container, flanked by crystal candelabra with brown and golden colored candles, and the richly ornate silver services. Screamers and bows of golden tissue accented the side, and highlighted each of the little quartet tables with their white cloths and centres of little yellow and orange mums, with sprays of rose hips made reminders of a summer that is past.

Presiding at the tea services were Mrs. J. R. Creegan, wife of the rector of Christ Church, and Mrs. Everett P. Smith, wife of the assistant rector; Mrs. L. Hall and Mrs. H. Massiah, wife of the rector of Christ Church Cathedral.

Those engaged in serving included Mesdames C. Coleman, A. Quirt, G. Deane, D. Taylor, H. Hanks, F. Arbey and H. Rainbird. Making tea Mrs. G. Bolton, Mrs. A. Briens, Mrs. F. Markle, and replenishing plates of dainty cookies, cakes, and sandwiches, Mrs. W. McLeod and Miss Downer.

Mrs. Ferguson was engaged in the receipt of tickets at the door.

Several booths were well patronized, that of the apron with Mrs. S. Clegg, Mrs. W. Pepper and Mrs. W. Collyer, was a "Mecca" for the Christmas shopper with its pretty half and all over aprons in lovely prints; some in novel effects; others in rainbow colors and some in Paisley patterns. Behind this booth was many little doll dresses, all colors and everything a doll could need.

FANCY WORK

Along with the aprons were many lines of fancy work, embroidered pillow cases lace-edged pillow cases, tea towels, ruffled animals including little donkeys, blue rabbits, white horses, red Scottishies or stockings, baby sets in pink, yellow, blue and white; knit sweaters, plain and fancy, mitts, socks in grey, wine and white, all in cable stitch, silk runner with covers; fancy foam rubber cosmages, sachet powders.

At one end was a selection of everlasting bouquets of colorful straw flowers mingled with baby's breath; flowering begonias, Japanese lanterns and green hydrangeas, wine and yellow daisies, to list of the sweets and goodies of savory, reminding that Christmas is coming, and heads of cabbage so nice as coleslaw.

CANDIES

Convening the candy table were Mrs. H. Armstrong, Miss Doctor and Mrs. J. Sharp. For sale here were little cups of fudge, maple creams and Hallowe'en

Good Theatre Costume

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Cotton brocade lined in satin is the fabric formula for this attractive theatre suit, an especially fine choice for the commuter who comes into town from the suburbs. The notched collar stands away slightly and has a tuck-in scarf of matching beige and gold. Seaming is responsible for the curved bustline and "concave" midriff. A fold below the waist puffs out the peplum in front. Completing the sartorial story is a beige satin blouse.

kisses, as well as little cakes of maple cream.

The home baking was save a thing of the past but while it lasted it was most tempting. Large brown unlced angel cake, lemon, pumpkin, raisin, date and apple pies; loaf cakes with white icings, and mock-cream; three chocolate layer cakes, heavy with luscious chocolate frosting with pecan nut meats; cherry-topped little gem cakes; date and nut squares; cookies of all kinds; raspberry jam, pickles and jellies. Convening these were Mrs. J. Collingr, Mrs. Turner, Mrs. J. Carrow and Mrs. J. Allen.

The convenor for the bazaar was Mrs. F. R. Welch, with Mrs. D. Donnelay as co-convenor. Mrs. Donnelay was also convener of the tea room.

A well patronized bazaar and tea, and most successful.

QUESTION BOX

Question: When should a woman wear a hat? Are there certain times when one should definitely be worn, or is it up to the individual?

Answer: Whether or not to wear a hat is largely a matter of local custom. Personal preference does come into it, too. However, there are certain times when a hat should be worn, and it should not be forgotten that there are occasions when, if you want to appear well dressed, a hat is indispensable. At the former case, a hat should be worn to church; in the latter, when attending daytime luncheons, teas, receptions or even cocktail parties, your ensemble will certainly be enhanced if a hat completes your outfit. But never wear a hat when entertaining in your own home. In a hotel or restaurant, if hostess during the daytime hours, a hat should be worn.

Question: If you are travelling on a train for the first time, and you wish to be in the dining car for lunch or dinner, how do you go about it?

Answer: Stand at the entrance to the dining car and the steward will come to you, leading you to a seat at one of the tables. It is quite correct to ask if you do not speak to others at your table. If you do, you will say, "So goodby" at the end of your meal, and let it go at that.

Question: If an unattached woman is entertaining at a party, is it proper for her to ask the assistance of a man guest when it comes to mixing or serving drinks, and generally helping out?

Answer: If handled tactfully, this is perfectly permissible. Avoid putting him in the position of host, because tongues will wag if you do! Make it clear that he is merely a helping hand. To avoid comment, it is sometimes a good idea to have two pairs of helping hands.

Question: When a teen-ager gives a party for forty guests and fifty show up, how can the uninvited ones be turned away without hurting feelings?

Answer: This is a problem that seems to be becoming more prevalent all the time. The only solution is to greet all the guests as they arrive — yourself. When the crasher presents himself, a polite, but firm, "I'm sorry, but I did not ask you to come. Good night," is the only recourse. Taking this stand is not as rude as it sounds. After all, the person who has the nerve to come when he has not been in-

I wish you could see my kitchen. There are fruit cakes, light fruit cakes, bar cookies, Fudgerons, rich wafers in our tiered door is obliged to taste and give opinions on their preparation.

My brother and sisters hold out for the light cakes, Pete and Eleanor hold out for the dark cake.

I want to give you the light cake but who am I? I'll tell you who I am — I'm the one who mixed and baked and tasted and worried and was undecided.

Now I've made a crashing decision; I'm going to give both! With an added dividend of a less expensive cake.

The next decision that had to be made was over stuffing for fowl. The one I made on Thanksgiving day for our 18-pound turkey called for some wild rice and our family insists it must see the light of day in my column. However I have another stuffing which we put in a duck that is colorful and delicious. So again I will resort to the compromise of giving both.

The same goes for cookies and puddings. I will give you choices from all I am working on and I and my crowd consider big successes. So be prepared next week and the weeks to come to clip and file and to make and serve and eat the upcoming Emem 1959 Christmas recipes.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Rita D. — Dad wants to marry a young girl

Mr. M. F. — She has made me very happy.

Rita D. — My sister and I are terribly upset about our father, a widower in his 60's, who wants to marry a woman in her early 30's — younger than we are.

We know this woman is after him for his money. She makes no bones about the way she wants to live. She has made all sorts of plans for an elegant home and travel. We know our father isn't well enough to travel.

Our mother was a good, devoted woman who slaved alongside of our father to build up his business. Now he wants to throw it all in the lap of this tramp.

Mr. M. F. — I have been a widower five years and that's long enough. I've gone out with many women of my own age, but none has made me so happy as this young woman.

My daughters have insulted this woman in a way I find hard to forgive. She is far from a tramp. In fact she has led a very lonely life and has told me that I am the first man with whom she has ever felt really comfortable and happy.

She admits that money is an attraction to her, but says she really loves me. When we are together we forget our age differences.

The Council: Daughters are often resentful when an elderly father chooses to remarry. They feel that after their mother's death, they should be enough to fill his life. They could probably accept the fact that he wants companion of his own age, but that he should choose a young attractive woman is hard to take.

Rita and her sister ought to recognize that their attitude is far from rational. Their father has every right to seek pleasure in his own way. Even if the young woman were a gold digger pure and simple, the elderly man might have his own reasons for preferring such a relationship to the kind of partnership he enjoyed with his first wife.

The daughters in this case are using two unfair weapons — first, insults against the woman of their father's choice and second, the memory of their mother. The memory of his first wife could easily make this man feel guilty about continuing to live and enjoy living. Why should the daughters who pretend to care for him work so hard to destroy his pleasure?

We can see one gesture Mr. M. F. should be prepared to make to his daughters. He should arrange that they inherit a reasonable share of his estate. This is particularly important since their mother worked by his side in building up that estate. But the girls will have to accept with as good grace as possible the fact that "this tramp" also will be entitled to her share.

For his own sake, however, Mr. M. F. ought to step cautiously and consider all the factors involved in the kind of relationship he has chosen. A young woman who chooses an elderly man is more likely to be a "taker" rather than a "giver" in life. Her former loneliness and the fact that she evidently has little or no interest in having a family indicate a woman with various emotional difficulties. These will emerge in time and Mr. M. F. should be prepared to cope with a person who is probably of a rather childish disposition.

AT LOVERS

OTTAWA (CP) — About 30 lovers of cats here have banded together to form the Ottawa Cat Club. They plan to boost the stature of the household cat in the eyes of the public through an education and publicity program.

Wedding

DOYAT — DENYES

A pretty autumn wedding was solemnized in Tabernacle United Church Belleville, on Saturday, October 24th, at high noon, when Janice Lucille Denyes, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Goldwin Denyes, became the bride of Lionel Moras Doyat, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Doyat. The Reverend James C. Eastcott parker of the church, officiated before a lovely background of pink, white and white chrysanthemums. The aisle pews.

The church organist, Mr. Harold Bond, rendered the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Shirley Fisher, who sang, before the ceremony, "O Perfect Love," and during the signing of the register, "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her ballerina-length bridal gown of white imported Chantilly lace with molded bodice having a Sabrina neckline outlined with sequins and lily-pointed sleeves. Her fully pleated skirt was delicately scalloped at the hem and accented by two pear shaped streamers at back in bridal veil design. She wore a red petal shaped tiara with waist-length veil of silk tulle illusion and carried a bouquet of pink roses and ivy.

Mrs. David Bartleman of Galt was matron of honor, while Miss Nancy Phillips, of Wallbridge, cousin of the bride, and Miss Jackie Legacey, of Belleville, were bridesmaids. All were gowned alike in turquoise organza designed with Empire waistlines and tiny thimble sleeves. They wore matching gauntlets, white feathered headbands, and carried yellow and white 'mums.

The little four-year-old flower girls, Janet and Judy Phillips, of Wallbridge, cousins of the bride, were demure and sweet in white lace over pink nylon with floral bandeaux, pink gloves and carrying white baskets of pink and white 'mums.

Mr. David Bartleman of Galt attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Dale Denyes, brother of the bride, and Douglas Wright, both of Belleville, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, attired in an Avocado silk chiffon sheath, softly draped at neckline and across the front of the skirt, which was caught up with two matching roses; a beige feather hat, matching shoes and gloves, with corsage of yellow roses. Assisting her was the bridegroom's mother, wearing an azure blue sheath of shroud crepe with matching jacket, dusty-pink accessories, and corsage of pink roses.

The bride's table was very pretty with its three-tier wedding cake flanked by tall pink candles in crystal holders, completi mented by the bridal bouquet.

For the wedding trip to Ottawa, Cornwall, Rochester, Buffalo and home via Niagara Falls and Galt the bride travelled in a two-piece suit of wool with white hat and gloves, blue shoes and handbag, with corsage of pink Peace Rose roses.

Guests were present from Belleville, Galt, Wallbridge, Amelia sburg, Foxboro, Brighton and North Grimsby, New York.

The bride was entertained previous to her marriage, at the home of Mrs. Hay Saunders, of Belleville, R.R. 4, with Mrs. John Johnson as co-hostess, and at the home of Miss Jackie Legacey, Belleville, and also by the office staff of Belleville Collegiate, of which the bride is a member.

Mr. and Mrs. Doyat will reside at 2 Grove Street, Belleville

Indian Teacher Will Take Heavy Saris to Far North

Mother's Helper

IT'S TOUGH for your child to be sick at Hallowe'en and have to miss the excitement of visiting the neighborhood. If he's well enough, wrap him up and let him sit where he can watch the parsimonious approach of those cause of your house. Of course, no children will be allowed to come inside. A sign, for two hand tickets and candy.

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The aroma of a curried dish and the sight of an Asian sari soon may become just part of the way of living in a new Arctic community.

Chaturi Vaswani, an ex-grade teacher-journalist from Bombay, India, says she knows warm northern garb is necessary for her teaching job at Inuvik, N.W.T., new Western Arctic administration centre in the Mackenzie River delta.

All the same, part of her packing for the northern isle she starts early this month includes 13 heavy silk saris.

"They're for dress occasions," she said in an interview.

WELL-STOCKED LARDER

A year's supply of western food already is stacked in her larder in a house she will share with two other women teachers. But Arctic furs or a cut of reindeer meat may wind up in an Indian-style curry.

Miss Vaswani is taking an extra trunkful of rice and spices for making curry.

She leaves her Ottawa post as press secretary in the Indian high commissioner's office to teach Eskimo youngsters who haven't previously had a chance to go to school and learn English. This group forms a special class in Inuvik's new 750 - pupil school.

"I've never been north, or even out West," said Miss Vaswani. "I've never met any Eskimos and I thought teaching in the North would give me a good chance."

Her contract is for one year, but she hopes her stay will be longer.

CANADIAN CITIZEN

Miss Vaswani came to Ottawa in 1946 to work at the high commissioner's office, returned to India in 1952 but came back to Ottawa after 18 months. She is a Canadian citizen.

Even though cold winters in Ottawa are worn saris, "They're warmer than nylons," she said of the floor-length gowns.

This summer she practised wearing western clothes to get ready for her change into heavy ski slacks, warm sweaters and winter boots to replace open-toed sandals.

With two other women teachers in the Inuvik area representing Eastern cultures, Miss Vaswani will add to an international flavor.

A Japanese-Canadian is teaching at Inuvik and a Hong Kong-born Canadian at nearby Aklavik.

NATIVE OF PAKISTAN

Born in Karachi, Pakistan, Miss Vaswani moved with her family to Bombay after the two countries were partitioned. While studying for her arts degree at Bombay University she worked as a cub reporter and columnist on a newspaper there.

She later taught at a public school and a Pakistan girls' high school. She spent two years at Syracuse University in New York state to get a master of journalism degree before coming to Ottawa.

Armed with typewriter and camera for her Arctic jaunt, she said she hopes to write about the Eskimos for Canadian and Indian publications.

MANY MORE STUDENTS

CALEDONIA (CP) — Ontario's school population will double during the next 20 years, Premier Frost said Wednesday as he opened an extension to Caledonia High School. There now are twice as many students in Ontario as there were 14 years ago, he added.

GOING NORTH — Chaturi Vaswani of Bombay quit her job as assistant press officer of the Indian High Commission in Ottawa to trade her sari for a parka. She's going north, as a teacher at the new western Arctic town of Inuvik in the Northwest Territories with the department of northern affairs. Here she tries on an Eskimo garment for size. Plan Missions Fair At Baptist Church

A presentation of the work of the Canadian Baptist Foreign Mission Board will be made this weekend at Victoria Ave. Baptist Church. On Saturday evening commencing there will be a display of curios and models from the lands and people served by Canadian Baptist missionaries. A missionary film will be shown, and Miss Winifred Pedlar, missionary from India, will give an address. Designed to attract the whole family, this Missions Fair will give a general view of the imaginative overseas work that has been carried on by Canadian Baptists for nearly one hundred years in India, sixty years in Bolivia and almost ten years in Central Africa.

On Sunday Rev. S. H. Hillyer, D.D., general secretary of the Canadian Baptist Foreign Mission Board, will be guest preacher at both services. Formerly missionary to Bolivia, Dr. Hillyer has visited many mission stations around the world and is widely recognized as a missionary statesman. His morning subject will be "The World We Live In and the Christian Message."

Need Thousands For CD Positions Pearkes States

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence Minister Pearkes hopes provinces and municipalities will launch a drive to recruit civilians for civil defence work. He says thousands will be needed.

The minister gave evidence of his hopes of a recruiting campaign in a statement Wednesday which officials said arose from inquiries made to the Emergency Measures Organization which has been given the task of co-ordinating federal civil defence efforts.

"Careful study of what would be needed in the event of nuclear attack has shown clearly that the armed services could not possibly handle alone the tasks which will have to be undertaken helping to ensure national survival," Mr. Pearkes said.

STILL NEED HELP

He said many people have drawn the incorrect conclusion that trained volunteer civil defence workers and the help of local fire, police and other services would no longer be required.

The defence minister made no specific reference to the charge by Maj.-Gen. George S. Hatton, who resigned as acting federal civil defence co-ordinator, that the government new CD policy gives military planners a larger role in CD planning and displaces civilian planners.

A federal - provincial conference on civil defence last month agreed to concentrate on a policy of providing shelters against radioactive fallout but without scrapping entirely plans for evacuation.

Gen. Hatton said Wednesday as he left Canada for England that the death toll in nuclear attack would be greater if citizens seek refuge in homemade shelters than if evacuated from the 33 Canadian cities considered likely targets.

May Be Forced To Build Plant Out in Lake

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto may have to build a $23,000,000 water purification plant half a mile out in Lake Ontario because the only large section of vacant waterfront land left is the Ontario Hospital site in suburban New Toronto.

"If we can't obtain part of that property from the province we will build out in the lake," Metro Works Commissioner Ross L. Clark said Wednesday. "This would require a fill operation, using industrial waste.

Chicago built a water purification plant in Lake Michigan when waterfront land was not available, said Mr. Clark.

Roslin

ROSLIN — Roslin United Church was filled to capacity on Sunday morning for their anniversary service.

The front of the church was suitably decorated with plants and flowers. Special music rendered by the choir included two anthems by the full choir and a solo, "The Old Rugged Cross", given by Mr. Harold Reid, who played his own accompaniment on the guitar.

The service was under the direction of Rev. W. T. Fletcher, of Stirling, who also delivered the address. He said anniversary services are happy occasions, but if a church is to progress, its members must be evangelistic. He illustrated his point by saying they should be a church on fire for Christ.

A number from here attended the funeral service in Stirling and burial in the Roslin Anglican Cemetery on Saturday afternoon, for the late Dr. Edmund A. Carleton, of Stirling.

A shower was held recently in the Anglican Hall in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Meeks (nee Miss King of Tweed), who were married recently. They were presented with a buffet and arm chair from the community.

Friends and relatives from here attended the funeral of the late Mr. Clare Parks, of Flatfield, in Bellville, on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. John Carleton and family, of Detroit, were weekend guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bates.

Quebec Premier Says Views On Tax Issues Are Shared By Ontario, Alberta and B.C.

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Paul Sauve of Quebec said Wednesday that Ontario, Alberta and British Columbia agree with Quebec's views on federal - provincial tax-sharing issues and Saskatchewan is seriously re-examining its stand.

"I think we can hope for an appreciable improvement in tax-sharing arrangements by 1962, or perhaps sooner," Mr. Sauve said.

"Three provinces representing 80 per cent of the country's economy are in agreement we will be in a position to consider, not the possibility of a possible solution, but appreciable improvements."

The premier spoke twice Wednesday on his views regarding federal - provincial taxation arrangements.

In the morning he told Quebec Province Union of Municipalities of his belief that tax arrangements will be modified within the next three years.

QUIZZED BY REPORTERS

Asked to elaborate during an afternoon press conference, he said Premier Frost of Ontario had told a federal-provincial conference "two or three years ago" that if Ontario were given taxation room it would look after its own needs.

In 1957, he said, Premier Manning of Alberta had expressed a similar view and at the recent federal-provincial finance ministers' conference Premier Bennett endorsed remarks Mr. Frost had made on taxation problems.

Mr. Sauve said Saskatchewan is reviewing its position on fiscal issues.

Asked to outline Quebec's views, Mr. Sauve replied that the Canadian constitution defines the fields of taxation which may be used by the provinces.

"It is evident that the provinces have priority in certain fields," he said. Mr. Bennett also said.

The federal government is using these taxation fields because the provinces did not use them many years."

DIRECT TAXATION

All the haggling between Quebec and Ottawa during the past 15 years has been about direct taxation fields which all the provinces in Canada leased to the federal government during the Second World War, in return for subsidies.

These are the big revenue-producing fields of personal income, corporation income and succession duties.

In 1957, when the latest agreement was again drafted, Quebec as usual was the only province not to sign on. Ottawa accordingly stuck to this explanation:

"Now I saw Mrs. Eisenhower off to Washington last year, she told me that she and her grandchildren and the president enjoyed my acting so much. So I decided to talk with her and see if I couldn't help me get a part in a film or TV series."

She said she had broken open four piggy banks, extracted $160 and bought an airline ticket last Monday when she and her mother, Mrs. Emery Bernard, separated during a shopping trip.

She telephoned for a taxi-cab before 6 a.m. Wednesday, went to Los Angeles International Airport and boarded a plane.

Beer Promotion In This District Is Said Illegal

TORONTO (CP) — The Liquor Control Board of Ontario solicitor said Wednesday he would have reconsideration proceedings under board regulations if he had known about information given a year in sales promotion documents of Carling Breweries Limited.

Solicitor Col. Charles E. Woodrow said an Ontario Supreme Court hearing that he would have advised the board's chief commissioner that he considered the sales promotion activities a breach of board regulations.

The documents were introduced at the trial of Canadian Breweries Limited on a conspiracy charge. Carling is a subsidiary of Canadian Breweries.

One of the documents was addressed to the representatives in Hamilton - Niagara district." It discussed the importance of the sales campaign and said speaking for business could not be stressed "too strongly."

SALESMEN FORBIDDEN

Earlier, Col. Woodrow said the Liquor Control Act forbids brewers having salesmen in Ontario.

Only the commissioners permitted by the Crown was on a Carling Breweries interdepartmental memorandum dated May 21, 1958, from A. G. Deumo to W. L. Wadell.

Mr. Deumo's title was given as assistant district manager of the Toronto district. The document listed monetary amounts for cash in Belleville, Trenton, Belleville, Oshawa and Peterborough. The name of a Belleville man in each area was included.

The document said: "I will be in the Bay of Quinte May 26 and call on these accounts and will be there about 2 p.m. Cap on Saturday afternoon to conform with our hockey telecasts."

BEERS ADVERTISED

Evidence also was heard of a sharp increase in Ontario sale of stamps which are placed on beer by workers' strike last summer.

The Ontario Provincial Brewery Workers' Union (CLC) struck for seven weeks and affected seven breweries.

Statistics presented by Col. Woodrow showed that the sale of tax-marked beer also rose sharply in July, 1958, after a slump period Canadian beer sales declined 90.7 per cent.

Alberta First of Provinces To Take Positive Action to Ban Use of Trading Stamps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The first outright provincial move to ban trading stamps in Canada was taken Wednesday by Alberta.

Legal action to determine validity of the stamps is pending elsewhere, But no other province so far has followed the action of Alberta in banning them.

Grocery chains in seven provinces are promoting the stamps, which are offered with the purchase of merchandise and may be traded for a variety of items. No coupon plan has been introduced to date in Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island and British Columbia.

In Alberta use of the stamps was made illegal under amendments to the Trading Stamps and Businesses Act. But stores now offering the stamps are being allowed time to close out their programs.

The Alberta regulations will not affect premiums given in liquor boxes and packages manufactured by companies which sell their products in the province but are made outside it or within its borders. And if an Alberta manufacturer puts out his own premiums in packaged goods to customers on an equal basis with outside manufacturers the premium may be made to the sweepstakes regulation.

One Alberta grocery organization said it plans to defy the provincial ban. The Independent Grocers' Alliance said it will go ahead with its trading stamp scheme.

In Ottawa, Justice Minister Fulton said the Alberta government's move does not affect Canada's anti-combines law. He said it is questionable whether the federal government has any authority to "distort" the legislation in such a way as to regulate plans that do not relate to the terms and conditions upon which goods, services and hotel accommodation are sold.

The Independent Grocers' Alliance introduced trading stamps last week in Ri St stores in Nova Scotia. The provincial government has ordered an investigation into the scheme.

Attorney - General R. G. L. Fairweather of New Brunswick said he is still studying aspects of the trading stamp plan and will announce his decision later.

Premier Smeve at a press conference Wednesday night withheld comment on Quebec's attitude towards the stamps.

At this stage I have nothing to say because I do not know all the facts about the problem."

A delegation from the Canadian Association of Consumers last month asked Attorney-General Antoine Rivard of Quebec to outlaw trading stamps. Mr. Rivard referred the delegation to the federal government.

Ontario plans no immediate legislation to outlaw the coupons, Attorney-General Kelso Roberts said. The province had no legislation comparable to that in Alberta which could be amended by immediate cabinet action.

"We would be very cautious about taking any action that might be injurious to the government regulation of business," Mr. Roberts said.

Attorney-General Sterling Lyon of Manitoba said his department is "still studying all aspects" of the trading stamp situation. He said it plans to study the report already in before the Manitoba Consumers' Protective Association has appealed its conviction on a charge of issuing stamps.

Any action Saskatchewan takes against stores issuing the stamps will depend on the outcome of several cases before the courts, Saskatchewan Attorney - General Robert Walker.

Charges are to be laid against the 60 or so outlets in the province of the O.K. Economy Stores, a Lobaw-controlled group which started issuing stamps about three weeks ago. Company stores in Regina, Saskatoon, Moose Jaw and North Battleford already have been charged and remanded.

New York Flies Wrong Flag for Guinea's Leader

NEW YORK (AP) — New York City Wednesday broke out the red carpet—and the wrong flag—for Sekou Toure, president of the young African republic of Guinea.

The city gave him its traditional welcome for visiting notables — a ticker-tape parade along lower Broadway. The route was lined with old glory and the flag of another young African country, Ghana.

A red - faced department of commerce and public events, which handles such things, sheepishly explained that a flag-maker delivered the wrong ones and nobody recognized the error until too late.

Guinea's flag is a tri-color of red, yellow and green. Ghana's flag is similar but with a star in the centre bar.

President Toure took it all in good-natured stride. He piped in the car and waved to more than 300,000 persons as though the flags were his.

Evelyn Rudie, 9, 'Flies Away' to See Mrs. Ike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nine-year-old Evelyn Rudie, the impish Ekole of television, touched off a cross - country scramble Wednesday by disappearing from her Hollywood home and flying to Washington.

She got off a four-engined jet passenger plane at Baltimore's Friendship International Airport with a tale of wanting to visit the White House and ask Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower to give her career a boost.

Suspicious of a possible publicity gag, reporters barraged her at length with questions about whether her parents or anyone else knew she had left home alone at dawn.

With the coolness of the old theatre pro she is, Miss Rudie conceded stuck to this explanation:

"When I saw Mrs. Eisenhower off to Washington last year, she told me that she and her grandchildren and the president enjoyed my acting so much. So I decided to talk with her and see if I couldn't help me get a part in a film or TV series."

She said she had broken open four piggy banks, extracted $160 and bought an airline ticket last Monday when she and her mother, Mrs. Emery Bernard, separated during a shopping trip.

She telephoned for a taxi-cab before 6 a.m. Wednesday, went to Los Angeles International Airport and boarded a plane.

FAR FROM HOME — Nine-year-old actress Evelyn Rudie displays a note to her mother which she said she forgot to leave at home before taking off on a transcontinental jet plane flight alone. Evelyn was discovered aboard an eastbound American Airlines plane several hours after her mother reported she had disappeared from her Hollywood, Calif., home. The child television actress told reporters she was just on her way to visit President and Mrs. Eisenhower in Washington. (AP Wirephoto.)

Will Rule On Statements In Murder Case

BRACEBRIDGE (CP) — Mr. Justice Rene A. Danis was to rule Thursday on the admissibility of statements made to police by two youths charged with murder in connection with the June 17 slaying of one taxidriver.

The jury left the court room Wednesday during argument on the statements. Contents and testimony in connection with the statements have been withheld from publication. If the judge rules in favor of admitting the statements, they will be presented to the jury as evidence.

Charged are Marvin McKee, 20, and Wayne Sluman, 17, both of Huntsville.

The taxi - drivers, also from Huntsville, were Francis Grosso, 29, and Bruno Spiera, 22, whose deomposed bodies were found 11 days a fter they were shot through the head and robbed near a gravel pit 10 miles east of Huntsville.

FOUND LICENSES

Mrs. Sarah McKee testified Wednesday that she found vehicle licences bearing the names of Grosso and Spiera in a jacket worn by her nephew, Marvin, June 18. The jacket had been left at her Elk Lake home when she took Marvin and some of his friends on a fishing trip at Pigeon Lake, 220 miles north of there.

Mrs. McKee said she called police.

Sluman was along on the fishing trip and Mrs. McKee described him as a perfect gentleman. He was quiet all the time, asked no questions and "simply went along with the group."

McKee's girl friend, Ann Young, 17, testified that she had accompanied McKee and Sluman on the trip, which lasted 12 days.

Robert Boothby, a Dwight carpenter, said on June 18 he helped the three push a taxi out of the gravel pit where the bodies were found. An Elk Lake district farmer said he towed the same car when it ran out of gasoline and bogged down on a sideroad.

The farmer, Hector Gaunts, said McKee told him that he, Sluman and Miss Young were going to visit relatives at Elk Lake.

Mrs. Jean Tobin, a grocery store operator in the Elk Lake area, said McKee came to her store and cashed a cheque in exchange for some food. The watch he was wearing identified by Mrs. Norma Grosso as one she gave her husband, Francis, four years ago.

Says Networks Had No Part In Rigging of Quiz Shows

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional investigators are asking two largest television networks for a report on what is being done to keep deceit and fraud off the TV screen.

To get the answer, the House of Representatives legislative oversight subcommittee summoned Robert E. Lee, president of the National Broadcasting Company, and Dr. Frank Stanton, president of Columbia Broadcasting System.

They have been invited that the networks had no part in the rigging of TV quiz shows, and that Charges are Marvin McKee, they were duped by the program producers.

Before questioning Kintner and Stanton, the subcommittee arranged to inquire a bit further into allegations of undercover payments to quiz show officials by producers and sponsors.

Subcommittee Chairman Oren Harris (Dem. Ark.) scheduled testimony from Joseph Cates, an early director of the ill - fated $64,000 question, and Mark Leddine, press agent for an Allentown, Pa., department store.

Max Hess, owner of the store, told reporters Monday of paying $15,000 to get an employee on the $64,000 Question show in 1955 so he could plug Hess' store.

The employee, Kenneth Hoffer, missed the third question and won no money. But Hess said he got "a lot of free advertising" that "my columns will show that."

He said he was hired—for $1,-500—to make a personal appearance on a Philadelphia TV show in which Hess' He would be on the Allentown store beforehand and meet several company executives.

Considine also was paid $1,000 for a personal appearance, Hess testified.

In New York Considine said he once had mentioned Hess' store in his Hearst-syndicated column, but only "on what I considered a newsworthy way."

CBS, following the subcommittee's initial round of hearings last month, banned all big-money quiz and giveaway shows and outlawed what it termed other "gimmicks."

NBC refused to go along in scrapping all quiz programs, but pledged that it has taken steps to prevent fraud. The testimony of two of the network chiefs is expected to wind up the current phase of the investigation.

The subcommittee heard confusing testimony Wednesday as to whether officials of Revlon, Inc., were aware of rigging of the $64,000 Question.

Both President Charles Revson and his brother, Martin, had testified they knew nothing of such actions and disclaimed any responsibility.

James D. Webb, an advertising executive handling Revlon advertising, also testified the firm's officials knew nothing of such practices, but Geo rge Abrams, former Revlon advertising chief, said the practice was known to officials, who sometimes suggested eliminating "colorless" contestants.

An affidavit from Shirley Bernstein, an associate producer of The $64,000 Challenge, supported earlier testimony of others that Revlon officials knew of and joined in the controls.

Miss Bernstein, daughter of Leonard Bernstein, director of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, has been named by several contestants as having revealed them with answers to questions they later were asked on the show.

Arkona Is Tense As Police Probe Hallowe'en Riot

ARKONA, Ont. (CP) — Two provincial police officers and a possible investigation by the attorney-general's department Wednesday were the talk of this community here, following the Hallowe'en high and drama enacted at a part-time police officer.

Provincial police Wednesday asked provincial police to investigate Tuesday's disorder in this village of 480 population which was marred by violence.

And two OPP officers moved in from Sarnia to attempt to find the ringleaders in Hallowe'en disturbance in which police were pelted with eggs and rotten apples when they attempted to stop teen-agers from setting fires in the main street.

Sgt. John Clegg, a Royal Canadian Legionnaire in the village of nearby Camp Ipperwash has sent police here to speak to the school children to Toronto to visit relatives as the result of veiled threats against his family.

So far three of four teen-agers charged with creating a disturbance have pleaded guilty and were fined $25 this week. The other youth is awaiting trial.

Sgt. Clegg, who has lived in Arkona for four years, is well-liked in act as a part-time unpaid police officer by those encouraged by teen - agers racing their cars down the street late at night.

TELLS OF VISITOR

Sgt. Clegg said a middle-aged man came to his house Sunday and declared: "The best thing for you and your family to do is get out of town."

Reeve Bernard Bartlett says most of the villagers are shocked and ashamed over the incidents of the last week.

OPP Sgt. Allan Campbell said Wednesday the villagers decided to give evidence against the persons involved in the rowdyism last weekend.

Wednesday night Reeve Bartlett said, "I've never seen the village so quiet."

Today the villagers were waiting to see what would happen.

Federation of Agriculture Supports Seller's Right to Determine Marketing Policy

TORONTO (CP) — The three-day convention of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture ended here Wednesday night by dirigation of the farm group that the resolutions on the order paper.

The most controversial of these was the hog producers' resolution Tuesday alleging that "other interests" are trying to dictate methods favoring hog buyers. This was a calling for the seller's right to determine his marketing policy.

There was reference to the packers' declared policy of favoring a system of grading under the hog producers' bid-and-ask system.

The resolution, which also asked the government to restrict the use of eggs and meats in marketing enabling legislation, survived a tabling motion and won overwhelming support.

IGNORE ADVICE

This support came despite the warning Monday by provincial Agricultural Minister Goodfellow that the hog producers' selling method was not in the long-term interests of producers generally. The minister advised the producers to alter their marketing system and spoke of the "danger" present possibly being forced to revoke the authority granted under the marketing plan.

Deficiency payments also came under fire at a lot of discussion. Several delegates thought the federal government's deficiency payments plan for hogs, which comes into effect Jan. 11, would be disastrous.

But J. G. Taggart, federal deputy minister of agriculture, said it was the only practical way to provide some support at the non-incentive level.

"The economic squeeze of country people of the land came up repeatedly. President Gordon Green and rural representative Mr. Helen Abell, of the federal agriculture department, said that the farming farm will last a long time, however.

Dr. Taggart said the movement away from the land seemed to be slowing down lately.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED

Resolutions approved included one to ask for banning of agricultural products as retail loss leaders, a call for more marketing research, a demand for sectional unemployment insurance for farm workers and a claim for freight rate assistance on eastern grain similar to the freight subsidy on western grain moving to the East.

Retains World Flyweight Title

OSAKA, Japan (AP)—Pasqual Perez of Argentina retained his world flyweight boxing championship tonight with a 13th-round knockout of challenger Saburo Yaoita of Japan.

The victory avenged the only defeat of Perez's record of 56 professional fights. Yaoita outpointed Perez in a non-title 10-rounder at Tokyo last January.

Perez weighed 107, Yaoita 111.

ARVIDA, Que. (CP)—The Redemptorist Fathers at nearby Desbiens established a vineyard and harvested enough grapes to make wine for their needs. Arvida is 110 miles north of Quebec City.

Growth of Canadian Cities Over Farm Land Alarms Him

TORONTO (CP)—C. E. Pratt, Vancouver architect, expressed concern Wednesday about the uncontrolled growth of Canadian cities over what formerly was farming land.

He was testifying before the Royal Architectural Institute committee of inquiry on residential environment.

Mr. Pratt, a member of the committee, suggested Prime Minister Diefenbaker could order a royal commission to determine the use of remaining arable land to urban land and the loss to Canada of farm soil in the losing battle for urban expansion of cities.

Henry Fliess, a Toronto architect, said that in at least two Metropolitan Toronto municipalities senior officials were graduates of no planning or architectural school and plans by competent architects were passed or turned down by "high school boys."

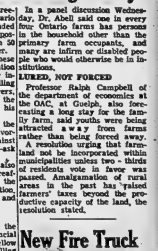
He urged the committee to investigate qualifications of developers and builders since many were former tail - drivers, clothiers or clerks who had only entered building for the money.

Mr. Fliess said: "We are building people—inventing millions of dollars—are almost illiterate," said Mr. Fliess. "These are the people who are responsible for the whole urban environment."

Dr. E. C. Fehuli of Town Planning Consultants Limited, criticized the Ontario system whereby municipal councillors must go to the minister of planning and development for approval.

"His men are civil servants," said Dr. Fehuli, "and the chiefs are designers. Most of them are architects who have set regulations."

OPEN SALT MINE



GODERICH (CP) — A salt mine expected to produce 550 tons of rock salt an hour from under Lake Huron was opened here Wednesday by Highways Minister Cass. The mine of Sifto Salt Limited, a subsidiary of Dominion Tar and Chemical Company Limited, eliminates the need for imports from the United States, said General Manager W. H. Lawson.

New Fire Truck Being Delivered Catches Fire

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Firemen answering a call here Wednesday found a fire truck already at work.

In fact it was the fire truck that was on fire—a new truck on its way to oilingwood.

Flames brought down put out the blaze, which had started in a battery cable short circuit. They also made repairs and sent the visiting fire truck on its way.

Hallowe'en Party Held At S.S. 24

MADOC JCT. — The teachers, Mrs. R. Reddy and pupils of S.S. No. 24, Sidney, decorated the school in keeping with Hallowe'en and on Friday afternoon all enjoyed the party arranged for the pupils and preschool age children, with Mrs Reddy providing treats of candy, etc., for all.

A happy Hallowe'en party, sponsored by the executive of Eggleton Sunday school, was held at the school on Saturday night, with some 60 of all ages in attendance.

Large animal balloons provided additional color to the Hallowe'en decoration.

Messrs. Bruce Stapley and Morn Stapley were asked to act as judges for the costumes.

The various age groups circled the room with two winners being selected from each group. Then followed the grand parade by all the winners.

Small prizes were also awarded to the youngest child in costume; the girl with the prettiest costume; the boy with the most original costume.

Masks were removed and all took part in a number of amazing Hallowe'en games under the supervision of Messrs. Paul Bridges and Murray Martin; Mrs. M. Clancy, Mrs. B. Stapley, Misses Jeanne Reidy, Annanese Clarke and Sondra Chambers.

Other attractions were a fish pond and fortune telling booth with Miss Audrey Stapley and Mrs. Fitchett in charge.

At the close refreshments of sandwiches, cookies, doughnuts, cream candy and fresh apple cider were served.

Proceeds from donations and booths will be sent to UNICEF.

SUB TO VISIT ARCTIC

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Navy will send the atomic-powered submarine Sargo into the Arctic Ocean early next year to continue under-ice polar explorations pioneered by the nuclear submarines Nautilus and Skate. The 3,240-ton Sargo will be accompanied through the Bering and Chukchi Seas by an ice-breaker.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — Another Hallowe'en has come and gone and with it is left a lot of half-melted fun. It is going too far when property of a church is molested. Apparently people with nothing better to do with their time have no regard for other people's property or public property. A few mail-boxes and gates also found new resting places.

A few from here attended the farewell party and shower for Mr. and Mrs. Ben Dewey and their daughter Martha and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Lorne MacDonald at the 7th Line School on Friday night. Mr. and Mrs. Dewey were presented with a step-table and smoking while the newlyweds received miscellaneous gifts.

A new oil furnace has been installed at the 8th line school. The Solmes brothers of Springbrook, former pupils at the school, poured the concrete base and built the block walls to house it. The old box stove, well remembered by all former pupils, is now only a memory.

ALBERTA GAS-LINE PLANS — Alberta gas-pipeline operators plan to spend upwards of $100,000,000 next year on new construction. This map indicates some of the plans for new pipelines and shows the main fields which will be sources of natural gas.

Biggest project is Alberta Trunk Line Company's proposed 333-mile line along the foothills of western Alberta. It is shown here as a broken line stretching from the Berland River field to the Crowsnest Pass area. Lateral lines will collect gas from fields along the foothills.

The Alberta Trunk project is expected to cost $103,000,000. At the British Columbia border it would connect with a joint pipeline proposed by Westcoast Transmission Limited and Alberta and Southern Natural Gas Company, Gas, destined for distribution in the northwest United States, would enter the U.S. near Kingsgate, B.C.

Construction is contingent upon approval by the provincial government and U.S. and Canadian energy authorities.

Solid lines on the map show existing lines of the Alberta Trunk pipline system which feeds into the Trans-Canada Pipe Lines system. Broken lines between Duck Lake and Wamborne show an addition to the pipline system planned for next year.

A small amount of gas is exported at present through the Canadian-Montana Pipe Line Company's line running from Pincher Creek to Carway. It is planned eventually to connect this line with the proposed foothills system. (CP Newsmap.)

MADOC

Rev. R. Sinclair Inducted at St. Peter's

MADOC — A fine attendance of members of Madoc — Tweed charge and many others from the neighboring congregations attended an impressive induction service in St. Peter's Presbyterian Church, Madoc, on Thursday evening, when the Rev. R. Sinclair was inducted as minister of the two charges.

Assisting in the service were the Moderator of the Presbytery, the Rev. Mr. MacLean of Belleville; Mr. Wannamaker, Footscray church, Elder Walter Brest of Tweed, introduced the people to the minister and his family, and Elder Gerrie Hoskin of Tweed, introduced the people to the minister and his family, on behalf of the congregation.

On Sunday the annual anniversary services were held in St. Peter's with the Rev. R. Sinclair in charge.

The choir under the direction of the organist and choir leader rendered special music at both morning and evening services. The annual anniversary supper will be held later on in the month of November.

Mr. Sinclair and his family came to Madoc from Embro and will be the first resident minister of the charge since the death of the Rev. M. W. Heslip, two years ago. Mr. John McIntyre, a student minister of Knox College, has been temporarily in charge since the death of Mr. Heslip.

Lords' Quarter Sets Record

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—London Lords quarterback Jerry Thompson and Calgary Stampeder Ralph Hester were selected Wednesday as outstanding players of the season, offensive and defensive respectively.

Thompson, being sought by Big Four and Western Interprovincial Football Union clubs, finished with 302 completions in 571 passes, amassed 4,042 yards in the air, 147 yards and 28 touchdowns.

Staying his season among with the Lords, he started Tuesday night in London's 35-0 semi-final victory over Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen.

"We'd like to see him get a chance in the Big Four or WIFU," said Lords' playing coach Al Bruno. London holds his contract.

HOMICIDE TOP RUSHER

Official statistics showed Mike Orvis of Kitchener - Waterloo won the league rushing title with 719 yards on 128 carries for a 5.6 per carry average. He also finished third in the individual scoring race, actually won by teammate Jerry Meyer, import halfback.

The scoring leaders were announced, unofficially last week. Meyer had 14 touchdowns for 84 points. Second was A. B. Smith of Sarnia Golden Bears with 54 points.

Meyer also ran for 715 yards on 115 tries for a 6.2 average. Hal Ledyard, Sarnia, and Bob Celeri, Kitchener - Waterloo, finished second and third in the passing division.

Jim Greer of London caught 46 passes in 11 games to lead in catches. Meyer was runner - up with 33 catches.

THE OLD PHILOSOPHER'S COLUMN
FOR FOX CARTAGE AND STORAGE LTD.
BY HARRY CATS

Everybody knows what a Tabby Cat is, but do you know why we call a striped cat by that name? The word comes to us through long centuries from the rich watered silk manufactured at El Tabbyiana, a suburb of old Baghdad and brought across the Levant to oriental markets of Europe.

Queen Elizabeth gave suddence to her Merchant Adventurers, "clad in a gown of finest tabbi". And Pepys records, in his Diary, his annoyance that his wife gave him a waistcoat that was only "imitation tabbi". Real tabbi was rich brocade of a striped design.

One thing we all know about Tabby Cats, and all other cats, is that they get very attached to a house, and hate to move. Well, who doesn't? Moving Day can be a terrible ordeal unless you know what to do! And that, of course, is to ask FOX Cage and Storage to do the whole move for you.

They have over 50 years of experience and are Agents for Allied Van Lines, the top name in the continent, who hold the (Good Housekeeping Seal of Approval. They make moving day a pleasure for you —their FREE BOOKLET, "Before You Move", tells you about it. Write for your copy.

Their very reasonable prices will please, and they always get a cost estimate in advance.

Evening With Fred Astaire Was Great Entertainment

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Another Evening with Fred Astaire on CBS Wednesday night turned out to be another evening of great entertainment.

It was his second television appearance, but he must have had some qualms! His debut last season was the TV event of the year and his show was voted a total of nine Emmys at swarding-giving time.

This year's show not only equalled the first, but in some ways excelled it. The program had a light-hearted, relaxed air about it. Astaire is an urbane, witty performer whether dancing with perfection and skill or singing with his unassuming, curiously attractive voice. He was doing one or the other with ease and assurance during most of the hour.

He danced with the chorus; he danced alone—here, perhaps, he was at his comic best—and he did several delightful numbers with Barrie Chase.

BANG MANY TIMES

He sang a new song to open the show, and closed it with a medley of old ones associated with his long theatre and film career.

Miss Chase, a blonde youngster with a lovely face and great dancing ability, is probably the best partner Astaire has had since his sister Adele retired from the stage. Barrie was a hit in the first Astaire show, and in this second and much more to it, including an amusing dance routine on the best proportion.

However, it was Astaire's show all the way, it was handsome, tastefully, painstakingly planned and there wasn't a dull or clunky moment in it.

The United States attorney-general's office has requested TV program-makers to defer all shows dealing with the trial of the men who attended the gangsters' convention at Apalachin, N.Y. One of the Undercover series was pulled out on short notice.

WINNIPEG (CP)—A Manitoba gopher — stuffed of course—will become the first resident of the club to be initiated meeting of a 30-year-old organization known as the Gopher Golfers' Society of England.

A. G. (Scotty) Kennedy, manager of Assiniboia Downs Race Track here, recently received a request for the animal from George A. McKaghen of Toronto who attended last year's meeting of the Gopher Golfers and offered to supply a real gopher as a trophy mascot.

Mr. Kennedy found it was not as easy task but finally managed to get a small one on a ranch near Carberry.

The stuffed animal will be flown to make the annual meeting of the Gopher Golfers Nov. 26.

Hot Film Star Jack Lemmon Hasn't Made Movie in a Year

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How's this for a waste of starpower? Jack Lemmon, one of the hottest names in movies, hasn't made a picture in a year.

Producers are moaning and groaning that the lack of story is hobbling the industry, so how can a guy like Lemmon sit idle so long?

"It's partly the studios' fault and partly mine," he explained. "I did three pictures in a row last year and I was pooped. Columbia wanted me to do The Last Angry Man right after I finished Bonus Like It Hot, but I said no thanks.

"After I took a rest, I expected to do The Wackiest Ship in the Army for Columbia last summer. I was also lined up to do The Apartment for Billy Wilder. But they kept postponing the pictures and I couldn't line up anything else."

Aside from the schedule juggling, Lemmon admitted that he had himself to blame for his idleness.

"Bonus Like It Hot was the biggest thing that happened to me, even bigger than getting the Oscar for Mister Roberts. When an actor has that happen to him, his career changes.

"You can't just take anything that comes along. You've got to be more selective and try to follow up with better properties. It's a paradox. You should be working more, to improve yourself, but you have to work less, to protect what you have achieved."

There was a time when Lemmon was one of the hardest working actors in show business. That was when he was a TV jobber, hustling from show to show in New York.

Exhibition Game Turn Point For Ottawa's Ron Stewart

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Little Rough Stewart's presence in Ot la s ed Rough Riders' offensive back-field in evidence that these football exhibitions in the August heat mean something after all.

For it was in one of them—his debut to be precise — that Stewart, the smallest man in the eastern Big Four, came into his own as a wide-ranging ball carrier and won regular spot on offence.

"That game was the turning point for me," Stewart said in an interview. "I got away for some pretty good runs and I guess that's one reason the coach picked me."

There's another reason, too. Coach Frank Clair this year had more good Canadian material than in past years and was able to platoon his offensive and defensive squads, and used only six or seven imports on offence.

This left a halfback position for a Canadian and Stewart, who reached intercollegiate stardom at Queen's University, was at the right spot at the right time to take it over.

His size — he's five feet, 7½ inches tall and weighs 180—makes him a hard man to catch on end sweeps.

"I'm not a fast runner, by any means," he said. "I probably rank fifth or sixth on the club, but I can cut in quickly enough and that helps me get around those defensive ends and linebackers."

Perhaps the fact he's built close to the ground creates the impression of great speed. And when he's hemmed in by a bunch of potential tacklers, Stewart just lowers his head down and drives ahead at top speed.

Stewart, 24, in his last year of law at Ottawa University, came to Riders last season on the eve of the first scheduled game and, probably because of the late start, was just another back-fielder.

This year, however, he was in camp from the start of training in early July and hasn't stopped running, piling up a total 425 yards rushing, seventh best in the league and second on the Ottawa club only to record-breaking rusher Dave Thelen who chugged off 1,346 yards.

Stewart has scored only three touchdowns, two running and one on a pass, but has a commendable average of 20.4 yards on kickoff returns and 3.9 yards on punt returns.

Looking back on his years at Queen's, where he holds the school's rushing record, Stewart said his biggest thrill was to play on the 1952 intercollegiate championship team.

Members of that Queen's team are backfielder Gary Schreider and ends Lou Bruce and Jim Hughes.

Stewart is haunted by the memory of a punt which Gary Schreider missed in a playoff game against Western.

The ball rolled behind the goal line where a Western player fell on it for the winning touchdown. Six seconds before the end of the game.

"I still dream about that one," he said.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Rudy Pilous is an acknowledged showman in the National Hockey League coaching ranks. But he has a long way to go to snatch the master of them all, Tuesday's Conn Smythe.

Rudy introduced a familiar theme into NHL gossip last week when he said in Toronto that weight is the big problem with his first-place Chicago Black Hawks. Rudy was alarmed and "mortified" when he realized that his players got fat on what he termed the "gentle, humane treatment" he had been giving them.

Rudy had a mischievous glint in his eye when he said it but something had to be done about the Hawks because they were making the experts look bad. Forecasters had called Chicago to finish second this season and there were the Hawks with only one victory in nine starts.

TAKE TO STEAM?

"I might even lock them up in a steam bath and throw away the key," Rudy said.

Rudy might do that and many other stunts but the Hawks' weight problem isn't likely to get the publicity mileage Smythe received 30 years ago when he started the famous "battle of the bulge" with hockey's fabulous fat man, Goalkeeper Turk Broda of the Leafs. Turk was 35 and an unfashionable 197 pounds at the time and Leafs were going nowhere.

They had won the Stanley Cup the previous season, 1942-43. They had just lost five and tied one and Broda had been far from the backbone of Leaf's three straight Cup triumphs.

Broda was ordered to trim off seven pounds in three days or lose his job. Smythe, who had a couple of goalkeepers in the wings ready to take over, did it to the accompaniment of front page headlines in Toronto.

Diet experts were called in by newspapers to advise roly - poly Broda.

PLENTY OF PUBLICITY

Day by day the newspapers kept up a running account of Broda's battle. Finally, with only seven pounds remaining before a Saturday night game against New York Rangers, Broda made it.

"Broda gets down to 189 pounds!" the Toronto Daily Star announced in two-inch headlines.

"I'm going home to bed," said the delighted goalkeeper.

That night, just about everybody in the jammed Maple Leaf Gardens laughed and cheered when Turk took his spot in the Toronto net. And they gasped around to whistle and yell when Broda, grinning from ear to ear, jauntily skated off the ice with a 2-0 victory, his fourth shutout of the NHL season.

Coach Draws $100 Fine

NEW YORK (AP) — Roland McCammish, player-coach of the Greensboro, N.C., team in the Eastern Hockey League, was fined $100 Wednesday by league president Tom Lockhart for leaving the bench in Tuesday night's game at Washington and fighting with spectators.

Washington won the game 6-4.

The game erupted into a near-riot in the third period when the Generals, led by McLenahan, poured off the bench and battled the fans in the stands.

As Claude Vinet scored the ninth Washington goal in the waning seconds, the Greensboro team, smarting under the fans' beach cliling, climbed over several tiers of seats to swing at the paying customers.

Order was restored before the fight got completely out of hand and a woman was given first aid.

Exhibition Game Turn Point For Ottawa's Ron Stewart

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Little Rough Stewart's presence in Ot la s ed Rough Riders' offensive back-field in evidence that these football exhibitions in the August heat mean something after all.

For it was in one of them—his debut to be precise — that Stewart, the smallest man in the eastern Big Four, came into his own as a wide-ranging ball carrier and won regular spot on offence.

"That game was the turning point for me," Stewart said in an interview. "I got away for some pretty good runs and I guess that's one reason the coach picked me."

There's another reason, too. Coach Frank Clair this year had more good Canadian material than in past years and was able to platoon his offensive and defensive squads, and used only six or seven imports on offence.

This left a halfback position for a Canadian and Stewart, who reached intercollegiate stardom at Queen's University, was at the right spot at the right time to take it over.

His size — he's five feet, 7½ inches tall and weighs 180—makes him a hard man to catch on end sweeps.

"I'm not a fast runner, by any means," he said. "I probably rank fifth or sixth on the club, but I can cut in quickly enough and that helps me get around those defensive ends and linebackers."

Perhaps the fact he's built close to the ground creates the impression of great speed. And when he's hemmed in by a bunch of potential tacklers, Stewart just lowers his head down and drives ahead at top speed.

Stewart, 24, in his last year of law at Ottawa University, came to Riders last season on the eve of the first scheduled game and, probably because of the late start, was just another backfielder.

This year, however, he was in camp from the start of training in early July and hasn't stopped running, piling up a total 425 yards rushing, seventh best in the league and second on the Ottawa club only to record-breaking rusher Dave Thelen who chugged off 1,346 yards.

Stewart has scored only three touchdowns, two running and one on a pass, but has a commendable average of 20.4 yards on kickoff returns and 3.9 yards on punt returns.

Looking back on his years at Queen's, where he holds the school's rushing record, Stewart said his biggest thrill was to play on the 1952 intercollegiate championship team.

Members of that Queen's team are backfielder Gary Schreider and ends Lou Bruce and Jim Hughes.

Stewart is haunted by the memory of a punt which Gary Schreider missed in a playoff game against Western.

The ball rolled behind the goal line where a Western player fell on it for the winning touchdown. Six seconds before the end of the game.

"I still dream about that one," he said.

Als Defence Makes 'Peahead' Mite Happier

MONTREAL (CP)—The offensive strength Montreal Alouettes can muster for their sudden-death playoff game at Ottawa with Rough Riders next Saturday may be a highly important factor in the outcome.

Coach Douglas (Peahead) Walker, never a man to bubble over with optimism, nevertheless was a mite happier Wednesday when he talked about his Als' defence.

"We've strengthened down the middle," said Walker. "Those boys Curt Isaakes, Wes Gideon, Milt Campbell and George Dixon have been doing real well."

Since Isaakes and company got into action and began taking up the defensive slack, the 'Als squeezed out a win over Toronto Argos and broke even with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, first-place winners in the Big Four football circuit.

Where did Walker figure the Als' greatest strength lay in the clubs' last meeting—won by Ottawa 28-13?

"They beat us on deep passes," Walker replied. There was an implication that Ottawa quarterback Russ Jackson might not be so successful next Saturday.

Bilts Shade Flyers 5-4

BARRIE (CP) — Guelph Biltmores downed Barrie Flyers 5-4 Wednesday night in the second Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series win over the Flyers in as many nights.

But they got a scare in the third period when Barrie came flying in for four goals.

Guelph goaltender Gil Villemure was sensational during the first two periods. He stopped a penalty shot attempt by Pierre Gagne in the second period.

Ron Gilbert had two of Guelph's goals with singles by Bob Cunningham and Pat Aselstine netting singles. Gagne, Nelson Leclair and Wayne Clairmont, who scored two in the third, led the Barrie goals. Shots on goal were 30-29 in favor of the visitors with Flyers getting 15 in the finale.

"Your girl friend may be good at other sports but I don't think she knows much about bowling!"

Bulldozer Brings Out Big Moose

BRANTFORD (CP)—Three Brantford hunters told Wednesday of hiring a bulldozer to build eight miles of road through the bush to bring their 1,900 pounds of moose to Matachewan.

John Fawcett, Orley Ramey and Floyd Papple shot two moose, 950 and 875 pounds, and paid a bulldozer operator $5 an hour to make a road for them to bring the carcasses out intact.

A bridge had to be built over a river, and a causeway over a creek.

MORE DENTISTS

WINNIPEG (CP) — Twenty-four first-year students registered this fall at the University of Manitoba's faculty of dentistry, compared with 18 when it started operation last year. The faculty offers a four-year course leading to the degree of doctor of dental medicine.

TORONTO (CP) — The largest price of the Ontario season was recorded Wednesday when Tedette won the second race at New Woodbine and paid $181.80, straight, $33.20, to place and $19.60 to show. Tedette combined with Spotlite, winner of the first race, for a daily double of $387.80.

Tedette, a five-year-old gelding owned by Munro R. Clark of Toronto, hadn't won a race in two seasons until when he romped through the stop today to defeat Gilded Tsar, Gilbey and six other rivals.

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Record prices for two-year-old trotters and yearling fillies sold at public auction were established Wednesday at the annual standardbred horse sale here.

L. W. Burkmeyer of New Milford, N.J., paid $60,000 for Is Taste, the colt considered an outstanding candidate for the 1950 Hambletonian Stakes.

Hugh Grant, of Bradford, Pa., and C. E. Armstrong of Brampton, Ont., paid a record $34,500 for Vivian's Adios. They already own the yearling's full sister, Countess Adios, a world champion two-year-old this year.

Armstrong paid the farmer record prices for yearling fillies at a public auction when he bought Geddy's Pick for $32,000 in 1958.

A record for a sale was established for total sales at the third day of the sale, $1,262,900 was paid for 236 horses, averaging $4,500 per head.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The big exodus to the northern haunts of ye noble ungulate takes place over the week-end. Right now the deer-hunting fraternity is in the throes of packing, packaging, gun-cleaning and other chores necessary before the trek to the forests and runways, cabins and resorts gets under way.

The deer-hunting season in the Tweed district of the department of Lands and Forests opens Monday, November 9. And the department wants to get a few facts straight before somebody gets shot and gets into trouble.

The season in the northern portion of the district opens November 9 through November 21st, inclusive. And, by way of explanation, the "northern district" is that north of Highway No. 7, through Hastings, Lennox and Addington and part of Frontenac counties to Highway No. 28, then east of Highway 32, north of county road No. 8 in Frontenac county from Godfrey to Westport.

The season in the southern section of the districts opens November 5 through November 21st, inclusive. This section is south of the above prescribed line to Highway No. 2 in Hastings, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac counties.

But—and remember this—there is NO open season for deer south of Highway No. 2 across the district.

So if you see any stray bucks, does or fawns bruising in the jungles of Zwicks Island, Amelissburg, Point Traverse or intermediate points, "keep your gun holstered, podner, these critters are members of the sanctuary."

And the good fellows of the department ask the cooperation of hunters bringing out their hills. It seems the department wishes to make a thorough examination of the deer killed during the regular open season this year in order to obtain the proper information. It will be necessary to examine and age a large percentage of the deer taken out by hunters.

Officers of the department will be contacting hunters in the field to check their kill as well as setting up roadblocks at strategic points where they can examine and age the deer. Three of the major check points will be located at Arnprior, Kaladar and Elderado, and will be operated on the weekends of November 14-15 and November 21-22.

To a considerable degree the success of departmental officers in securing this information depends largely on the amount of co-operation received from hunters in good fellows and answer the questions the officer asks. All they want to know is where and when the kill took place, the number of days trailed and whether you are hunting with the gang or out on a weekend shoot all by yourself.

There is nothing personal about it. The department here are doing a job for the good of all concerned. So when your car is stopped, don't flip your lid. Just keep cool and answer the questions and allow the officers to examine your deer. Be patient, even if you are in a hurry to get home. Remember, all this is for your benefit and for those who follow in your footsteps.

The first deer story of the year comes out of Loon Lake, New Brunswick, where an expert missed a standing deer four times at ninety feet and while he is believed about it an ignorant woman tumbles a running buck at 300 yards.

The expert was a sports editor, who should know better than pass the buck. He spotted a deer the short distance away and watched it for ten minutes. He fired four shots and away the quarry went unharmed and untouched.

The woman was a gal who had been hanging around the lake lodge, carrying a rifle she did not even know how to load and had never shot. She carried it by the leather sling except when she sat down to smoke or ask questions about deer hunting of a passing guide or a relative by marriage.

This day she sat on the edge of a clearing when a smallish buck galloped out of a bordering thicket and skimmed across the flat. She saw it running and figured it was no problem. She hauled the gun down from the sling position, aimed somewhere in the direction of the deer, tried to pull the trigger and failed.

She fiddled with the safety for a second or two, succeeded in unlatching it, aimed in the general direction of the speeding buck, closed her eyes and pulled the trigger. The shot took the deer in the backbone hitting it instantly.

Booster Club to Raise $500 For Purchase of New Goalie

The Booster Club at a general meeting last night unanimously voted to grant the McFarlands junior hockey club the sum of $500 to purchase a new goalkeeper.

The gesture was made and endorsed after executive member Mac White told the meeting negotiations were under way for the acquisition of a new goaltender also "help up front."

In order to finance the amount the club will hold an all-out membership drive, president Jim Matthews said. Efforts will be made to secure 2,500 new members. He appealed to fans of the city and district to secure their membership right away so that the necessary funds can be raised.

Membership cards are now on sale at Bill Cook's Tobacco Store and Jack Diamond's Men's Wear on Front Street. The cost? One dollar.

A general appeal was made to fans of the city and district to turn out and support the club. Attendances at recent games have been of satisfactory nature, but more done needs to boost the morale of the club.

It was intimated at the meeting that unless better fan support is forthcoming there might not be hockey here next season.

President Matthews told the meeting that the new "world championship" banner has arrived and will be hung in Memorial Arena in time for Friday's game. He also announced that pictures of the world champion McFarlands will be ready for sale at 25 cents each.

Crazy Coyer said there are prospects of the formation of a junior Booster Club. He added there is a possibility of a meeting being called in the near future for the organization of such a club.

With Gordie Bell's hockey future in uncertainty, it was pointed out that the team is in dire need of a goalie. As was said negotiations are under way and it is hoped fans will respond by taking out memberships in the club as soon as possible.

'I'm Sick And Tired Of This Club' Screams Watson

Fiery Blues Coach Explodes After Losing 4-1 to Leafs; 'Brightest Stars Stinkers'

By LAURENT CHIASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Fiery coach Phil Watson just couldn't keep silent about his New York Rangers any longer. "I'm sick and tired of this club!" he exploded in Toronto Wednesday night after the hapless Rangers had dropped a 4-1 decision to the Maple Leafs in the night's only National Hockey League action.

Phil was fuming when he left reporters into the dressing room.

Reverting to his terrible-tempered ways, he said: That game stunk and it was my brightest stars who were the stinkiest. They'd better wake up because this stuff isn't going to go on."

NO NAMES MENTIONED

"I don't have to name the guys. You know who my stars are," he roared.

This was Watson's first blast since his early-season promise to cease chewing out his players in public. He suffered in silence through the first four weeks of the season saying "I'm going to keep my big mouth shut this season. I'm going to make friends with my players."

But Wednesday's loss, which left the Blueshirts in fifth place with only two wins and two ties in 12 games was too much.

George Armstrong led Leafs with two goals. Bert Olmstead and defenceman Allan Stanley scored the others. Captain Red Sullivan scored for Rangers late in the first period.

One of New York's big problems this year has been giving up too many goals. But goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley could hardly be faulted for Wednesday's defeat. He appeared slow on Stanley's goal but kept Rangers in the game with 29 stops, many of them miraculous. He stopped 15 in the second period alone.

FINE JOB BY BOWER

Toronto's Johnny Bower had great moments too, turning back 28 shots.

"More goals, more points and more money. That's my slogan from now on," said Watson.

"They figure scoring points is enough and have forgotten how to backcheck," continued Watson. The Rangers have scored 31 goals in 12 games and have allowed 42.

"I don't want to see any more excuses on the papers. If I read of any excuses about injuries or anything, I'll fine the guy accusing himself $100. I mean it, too. If they're lousy, I want them to admit it.

"Injuries are poor excuses. You didn't see Stewart (Ron Stewart of Leafs) complaining tonight and he's playing, and playing well, too, with a broken jaw. If one of our guys gets a broken leg, he's on the doctor."

SEVERAL INJURIES

The Rangers have reported an assortment of minor injuries since the season began. Defenceman Lou Fontinato missed several games after suffering an injured knee and Bill Gadsby, another defenceman, was slowed for a while by virus.

Leafs moved into third place, one point ahead of idle Boston, with the victory.

There was very little excitement for the 13,014 fans as action dragged after the Leafs went ahead 2-0 with the game only four minutes young.

There's more bad news ahead for Rangers tonight. They go to Montreal to face the league-leading Canadiens, undefeated in eight games, and red-hot netminder Jacques Plante and his famous face mask. Boston will be at Detroit for another engagement.

Plante wore the mask for the first time in a regular league game Sunday night after suffering a facial cut. Coach Toe Blake, earlier against the mask, now feels differently.

"Plante was wearing it in pre - season training he wasn't sharp and my feeling was that the mask was to blame," Blake said. But Plante can wear the mask if he wants to, like it if it doesn't interfere with his goaling," he added.

Blake also announced that centre Ralph Backstrom will play on a line with Billy Hicke and Ab McDonald. Backstrom made one brief appearance against Detroit but hasn't been in the lineup since three weeks.

Ernie Basks Is Named National MVP

BOSTON (AP) — Ernie Banks, Chicago Cubs' hard - hitting infielder who set a major league fielding record for shortstops this season, Wednesday was named the National League's most valuable player of 1959.

The 28-year-old Slugger, who set a major league mark by committing only 12 errors in 155 games, received 16 of the 23 first place votes cast by the baseball writers. He was named in the eight National League cities. Banks was listed in the for first place on another ballot.

Banks also won the award last 1958.

He was named on every ballot and drew a total of 294½ points. Eddie Mathews, Milwaukee's third baseman, drew five first-place votes, was named in a tie with banks on another and finished second in the balloting with 189½ points.

Hank Aaron of Milwaukee and Los Angeles' Wally Moon got the only other first-place votes.

"Gee, that's great. I'll be dancing all night," Banks said in Chicago.

Banks led the majors in runs batted in with 143 and finished second to Mathews in the National League home run race with 45 and bit .304.

In addition, he wiped out a 11-year-old fielding mark for shortstops. He handled 902 chances with only 12 errors for a .985 fielding percentage, bettering the previous mark of .983 set by Eddie Miller of the old Boston Braves in 1942.

Eskimos Crush Lions 41-7, Meet Blue Bombers in Final

By GERRY MONEO
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON (CP) — Jackie Parker, one of the most seasoned players in Canadian football history, was at his magnificent best Wednesday as he led the gridding Edmonton Eskimos to a 41-7 crushing over British Columbia Lions that sent Edm into the western conference final playoff for the 16th straight year.

The 28 - year - old quarterback, brewing owner's field frozen solid by 12-degree cold, threw two touchdown passes and personally scored 17 points, more than enough to brush aside Lions in the two-game, total - point semi-final series.

Edmonton beat Lions 39-3 in the first game in 60-degree warmth at Vancouver last Saturday and captured the series 41-31. They now meet Winnipeg Blue Bombers in a best-of-three Western Interprovincial Football Union final starting here next Wednesday.

RETARDED BY ARMOR

Although Lions weren't given much of a chance in any event, the grandstand quarterbacks probably will have a field day over a decision by B.C. coach Eagle Robinson to have his boys wear the usual cleated boots instead of switching to sneakers as Edmonton did.

Eskimos galloped across the concrete-like surface Lions had trouble getting good footing and snaring passes from quarterbacks Randy Duncan, who hit 12 passes for night, and Earl Keyley. Some B.C. players switched to running shoes in the last half.

Coach Eagle Keys of Edmonton, voicing surprise at his team's one-sided victory, said: "There made the difference. B.C. tried cleats in the first half but they were better in the last with running shoes."

Robinson agreed that the switch in footwear helped but that it came too late.

"Changing shoes made a difference. We scored a touchdown."

KEY WHIPPED

But Robinson quickly added that Edmonton played a fine game. "When you're beaten 41-7, you're really beaten. My boys played the ball but Esks were great."

Parker kicked two field goals and five converts in addition to his touchdown before 16,000 fans at Clarke Stadium. He fired touchdown passes to end Tommy-Joe Coffey and fullback Johnny Bright and scored his own on a pass from Don Getty, who quarterbacked the club in the second half.

Bright got another touchdown on a five-yard plunge. Fullback Normie Kwong plunged for Esks for a touchdown.

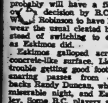
Lions' only points came when fullback Bill Britton took a seven-yard pass from Duncan and bought 16 yards for a touchdown in the third quarter. Vic Kritzberger converted. Esks were ahead 41-0 at the time.

INTERCEPTIONS FREQUENT

Disaster struck swiftly for Lions. Edmonton's Canadian defenders backfield I-old intercepted three Duncan passes early in the first quarter and Robinson turned them into two field goals and a touchdown. Duncan fumbled in the second quarter to set up another Edmonton touchdown.

Parker completed four of eight passes in the first half. He then went into the backfield, catching Orv Getty passes for 62 yards. Getty completed 1 of 14 heaves.

Duncan and Keeley, who replaced him in the last quarter, attempted 48 passes and completed only 16 for 286 yards. Two interceptions by Oscar Kruger in the second half and others by Mike Lashuk, Gino Fracas and Hoppe Bendkie scuttled Lions' drive. Lions made only 46 yards rushing.



Keeley attempted 12 passes, completed five and had one intercepted. Of Duncan's 36 attempts, 1 were complete and four intercepted.

Eskimos made 222 yards rushing and 225 passing. They were ahead 26-17 on first downer.

Totems, Cougars Win in West

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rabbing Bill Burega is back and he may be just the spark needed to lift Spokane Comets out of their Western Hockey League doldrums.

Burega's bodychecks helped Comets to a 5-3 victory over Seattle Totems Wednesday night. Victoria Cougars defeated Winnipeg Warriors 6-3 in overtime.

The results left Vancouver Canucks in first place, six points ahead of Cougars. Totems slipped into third spot, Calgary is fourth and Edmonton Flyers, Warriors and Comets are tied for last place.

Burega performed well for Winnipeg three years ago, but appeared to lose his touch with Warriors dealt him to Saskatoon Quakers. Since his arrival at Spokane Jets from Quakers early in December he has been little doubt the old Burega is back.

Les Lilley paced Comets with his first two goals of the season. Others were added by Dee Topoll, Bev Bell and Ron Attwell. Ralph Backstrom got his 24th goals and took over leadership in the scoring race with 51 points.

At Victoria, Doug Anderson, Ron Matthews, Jim Pappin, Gordie Wilson, Art Jones and Gordie Fashoway scored for Cougars. Rookie defenceman Ted Green scored for Warriors. Gordie Sedahl, Norm Waslawski and Ray Brunel added one each.

Indians Whip Providence 7-4

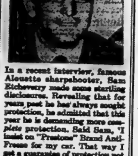
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The big lead Providence Reds built at the start of the American Hockey League season is down to two points today, after Indianapolis Checkers' winning night of the nine games played Wednesday.

The Indians turned back the Reds 7-4 at Providence Wednesday night, and Cleveland Barons blanked Hershey 3-0.

The Reds, who won eight of their first 10 games, have been on the short end of the score in their last three starts. The victories boosted Springfield into second place.

The Indians' scoring was handled by Art Stratton, Harry Pidhirny, Floyd Smither, Bill Warrender, Bruce Cline, Jim Anderson and Bill Sweeney.



Pearl Pavelich scored twice for the Reds, Larry Hillman and Dutch Reibel got singles.

At Hershey, Mike Labadie, Bill Dineen, Ed Hoekstra, Fred Glover and Carl Shmon each accounted for the Cleveland goals.

Hershey goalie Norm Dilsworth and Claude Laforge scored for Hershey.

Defender Bob Perreault of Hershey drew two 10-minute misconduct penalties for using unsentimental language.

Sam The Rifle Demands Protection

In a recent interview, famous Alouette sharpshooter, Sam Etcheverry made some startling disclosures. Revealing that for years, past he has always sought protection, he admitted that this year he is demanding more complete protection. Said Sam, "I insist on "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze for my car. Aussies Crush Canuck Golfers

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (CP) — An all-amateur Australian team crushed Canada's entry in the Commonwealth golf tourney Wednesday night of the nine games played Wednesday.

The loss left Canada at the bottom of the five-team competition despite the fact that two of the entries — Britain and New Zealand — posted one-hundred losses.

Only Gary Cowan, 20-year-old Kitchener amateur, managed to win Wednesday. He overpowered Wells Seward 4 and 3. Seward, Australia's team manager, was called in at the last minute as a replacement for Bruce Devlin, Australian amateur champion, who was ill.

South Africa strengthened its hold on first place by defeating Britain 5-4 in the day's other game. South Africa defeated Canada 7½-1½ Tuesday.

WESLOCK CLOSE

Veteran Jim Weslock of Windsor and Doug Silverberg of Calgary gave their Australian opponents a close game — in singles play.

Weslock was defeated 1 up by Kevin Hartley while Silverberg lost 2 and 1 to Jack Coogan.

Peter Thomson and Johnny Johnson of Vancouver 7 and 6, Doug Bachli defeated Ron Willey of Vancouver 6 and 5 and Vic Bulgin beat Bert Tickhurst of Australia 2 and 1.

Australia swept the three foursomes matches played and Bachli by defeating Cowan and Willey 2 up, Coogan and Toogood beat Silverberg and Titchener 3 and 4 and Bachli and Bulgin defeated Johnson and Weslock 3 and 2.

Pick Chuvalo To Defeat Yvon Durelle

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's George Chuvalo was picked Wednesday by a ring rating committee to retain his Canadian heavyweight title here Nov. 17 against Yvon Durelle of Belle Ste. Anne, N.B., well ranked among world light-heavys.

Ted Saddy, for several years in charge of the monthly ratings of fighters by the Canadian National Boxing Association of the United States, said Chuvalo will win "if he's in shape and it looks as if he will be."

Saddy added, however, that he has everything going for him," but said after watching Chuvalo spar at the Toronto Athletic Club with Dave Shoulders of Detroit:

He recalled he had seen Chuvalo beat Cleo Pat Mc-Murtry in New York's Madison Square Garden a year ago.

"I don't think he was in shape. I don't know that he has co-ordination and a natural ability," he added.

OBJECTIVE EXCEEDED

BRANTFORD (CP) — Brantford's community chest campaign passed its objective Tuesday when $185,077 was reported as the final figure. This was $2,301 over the target.

Minor Sports Federation To Honor Young Champions

The Belleville Minor Sports Federation has announced and adopted a new policy in connection with its annual "celebration and presentation" parties.

Previously these get-togethers were held half-for each individual sports classification, soccer, hockey and baseball.

The new policy calls for a packaging of the parties and the first "one-for-all" will be held in the Bridge Street Armouries on Saturday, November 7, starting at 1.30 p.m.

Federation executives will be on hand as will the executive representatives of the three sports.

Members of championship teams in the various classifications of hockey, baseball and soccer will be on hand to receive tangible and other tributes.

Also in attendance will be a large crowd of young athletes representative of the three sports, and by tribute to their respective champions.

There will be entertainment and refreshments. The selection of pictures of the 1958-59 Stanley Cup series will be shown, and afterwards the youngsters will be treated to ice cream and soft drinks.

Numerous presentations will be made by the Federation both with both team and individual trophy winners being honored.

The Red Wings, coached by L. Coughlin, will receive the squirt league championship trophy.

The peewee league title was won by the Rangers, coached by Ed Purver.

The bantam loop championship trophy will go to the Macs, coached by Hirold Mott.

Robin Hood Oats trophies will be presented to the most valuable player in each division.

Bob Moon of the peewee Macs, Larry Finamore of the squirt Rangers and Hickey Dalnard of the bantam Barons will receive these trophies.

Most improved player awards will also be presented.

The B.M.H.A. trophy will go to Jim McCreary of the squirt Red Wings.

The CJBQ trophy will be presented to Doug Dickey of the peewee Red Wings.

Bob Ethier of the bantam Browns will receive the Pat Boland memorial trophy.

Paul Zakos who is playing his hockey this year with Peterborough Petes in the OHA Junior "A" league, will be presented with the Jack Ellis trophy as the most improved player in the district division. Zakos was a member of the Canadiens here.

Gordon Parker will accept the Charles Hamilton trophy as the MIP in the juvenile division.

The Hugh Bolton memorial trophy, awarded to the best goalie in the midget league, will be presented to Barry Donald of the Red Wings.

Turning to soccer, the Northern team, coached by Bob Blair, will be honored as champions of the bantam summer soccer league.

Presentations in the baseball division will be made to the Tigers, coached by Art Lucas, as

SUPPORTS TIGHT MONEY

MONTREAL (CP) — David M. Wright, professor of economics and political science at McGill University, said Tuesday that Canada's economic situation fully justifies a tight money policy. He told a Montreal service club the demand for credit in the foreseeable future will be much greater than supply.

Giardello Wins Over Dick Tiger

CLEVELAND (AP) — Joey Giardello evened the score with Dick Tiger of Nigeria Wednesday night by winning a unanimous decision in their 10-round middleweight bout. But it was a close one, just as when Tiger decisioned Joey in Philadelphia two weeks ago.

Referee Don Gonzales scored it 45-44 for Giardello, Judge Charles Hill also had it 45-44, and Judge Herb Williams gave it a 47-45 margin.

There were no knockdowns, but Giardello jabbed a one-inch gash over Tiger's right eye. The cut bled freely in the following rounds.

At 160, Tiger, whose home now is in Liverpool, England, had a 30-pound advantage on Giardello, fighting from Hoosdale, N.Y.

Dutchies Take Stor Lead With 5-3 Win Over Bulldogs

KITCHENER (CP)—Kitchener Waterloo Dutchmen moved into first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series Wednesday night with a 5-3 victory over Whitby Bulldogs to hand the Dogs their second defeat in two days and their 3-0 first-period lead.

Cliff Pennington, Ted Makl and Ron Muir got the others.

Tom Walker, Erwin Grosse and Ernstve Servito counted for the Bulldogs.

THE GAME

GLASGOW (Reuters) — Scotland and Wales tied 1-1 in an international soccer game Wednesday night. Wales led 1-0 at halftime, when Ian Anderson, substituting for regular Ken Leek, scored. Scotland's Jimmy Wallace equalized altered the completion of the game.

Ian Anderson, substituting for regular winger Bob Forbes who injured his leg in training Wednesday night that put him in hospital overnight, scored two goals to give the Dutchmen a 3-0 first-period lead.

Cliff Pennington, Ted Makl and Ron Muir got the others.

Tom Walker, Erwin Grosse and Ernstve Servito counted for the Bulldogs.

Astrological Forecast

By CAROLL RICHTER

Friday, November 6

Moon Children (Born 22 to July 23) — By adopting more modern methods, you can become more efficient in all spheres of your activity. Also, take treatments that improve your health. P.M. instead of going out and spending extravagantly for entertainment, save fun with good pal.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — Good day to be off to some charming spot with most clever and intelligent associate. Sit back quietly and listen to what he, or she, has to say. Work out joint aims. Later and in P.M., be kind to unhappy mate. Do not argue, though tempted to.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Getting an early start and working on a good and efficient pace bring approval and backing from those of superiors — until 8 p.m. Later, take care while driving or walking. Also, do not permit sarcastic remarks to disturb you.

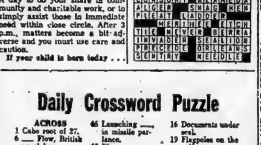
Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — The right morning to see your barber or beautician. Then have luncheon with some charming person. Later, inspect financiers, merchants, et al., with your real knowledge of economics.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 11) — Invest a little money now to embellish surroundings, home, modern trends. Later, perform those tasks you have promised to do, though you are tempted to go off with a charming ally.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Morning is fine for writing, shopping, having conferences, etc. In the evening it would be wise not to worry over the inevitable and vex. Ignore whatever unkind remarks are made. Rise above everyone and everything.

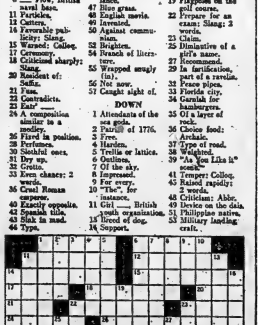
Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Your financial situation can be ameliorated now if you take the trouble to get the facts in some practical affairs of yours. Then later you must steer clear of some dynamic associate who is angry and upset at this time.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — During A.M., is the right time to confer with allies or associates and express your ideas and desires. During latter part of day, avoid irate higher-up, or you may get the brunt of his ire. Tend to own knitting.



Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — A day to do your share in community and charitable work, or to simply assist those in immediate need within close circle. After 3 p.m., matters become a bit adverse and you must use care and caution.

If your child is born today . . . and be sure to buy tidbits for family. Please loved ones. Later in the day, steer clear of arguments with close tie or there may be unfortunate results.



The little child born today will have a true mission in life, for he, or she, is destined to bring about reform or New Age innovations. Give as formal an education as pocketbook will allow. Excellent chart for anything connected with atomic theories or projects, dynamics and the like. Also good and definite ability for trading or business between groups or any warring factions.

FEED GRAIN TO POLAND

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will sell Poland 200,000 tons of feed grains to help the iron curtain nation overcome a meat shortage, it was announced Tuesday night.

BAD INDIGESTION, HEADACHES

'Full of Aches and Pains' ...Tells of Grand Relief

"I have so much relief since using Syntona that I am like a different person", said Mrs. F. Smith, 197 King Street West, Chatham, Ont., in a recent report.

Best Relief in 5 Years

"It's certainly different from the way I was just a few weeks ago and I had been this way for the past five years. Constipation, gas and indigestion, headaches and tired, rundown conditions. I had indigestion so bad at times that even the lightest foods gave me distress with gas, heartburn and bending up and down. I couldn't get a good night's rest at all and I would awaken sour-tired feeling almost as tired as I was the night before.

"A dear friend advised me to try Syntona and after I got the medicine I noticed my food was starting to digest in only a few days. I was getting a good night's rest, my headaches and backaches were relieved and I sleep so much better at night that I really enjoy my meals without all that gas, soreness and bloating afterwards. It's been a wonderful relief. Honestly you have no idea how much better I do my work."

Has Helped Thousands

Syntona, Herbal Concentrate has helped thousands of men and women suffering from troubles like those of Mrs. Smith. Syntona acts on the sensitive kidneys now and known, relieves nervousness, distressful pains and discomforts and helps you sleep. Get Syntona 3 months supply only $5.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Delan The Druggist.

MADOC

Madoc-Elzevir Sunday Schools Hold Convention

MADOC — The annual meeting of the Madoc - Elzevir Township Sunday School Association was held in the Methodist Church, Bannockburn, on Wednesday with three sessions.

At the morning session, president, Mr. James Keene conducted the business. Devotions were conducted by Rev. A. Sprackett. Mrs. Donly extended a cordial welcome to all present. The Rev. J. Bumer gave the address for the morning session.

Mr. Earl Blakely was in charge of the afternoon session. Mrs. Clarence Stevenson contributed a solo.

Mrs. Earl Blakely was in charge of the devotions using as her theme "Missions."

Three minute talks were given by Mrs. Earl Armstrong, Mrs. Newell Broad and Mrs. James Bronson, on the theme, "Prayer For God and Good."

A round table talk on topic vital to Sunday School work followed which proved instructive and a solo by Mrs. W. Armstrong followed.

FINE SUPPER

After a fine supper provided by the ladies of the church, the evening meeting opened with Mrs. Allan Franks in charge of hymn-singing. Mr. Ross Fleming conducted the devotional part. The Rev. H. Hicks took charge of the installation of officers.

The banner was presented to Queensboro United Sunday School, Mr. Allan Sager accepting it from Mr. Jack Smith.

Cooper Junior choir and Spry Settlement S. School scholars provided special music for the evening.

The Rev. Sackville Palmer was the guest speaker for the evening choosing as his address an acrostic on the word "Christian" C — Child of God; H — Heir of God; R — Redeemed by His blood, retained by His hand; I — Influence for good or evil; S — Service for God; T — Temple of the Holy Ghost; I — Instrument, hands of God; A — Ambassador for Christ; N — New life, new creature in Christ.

The address was most inspiring and there was a definite challenge to all as to the consecration in labor in Sunday School work. The meeting closed with prayer.

Canada Should Have Voice in Summit Meets

LONDON (CP) — Canadian External Affairs Minister Howard Green said here early today Canada should have a voice in the Western summit meetings in December through the meeting of NATO foreign ministers in Paris.

He was speaking to reporters at London airport before flying to Ottawa after talks with British government leaders.

Asked to comment on reports that smaller nations in the Atlantic alliance were "suspicious" that they were not being kept in the diplomatic picture by the Big Three, Green said: "Not suspicious, I should say."

"But we believe that we should be fully consulted at the NATO meeting which is being held almost coincident with the Western summit meeting, and that the views of nations such as Canada can be put forward . . ."

CANADA-FINANCED SURVEY — As part of her Colombo Plan aid to underprivileged countries in Southeast Asia, Canada will finance a $1,500,000 survey of the hydro and irrigation potential of the Mekong River.

The river rises in Tibet and flows through China, Laos, Thailand, Cambodia and South Viet Nam before emptying into the China Sea.

This map shows the 1,600-mile stretch of the river that will be surveyed by six Canadian aerial-survey companies.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1959

5c Per Copy, 30c Per Week

COUNCIL DECLARED GROSSLY NEGLIGENT

Relief For Annexed Area Delayed

Judge Declares Area Is Liable But Shouldn't Be

Any Allowance Can Only Be for Hockey Deficit

Judge Agrees Macs' Contracts Were Not Valid

"Contracts" — between the Belleville McFarlands hockey team and players — should not have been made, and those that were are "ultra vires", according to the royal commission report tabled Thursday.

Judge A. R. Willmott agreed with city solicitor R. A. Pringle "that the accounts set out on Schedule 17 of the auditor's special report should be paid, contracts which the creditor cannot enforce against the city. These accounts are for goods and services provided the hockey club, the largest amount being an account of South Radio and Television for $4,455.50.

Judge Willmott's report refers to "Exhibit 67" at the inquiry, which was a copy of the contract of Flora Goegan. It reads as follows:

"Belleville McFarlands

Whereas Flavo desires to play hockey for the Belleville McFarlands for the 1958-59 season and wishes the McFarlands services it is agreed as follows:

Said players will receive the sum of $125 per week guaranteed for 23 weeks.

While the team is in training player will receive the sum of $15 per week.

A bonus of $250 will be paid if the club finishes in 1st place during the regular schedule.

A bonus of $250 will be paid if the club wins the World's Championship in Prague in 1959.

Player to be guaranteed employment at the rate of $75 per week during the off season.

Pay will not cease if player becomes injured while playing or practising with the club or travelling to or from a game or practice.

Belleville Memorial Arena Senior "A" Hockey Club

Signed "D. S. Denyes"

Manager.

(It is understood that Goegan was one of the highest paid members of the McFarlands hockey club and that only one or two received the extra benefits outlined in the above "contract".)

Many of the hockey players, including Goegan, have filed claims for unpaid balances under their "contracts" which the Judge now holds are ultra vires.

The newly-annexed section of Belleville which seeks to avoid paying a share of the city's $600,000 deficit likely will not escape it, a royal commission report indicates.

Judge Arthur R. Willmott says in his report: "The annexation order dates from Jan. 1, 1959, and like a marriage, it is for better or for worse.

At any rate, he adds, any allowance made to the ratepayers of the area would be confined to the $142,000 share of the deficit attributable to the Memorial Arena Commission.

"The Assessment Act provides that the assessment must be made on all the rateable property in the annexed municipality, and the prayer of these petitioners should be given serious consideration even if it means an application to reopen the Ontario Municipal Board's annexation order . . . by way of a private bill of the city."

More than 6,500 residents and 3,777 acres of land were added to the Eastern Ontario city in the annexation order. Ratepayers contend they should not have to pay any part of a deficit which was incurred before they were part of the city.

Report Highlights

Highlights of the royal commission report into Belleville finances:

No recommendations are made in financial matters in connection with misspending of funds, blamed on "gross negligence" by council.

Belleville's deficit for the end of this year is estimated at $611,000.

A special tax levy of $6 mills is proposed for next year to pay about $250,000 of the deficit.

The Ontario legislature is asked to clarify whether or not a municipality may legally operate what amounts to a professional hockey club.

The city treasury was used as a "secret source" of funds for the McFarlands hockey team, which incurred a $142,000 loss in three years of operation.

The city auditor knew, but did not disclose, hockey salaries paid by the public works department.

The Belleville Memorial Arena Commission should be "relegated to the limbo of the municipal graveyard" and a fresh start made.

Algerians Kill Police in Paris

PARIS (CP)—One policeman was killed and a second seriously injured today when a group of Algerian auditors opened fire on them in a Paris street.

The Algerian band opened fire near the Place de la Republique.

The terrorists, who were on foot, escaped in the crowd.

It was the most serious attack on the police in several months. Earlier this year Algerian nationalists stopped mailing attacks on police and government officials in France.

CITY ALDERMEN ELIGIBLE TO RUN FOR OFFICE

Not Liable To Disqualification

Members of Belleville city council, which ends a two - year term next month, are eligible to run again for office, a royal commission report says.

It says illegal votes by councils in 1956 and 1958 automatically disqualified members from standing for office for two years under penalties provided in the Ontario Municipal Act.

The illegal votes approved the spending of money contrary to provisions of the Municipal Act. But Judge Arthur R. Willmott says in the report that the two-year disqualification terms flow from the actual vote and have expired.

"The conclusion that an illegal vote in 1956 leads to disqualification for 1957 and in 1958 is, in my opinion, inescapable," the judge says. "The same holds true for 1958 vote, he adds, and members of the present council who choose to run again "are not now liable to disqualification proceedings."

Eisenhower Never Golfed 'In Command'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower never had a golf club in his hands from the start of the Second World War until the defeat of Germany, the White House says.

Eisenhower was supreme allied commander in Europe at the time.

In a book published Monday, Viscount Alanbrooke, British wartime chief of the general staff, criticized Eisenhower's leadership during the period before the critical Battle of the Bulge in December, 1944.

Alanbrooke did not say in so many words that Eisenhower played golf then, but his remarks have been generally interpreted that way.

At a White House press conference Thursday, press secretary James Hagerty was told a reporter had checked into the matter and found that Eisenhower played little golf during the war.

Hagerty hesitated, then said: "Well, I can't say this: Somebody has exaggerated it. At the time the Allies landed in Europe until the victory was won the president didn't have a golf club in his hands, much less play at a golf course."

Eisenhower was in June, 1944, and Germany surrendered the following May.

Trafalgar Square's 'Night of Guy' Saw Fantastic Fireworks Battle

LONDON (AP)—Police fought a battle with fire-works Thursday night with 12,000 revellers jammed into Trafalgar Square on Britain's annual Night of the Guy—an orgy of bangs and bonfires commemorating Guy Fawkes, who once tried to blow up Parliament.

Trafalgar Square was a wild riot of exploding rockets and Roman candles—and helmets. Ninety people, mostly students and lovers of fun, were arrested by police trying to enforce the fireworks ban.

Smoke from cannon crackers hung like a pall around Nelson's Column. Two policemen were carried struggling to the floodlit fountains and hurled in. Girls in tight jeans also took dips.

But the crowd was mostly good - humored, and those arrested were carried off to police stations without a struggle.

In suburban Putney 200 youths and girls tore up wooden fences for bonfires. The Chances Farming Club said hurled it through the window of its office.

The report by Judge Arthur R. Willmott says: "There is room to doubt that the operation by the city of the hockey club was in effect a professional hockey team in ultra vires, then the legislature should clarify the undoubtedly clear fact so municipality knows how much authority it has."

The report says that evidence given at an inquiry into the financial affairs of the City of Belleville has helped "clear the air" about so-called amateur hockey in Canada.

The report by Judge Arthur R. Willmott says: "There is room to doubt that the operation by the city of the hockey club was in effect a professional hockey team in ultra vires, then the legislature should clarify the undoubtedly clear fact so municipality knows how much authority it has."

The city operated Belleville McFarlands entered OHA Senior A competition in 1956 and earlier this year won the world amateur hockey championship at Prague. More than $100,000 of a city deficit has been attributed to losses in the operation of the McFarlands by Belleville's Memorial Arena Commission.

"The question as to whether the city had the right to run a hockey club may not be free from doubt," says the report. "The legislature has given to which the city through its arena commission undertook to run a hockey club cannot possibly be described as amateur."

Evidence at the hearings showed Belleville players were paid on the city payroll to exempt the club from paying the 10-per-cent federal tax on wages and contracts concerning the club and the players were not produced in evidence.

Payments made from city funds to hockey players' salaries totalled nearly $70,000. There was also a direct transfer to the hockey club in 1958 from the general fund of $8,373 and payments on account of arena operating costs that year were $29,377 from the general fund.

The royal commission report says much of the evidence at the hearings about operations of the club, managed by Drury Denyes, then city manager and treasurer," served a useful purpose in throwing a flood of light on the operation of what is termed amateur hockey in Canada.

Warrender to Take Action; Roberts Also Studies Report

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario department of municipal affairs will take action on the royal commission report which accuses Belleville's city council of mismanaging civic finances, it was announced today.

Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender said he will reveal details of the action next Monday or Tuesday. He said the provincial attorney - general's department is also studying the report for possible action.

In his report Judge Arthur Willmott did not make any specific recommendation for legal action. He said such recommendations were not within the scope of his inquiry.

The judge did, however, suggest that writs taken out against the Belleville council and some senior city officials by a group of ratepayers last May may have about their purpose and it might not be necessary to pursue an action.

These writs, which have not been served on the officials, sought action to recover money spent illegally by the city. The total spending has been blamed for most of the city deficit, expected to reach more than $600,000 by the end of this year.

Mayor and Most Aldermen Undecided Whether to Run

The indication by His Honor Judge A., R. Willmott, who, in his report on the judicial inquiry into Belleville's finances, said there was nothing to prevent present city aldermen from running for office in 1960, has left most of the city's councillors undecided on their municipal futures.

Several councillors, even before the inquiry, had intimated they would not run for office next year and today stated they had not changed their minds.

On the other hand several aldermen today stated they would again offer themselves for election.

Three of these were Aldermen Robert Temple, Leslie Digby and Ellie McCabe.

"I am going to run again," stated Mr. McCabe.

Alderman Ralph Graham has stated publicly that he would not be running while Aldermen Roberson Collins said this morning that he would not be offering himself.

"I haven't made up my mind" category were Aldermen Jack Ireland, George Hunt, Claude D. Tice and William Arthur.

The last named told a reporter, however, that he thought the $125,000 deficit was interested in civic affairs as to how councillors might run for office.

Alderman Tice said his confidence was clear and that he had acted in good faith.

Another aldermen who said he had not made up his mind was Frank V. Grandmont. He had no comment on the report

City Well Served by Boards, Arena Commission Excepted

A royal commission report into Belleville's affairs that is as far as the financial affairs of the boards and commissions of the city of Belleville are concerned — with the sole exception of the Memorial Arena Commission — its citizens have been faithfully served.

"The citizens of Belleville are being well served by the members of the various boards and commissions under their governing legislation," said the report by Judge A. R. Willmott.

"Even boards, not the (city) council, represent the people with respect to their field of jurisdiction, although they are for the most part dependent upon the municipality for their finances."

The commission that inquired into the city's financial affairs heard evidence from the chairman and secretary - manager of the Quinte District High School board, the separate school board, the public library board, the public utilities commission, the board of parks management, the recreation committee, the public library board and the Belleville District Memorial Hospital board.

Judge Willmott described the work of the commission representatives as "public spirited citizens."

"The city has some excellent officials," he added, recommending that city council consider a job evaluation survey for its civic employees which would show the precision of excellent service and provide promotions on the basis of merit.

Singled out for praise were assessment commissioner G. L. Thompson, welfare administrator H. G. Chapman, city engineer Malcolm MacKenzie Turnbull and deputy clerk Adam S. Stalker.

The report said that in connection with the parks board and the recreation committee, when the auditors used an overdraft at the end of 1958 their members took immediate steps to correct the situation.

Inquiry Helped Clear Air On Canadian Amateur Hockey

A royal commission report released today says the government should clarify the legal position of a municipality in operating a professional hockey team.

It also says that evidence given at an inquiry into the financial affairs of the City of Belleville has helped "clear the air" about so-called amateur hockey in Canada.

The report by Judge Arthur R. Willmott says: "There is room to doubt that the operation by the city of the hockey club was in effect a professional hockey team in ultra vires, then the legislature should clarify the undoubtedly clear fact so municipality knows how much authority it has."

Seek New Administration Is Remedy Judge Advises; No Legal Action Suggested

Extra Tax Levy of $250,000 Seen Next Year to Start Paying Debts

The City of Belleville ran up a $600,000 deficit through illegal transactions and the "gross negligence" of the city council and some of its senior officials.

This was one of the statements included in the 12,000-word report of Judge Arthur R. Willmott, of Cobourg, on last month's inquiry into city finances, issued today by Municipal Affairs Minister W.K. Warrender.

The report received by Mr. Warrender earlier this week and presented to the provincial cabinet Thursday makes no specific recommendations for legal action.

"It is not within the scope of my duties as commissioner to do more than report the facts as appear from the evidence", Judge Willmott says.

The report said the Macs' hockey team which ran secretly for three years on money from the municipal treasury accounted for $142,000 of the deficit and that at least one alderman still insists it was a good idea.

Judge Willmott suggested in the report that Belleville voters look to a new civic administration to remedy the situation but warned that Belleville can expect an extra tax levy of more than $250,000 next year to begin paying off the deficit.

He said he doubted as to whether a municipality can legally operate a hockey club and suggests the Ontario legislature clarify the matter.

Judge Willmott criticized the auditor, city manager, city solicitor, a bank manager and Belleville councils between 1956 and 1959. He blames much of the situation on a "disastrous policy of political expediency."

The inquiry was requested by the Belleville council in May when a deficit of $611,000 was disclosed. Half of it was attributed to losses in the operation of the Belleville McFarlands hockey team by the Memorial Arena Commission. It was won the world amateur title in Prague early this year.

Judge Willmott presided over 23 days of testimony at Belleville last month in which municipal officials outlined the four-year history of the city's plunge into the red.

Members of the Belleville council received copies of the 47-page report Thursday night.

The report says the city's estimated deficit at the end of this year will be $611,300, based on figures presented near the close of the hearing.

Judge Willmott says funds were misapplied according to the Municipal Act which forbids a council from borrowing an amount from one part permitted by the act or from using funds charged to repayment of a specific loan for any other purpose.

'ILLEGAL' ITEMS

Among the "illegal" expenditures cited were $64,785 for public works, the city's own debentures in 1957, $65,213 for the purchase and improvement of an office and street parking lot in 1957, $82,631 for expenses to the parking commission in 1958 and $51,158 for purchase of debentures in 1958.

He says that John D. Le Warras warned council about these items and others in 1957 and 1958 reports and cited the penalties for misapplication of funds by council. The auditor's reports said members of council could be held personally liable for payments made contrary to the Ontario Municipal Act.

Repayment of the deficit, says the report, is proposed by the city with a special levy of 9.6 mills on Belleville taxpayers next year. On the basis of a mill amount to $232,800.

'Rich Is the Reward of Thrift' But City Motto Ignored

Judge Arthur R. Willmott refers to two Latin quotations in today's royal commission report on the inquiry into Belleville's financial affairs.

Enscribed on Belleville's official crest on the entrance doorway to the city's dignified old city hall are the words, "Regnum est vectigal parsimonia," says the report.

A free translation might read: "Rich is the reward of thrift."

Says the judge:

"The Belleville city council and their treasurer have certainly shown little to this old - fashioned virtue. The Latin motto does appear to have operated on the principle that the city of Belleville either had a royal charter or it was a common law corporation and that the provisions of the Municipal Act did not apply to the conduct of the city's business."

The other Latin quotation concerned the judge's remarks that city council would have acted immediately had the city auditor, as the city's watchdog, reported certain illegal payments.

"As Juvenal said in another context, 'Quis custodiet ipsos custodes?' " he added.

The translation: "Who is to govern those who govern themselves governors?" Juvenal was a first-century Roman satirist.

Bear Fed Up With Prison, Escapes, Shot

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — All his life Bimbo had been in a cage, or close to it.

As a cub, the bear was kept as a pet. Later he was given to the Peterborough Zoo. He spent five years in a cage there.

Thursday, big black Bimbo got fed up with it all. Shifting his bulk against the cage door, he broke the lock and ambled out. Employees tried in vain hour to entice him back into the cage, but Bimbo was not for it. He came ugly and wandered out on the highway.

A city policeman shot and killed him.

E. Cooper Heads Real Estate Men

Members of the Belleville Real Estate Board gathered at the Quinte Hotel Thursday night for an enjoyable dinner meeting.

Officers for 1960 were elected as follows:

Bill McCormick, past president; Eric Cooper, president; Harold Robinson, secretary - treasurer; Jerry Gallagher and Don Whalen, board members.

Voters' Assoc. Lays Plans At Meeting

Last night, 185 Belleville Voters' Committee held its eighth meeting in three weeks and plans were laid to intensify activities over the next few days. The WVC which, consists of members of the four ratepayers associations covering all areas of the city, was set up to co-ordinate activities in connection with affecting the city as a whole.

After discussion of the committee's platform for the coming civic election, "Civic Government" the next subject was appraisal of prospective candidates for civic offices. The committee is preparing a list of candidates to be recommended to the various ratepayers associations for their support. No members of the committee are candidates for election to mayor or city council.

Various members reported on the search for suitable candidates and some concern was expressed over the reluctance of some well qualified for public office to submit themselves to the hurly-burly of civic politics. The committee re-affirmed its policy of giving silent support to well-qualified candidates without regard to race, religion or political affiliations.

Sub-committees were formed to make transportation arrangements for polling day and organize a telephone campaign in support of selected candidates and to arrange for a get out and vote. There was no lack of volunteers for this time-consuming work.

A campaign to raise funds for advertising was started and various forms of publicity considered.

It was decided to hold numerous other meetings in the near future, leading up to a mass meeting of voters to be held about one week before election day.

Seek New Administration Is Remedy Judge Advises; No Legal Action Suggested

1960 levy will break down to $4 million per $1 per cent by the end of 1961, 2.2 mills for the first of five annual payments on the other portion of the total deficit and one mill for interest.

CLERK'S DUTIES CLEAR

Judge Willmott says there is no reason Belleville cannot overcome its financial distress and feels that supervision of the city's financial affairs by the statutory department of municipal affairs should be avoided if at all possible.

"The general credit of the city is sound and the ratepayers ... may well feel that this had been its experience in the past, that they have it in their control to elect a mayor and aldermen who will keep the tax rate on the basis of their auditor's report and the general credit of public capital expediency."

Dealing with specific cases of illegal civic transactions and criticisms officials for either ignoring or failing to report them.

Drury Denyes, suspended from his triple office of city manager, city treasurer and hockey club manager when the police laid charges against him, "signally failed to carry out the duties of his offices properly and improperly misused" his position.

POSITION CONCEALED

Denyes used the $142,000 deficit of the arena commission to conceal the fact Mr. Denyes' concealment of the true financial position of the hockey club.

Judge Willmott stresses, however, that there was no indictment on religion or political affiliations.

Sub-committees were formed to make transportation arrangements for polling day and organize a telephone campaign in support of selected candidates and to arrange for a get out and vote. There was no lack of volunteers for this time-consuming work.

A campaign to raise funds for advertising was started and various forms of publicity considered.

FINE SHAWLS

Kashmir shawls, among the finest in Asia, are woven from the soft under-wool of Tibetan goats.

PLAYERS PAID ILLEGALLY

The manner in which the hockey club was run "cannot possibly be defended," Judge Willmott said. Players were illegally paid part of their salaries and the city's parks recreation department to enable the club to escape a 16 per cent Ontario hospital tax on gate receipts.

"Commission council used much strong words with respect to those elected representatives who connived with the operation of the hockey club in stating that they were either utterly stupid or they had deliberately shut their eyes.

"I am far from saying that Mr. Fennell is clearly wrong but I cannot satisfy myself that he is clearly right."

Mayor Lane Forrester, head of the 1956 and 1957 council committees did not know what was going on in connection with hockey matters.

SEES EXPEDIENCY

Mayor Gerald Hyde, who served in 1958, "was certainly interested in promoting the hockey club activities and his actions were those of a man who saw to political expediency than to anything else."

Alderman Tice gave his evidence "with great reluctance" but feeling that Drury Denyes was still a hero in his estimation."

SUPERVISION LACKING

Able experience in arena management, Denyes was paid the current $21,000 a year to run a club which had not been running over and above what was then called a deficit.

"Unfortunately, it was the tax payers who had to pay" Denyes who were "taken in."

Mr. Denyes had the hockey operations from 1956 to 1959: "it seems ... there was gross negligence on the part of the mayor and council of those years in supervising any affairs that had to develop to the extent to which it did."

QUOTATION FROM TICE

The report contained this quotation from Alderman Tice's council minutes of Nov. 5, 1956 in which Alderman Tice reported:

"I, as chairman, do not know, nor does the entire membership of commission know, the financial arrangements with the hockey team, and that is as it should be."

Commented the judge:

"This is about as clear a definition as could be given of a city council so wholly disregard its principles as to make municipal politics a game for hazard. Thousands of dollars were placed completely outside the control of the hockey manager with little in writing to protect the interest of the treasury."

SOLICITOR'S DUTY

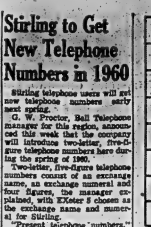
Judge Willmott says R. Meredith Pringle, solicitor, had a responsibility to make it plain to council that many of the things were illegal.

"Had a solicitor, which whom I clashed as to the duties of a part-time municipal solicitor, been present he felt council knew what they were doing in making capital expenditures out of current revenue.

"In my opinion Mr. Pringle should have used his undoubted abilities to clamp down on these illegal acts and to refuse to be part of the duties of a municipal solicitor. Had he been a full-time official, to sit down with council members on occasion and point out the facts of municipal life!

"If there is any doubt about the legality of certain council procedures the municipal solicitor should set it down in language so plain that no layman can misunderstand it and understand that such action were illegal."

PLANNING PROCEDURE



Dealing with city banking, the judge says A. F. E. Jarrett, manager of the Bank of Montreal branch in Belleville, "did not treat the hockey account as one that belonged to the City of Belleville."

The report says that loans made to the hockey account as overdrafts should have been authorized by a city bylaw to be legal and enforceable. No bylaw was ever passed authorizing the hockey club overdrafts.

The $28,775 transferred illegally from the city revenue account to the hockey account "must" be charged to the City of Belleville and should be transferred to the city's revenue account and the hockey account debited, even though such a transfer increases the overdraft in the latter account and which monies the bank may not

Stirling to Get New Telephone Numbers in 1960

Stirling telephone users will get new telephone numbers early next spring.

G. Proctor, Bell Telephone manager for this region, announced this week that the company will introduce, effective, five-figure telephone numbers here during the spring of 1960.

Two-letter, three-figure telephone numbers consist of an exchange name, an exchange numeral of four figures, the manager explained, with Exeter 2 chosen as the exchange name and numeral for Stirling.

Present telephone numbers," Mr. Proctor pointed out, "will be incorporated in the new numbers Numbers now composed of four figures will simply take on the word EXeter 2 while those made up of three figures will be preceded by EXeter 2-3.

"The number 1234, for example, would become EXeter 2-1234, while numbers with four figures such as 123 would become Exeter 2-0123 respectively.

Adoption of the two-letter, five-figure telephone numbers here will bring Stirling in the uniform numbering system which is rapidly being adopted by communities Canada and the United States.

Mr. Proctor reminded business people to keep the coming number change in mind when ordering their telephone stationery and other articles bearing their telephone numbers.

Telephone users were also urged to make certain that their telephone directories are correct as well as numerals — this kind of error is likely to occur under the two-five numbering systems.

"If your dial plate is still numbered, it will be changed and card mailed to you this week."

IN MEMORIAM

CARSON. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Florence (Mary) Carson, who passed away four years ago November 4th, 1957.

Sweet memories linger fondly round,
Love keeps her memory green,
We treasure those we loved in life,
And shall in death, I ween.
But God decided we must part,
He took her home to rest,
And while she sleeps in peaceful slumber,
And quiet she does in peaceful slumber,
Her memory we shall always keep.
—Lovingly remembered by her daughter Georgina and family.

CARDS OF THANKS

We sincerely thank all those who in all my many friends for cards, letters, fruit and flowers sent to me while a patient in the Kingston General Hospital.

Cubs Sponsor Hallowe'en Carnival

Clowns, tramps, skeletons and assorted costumes were in profusion during a recent Hallowe'en carnival presented for the Cubs and their guests of the 2nd. Belleville pack.

A setting of spiderwebs, complete with spiders, scarecrow pumpkins, an old witch, accompanied by black cats flitting and stirring her brew in a huge black cauldron, greeted everyone as they entered the small hall, Christ Church.

A magician in sails and black moustache, somewhat resembling Abelai, welcomed the parents, who, true to Hallow'en custom, came in full regalia as well. Among these Peggy and Mammy Yokum with the little brown jug, a Spanish senorita, an Indian Princess, Aunt Jemima and some charming little ghosts and black cats.

GAMES ENJOYED

Games of ringtoss, bean bag toss, darts, bobbing and fishpond were enjoyed by many of the Cubs and parents.

A fine array of prizes were awarded for best costumes: Gowen, Donald Niles; tramp, Thomas Chiste of Canada; Peter Foster, Turk, Ricky Niles; Spanish girl, Bill Lemmer.

Taffy apples, popcorn balls and candy were presented to the Cubs and guests.

Eleven dollars in donations was forwarded to CYDCEF.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Uranium featured morning trading on the stock market today as they led the mining list narrowly higher.

Trading was a bit heavier than Thursday—577,600 shares at 11 a.m. compared with 409,000.

Uraniums moved ahead, led by Consolidated Denison's ¾-point jump to 12¾, after a report Thursday that a major announcement concerning the industry will be made at Ottawa tonight.

Most uraniums were higher, Algom and Gunnar adding ¼ each and lower-priced issues moving up in a 5-10-cent range. Trading was fairly brisk.

Elsewhere on the board prices were mixed to higher, industrials showing some strength with gains outnumbering losses. Dominion Stores and Price Bros. each added a point but Dominion Bridge was off 1¾ to 39¾.

On Monday the market was dull.

Brokers say the lethargy will probably continue until the American steel strike, now in its fourth month, is settled.

Some fresh buying among base metals was reported but that section boost its index.

There were a few industrial changes of one to 1½ points but these were among the lightly traded stocks.

Coppers firmed after the copper price moved a bit higher on the London metal market.

Index changes: Industrials up 0.22 to 222.73; golds down 0.45 to 87.35; base metals off .65 to 129.21; Dominion western oils off .37 to 194.12.

Weekend Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Good daily clearances were in evidence on small offerings of cattle with little exception, of the plainest types at the Toronto public stockyards this week.

All steers and grades of slaughter cattle were in broad demand with most sales made on a number basis. Cattle generally weight higher basis than the bulk of sales last week. Veal calf prices were easier at the close and bulls were in good demand at strong prices. Both cattle traded actively at prices 50 cents a hundredweight higher. Hogs, lambs and lamb prices were steady.

Cattle receipts were some 2,100 head more than last week and about 150 head more than the same week in 1958. Western cattle receipts were 699 cattle and 3,064 calves last week. In addition to the western receipts there was 23 cattle from Quebec. There was one carload of 34 slaughter cattle shipped to Eastern Canadian slaughterers and no exports to the United States.

Steers: Choice to Prime steers 26-27 with odd lots to 27.50; good 23-26; medium 22-24; common 18-22; good heifers 25-26.50 with a few choice to 26; medium 18-22; common 15-18; choice to fed yearlings steers 27-28; good 25-27; good cows 15-15.50; medium 14-15; common 13-14; canners and cutters 10 - 12; good heavy bologna bulls mostly 17-17.50; common and medium light bulls 14 - 16.50; heavy fat bulls 16-18.

Replacement cattle: Good lightweight stockers mostly 22-25 with a few picked loads exceeding at a premium; common and medium 17-22; good veals 26 - 27; 24-27.

Calves: Good veals 26 - 28 with choice to a top of 34; medium 24-28; common 18-23; boners 12-16.

Hogs: Grade A 23.25; heavy cows 16; light lows 15; stags 11. Odd lots of dressed weight basis.

Sheep and lambs: Good handyweight lambs 19.25; medium and heavies sold down to 16; common and feeders 13-16; there was no discount on buck lambs; sheep 5-10 according to quality.

Gardens Expect Busy Season In Hockey

TRENTON — Members of the staff of Trenton Community Gardens are being trained in all phases of the routine operations of the Gardens so that a shift in work program can be arranged, to ensure that a capable and responsible employee, is on duty at all times when the arena is in operation.

A combined tool and work room has been constructed at the rear of the Gardens, and tools and equipment will be acquired as soon as funds are available. The maintenance staff will then be able to effect repairs themselves, rather than hiring local tradesmen for minor repair projects.

With the busy winter season at the Gardens in the offing, the extra staff training and the equipment for minor repairs will enable the management to serve the public more effectively.

Hockey league schedules will come into effect in the near future, so say Members of the minor hockey league teams are already practising industriously. The Trenton Juniors, the four teams of the Trenton Industrial Hockey League and the teams of the RCAF Inter-Section League are all anticipating a fine hockey season. In addition to this, topnotch teams from various centres will oppose the RCAF all-star team every second week during the season.

Drama Group Will Present 'The Rainmaker'

TRENTON — Presentation of "The Rainmaker" by the Trenton Drama Group on Nov. 19, 20 and 21 will herald the coming of a long summer's drought of little theatre activity here.

The play is a western without shooting. It tells of a wandering con man who for a hundred dollars promises to bring rain to the drought-ridden acres owned by the Curry family. His methods are blatantly unscientific, relying as they do upon magic, mumbo-jumbo and faith. However, although his rain-making achievements remain open to doubt, the glib stranger's incantations do produce a certain magic when he fast-talks two lonely into the romantically arid life of Lizzie Curtis.

"The Rainmaker" is directed by James Eadie, assisted by Marjorie Oakes of Trenton. Rainmaker Starbuck is played by Harry Mulhall of Belleville. Other members of the cast are Jessie Skinner, Trenton as H. C. Curry; Douglas Ingle of Belleville as Sheriff File; Ian Laing of Trenton as Jim Curtis; Audrey Rowlands, Trenton as Lizzie Curry; Tony Cashmore, Trenton as File; Stan Haynes, RCAF as Sheriff; James Alexander and Harry Mulhall are widely known in the Quinte district for past performances in both Belleville and Trenton Drama Group productions.

Sponsored by the Rotary Club of Trenton, in aid of the Crippled Children of Trenton and district, "The Rainmaker" will be presented in Trenton High School auditorium on the evenings of Nov. 19, 20 and 21.

Air Force Hockey League

TRENTON — The first game of the season for the Intersection Hockey League of RCAF Station Trenton and No. 6 Repair Depot will be played at 8 p.m. on Monday night, November 9th, at the Trenton Community Gardens. It is hoped that Station Chaplain Flt. Lt. Sims of Station Trenton and Padre Captain Scruton of No. 6 Repair Depot will attend to the face off.

Three games are scheduled for each Monday and Thursday of the schedule which carries on until late February.

There are eight teams in the league this year. President of the league is S-L A. C. McKnight, Station supply officer; vice-president is F-L Oulmet of 6 RD, and Lac Ron Abbott is league secretary.

Corporal Jack Capelick, who has recently returned from Germany where he officiated as an International Ice Hockey official, will be referee-in-chief for the league games.

The RCAF rents the facilities of the Trenton Community Gardens for the interception games and admission is free.

MORE BISCUITS

Canadian Manufacturers produced 98,368,000 pounds of plain and fancy biscuits in the first half of 1959, about 3,000,000 pounds more than the same period for 1958.

Kiwanis Club Hears Reports

TRENTON — The weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club was held in the dining room of the Gilbert Hotel, Thursday evening. President Nick Fraser called on the executive committee chairmen to give their reports of activity carried on during the month of October.

Norman Brown, chairman of the Safety Committee, reported that 3 safety awards had been given during the month to children who had observed safety measures in a marked way. He said that the "Elmer" flag had been lowered at two Trenton schools because of accidents involving carelessness, Mr. Davies also reported that Kiwanian Ted Parker had been instrumental in securing an Elmer flag for St. Mary's separate school.

Bob Lamoore reported that the club members had attended two interclub meetings during the month. Jack Richmond informed the members that there was a 100% attendance of club members at the church parade on October 25th. Mr. Richmond suggested that the club ask a clergyman to speak to the members around the Christmas season. He stated that the club would assist the Salvation Army to deliver Christmas parcels as it has in the past.

Steve Herman reminded the members that "Farm and City Week" would be observed here in November. The purpose of this week, Mr. Herman said was to promote a better understanding between the producer and the country brother. President Fraser urged Mr. Herman to secure a prominent agriculturist to speak to the members during this week.

Al. Weaver, chairman of public health and business affairs, said that the Kiwanis Club would transportation for the Senior Citizens Tea to be held at the monthly meeting. Mr. Weaver said that this practice would be continued throughout the winter months.

Bev Fanthem reported on the Hallowe'en Dance, and a report was presented by Howard Aziz, was read by president Fraser. Bob Osborne reported on the "Gasorama" campaign, and Don Hamilton reported that the boys had registered for minor hockey. Mr. Whittaker also reported that three club leaders had been secured by his committee and that several members had done some investigating into the possibility of building a swimming pool on the site of the Girl Guide Camp.

Gerry Ireland reported that his committee was sponsoring a project to collect used winter clothing, skates and other items for distribution by the Salvation Army and reported that such articles could be left at the C.N.R. express office or with Kiwanian Ted Snider at Radio Electric, for Retarded Children.

The members were urged to give some thought to plans for the annual Christmas party.

Thieves Crash Super Market

TRENTON — Sometime during the night a thief or thieves gained entrance to the Jones Super Market, located at 251 Dufferin Ave., by cutting the screen and smashing the glass in a side window, and made off with an undetermined amount of cash. The store is owned and operated by C. A. Jones. Mr. Jones stated that the intruder had taken about $15 worth of pennies, cigarets and other small items. Inspector R. E. Ruthers of the Trenton Police Department is investigating the break-in.

Rotarians Hear PUC Address

TRENTON — Guest speaker at this week's regular meeting of the Trenton Rotary Club was James Frye, manager of the Trenton Public Utilities Commission who explained the operation of the Utilities in his fellow members.

Mr. Frye said that the PUC was one of the largest businesses in town. He pointed out that the PUC had been established in 1912 and been $711,279 while PUC assets at the end of that year were $913,000.

The speaker explained that the town of Trenton must plan now for the probable power consumption 10 years from now. Hydro installations are planned with this in view, Mr. Frye said that it has only been in the last few years that the Ontario Hydro Commission has been able to keep the supply of power within the demands for this service. He said that by 1962 an atomic plant will have been erected for the manufacture of hydro power.

In reference to the town's water supply, Mr. Frye stated that the water table is low all over the province and this lowers the well levels. He said that the best source of water supply is from the lakes and rivers but added that water process necessary to filter this water and make it available, was expensive.

Mr. Frye said that the water department is expanding and that careful planning with an eye to the future is required to assure the installation of water mains of adequate proportions to ensure future service to the town.

Town Briefs

TRENTON — At a special meeting of council on Thursday afternoon, it was decided that the town would not purchase or answer annexes to a petition of Elizabeth St. Lot owners dissatisfied with the petition requesting these services after considering the local improvement costs, will be contacted and the situation discussed before further work is undertaken.

Zone Commander W. E. Donaldson presided over the zone assembly at Trenton high school on Wednesday morning on the subject of "Remembrance." Zone Commander Donaldson stated that the significance of the two minutes silence on Remembrance Day has been forgotten by the younger generation. He urged his listeners to recall the sacrifice which the soldiers of the two World Wars had made to keep Canada free.

Mrs. K. J. "Bobbie" Reid of Trenton, has been appointed to the position of membership chairman for the Canadian Association for Retarded Children. Mrs. Reid's committee met recently at a conference in various parts of the Dominion. Next year the conference will be held in Montreal, in September.

One member of Trenton fire department answered a call last night to the home of Mr. Calhaghan, 3 Centennial Ave., where a mattress had caught on fire.

Trenton Kiwanians are making plans for a Lieutenant Governor's banquet which will be held in town on Nov. 25th.

Automobile licences will go on sale on Monday with new plates—will bear black numbers on a white background. W. J. House, the local issuer, says that there is no indication as yet of the numerical sequence which will be allocated to the Trenton area.

Unemployment in Trenton and the surrounding area continues to be at a comparatively low level. Figures released by the local unemployment office indicate that during the week ending October 30th, claimants for unemployment insurance was listed which, for the 200 square miles served by the office—

Trenton Rotarians will attend a rural-urban meet at Consecon next Monday evening.

Officers elected for the coming year for the Trenton Minimal Association are: honorary president, Rev. K. F. Latchford; vice-president, Rev. A. T. Irwin; secretary-treasurer, Rev. D. C. McLelland.

OPEN NEW YARDS

SARNIA (CP)—Donald Gordon, president of Canadian National Railways, and Sarnia's Mayor Elmer Vidan officiated at the CNR's new $3,000,000 international marshalling yards here Thursday.

Home, School Club Meets

TRENTON — The regular meeting of the College Street School Home and School Club was held on Wednesday evening, November 4th.

Mr. Birbeck, the incoming president for the year 1959-60, introduced the other members of the executive. The vice-presidents will be Mr. D. C. Smith and Mr. G. Prowse, corresponding secretary, Mrs. G. Smith; treasurer, Mr. Challenger; recording secretary, Mrs. William Demille; social convener Mrs. I. Shedden; teachers' representative, Miss P. Cole, and executive members Mrs. A. Rowe, Mrs. R. Whittaker, Mrs. R. Lang, Mrs. S. Willman and Mrs. R. Birbeck.

The guest speaker for the evening was P/L. S. Barnes, who spoke on the subject of "the Backward and Retarded Child." The speaker outlined the methods of teaching these children and discussed the roles of the parents and teachers to best help these children to gain the most benefits from their instruction and thus live happier lives.

Mr. Birbeck thanked the speaker for his informative address.

During the business period it was decided to hold a skate and refreshments exchange at the arena on Saturday, November 7th. The skates and refreshments will be sold at the school between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. and the arena will take place from 2 p.m. until 4 p.m.

Mrs. Bingley's room won the junior room prize and Mrs. Wrightman's class the senior prize.

A social half hour was enjoyed at the close of the meeting. The next meeting will be held on December 2nd, at which these awards will have the opportunity to visit the classrooms.

A Common Error

In Tuesday's issue of The Ontario Intelligencer there appeared an advertisement in which Mr. E. G. Hall, chairman on behalf of the manufacturers' section of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, explained the reason action was instituted against members of the City Council, certain city officials and others in connection with the city's financial difficulties.

Should we have no desire to discuss at this time the advisability, or otherwise, of following the course of action advocated by Mr. Hall.

There was, however, one sentence in Mr. Hall's presentation which had such a general application, and which involved such a common error, that we cannot let it pass unrebuted.

"The City of Belleville is a corporate body, the sole function of which is to protect the interests of the taxpayers."

So wrote Mr. Hall. This belief is shared by many. It perhaps explains why men who have a fine record of achievement in other fields, and whose decision to enter the field of municipal politics is greeted with high hopes, sometimes prove, after their election, to be indifferent councillors.

The function of the City of Belleville as a corporate body involves much more than the protection and advancement of the interests of the taxpayers. Rather it is concerned with the protection and advancement of the interests of all residents. Perhaps all residents should be taxpayers, but they are not, not even indirectly. The most difficult task of any municipal council is to deal fairly with those taxpayers, while at the same time seeing that proper regard is taken for the fact that the responsibility placed on taxpayers should be matched with equivalent privilege.

This, of course, has nothing whatever to do with the situation outlined in Mr. Hall's letter, but it is nevertheless appropriate that we should not, on the eve of a municipal election, delude ourselves into the belief that those who pay taxes are the only ones whose interests are affected by the type of municipal government we have.

Canada Shows Independence

Hon. Howard Green, Canada's minister of external affairs, states that some nation has been twisting Canada's arm in connection with voting for a new member of the United Nations Security Council.

Mr. Green says that Canada will not, and he has taken the sting out of the "arm-twisting" definition by saying this was done by persuasion and that Canada also resorts to persuasion, though when she does it is not arm-twisting.

The interesting thing about these observations is the confirmation of an earlier rumor that Canada has been supporting Poland in that country's battle of the ballots with Turkey for a vacancy on the UN Security Council.

Mr. Green says that Turkey was dragged into the contest at the last minute, that there has been a relaxation of tension lately and that the election to the UN Security Council ought not to be made a cold war issue.

We think that a good case can be made out for Mr. Green's propositions, but essentially they are irrelevant. The important point is that Canada has been demonstrated that she is not playing Charlie McCarthy to the United States' (or Britain's) Bergen. This show of independence is healthy, even if on this occasion Canada's decision should be questionable. Much better to be wrong but independent than right by virtue of another's order.

This incident ought to enhance not only Canada's prestige, but also that of the U.S. Here is additional proof, if any were needed, that the U.S., while it heads the nations of the Western democratic group, does not dictate to them.

It would be interesting to learn what other nations of the Western group, if any, have supported Poland instead of Turkey. We hope that Canada does not stand alone in this regard.

We should also like to see further evidence of independently-reached decisions in other world problems.

In particular are we awaiting the day when a member of the Communist bloc votes contrary to Russia. For, valuable though independent thinking is, it cannot provide us with the maximum in results unless everybody indulges in it.

Thoughts Run Machine

By LUCIEN HEBERT in TORONTO Telegram

For thousands of years, man moved at a speed of a few miles per hour. Then he invented the steam engine, the motor car and the airplane. Fifteen years ago, he reached the speed of 400 m.p.h. and, two years later, the skies were shattered by the famous "Battle of Britain" when a man-made machine had exceeded the speed of sound.

There are still a great many barriers to overcome in the race to ... even faster speeds. Some of these barriers are exerted by the atmosphere through which aircraft, but others are raised by man himself, whose organism is subjected to more and more stress meeting the increasing demands of the machines which he has created.

In this connection, scientists have begun to talk of a "new barrier". British physicists were the first to discover the new menace. A number of RAF pilots of high-speed planes had lost their lives in a series of strangely identical accidents. The only survivor managed to tell, at a given moment, they had been unable to make the necessary movements to correct the flight of their planes.

Special tests were made with volunteers in centrifugal flight conditions — that is, on the ground in apparatus reproducing all the conditions of actual flight. The doctors soon ascertained that the pilots' brains ceased to react incident of the flight and that they took the necessary decisions at the right moment. Also there was something wrong with the way the decision carried out these decisions. The trouble they found was inertia, that is, the delay between the instant when the brain sends out the command to execute a definitive movement and the instant when the latter executes the brain's orders by moving the appendants of the aircraft.

The problem, therefore, was to discover the causes of this inertia and find the best ways of overcoming it. Careful research showed that the time lost by muscular inertia is considerable. A certain delay in the transmission of the brain's electrical impulses to the muscles of the hand.

At first, the remedy seemed to lie in linking the human brain with an "electronic pilot. Attempts were made to collect at the base of the brain — that is, at the point where the nerves of electrical impulses which trigger off the movements of the arm. These attempts were unsuccessful because, in any given fraction of a second, the brain sends out thousands of overlapping electrical impulses and even the most sensitive apparatus is unable to disentangle.

Research has reached this point when four Soviet scientists — Gourevitch, Chaika, Zelikin and Jacobson — put forward the idea of tapping the nerve of impulses at the base of the brain but on the forearm. This proposal has been advantageous since it cut out the complication of selecting the electrical current from the brain and sending the forearm had already been letted and the proper muscles.

The problem of muscular inertia in the forearm and in the hand remained, however, and some way had to be found of overcoming it. Success came immediately into movement. The solution suggested by the research workers at the Central Institute of Prosthesis in Moscow was remarkably short-circuiting the forearm and hand by constructing an artificial hand which could be directly and instantaneously to the brain's orders — a prosthetic hand at present which was to be picked up from the nervous system at the elbow.

After a few months of research and testing, a strange half-human, half-mechanical device was created. Fitted of all, an electrostatic bracelet is placed around the arm slightly below the elbow. This picks up nerve-impulses from the brain and conveys them to an electronic amplifier operating a system of relays. These control small electric engines which can operate a steel hand capable of reproducing the basic movements of the human hand.

This hand is so precise in its movements that if the person to whom it is connected thinks that he should pick up a glass of water, the "hand" picks up the glass of water. It can grasp cards nuts, light cigarets, and operates switches or a typewriter keyboard. Experiments have also highly persisted that it is so sensitive that it can use wires. The link-up man-electronic hand is assured by radio.

The hand is called a "pilot" on the ground who knows the position of a spaceship would be able to order a steel hand to carry out a given gesture merely by thinking of it. Nothing now wishes it to make. This isn't science fiction; the device had a good many applications nearer at hand. For example, it is planned to raise wrecks from the sea-bed through the use of steel hands at the bow of a special crane bus with movements as flexible as those of the human hand.

Soviet flight surgeons are also thinking of equipping supersonic aircraft with apparatus of this type. They foresee the pilot stitched with his spaceship — merely thinking about what has to be done. His thoughts, transmitted by radio, would be received would be converted into movements by an electronic mechanical "pilot" which would control the controls of the aircraft.

Thus man has succeeded in inventing a series of artificial organs which increase his faculties by enabling him to react immediately to the most minute ultra-rapid machines and, at the same time, to exert a strength to the point where he is able to pick up a ship from the ocean floor.

The discovery is bound to find application in the new science of electronic apparatus already offers very many. Immense strides in prosthetic appliances are now possible. Armless or legless persons should be the first to benefit from the new devices.

Pessimists used to say that man is an animal made to move on the earth and not to move in the air. They overlooked the fact that the marvellous means his brain enables him to overcome his physical limitations. The creation of a steel hand, directly connected to the brain by the electronic apparatus, is an illustration of that amazing gift of invertebrate which is one of the basic characteristics of our species.

Bridge Rarely Draws Married Couples Closer

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

My own nomination for the most lucrative profession of the year is lifted from a news story reporting the annual meeting of the National Recreation Association in chicago last month.

I will not embarrass the self-styled experts on American recreational habits by giving his name, but he is described as either single, or a hermit, or has never seen a deck of cards in his life. Somebody made the remark that playing bridge "draws married couples closer together."

When married couples play bridge, the remark cannot be applied, they are often using these games as a substitute for talking about each other, physically. But bridge, he went on, being a competitive game, "bridge partners speak a special language, and they are two against the rest of the world."

This is the biggest joke since Mickey Rooney married Ava Gardner. Young Thomas Edison, and officials of the American Contract Bridge League must be chuckling on the floor against laughter and chewing up all their honor cards.

In the couples I have known who enjoyed playing tennis or golf together, there have been an inestimable satisfactory outlet for their concealed hostilities toward one another, and their recreational life is just peachy.

But in our country domestic scene is littered with the bodies of husbands and wives who would no more play bridge together than they would prance naked into a lion's cage. And there is any social activity that has the ruthless competitiveness, anger, vengefulness and scorn than family-type bridge, I have not ever heard of it.

"Two against the rest of the world" describes it perfectly. The hand against wife as bridge partners. Somehow that need to "speak a special language" in the bridge table inflames all the latent hostilities and grievances that lie down the barriers of good manners and decent living.

The average couple finds it hard enough to communicate under the best circumstances, but when bridge conventions are introduced the added element of disagreement to the communication, and naturely results in those traits that do not mate finds most disagreeable in the other.

I know numerous married couples who lead an amicable life together, but only after firmly deciding never again to play bridge partners. Where bridge that National Recreation Association been keeping itself, anyway?

There is a new technique being followed in training student pilots for the Royal Air Force, and as a result casualties almost to the vanishing point. First the recruit learns to fly a light airplane. After sort that he has learned to fly at clubs during the last ten years. The instructor then sends the pupil out on the field and lets him play around for a day or so with a training plane, answering his questions and convincing him that he can fly. Then he is much different from the one in which he learned to fly. He steers that flying, the new machine will be easy. Next, the pupil gets a machine which control hops in the fast machine with an instructor sitting beside him. If he does it makes a bad mistake. The instructor steps in. "The reason there used to be so many casualties among young pilots was that flying was supposed to be difficult and dangerous. We teach them that it is nothing of the sort. Once they can be up and down a few times more help than we have to We just stand by at first in case of a crash. It may sound a bit brutal but it works."

With their bill-bronze plumage marking them as birds of rare natural beauty, a number of golden pheasants have been seen in the wooded slopes of North Hastings. The birds, related and bred in the confines of the Algonquin Park are thought to have escaped from their official environment and flown south to the edge of the county where apparently they are gradually increasing in numbers.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

HERE'S ONE MORE REASON WHY LAUNDRY SHOULD BE IRONED

Today is the day that a lot of women who read this column are going to say, "Oh, that Dr. Molner! All he wants to do is make work for us by telling us to iron a lot of laundry that doesn't really need ironing!"

So be it. I'm a troublemaker in their book. But if you'll be patient, I can show you that the woman who does a lot of ironing is a woman who is being good to her family. Good ironing —and I don't have the slightest idea how much of the ironing clothes began — can be of real importance to the health of the family. Ironing is more than just a matter of making clothes look attractive.

Now let me change topics—I want to explain about fungus infections, or perhaps fungus infestations is a better term. Athletes foot, ringworm, and other funguses that don't have any familiar names, usually cause miseries in the human race — these are what I'm discussing.

A fungus is what we can accurately call a plant of a low order of plant life. It thrives in dark, damp places. Under the microscope, a fungus looks something like a cactus plant, but without the stalk and stalkoon. It is considerably larger than such germs as strept, staph, pneumococcus, bacillus, etc.

Yet, at the same time, it behaves so some extent the way bacteria behave. The fungus finds a suitable place to live, multiplies, and the colony creates an irritation. This is the way a colony of germs will behave. If the colony is small, the body gets rid of it. If it manages to grow to a large one, the body becomes ill as a result. Or some portion of the body becomes ill. Styes from an "infected finger" or "infected tonsils" being examples.

Now I remember what I said about the fungus preference for dark, damp places. The fungus (if it is present in clothing, as is often the case) can go through a washing and receive a few cells surviving. The "dark, moist" situation prevails in washing, and the action of soap and of rinsing will not necessarily get rid of the fungus entirely.

Ironing (only) Ah, that's something else. Light may not play any particular part in the health of the iron dries out, and the "moist part is eliminated.

That is why ironing is a good thing. Also, in talking about the appearance of clothes, I'm talking about their safety. A doubtless hare noted that the past columns I've mentioned using an ironing piece of iron when you bandage some minor injury. The ironing helps destroy germs as well as fungus.

To get back to fungus, I'm going to start a campaign in this town with a letter which will bring this subject down in cases

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have heard it is possible to be pregnant and to have a baby without ever having to consult a doctor. Is this true? Would it endanger the pregnancy? When (at what month of pregnancy) should it be done to be successful? Mrs. A. B.

Yes, removal of an appendix can and should be done if there are indications requiring such an operation at any time during pregnancy. There is no danger to the pregnancy from complications of appendicitis than from the operation.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Do you advocate injection treatments for external hemorrhoids? If not, why not? Unsigned.

Please don't send any more unsigned questions. I never print the names anyway! (Answer to question: No, because while it may help temporarily other treatment is usually necessary ultimately.

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If you're troubled with figures, fistulas, itching and other rectal problems, write to me in care of The Ontario Intelligencer, Belleville, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Illinois, requesting my free booklet, "The Real Cure For Hemorrhoids, Fistulas and Itching," addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover handling.

Language Lacks Word

Winslow Star

The English language is poorer across replete with thousands of words — many of which have several definitions. But it is deficient in some respects by not having one word which precisely explain what one means.

This difficulty crops up when referring to the "ordinary" man, without giving offence or conveying a derogatory attitude to the great majority of people who are of modest means and represent the "average" citizen or population? "

It isn't accurate to describe a member of this large group as an "average" citizen. Average is a term used in mathematical computations in relation to quality and quantity. Mediocrity is average. He is different from all others. It is demeaning to describe any man as "average."

It is even more demeaning to describe him as "ordinary" or "common." Each term has connotations one doesn't intended to convey. Ordinary, undoubtedly, if he has any pride of self, cuts him down to common all people, whatever their wealth or station may be.

New words are being coined all the time. We wish someone would coin a word to fill this deficiency in our language.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Some friends took me to a night club in Montreal where an old gentleman a taste of high life, and a glimpse of what goes on behind the scenes.

It was down cellar. The only light in which I could see was over the hat check girl's counter. The rest of the place was like a funeral parlor with only the night-light on. I supposed we were in a pandemonium of many cars told me there were people all around, but I could see only friends steering me by the elbow. I dimly perceived the place was full of ladies and gents seated at low tables, or reclining on low divans. Waiters were hurrying.

By the time my eyes accustomed themselves to the gloom, I could see waiters in redback jackets shaking about like undertaker's assistants keeping a melancholy eye on the mourners.

With a frightening roar a female singer suddenly leapt, as the Irish say, into a dazzling spotlight, and I was called a combo of three bashful-looking musicians, heads bent, bow they birn, plucked their horse fiddle and their gitter, and made a deafening racket for about forty minutes. The girl singing would have got me as Canada's amateur contest in my day.

On the way out, I turned over the counter and whispered to the fat perky hat check girl:

"Why do they keep it so dim in there?"

"If they could see another clearly, Pop," she whispered back, "they'd give up drinking."

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

TRIUMPHANT PRAYING

Do you believe in prayer?
Why yes, you say, you believe in prayer and say your prayers every night when you go to bed. But has your praying been productive or only good?

One dares to ask a question of this sort because it is undoubtedly true that when we begin to recall and number the times God has generously answered our prayers, we find that prayer is the most successful project in life. Before the day ends just recall the number of things you have asked for and God has given you. Some of His greatest blessings have come about because He answered No to prayers which, if granted, would have brought you into much trouble.

Just remember that God has three answers to prayer — Yes, No, and Wait. That last answer sometimes the most glorious of all. We pray for something today and rest over the fact that God has not given it. Then tomorrow, or next week, or ten years hence, we awake to the realization that God delayed the answer to our prayer in order that our desires and aspirations might grow to such an extent that He could give us a much more significant gift.

Nothing brings so much true happiness and success into one's life as consistent, unfaltering, patient praying.

Persist prayerfully in it if you already pray. Try it if you don't.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TO BE LIKED AND LOVED

I have heard people say that they like it distributed a new person is created uniting us with all mankind. We like to meet, and know, persons who are greatly different in personality. That gives us the opportunity to smooth out our life so as to make it attractive to new people, and strangers in spirit to us.

What is the secret that binds us to others? Others like us if we prove genuine and sincere but what a scarcity of such there is! You have to search for such ones whether you search near or far. Nowadays, however, we are discovering a new world.

Make yourself worthy to be liked and loved, and you will need to worry about the days ahead. You will discover something about others, and yourself, that rare pearls could not surpass! To be liked and loved is to be presented to the world as you are, a relationship that reaches out to touch the Infinite Mind. It is to bask in all beauty and every kind act.

U. of T. Engineering Class Inspects Two Local Plants

Yesterday some 40 graduating class University of Toronto engineering students visited the Canada Cement Company plant at Point Anne and the Wilson Concrete Products plant in this city. Yesterday they saw the differences between the operation and setup of a firm which has long been established as one of the leaders in its field and of a firm which has sprouted up within the past few years to take a commanding lead in a brand new industry.

Yesterday a few of them, if not all, caught an idea and came away with a gleam in their eye. Speaking to the class members following their dinner at the Canada Cement cafeteria, Charles Wilson, president of Wilson Concrete, undoubtedly gave them an idea which they might not have expected to receive on the personal itinerary of a plant visit. The former University of Toronto graduate advised them that the plant they were going to see that afternoon should point out the possibilities of free enterprise. It should be continued, change their thinking from the more or less common view that the only place for a graduate engineer was in the employ of some large corporation, should show them that there were good opportunities in small business for engineers.

This message went over well and the tour of the Wilson plant and viewing its operation, which makes use of the latest equipment, showed "that an engineer can do something else besides design a pipebend", to quote the words of Professor L. F. Rosenhain, who was accompanying the group.

The big Canada Cement plant provided a good illustration of the operation of a basic product industry. Following a brief talk by A. O. Drysdale on the technical aspects of making cement, the students were split into four groups to tour the quarry, the various mills, kilns and mixers. The tour was most thorough and covered every operation.

Frequent stops were made along the route to explain each phase or the production operation and answer any questions the students had to make.

Perhaps the most interesting points along the tour were the huge 400-feet-plus rotary kilns and the final packing operation just before the cement was loaded into the customers' trucks. The plant gave an interesting picture of how a plant can be developed and expanded over the years to meet an increasing demand for its products and to produce a quality product.

SEE WILSON PLANT

Following this morning tour and their dinner, the students were taken over to the Wilson Concrete factory to view operations there. Under the care of Doug Black, Charles Wilson and Charles Lundy, they were taken through the plant's production lines and showed the operation and design of the very latest in high speed concrete block and brick production machines, several of which are the only examples of such new machinery in eastern Canada.

The production of pre-stressed concrete double-T beams was shown to the visiting students in its entirety from the preparation of the molds, through the stressing of the supporting steel cables to the pouring and final finishing of the concrete. Although taken through the plant more or less as one group, the students could soon be seen splitting up into smaller groups around one of the Wilson engineers and very active discussions were carried on.

This was the third visit a graduating class from the University of Toronto has made to the Wilson plant and it was not too difficult to see why they keep coming back.

Following yesterday's tour, which was topped off by a supper buffet at the Canara Club, the Varsity men entrained for Montreal where today they will be viewing the Canadian Vickers plant and the CPR yards.

Above are shown a number of the University of Toronto engineering students who were visiting the Wilson Concrete Products plant yesterday afternoon following a morning tour of the Canada Cement plant at Point Anne. In the top picture a phase of the production operation is being explained to them by Charles Wilson, president of Wilson Concrete Products, right foreground.

She Might Put the Bite On Trainers

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—John Hawthorne and W. Sykes were a bit on edge Thursday as they gave Philomena her first swimming lesson.

Philomena weighs 300 pounds, measures nine feet in length and is, of all things, a shark.

"How come a shark needs swimming lessons, anyhow?" asked incredulous visitors gathered around a Taronga Park zoo pool as the two keepers, heavily garbed for protection, put their arms around Philomena's grey waist and propelled her through the water.

Well, it was explained, Philomena had a traumatic experience last week—her capture by net-wielding fishermen.

Brought to the zoo, the poor thing has been lying at the bottom of the pool—she had lost the will to swim.

So, dauntless, shark - wise Hawthorne and Sykes were called on to propel her up and down the pool five hours daily for the next two weeks. This, they hope, will bring Philomena back to her senses and teach her to swim normally.

They trust it will not increase her appetite.

Two Bancroft People Killed When Stolen Car Crashes Into Trees Near Eldorado

BANCROFT — Two Bancroft district persons, one of them a 17-year-old youth, were killed Thursday night when their speeding auto left the highway north of Eldorado and the sides swiping two trees slammed into a third leaving debris scattered for nearly 300 feet.

Killed were Lloyd O'Neil, 20, of R. R. 2 Bancroft and Ernest Baumbour, 17, believed to have been the driver of the car.

The car, 1959 model sedan, was reported stolen earlier in Bancroft.

Madoc provincial police said the speeding car was southbound on Highway 62 when, about just north of Eldorado it missed a curve. The auto which was literally torn to bits, bounced off two trees before being finally halted by a third tree. The passenger was thrown from the wrecked auto while the driver was said trapped behind the wheel of the demolished auto.

A police roadblock had been set up at the intersection of highways 62 and 37 at Madoc after police were told of the stolen car. The accident occurred about nine miles north of the police roadblock.

It is reported that O'Neil is a married man with four children.

St. Andrew's United Marks 85th Anniversary

MARMORA — St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, celebrated its 85th anniversary on Sunday, November 1st, with a large congregation, both morning and evening.

The Reverend H. A. Mallow of Oshawa, was guest minister who chose for his morning's discourse "Faith of Our Fathers" which was appropriate as the weekend was also the anniversary of the Reformation.

Music was in charge of Mrs. Maurice McLeod, with both senior and junior choirs leading in the worship of song. The junior choir sang as an anthem "Not a Sparrow Falleth" with Mrs. Robert Sanderson directing.

The senior choir used "O Lord Correct Me" with Mrs. J. Heath taking the solo parts. Mr. Lloyd Mills sang "Beside Still Waters."

At the evening service the senior choir chose for an anthem "Jesus, Lover of My Soul."

Mrs. James Heath sang a solo.

The recessional hymn was "Fill Thou My Life."

The usual anniversary turkey dinner was held Thursday evening.

Men Fewer Than Women, Says Controller

At a women's committee luncheon held in conjunction with the annual convention of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, guest speaker Controller Jean Newman of Toronto told the ladies that for the first time in history, women outnumber men.

Local delegates from this area attended the convention held in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, Monday to Wednesday.

Controller Newman told the ladies of the new status of the fair sex and said, "although at one time their place was considered only in the home there is now hardly any field they have not entered."

She said women now outlive men by about 4½ years; they control 60 per cent of the wealth of the country; and are the beneficiaries of 80 per cent of life insurance.

Mrs. Fred Perry of Napanee was elected chairman of the OFA Women's Committee for this year.

Tyendinaga Twp. Council

The Court of Revision, comprised of the sitting members of council, met on October 31st to consider six appeals against the assessment for 1960.

The meeting was devoted chiefly to consideration of replacing the truck and it was decided to investigate the matter further.

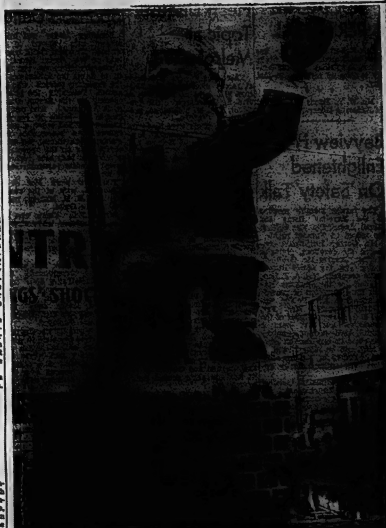
At the previous meeting of council Local 181 of the Ontario Farmers' Union presented two resolutions to council. The first resolution requested that voluntary grants be done for lists be placed on the tax roll. The second resolution requested a township by-law requiring that all cattle in the township be treated for warble fly. Both resolutions were laid over for further consideration.

Nightmare Ride In Ambulance Causes Probe

HAMILTON (CP) — Mayor L. D. Jackson's description Thursday of a "nightmare" ambulance ride last winter caused the police commission to order an investigation of ambulance equipment in the city.

Mayor Jackson, transferred between hospitals after an accident, said he had ridden with his face within three inches of the vehicle's roof.

"It was terrible," he said, "I made them stop and lower the propped - up back (of the stretcher). But it's like a nightmare to me today."



Chief Constable Lou Lawrence said the situation applied only when high-wheeled stretchers are used in converted station wagons.

Some ambulance companies have adopted a new type of under-slung stretcher to overcome the problem, he said.

He told the commission an approach to the operators would probably correct any inadequacies which still remain.

FULL OF VITAMINS

Ten large strawberries will contain more vitamin C than one medium-sized orange.

KING SIZED SANTA — Belleville not only has a king sized financial deficit, but it also has a king sized Santa Claus as the above picture taken at the Coleman St. Corporation Tire Store shows. Big 35-foot high Santa who arrived in the city last January by railway freight, was swung into position yesterday by Finkle's crane service. For the next few weeks the big king sized Santa will remind local children and parents that Christmas is "just around the corner."

Drugs Charge Brings 6 Months

TORONTO (CP) — Geraldine Chipman and Gail D'Arcy, both 21, were convicted Thursday of illegal possession of narcotics and each sentenced to six months in jail.

Both broke into sobs when they heard the sentence. They had pleaded not guilty to the charge.

They testified at their trial that they had smoked marijuana with 27 - year - old Dave Mann, a Toronto Argonauts' halfback, and his roommate Jack Kane on Aug. 19 in the men's apartment.

They denied knowledge of marijuana in their own apartment, but RCMP officers who raided the apartment Aug. 21 said they found traces of marijuana in a purse and in three plastic vials.

Mann and Kane are to face trial for illegal possession of narcotics.

Bayview H-S Enlightened On 'Safety' Talk

The regular monthly meeting of the Bayview Home and School Association was held at the school on Tuesday night.

Mr. Gordon Hutchinson conducted the devotions, giving a reading entitled "Don't" and closing with the Lord's Prayer.

The president, Mrs. F. Ivey, presided for the business session. She read the minutes of the preceding secretary, Mrs. P. Fry, was officially accepted. Mrs. Fry who is a member of the Executive Association and has been a faithful, hard working secretary ever since its organization early in 1957, will be sadly missed. A vote of thanks for her unceasing effort was enthusiastically applauded.

Mrs. Fort formally installed Mrs. Gordon Hutchinson as the new recording secretary.

Correspondence was read concerning a request for a sign for the surfacing of the score path behind the home to the high school site. This request has been favorably received by the Public School Board. The Board is now waiting to have the property title cleared so that it can be duly proceed.

The newsletter from the Belleville and District Home and School Council was read and the members were urged to attend the council meeting to be held at Bayview Public School on November 19th. The topic is to be "Program Planning".

Mrs. Ashley Walsh announced the attendance plague.

A skit was to be held at the school on November 14th, at 1 p.m. with Mrs. E. Walsh in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. W. Partridge, general convener, announced that the successful card party and bake sale held last Thursday evening netted $40.

Mrs. F. Van Bompary, citizenship chairman, gave a report on a meeting of the Belleville City Council that she had attended. She recommended that members should lend themselves of the opportunity to attend a City Council meeting so as to become a thoughtful and responsible vote in the approaching municipal election.

Mrs. F. Fry, graciously, praised Mr. Mac Hutchinson for his a "job well done," as she presented him with his past president's pin. In reply, Mr. Hutchinson urged everyone to support the work of the Home and School Association and to stand behind the executive, ready to help at all times.

Mr. R. Harnden, principal, spoke briefly to the parents. He commended Mr. Hutchinson for his devotion and work as past president of the fledgling Association. He also mentioned that the teachers had a full day and it would soon be erected to examine the school property.

SAFETY

The guest speaker, Sgt. D. Robson, Traffic Safety Officer, took his audience back to school and taught them as well as he teaches the children. He pointed out that safety-minded parents mean safer children and illustrated how he teaches children to pedestrian and bicycle safety and how both of these are related to motorists safety.

The film "Lucky You" was shown as a sample of the type of film they use in the classroom for instruction.

Sgt. Robson had a fine display of the equipment he uses in his work — bicycle accessory board, electrically operated traffic light and scale model intersection, model cars, illustration photographs and plenty of information literature. For this equipment, as well as the film and prepared talk, appreciation was expressed his gratefulness to the service clubs, firms and industries, who were helping in this way to safety education.

Mr. S. Whitaker, health and safety chairman, introduced and thanked Sgt. Robson.

The parents of Mr. Reid's class conversed the social hour under the direction of Mrs. C. Bonnette, social chairman.

Mimeographed copies of the talks given by the teachers in the classrooms were distributed with the September program convocation. Forecasts were available.

Heart Disease Topic at Melrose W.I.

There was a large attendance at recent meeting of the Melrose W.I. held at the home of Mrs. L. Gaudagnolo. The president, Mrs. R. Marchen, presided.

Definite plans were made for the annual "Community Supper" to be held at Melrose hall on November 17th. Arrangements for reports of the recent Area Convention in Belleville were given by the delegates, Mrs. Gnaedinger and Mrs. Roy McLaren who mentioned the power of women in their efforts for good and stressed the importance of "Historical Research" and preservation of relics and antiques. The girls' work was particularly mentioned as Melrose Club gave an outstanding demonstration during the girls' session.

Mrs. C. Bates jr., leader for the health program, took charge and presented a most interesting live paper on "Your Heart," illustrating at intervals with a specially prepared chart. Heart disease is one of the leading causes of death today, and with many know the meaning of this word, every shrewd heart is the most vital organ of the body and its various functions were clearly explained. The simple, practical size, location and description of its component parts proved most interesting.

Not too long ago surgery on the heart was considered impossible, but today heart-lung machines are used to maintain pumping of blood while doctors operate on the valves and repairs. A new heart surgery technique of the use of chilled blood was described by Mrs. Bates.

Mrs. Bates also cited various cases which had proved most outstanding in illustrating the rapid strides of advancement in the medical sphere. She concluded her interesting talk with rules to keep the heart strong and healthy.

Community singing followed after which Mrs. Robinson as pianist led the group in some "ups on the medicine chest," singing appropriate contents and stressed the importance of not misconstruing separate. Medicines to be used internally and externally should be kept apart.

A helpful pamphlet on "Artificial Respiration" was distributed to each of the 26 ladies present.

Mrs. J. McLaren dealt capably with the motto, "Another Day, Another Dollar," showing how it applies to the present busy world and Christianism is contagious, so show it in everything we do to serve home and country. She closed with the well remembered poem, "Why Worry?"

Mrs. Ward call, "How to Relax" brought forth many good ideas in the form of reading, removing shoes, sitting in a comfortable chair, Institute meetings and best of all, to relax in the state of mind.

Hostesses were extended to the hostess and all who contributed to the splendid program.

Ask Farm Land Be Exempt From School Taxes

TORONTO (CP)—The 800 delegates at the 57th convention of the Central Ontario Area Federation in Thursday chose Mrs. E. Armstrong of Armstrong as their chairman. She succeeds Mrs. C. Clugston of Maridale. Rural women asked that school taxes be levied on the farmer's dwelling and land, but not on his barns, bringing his school taxes into proportion with taxes paid by urban dwellers.

Declares Women Lawyers Faced With Discrimination

HULL, Que. (CP)—A successful young woman lawyer says there is discrimination against women in her profession both among large law firms and government circles.

Miss Rogatie-Marie Charette set up her own practice in spite of offers from two law firms to reach a milestone in her career as she defends in her first murder case.

She was selected last week by Court of Queen's Bench to defend Richard Kyle Alexander, charged in the May 15 death during a robbery of bank manager Alexander Heron in Timiskaming, Que.

Miss Charette, 28, fluent in French and English, makes district history in becoming the first woman lawyer to defend a man charged with murder.

St. Thomas' Parochial Guild Sponsors Delightful Bazaar, Tea

Scudding leaves and intermittent rain showers in St. Thomas' Parochial Guild bazaar held at the Parish House, on Wednesday afternoon, but failed to daunt the enthusiasm of the large number who attended. Following the official opening by the Rector, Canon H. S. McConnell, who complimented the ladies on the fine display and hoped that it would endeavour to accomplish, and wished them success in the many buyers took on the appearance of a hive of busy bees, each one of which had particular booth of interest.

Receiving were Mrs. A. S. McConnell, wife of the rector, and Mrs. J. H. Murray, president of the Guild.

Mrs. M.N.C. Fisher was the convener of the tea, while Mrs. W. G. R. Prestonce acted as treasurer, assisting in the vestibule at a little table beautified with yellow mums.

The auditorium was an example of exceptionally fine decorative effect. Gaily bowls filled with mums, which extended across the main portion of the floor, where all booths, with their attractive dresses, and play togs, and party favors, were displayed.

Noted especially was the pretty doll hair complets in gown, with their hair trimmed with flowers and a dark-haired doll in a pink dress. A fetching pink dotted organza over pink taffeta. Others included dolls with golden curls, black-haired beauties; strawberry blondes; auburn and blondes, some large, small and tiny. Some in bridal gowns, others in costumes, but all attractive, the happy answer to any little girl's prayer. Mrs. Alan Bell was in crib quilts. In charge were: Mesdames Wm. Shaw, Wm. Lewis, J. E. Genet; A. Simpson; Wm. Archer; A. Wolfender; A. Walbridge; J. Bell, and Miss M. Allord.

In the homecooking, convened by Mrs. H. Keller, assisted by Mesdames Beaulah Hall; E. G. Bastable; F. Lancaster; J. Minettes; A. P. Jarrett; H. Poste, were to be found a place of intense interest in the cellophane bags of cakes, fruit loaf cakes; chocolate squares; cookies; pies; meringues; cup cakes; fruit relishes; tarts; mincemeat and mincemeat

MODERN MANNERS

Evelyn Rose

EVALUATING GOOD MANNERS

A cynic with whom I ran accidentally recently made the remark that the purpose of good manners and courtesy is to enable one to seem to be a lady or a gentleman without having one's self to be bogged down with this opinion is not universal.

Actually, good manners do not complicate life nearly as much as they simplify it. We all want to make friends, to be popular. To accomplish this, of course, one must put courtesy to, and consideration of, others above all other things. We shouldn't need a set of rules for that. On the other hand, certain forms of social technique must be followed if one is to acquire the self-confidence and ease of manner which means so much to each one of us. These accepted rules are wonderful in loads of refuge to swim to when one plunges into social contacts with one's fellow man. But the following of these accepted rules can be overdone. The old saying that "men may prove acquaintance by laying too many manners" is very true. How to hit a happy medium?

Reading one of the many books on the subject of etiquette may help one to be aware of every possible social situation in which one might find oneself, and also many that in most instances one would never be obliged to meet. But if one attempted to adhere to the letter all the rules and regulations contained within such a volume, I doubt if he would manage to get through a normal day, let alone asterisk, without having a complete collapse. Common sense has got to be exercised in, and actions often must be suited to the circumstances. Carrying manners to an extreme, to the point where one loses naturalness and spontaneity, is carrying them a little too far, in my opinion.

To get back to our cynic and his slur on the title "lady or gentleman," I am afraid these words have been maltreated rather badly in recent years. In my opinion, one needs only a few attributes to be either one, regardless of one's station in life. Basically, these attributes are consideration for others, a gracious, courteous approach to all people and putting into actual practice the golden rule: Do unto others as you would that they should do unto you.

Question: What are your ideas about "doughnut dunking"? Our whole family enjoys this pastime, but we do not want to be something wrong. Please tell us what you think! — Mrs. K.L.B.

Answer: My answer is the same as has to do with gum chewing. Only in the privacy of one's home should you indulge in this indoor sport! Imagine on beholder the sight of a dripping doughnut being lifted from cup to mouth is anything but attractive. So forgo this pleasure when in public. At home you are on your own.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's page editor and two readers. Each month it considers one of an edited case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Evelyn M. — I'm making a mess of everything.

Eva M. — She wanted a family and now she completes.

Evelyn M. — I am 34, have been married six years, and I'm the mother of three children. I want to do right by my family, but I feel I'm making a mess of everything.

The truth is that I am just a bundle of nerves. I holler at the children all the time and I mean it. I'm not sure I don't mean it. Then I just feel awful and cry and cry.

I want to send our oldest little boy to nursery school so I'll have time and rest. There is a cheap school right near us. My husband says we can't spend him because of the money and because I have not worked he doesn't believe I think it would do the boy good, especially since he has to start school next year.

Jon M. — I don't see any sense in spending money on a nursery school now when our boy will start kindergarten next year.

Evelyn wants to get the children off her hands as soon as possible and that isn't right. She says she isn't fit to be a mother. But I feel she has to learn to be a mother. She wanted a family and now that she has one she complains and cries all the time.

Evelyn complains that I don't help her enough, but I work hard and I'm entitled to some relaxation too. She thinks she's the only one who has things tough. My mother raised six and never complained.

The Council's young woman with three small children, no help and a tight budget has a very hard job on her hands. She needs help and encouragement from her husband and can do without the criticism.

It is quite possible that Evelyn is run down physically and this is reason enough for her nervousness. She should have a check-up. If the doctor finds nothing particularly amiss, other factors should be considered.

Joe's attitude must, play a big part in Evelyn's emotional difficulties. Instead of comparing her to his own mother and arguing with her in her own poor opinion of the way she is handling her job, he would do well to point out how well she manages her home and family in spite of the time. We are sure Evelyn does some things well. Praise and affection will go a long way in restoring her self-confidence.

Evelyn is too determined to take herself down. Every mother of small children loses her temper at times. This, in itself, does not mean she is "making a mess of everything", or ruining her children's lives. But the constant feeling of strain and self-dissatisfaction can do serious damage.

Considering these factors, Joe is all wrong to refuse the small amount of money for a nursery school. He does want to punish his wife rather than help her. Evelyn is too ready to be a victim. She has a right to insist on a hand from her husband. She can probably match a 100-hour week against his hard 40 in 48 hours. She also needs the stimulation and relaxation her husband gets every day by just walking out of the house and mingling with other adults.

When Joe and Evelyn straighten out some of their emotional complications, Evelyn is likely to become a much better mother.

Mother's Helper

BABIES ARE almost always tempted to grab and chew the fascinating bayous and grass that surround their playpen. Spread a blanket or opaque shower curtain under the pen to minimize husband baby's wash. Check frequently, too, to be sure no leaves or twigs have drooped within his grasp—unlikely or inside the playpen.

Psychology Professor Will Study Retirement Problems Of Business, Career Ladies

By EDNA BLAKELY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—A vivacious psychology professor, Dr. Mary Laurence, is undertaking the first study in Canada of the retirement problems of business and career women.

Organization work for the research program is now under way at the university in Toronto but it will be early next year before actual data is collected.

The study is expected to produce recommendations and programs to prepare young business women for the adjustments of retirement in much the same way that other studies have produced retirement programs for businessmen.

BIG INCREASE

Her interest in the topic, Dr. Laurence says, partially stems from the fact that she's a career woman herself. She explained that before the Second World War women made up less than 10 per cent of Canada's working force but this figure has increased in recent years.

"And time has come to pinpoint the retirement problems of these women," she says.

Work will be started on a $25,000 research grant from the Soroptimist Club, an international service club for women. The grant is expected to cover about three years' work but "we hope to have gained enough impetus to make this an ongoing thing," she said.

The retirement problems of men, studied at universities, are not applicable to women because of women's dual role in life—carrying a living and keeping a home. Then too, 85 per cent of working men are married compared with only 40 per cent of working women. The remaining 60 per cent have no children to help occupy their time after retirement.

A committee of deans, presided over by university vice-president Murray G. Ross, and several graduate students will assist Dr. Laurence.

Most of the questioning will be done in Toronto and is expected to cover many types of employment and all age groups because "the problems of retirement don't just begin with the gold watch for 25 years' service."

It is expected that the older woman will be questioned in another five years to find out whether or not their ideas of spare-time activities changed.

A native of Toronto, Dr. Laurence, took her bachelor's and master's degrees at the University of Toronto and received a PhD in 1951 in psychology. Her doctorate thesis dealt with old age.

Interest in the problems of older citizens was heightened when she worked with aged war veterans while employed at Sunnybrook Hospital here from 1952 to 1955.

IMPORTANT STUDY

Later she helped study the physical, psychological, economic and social factors among 330 employees of the department of veterans affairs to decide on the advisability or allowing them to work beyond the usual retirement age of 65. The report has been used as the basis of several company schemes for extending retirement age.

She returned here after three-and - a - half years as chief psychologist for the Nova Scotia department of health, and director of intern training in psychology at Dalhousie University. She now instructs an undergraduate course on the history of psychology and a second course which deals with the clinical problems of old age.

Hope has been expressed that the study of retirement problems will eventually lead to the establishment of a department of gerontology—the study of old age—to consider all the facts of aging.

Question:—Have you a recipe for tapioca pudding using whole tapioca? — Mrs. D. Lah.

Answer:

TAPIOCA CUSTARD PUDDING

¼ cup pearl tapioca, 2¼ cups milk, 2 eggs, ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon vanilla.

Wash tapioca, soak overnight in cold water to cover. Drain and add milk, cook over double boiler in double boiler until tapioca is clear (about 1 hour). Beat eggs, add sugar, salt and pour hot milk mixture over slowly. Return to double boiler, cook until egg thickens, about 5 minutes, stirring. Remove from heat and add vanilla. Serve with pouring cream or brown sugar Hard Sauce.

Note:—Or yolks and whites may be separated and yolks stirred into pudding mixture, whites beaten stiff and folded in last but while pudding is hot. Instead of returning to double boiler, pudding may be turned into baking dish and baked at 325 deg. Fahr. for 25 or 30 minutes.

Question:—My nephew went to Germany one month ago and will be studying there for three years. He is stationed outside Frankfurt at the Pemtil College. Could you give me any recipes for bars, etc., that would travel well and remain fresh? How would brownies be, or would the icing on them dry out too much?—Mrs. M. A.

Answer:—In my opinion, brownies are a little too crumbly for mailing. Try

TRAVELLING NUT BARS

2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour, 2½ teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup shortening or butter, 2¼ cups brown sugar, 2 eggs, 1 cup chopped nuts, 1 6-oz. package semi-sweet chocolate chips.

Sift flour with baking powder. Melt shortening or butter in a large sauce pan. Stir in brown sugar and allow to cool slightly. Beat in eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add flour mixture, chopped nuts and semi-sweet chocolate. Blend well. Turn into 2 greased 10½ x 15½ x ¾" pan. Bake at 250 deg. Fahr. for 25 to 30 minutes When almost cool cut into squares. Picturesque Calot

BY ALICE ALDEN

Millinery is varied this season, making much of the softly tailored hat by day and the richly fantastic for evening wear. Christian Dior-New York shows this pretty hat with a dinner dress of red satin. Designed in Paris but adapted for our tastes here, the black velvet calot is latticed with black ribbons that widen the silhouette with soft loops and streamers that trail down over the decolletage of the dinner dress.

Brutal Juvenile Crime Wave Threatening Social Strata Of New State of Singapore

By RUSSELL ELMAN

SINGAPORE (CP)—One Sunday in October, two youths were brutally murdered in a coffee shop in a congested Chinese quarter of Singapore.

The double slaying by teen-age gangsters, besieging to a respectable society, raised the curtain on a week of vicious crime, perhaps unprecedented in Singapore's 140-year history as a gay, cosmopolitan port.

The following Tuesday, millionaire Chia Yee Ioh was kidnapped and a taxi - driver stabbed. Wednesday a schoolteacher was stabbed by three thugs; Thursday five masked robbers staged a holdup; Friday armed youths made a daring $5,000 daylight jewel grab, and another taxi-driver was slashed to death in front of a crowd.

Police, government and social workers in Singapore are seeking an answer to the juvenile crime wave, which threatens to upset the long-established social equilibrium of more than 1,000,000 Chinese residents and could jeopardize the future of the recently-created self-governing state of Singapore.

As an initial step the government granted a two-week amnesty, during which all gangsters who gave themselves up and furnished "full and sincere" statements of their past lives would not be prosecuted. When the deadline ended police were empowered to implement new laws of detaining and supervising persons associated with secret society activities.

HOODLUM GANGS

Singapore's juvenile delinquency, typified on the same scale as in London or Tokyo, has attained international notoriety light because of the serious crimes involved. Police attribute more than 75 per cent of all serious crimes in Singapore to juveniles, including 30 murders in the year plus cases of extortion, kidnapping and armed robbery.

Most crimes emanate from secret societies, which claim as estimated membership of more than 10,000 Chinese youths, with a growing number in the under-20 bracket. Although deeply rooted in the Chinese pattern of life going back many centuries, the secret societies in modern Singapore bear little relationship to past cults. They now closely resemble hoodlum gangs in Western cities.

These societies once were an important factor in preserving law among thousands of Chinese brought to Singapore and Malaya as cheap labor during the 19th century. Founded with religious reverence, they were recognized by both the British authorities and the Chinese people as a means of maintaining order, finding employment, remitting money to China. Society members' secret oaths, were distinctive badges and used hand signs to identify each other.

Today, most secret societies are run by teen-agers, often as young as 14.

Welfare officers ascribe the steady growth of violent crime largely to a battle for supremacy between riva. gangs. The conflict has sharpened as the government cracked down on vice, drying up the traditional sources of income. Prostitution, gambling and opium smoking are less profitable and consequently it has become more difficult to extort protection money.

Rocket Ship Pilot Has Narrow Escape

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Test pilot Scott Crossfield had a narrow escape Thursday in an emergency landing of the X-15 rocket ship.

He scuttled his fuel and swept down from an eight-mile altitude after an explosion in the tail.

The landing was so hard the fuselage of the 50-foot black dart was broken six feet behind the cockpit. The rocket section, sagging two feet below the rest of the body, dragged below the X-15 plane to rest on the dry lake bed.

The explosion took place at 45,000 feet just after the X-15's two engines were ignited as it dropped away from the B-52 bomber mother ship.

"We are reasonably certain it was fuel in the engine that exploded," an official said later.

Plan to Erect Oil Sands Plant

OTTAWA (CP)—A government expert said Thursday a small portion of Alberta's Athabasca oil sands can be developed by open-pit mining methods.

Dr. John Convey, head of the federal mines branch, commented on a published report that Great Canadian Oil Sands Limited of New York plans to built a plant in the area of the sands, 175 miles northeast of Edmonton.

The report said the company plans to employ hot water or steam to separate the oil from the sand, and indicated the daily whole 17,000 - square - mile area might be exploited by this method.

Dr. Convey said several other companies were working along similar lines.

But everbroken covering up to 25 per cent of the sands was too deep—up to 1,000 feet — to be mined economically by open-pit methods.

May Attempt To Curtail Defence Spending

By HAROLD HERRINGER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States, worried about the mounting cost and size of its deficit, may attempt to put a lid on its defence spending, a reporter had in Canada as well.

Qualified authorities here said the U.S. view on the need for economy may be conveyed to Canadians at the two-day ministerial meeting opening Sunday at the president's Camp David, 60 miles southwest of Washington.

The whole field of military, economic and political implications involved in Canada - U.S. defence will be reviewed, these authorities said.

EMPHASIS ON ECONOMY

The emphasis will be on the U.S. need to effect economies in foreign aid and foreign defence spending.

The U.S. has poured many billions of dollars into Canadian radar and other electronic installations. The U.S. is reported to have placed about $600,000,000 worth of defence contracts in Canada this year though Canadians maintain the U.S. still isn't buying enough in the way of defence orders to Canadian factories under production-sharing arrangements.

The economy drive would not mean cancellation of any existing contracts in Canada but it may reduce prospects of expansion of future U.S. offshore defence spending.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG — The afternoon tea and bazaar sponsored by the W.A. of Thomasburg United Church in the IOOF hall on afternoon of October 31, was exceptionally well attended by ladies from Tweed, Moira, Roslin, West Huntingdon United Churches and from Christ Church (Anglican), of Thomasburg.

The financial returns for the afternoon were gratifying and those in charge deserve a great deal of credit as well as those who gave their time, talent or money without whose services the undertaking could not have succeeded.

Mrs. W. Yeteman who has been living in Belleville for some time has returned to make her home with her son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Morton.

Members of Tweed Rebekah Lodge were the guests of Crescent Lodge, Thomasburg, last Monday evening, when District Deputy Sister Dorothy Fisher and her staff installed the officers of Thomasburg lodge for the next year. A delicious repast was served at the close of the installation ceremonies and a social hour enjoyed.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Keely on the birth of a son in Belleville hospital on October 24, and to Mr. and Mrs. Ray Phillips who are also the proud parents of a son, born the same day in the same institution.

The senior room pupils and teacher were the guests of the Thomasburg United Church WA at a recent delicious potluck dinner served at noon in the vestry. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. F. Preston, Mrs. J. Arbuckle and Mrs. L. Kennedy. The regular monthly meeting of the association followed the dinner. After the business part of the meeting the devotional period and program was in charge of Mrs. F. Preston.

The usual parade of ghosts, witches and goblins joined by several space men and women visited the houses in the village on Hallowe'en but no damage was suffered by the residents except for a few articles being missing from their places the next morning.

Ivanhoe

IVANHOE — Mr. George Mitts of Toronto, a one-time resident of Ivanhoe, called on old friends on Monday afternoon. He was accompanied by his son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Mitts and his daughter, Mrs. Edna Condon of Willowdale.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Benson and Patsy were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Benson of Napanee.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hutt of Welland, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Mitts.

The sympathy of this community is extended to the family of Mrs. George Reid, whose death occurred in Bellevills General Hospital on October 28th. Mrs. Reid was well known and well liked in this district. She was kindly and hospitable and bore her long illness with Christian fortitude. She was a good neighbor and a loyal friend.

Crofton

CROFTON — Mr. John Gray, and Mrs. W. J. Gray, motored to Kingston on Monday, for the day.

Mrs. Creamer, of Mountain View airport, called on Mrs. D. B. Munro on Monday afternoon.

The teacher, Mrs. Lorne Young, and pupils, entertained their parents to a Hallowe'en party at the school on Friday afternoon. Refreshments of sandwiches and doughnuts were served.

Mrs. M. M. Allan, Mr. and Mrs. L. Crook and Mrs. E. Crook spent Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Weese to celebrate the birthday of Mr. Weese.

Mrs. D. B. Munro spent a few days last week with her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Dawson, at Camp Borden, and attended the funeral of little Johnny Dawson, who was struck and killed by a car as he ran to catch the school bus.

Miss Gertrude Walmsley, Picton, was a weekend guest of Mrs. Victor Bongard.

The Hallowe'en social was held at the hall on Saturday evening with all kinds of goblins in attendance.

Mr. George Hutson spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Sharp and Dennis, at Roslin.

POINT ANNE — Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Delbushie and Sheila, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Delbushie and Debbie spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Delbushie and family and Mr. and Mrs. Rod MacDonald and family at Woodstock.

Callers on Mrs. Donald Hannah in the Kingston hospital were Mrs. Lee Bradshaw, Mrs. Earl Keene, Belleville, and Mrs. Percy and Mrs. Amab Akey, of Camilton.

Mrs. John Logue has bought a house from Mr. Delbert McConnell and has moved into it.

Congratulations to Perry Ellis and David Akey on receiving their 12th badge from the 6th Belleville Cub Pack.

Visitors and callers on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bradshaw were: Constable and Mrs. Kenneth Barr, and son, Robert, of Cornwall; Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Barr, Kenny and Gay, of Kingston. Evening callers: Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bradshaw and family; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dearborn and son, Danny, of Bellgrill.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Cox spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell Akey at Redmerville.

The weekly euchre club was held at the home of Mrs. Michael Whalen. Prizes were won by Mrs. Lucille Lloyd, Mrs. Evg MacKay; low — Mrs. Eva Juby. After euchre, Mrs. Whalen served refreshments and a social evening was enjoyed.

Winnipeg Isolation Chamber Experiment Indicates Women May Make Best Astronauts

WINNIPEG (CP) — It may be that women would make better space travellers than men, says Dr. John Zubek, head of the University of Manitoba psychology department and director of experiments in which persons spend six days in a darkened sound-proofed isolation chamber.

Wilma Sansom, 29 - year - old psychology student who emerged from the chamber in isolation test, said at a press conference that she experienced only boredom—none of the hallucinations reported by three men who previously spent time in isolation.

Dr. Zubek said that without attempting detailed interpretation, it look at charts of her brain waves "we see a few more disturbances than the charts of the men.

"If there is a sex difference, the implications are far - reaching," he said. Others have suggested that the United States, instead of training astronauts for space, possibly, should be training "astronettes."

MAKE MORE WOMEN

The absence of hallucinations in Miss Sansom's case has led to a decision to include a greater number of women in the tests, he said.

"There is plenty of documented evidence to show that the female is biologically better able to stand stress and strain."

Miss Sansom, a graduate of the University of New Brunswick in 1958, is also a Rhodes scholar candidate in psychology at the University of Manitoba.

She said six days in isolation she ate only a liquid commercial reducing diet.

"It had the texture and color of thick cream and tasted like a combination of liquid chalk and a milk shake," she said. "I could not get an inch or two "in places."

She said that although she smokes heavily under normal circumstances, she did not miss smoking while she was in the room. However, she added, she began as soon as she came out.

"No, we won't stay to lunch. My sister says I mustn't take risks today."

Britain Gives France Support On A-Bomb Test

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) — France's plans for an atomic blast in the Sahara were boiled down to two big questions in the 82-member UN political committee today:

1. Will there be danger of casualties or radiation illness from the explosion in Africa, which has a population of 200,000,000?

2. Should France explode its first A-bomb at a time when the three charter members of the "nuclear club" — the United States, Britain and Russia—are trying to negotiate a nuclear agreement?

Britain gave France considerable support on the first count Thursday but the French project came in for severe criticism today, with India one of the scheduled speakers in the third day of debate.

29 OPPOSE TESTS

India is one of the 29 Afro-Asian co-sponsors of a resolution which asks the 14th General Assembly to declare that France would endanger the populations of many countries, in Africa and elsewhere "to a grave degree" if France would be urged to "refrain" from the test.

This, however, was milder than the resolution originally proposed by Morocco and other African countries, which wanted the assembly to "deplore" the A-bomb tests.

French spokesman Jules Moch has said that the populations of all the states bordering on the Sahara—Morocco, Tunisia, Libya, the Sudan, Ethiopia, Ghana, Liberia, Guinea and the state of the French community—will be in less danger than the inhabitants of California and of Siberia, who were in no danger at all when a greater number of experiments were being conducted."

SEES NO HARM

David Ormsby-Gore, British minister of state for foreign affairs, said Thursday the test explosion would do no harm and added that even those opposed to the operation had not suggested that France catching up with the other powers is having atomic arms.

NATO allies of France, including Canada, are faced with a tough decision when the vote is taken, possibly tot until Monday. Some apparently will abstain but yet be modifications in the draft resolution. Abstentions are expected.

Liberal Chief Charges Frost With 'Pettiness'

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer said Thursday night that Premier Frost's attempts to place the blame for Canada's money shortage on the Bank of Canada was "a piece of pettiness."

Speaking at a Liberal Association meeting, Mr. Wintermeyer said in the 1957 election campaign Premier Frost told electors the province was not getting the funds it needed and the only solution was a change of government.

The change has been made but the money is still not forthcoming, Mr. Wintermeyer said.

Noted Artist Dies

TORONTO (CP) — John Wentworth Russell, noted Canadian artist who had took four with the Group of Seven, died Thursday. He was 80.

Mr. Russell was well-known in Canada as a figure painter. Many of his works were nudes. He also had painted four portraits of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He had murals in the entrance lobby of the House of Commons, one in the Senate chamber and another and a third in Laurier House, Ottawa.

Born in Biokrook, near Hamilton, Mr. Russell spent 25 years abroad.

Nobel Peace Prize Winner Left Out of Labor 'Cabinet'

LONDON (AP) — Philip Noel-Baker was dropped from the Labor party's "shadow cabinet" Thursday a few hours after learning he had won the Nobel peace prize.

The 70 - year - old former government minister and disarmament expert failed to win election because of age—to gain re-election to the 24-man body which formulates opposition strategy in Parliament.

Party members believe Noel-Baker was dropped because of a growing preference for younger leaders.

The only other casualty among 12 placed in the shadow cabinet was Dr. Edith Summerskill, militant feminist and former government minister.

Other places had been vacated by Aneurin Bevan, now deputy leader of the party, and Arthur Bottomley, who lost his parliamentary seat in the election Oct. 8.

The four new members are Dennis Healey, George Brown, Fred Lee and Fred Willey.

CCF Leader Charges Press Opposes Party

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald Thursday night bitterly criticized Ontario daily newspapers for "serious misrepresentation" of developments concerning a possible new party embracing labor and the CCF.

In a provincial affairs television and radio broadcast, Mr. MacDonald said "the press has been consistently opposed to the new party."

"Not a single daily newspaper in Canada supports the CCF. With rare exceptions every newspaper in Canada is hostile to the opposition that trade union should take an active part in politics through the party of their choice."

SEES INCONSISTENCY

"The same papers are strongly inconsistent," said Mr. MacDonald. "They apparently have no objection to big business politics, where it has traditionally provided most of the funds for the old parties.

"Newspapers are themselves a part of the business world, and without exception support the old parties."

Mr. MacDonald said editorial comment in newspapers had completely misrepresented statements by Claude Jodoin Canadian Labor Congress president, at the Winnipeg seminar that discussed formation of the new party.

He singled out the Sarnia Observer and Ottawa Citizen as examples.

He quoted The Observer as saying: "When Claude Jodoin told his 1,200,000-member Canadian Labor Congress to stay out of politics, he was giving good advice."

QUOTES JODOIN

Mr. MacDonald said Mr. Jodoin actually had said: "I sincerely hope the new party will be successful . . . I am personally in strong support of it . . . I am positive that a substantial membership of members in unions affiliated with the congress, and their families, desire a new party to support and will increasingly support the CCF as a labor party. . . ."

"How could Mr. Jodoin's view be misconstrued?" asked the Ontario CCF leader.

He quoted The Citizen as saying: "So long as organized labor keeps itself clear from political entanglement — and Mr. Jodoin is among those who feel that way — the financial prospects of removing harsh laws and preventing enactment of others in the same type are much enhanced."

Wasp Causes Driver's Death

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP)—An automobile driver from Ontario died of injuries suffered when he was stung by a wasp, plunged over a 30-foot embankment Thursday and struck a tree.

Police said the wasp got into Clearly's car as he travelled on Highway 15, 19 miles north of here.

Beer Better Than in 1930's Board Tells Supreme Court

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Supreme Court was told Thursday that Ontario beer is much better than it was in the 1930s and apparently the better advertised brands have a sales advantage.

William J. Friendl, the Ontario Liquor Control Board's chief inspector of breweries gave this evidence during the trial of Canadian Breweries Limited on a combines charge.

Asked to compare brewery conditions in the 1930s with conditions in a modern Toronto brewery today, Mr. Frizzell said there is "absolutely no comparison at all — the product and the plant are so much improved."

He said much "unsatisfactory" equipment and "poor" sanitary conditions were improved when independent firms were taken over by Canadia n Breweries Limited.

Mr. Frizzell also said that brewmasters in two Toronto plants of Canadian Breweries were "much more highly skilled" and there is "far better management" than was the case in the plants operated by two other firms in the 1930s.

R. H. Parkin, special Crown prosecutor, asked whether Mr. Frizzell would have a list of breweries to continue in business if the Canadian Breweries combine of breweries now operating in Ontario.

Mr. Frizzell said earlier that certain brands have a larger sales appeal than others, and this is an indication of their popularity with the public.

Asked if extensive advertising would create greater sales, he said: "It would appear that better advertised brands have an advantage."

He said he is satisfied there is no duplication in the brands now produced in Ontario. "The brewmaster determines the flavor," he said.

Two to Appear For Murder of Bank Manager

HULL, Que. (CP) — Two men charged with murdering a bank manager in Timiskaming, Que., appear next week in Court of Queen's Bench here in separate trials.

Ernest Cote, 28, is to be tried Monday on a charge of the murder, 20, Thursday. Both are Timiskaming residents.

Alexander Grosso, manager of a Bank of Montreal branch, and two bank employees, in the heist as he tried to chase two fleeing men. The pair made their escape in a car, but empty-handed.

Half an hour later, Cote and Alexander were arrested at a road block at Feronia, near Timiskaming, 40 to 50 miles southwest of Timiskaming. A coroner's jury on May 25 found Cote criminally responsible for Heron's death.

SENTENCED TO DIE

MELFORT Sask. (CP)—Frank Schonberger, 44, was sentenced Thursday to be hanged Jan. 29 after being found guilty of the murder of Albert Frances Beaupre, 30, a White Fox, Sask., hoiekeeper.

Pope John Will Receive Ike Dec. 6

VATICAN CITY (Reuters) — Pope John will receive President Eisenhower in a private audience on Dec. 6, Vatican quarters said today.

The announcement of the audience was to be published in the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano this afternoon.

The president is visiting Italy Dec. 4 for talks with the Italian government.

He will be the second American president to be received in audience by a pope. The first was Woodrow Wilson who in 1919 visited Pope Benedict XV.

Are Hesitant To Make Quiz Rig Crime

WASHINGTON (AP) — Investigating congressmen offered little support today for a new president's proposal to make it a crime to rig a television quiz show. They said it doesn't go far enough.

Robert E. Kintner, president of the National Broadcasting Company, made the specific proposal in a new law Thursday. He said it would backstop the industry's "self-policing."

More suggestions were expected today from Democratic Frank Stanton of the Columbia Broadcasting System.

Five members of the House of Representatives subcommittee on legislative oversight, at a session with the scope of Kintner's proposed new law. Any legislation, they said, should go much further and should strike at the dishonesty in every phase of the business.

HERES EX-FBI MAN

Kintner said "we were just as much a victim of the quiz show fraud as the public" but claimed his network has taken vigorous steps to see that it doesn't happen again. NBC had set up a special investigation headed by an ex-FBI man — to ferret out any deception or fraud.

Kintner said further that NBC has discovered that rome personnel on the Treasure Hunt show had been exacting kickbacks from winning contestants. There are eight persons were fired and the evidence turned over to the New York police department.

Kintner rejected the idea of an all-powerful czar for the broadcasting industry. It would be no more workable than a similar proposal for the movie industry, he said, and government control would raise the specter of censorship.

Kintner said the network did not know until this week the full story of the fraud involving Charles Van Doren, who has been hired by NBC at $50,000 a year on the strength of his quiz show fame.

SEAMEN SEVERELY INJURED

SARNIA (CP)—A severely injured seaman was taken off the Dutch freighter in Lake Huron Wednesday by a fisheries sloop and transferred to hospital here. Adrian Van Beveren, 17, was reported hit in the face by a falling beam while the Prins Willem was in Sarnia harbor 20 miles out of Sarnia.

Pleads Guilty To Manslaughter, Given 15 Years

BULLETIN

BRACEBRIDGE (CP)—Seventeen - year - old Wayne Grosso, charged with the murder of two Huntsville taxi drivers, entered a plea of guilty to a reduced charge of manslaughter today and was sentenced to 15 years in penitentiary.

BRACEBRIDGE (CP)—An Ontario Supreme Court jury, to decide the case very quickly, charged with murder, Thursday heard statements concerning the deaths of two taxi drivers Frank (Fritz) Grosso and Bruce Spiers.

The story was related in three statements taken by police from Wayne Sluman 18, and Malvin McKee, 20, both of the Muskoka district town of Huntsville, on trial.

The statements by Sluman and McKee, read by police were admitted as evidence by Mr. Justice Oanis, McKee's statement was not read to the jury.

The bodies of Grosso and Spiers, Huntsville taxi drivers, were found in a gravel pit at nearby Dwight 11 days after they were shot.

One statement quoted Sluman as saying he and McKee killed Grosso, 23, for a taxi to take them to Dwight. Spiers was killed on the same trip, the statement said.

McKee had a .22 rifle sawed off at the butt and Sluman told me it was to scare them.

"I heard them away up in the bush. It was only a few seconds and I heard a shot I thought was a rifle shot from a gun," McKee the money."

"Grosso came up the road and Sluman asked for Spiers. McKee answered him and I heard McKee said it seemed funny to have a shot which I thought was another rifle shot. Then I heard the engine down the hill and we headed to the car.

"We got in the car and Merv told me he holy knocked them off. A few days later I heard they were missing. . . .

In another statement, Sluman quoted McKee as telling him:

"He told me he had no other way out. He had to kill them."

A statement of questions and answers read:

Q. "How much money did you take from them?"

A. "McKee told me he had all the money from Grosso so next day I took $10 from Fritz." He got money from Spiers. We took $25 and something from Spiers and $10 from Fritz."

The court was told that Sluman was not present at the scene of the slaying.

The statement continued: "The next morning we went up the hill. It took us 45 minutes to find Fritz. He was definitely dead.

"We then looked Bruce. He was making a lot of noise.

"Merv told me to get a rock and kill him with it. I couldn't do it. So we just left him there after we took the money."

John Funk, biologist from the attorney - general's department, said he found human bloodstains on a grey shirt and pair of blue jeans presently in custody from McKee the day he was arrested.

He said a single human hair and microscopic blood traces were found on the ground close to the bodies.

Provincial Police Insp. David Hall testified Sluman's shirt was smashed into several pieces.

Rudolph Hess Made Prophecy Says Publisher

LONDON (AP) — Lord Beaverbrook told the House today a dramatic flight from Germany to Britain in 1941, gave him a prophecy of the kind of leadership when the war was over.

Lord Beaverbrook Thursday night the Canadian-born publisher and former British cabinet minister told the House he predicted that if the Nazis were defeated:

1. Germany and other European countries would be occupied by Russia.

2. Britain would lose its position as an imperialistic power.

Lord Beaverbrook said Hess' words proved the greatest and most remarkable prophecy he heard from anyone during the war.

Hess, the No 2 Nazi under Hitler, flew to Scotland in a fighter plane in May, 1941, in a bid to persuade Britain to make peace with Germany and help Hitler fight Russia. He was convicted of war crimes at the Nuremberg trials in 1941 and is serving a life term at Spandau prison.

25 Cents an Hour Increase Most Modest Non-op Demand Made in Decade Says Hall

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's major railways said today non-operating labor demands served on them and knowledge by the unions would entail" a new freight rate increase of more than 20 per cent.

Spokesmen for the two big railways—the CPR and CNR—said cost of the union demands would be $67,000,000 a year.

If granted and extended to some 45,000 other railway workers and involved in the current negotiations the railways would be required to get $97,000,000 a year to cover the total cost, the spokesmen said.

The figures were announced today in a joint statement by W. T. Wilson, CNR vice - president of personnel, and D. I. McNeill, CPR vice-president of personnel.

Mr. Wilson commented on a question by a reporter at a press conference on whether the railways would bid for the 30-per-cent freight rate boost when a date for hearings on applications were fixed.

The railways are convinced that non-operating employees are entitled to their considerable increases in Canadian business and industry, the two vice-presidents said.

But the fact that the last 10 years non - op wages have increased by 70 per cent "had not constripped the rise of 38 per cent in the cost of living."

In addition, they said, there have been increases in fringe benefits in the last 10 years.

"It is less than a year since the non-operating employees received a 14-cent-an-hour wage increase and longer vacations," the statement said. "Further costly, toward a 17-per-cent freight rate increase, whether the rate covers the cost of the wage boost.

The statement of announcement that further general freight rate increases would not be sought for two years.

Told that Frank H. Hall, chief negotiator for the railway unions, had described the wage demand for 25 cents an hour as the most modest in many years, the railways spokesmen said:

"It is less than a year since the non-operating employees received a 14-cent-an-hour wage increase and longer vacations."

Told that Frank H. Hall, chief negotiator for the railway unions, had described the wage demand for 25 cents an hour as the most modest in many years, the railways spokesmen said:

"It is less than a year since the non-operating employees received a 14-cent-an-hour wage increase and longer vacations."

Mr. Hall said the railways' offer of a 10-per-cent wage increase was "not fair nor adequate."

The unions also asked four statutory holiday pay for some 4,500 railway workers in the maintenance and changes in vacations-with-pay rules for long service employees.

The unions want 10 - year employees to get three weeks and 20-year employees to get four weeks vacation with pay. At present 15-year employees have to have 15-years service to get three weeks holidays, 25-years to get four weeks.

They want minor demands called for a change in the pay day and a protective clause to prevent loss of pay for sick employees and welfare plan are increased.

In his letter to the railways, Mr. Hall referred to the conciliation and statutory holiday changes.

WANTS TO BARGAIN

While these matters are of great importance to the organizations, Mr. Hall said in his letter, that they must at this time be subordinated to the immediate task of maintaining wage rates with those of workers in other industries generally. In the statement, Mr. Hall said "a prime consideration in the negotiations unions to reach agreement by the normal process of collective bargaining."

"We hope the railways will respond accordingly" the statement said.

The proposal for a 25-cent-an-hour wage increase is calculated to restore and maintain comparability between railway and comparable goods branch of manufacturing during the term of agreement.

The unions have argued in the past that one man can no longer keep pace with pay in the dur-ing industry, which includes heavy machinery and automobile workers. The railways have steadily progressed the durable goods yardstick in 1960 and subsequently rejected it, are expected to propose another wage standard linked to the cost of living. A composite working force comparable to the non-operating railway employees is to be used.

10 Per Cent Fare Increase For Commuters Authorized

OTTAWA (CP) — The board of transport commissioners today authorized a 10-per-cent increase in commuter passenger fares when but turned down a railway application for other increases.

The board ruled:

1. A 10-per-cent increase in intra-city fares for commuter trains on which the railways had asked a 37-per-cent boost.

2. Cancellation of 30-trip and 56-trip tickets, as sought by the railways.

The board refused the railways' request to increase rates by 10 per cent on trips from three cents to 3.5 cents a mile.

The three-man board panel split 2 to 1 on the decision.

Chief Commissioner Hod Kerr and Commissioner L. J. Knowles signed the majority decision. Deputy Chief Commissioner Armand Sylvestre said he would have dismissed the railway application outright.

The 10-per-cent increase on 60-trip tickets applies to the general public and to the less expensive workers' tickets.

"The railways were authorized to make the increases in effect not earlier than Jan. 1.

Here are some representative changes in the 60-trip tickets for the general public:

Between Belleville and Toronto, the price will go from $29.15 to $32.10, brought out to the nearest 5 cents.

Between Port Credit and Toronto, the new rate will be $13.30 compared with the present $11.90.

Between Toronto new rates, between Montreal and some local commuter points:

Dorval, $8.30 or $18.10; Pointe Claire, $12.85 or $14.15.

Virtually all of the railways' commuter services are concentrated in the Montreal and Toronto areas.

The board in its judgment made no estimate of the new annual effect of the increases on the railways' revenues.

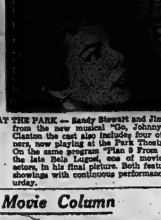
Eleven Jockeys Are Suspended After Strike

TORONTO (CP) — Stewards suspended 11 jockeys Thursday who participated in a strike which caused cancellation of Monday's final three races at New Woodbine Race Track.

The stewards also referred the cases of the 11 jockeys to the Ontario Racing Commission, the government - appointed body which supervises racing in the province. The suspensions are effective immediately.

The jockeys are suspended indefinitely or at least until the case has been reviewed by the commission. They are Ron Pilkington, Al Carroyer, Jim Cangemia, Charles Clark, Alfonso Ory, Jim Fitzsimmons, George Gubbins, Don Hale, Les Pong, Cliff Potts and Rod Wright.

George C. Hendrie, managing director of the Jockey Club Limited, which operates Woodbine and other Ontario race tracks, said its directors "completely endorse and support the actions of the racing stewards in suspending 11 jockeys."



MIGHT BE CLOSED DOWN

John J. Mooney, general manager of the Jockey Club, said: "we sponsor and support the actions of the stewards, even if it means that we must close down our track for the remainder of the season if we are faced with another strike."

Mr. Mooney said Ted Johnson, field manager of the Jockeys' Benevolent Association, had told him that any action against might be followed by another strike of jockeys.

Monday's final three races were cancelled after the jockeys said the track was unsafe. Two jockeys received minor injuries in the last race.

Mooney said he told the riders the decision "wasn't due to track conditions."

AT THE PARK — Randy Stewart and Jimmy Clanton in a scene from the new musical "Go, Johnny, Go!" In addition to Clanton the cast also includes four other Gold Record winners, now playing at the Park Theatre today and Saturday. On the same program "Plan 9 From Outer Space", features the late Bela Lugosi, one of movieland's greatest horror actors, in his final picture. Both features have first Belleville showings with continuous performances from 1.00 p.m. Saturday.

Errol Not Most Methodical Man Says Widow Pat Wymore

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — And now Patricia Wymore starts to pick up the pieces of her life.

That life was pretty well shattered with the sudden death of her estranged husband, Errol Flynn, and the turmoil that followed. Now she is tangled with the legal aftermath, as well as rehearsing daily to continue the revival of her career as an entertainer.

"It is a tremendous job, putting my career back on track," she remarked during a rehearsal break. "Errol was not the most methodical man in the world."

MANY DETAILS

"The will has been filed for probate in New York, and I expect it will be a long time before it is settled. Meanwhile, I have to take care of all kinds of details. There is the estate in Jamaica, where around 150 people are employed. My yacht is in Spain with a crew of 10. I have to keep track of those who are keeping an eye on it until I can get there."

I asked her about the contest of the will by 19-year-old Beverly Aadland. Miss Wymore's reply was pithy and unquotable. She has held her tongue with the blonde prodigy, but she did make this comment:

"I had newspaper men call me to apologize for writing the stories they did about the recent events. I appreciate their sentiments, but it amazes me at the amount of public interest in this tale of juvenile transgression.

"I am concerned not only by the grief that it has caused my family and Errol's family, but because of the impression that this must have on juvenile minds. This girl is set up as the example to follow for all young actresses who want to get ahead in show business."

SURPRISED AT DECISION

She added that she was surprised that the district attorney's investigation into Miss Aadland's possible delinquency was dropped after the testimony of only one person—her mother."

What about the value of the Errol estate? Miss Wymore believes it will be substantial. The bulk of the holdings will come from the Jamaica property and incomes from various theatrical ventures she said.

She is also engaged in preparing for a new musical revue, in which she stars with Marilyn Maxwell, Julie Wilson and Dagmar. Pat has been having success as a night club single entertainer, and she admitted the road back was not easy.

"It has been satisfying, but it is hard and lonely work — I don't have a man to go with me. I'm doing nothing to do when you're not performing."

Garry Moore Hasn't Money To Bring in Expensive Stars

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Garry Moore, as star of a weekly variety show, just hasn't the money to bring in the expensive experts for routine maintenance work: Attracting the audience, building the ratings. So Moore and his professional family are on a do - it - yourself entertainment campaign.

"Our show is budgeted at around $100,000 a week," explains Moore. "One week we were opposite that Rosalind Russell special that cost $600,000 and had a billion stars in it. We just can't compete in that money league.

"So we're trying to build from within — develop our fun around our regular group."

Moore's regulars include Durward Kirby, Marion Lorne, Allen Funt and his candid camera antic — recently added—Carol Burnett.

"Whether you like ratings or not, you've got to live with them," Moore points out "and according to the latest Nielsen we've managed to hang onto our audience. But even then, we've maintained our audiences, we've been outrated by the station specials. That can only mean that the big specials are attracting more viewers to their sets."

Week after week Moore is opposite expensive shows. But he does not believe that public interest in the widely publicized and expensive one - shots will mean the death of the regulars and the TV series.

"After all," he concludes wryly, "I keep remembering that the two shows with the highest ratings in TV history were un-

HUNGRY BEARS

CHILLIWACK, B. C. (CP)— Shortage of berries in the mountains has brought an invasion of bears into the orchards. About 30 black bears have been shot when found stripping orchards in this area.

Sarnia Coach Not Too Happy Over Fmals

SARNIA (CP)—Sarnia Golden Bears rolled over the opposition in their last three games of the regular Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union schedule. But coach Frank Tindall hopes they're saved as the squad prepares for the first game of the best-of-three against London Lords Saturday night.

Tindall said Thursday he hopes his team won't let down.

In London, coach Al Bruno is applying a "get tough" policy. He put the team through a stiff two-hour workout Thursday night.

The Lords performed well Tuesday night when they pounded the Dutchmen 29-6 in the rubber-a-death semi - final. Bruno says he plans to keep his players in the same frame of mind for the Sarnia series.

PRES POSSIBLE

"We're still going to work hard," said Pye told them they will be more fines (14 were fined after the last loss to Sarnia) if anybody lets down again. The Bears are tough, but if we're right, I think we've a good chance."

Rogai said all the Sarnia players are fit and ready for action. The final game was picked to produce a battle between the Bears' running game under the direction of quarterback Hal Lefrand and the passing attack of London's Jerry Thompkins.

The second game will be in London Nov. 10 and a third if necessary in Sarnia Nov. 14.

Sarnia and London ended the regular season tied in points, but Sarnia earned a bye into the final by their superior scoring in games against the Lords.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Boozer Club has offered to raise $500 to help purchase a goalkeeper for the MacFarlands.

More power to their little pea-pickin' elbows.

The actual extent of the damage to Gordie Bell's eye is not yet ascertained. He suffered the injury during the October 27 game with the Whitby Dunlops.

You never miss the water until the well runs dry—and that has been proven in the case of the MacFarlands' goalkeeping department.

They need—and need badly—among other things, a Senior "A" calibre goalkeeper.

Turk Barclay has been doing yeoman service in a pinch-hitting role. But the Turk had to go in there cold. He has had little if any solid practice between the pipes. He has been too busy at his job as trainer—and caretaker of the proporties. Dodds of Queen's is definitely not senior "A" type.

The Boozer Club was informed at its general meeting the other night by a member of the club executive, that negotiations were under way to purchase a senior "A" goalie. The club decided of its own volition to give a grant of $200 to the club towards the purchase of the goalie.

We do not know anything about "help up front" but a news despatch from Minneapolis the other day said Johnny McCaffrey had been relieved of the coaching duties of the local club after three games and had "been recalled by the MacFarlands' management." It seems Flori Goegan has taken over the coaching reins of the Minneapolis club from McCaffrey.

However, the Boozer Club has committed itself, so to speak, and intends raising the necessary $500 through the medium of a membership drive. At present the membership approach is 137. 500 new members are needed.

So how about it. Let's get behind the Boozer Club and the MacFarlands.

The Macs have lost six of their first seven starts, and it has been shown at the box office. Attendance has dropped off until it is nearer that of a disappointing low. The cliche that fans will not support a losing team is again proving itself.

But let's consider the facts. The MacFarlands have been handicapped by Lady Luck, courting Dame Misfortune, gaining the brush-off by the goddess of breaks and hit hard by the injury jinx.

True, there has been a lack of bench strength that put the Macs on the spot when injuries struck. Hindsight would have forced to juggle his lines, break up regular combinations and use generally a mixed-up line-up. His hunch has been instrumental in preventing the team, as it is, from flashing its true potential.

There is another important thing, too, that fandom should not forget. This is the toughest senior "A" league the MacFarlands or any other club in the circuit has encountered since the beginning. Windsor, Kitchener, Chatham have built organizations that are flashing topflight ability. Whitby is about on a par with other years, although at times they have appeared stronger.

There is nothing wrong with the MacFarlands that a good goalie and two or three out-front players will not cure. Fans should not be in too big a hurry to criticize—and should remember that players are human too, and support from the stands and the box office will help a lot.

We have the utmost faith in Ike Hildebrand and the club. And if management comes through with the required public assistance we can see Boozer Park a more reasonable lack and their share of the breaks the team will be in there with the best of them when the chips start flying.

You can help the club by joining the Boozer Club. All it costs is a dollar, and membership tickets can be obtained from Bill Cook's shop or Jack Diamond's men's store or from other members.

You can also help by attending the "Meet the Macs Ball" scheduled for the ANAF auditorium, Front Street, on November 14.

You can also help tonight by supporting the Macs in their clash with the high-flying Kitchener Dutchmen. The Dutchies are leading the league but they can be beaten, and the Macs, as they are, intend to prove it, if possible.

Bruins 'Bust' Sawchuk With 8-Goal Explosion

Uke Line on Rampage Again Scoring Four in 8-3 Victory; Canadians Clobber Blues 8-2

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

It appears Terry Sawchuk's great balancing act has finally collapsed.

Sawchuk carried Detroit Red Wings through the early part of the National Hockey League season by giving them such stalwart outstanding that their low-scoring didn't matter.

Thursday night the dam broke. Sawchuk was beaten eight times and Detroit lost 8-3 as Boston Bruins' Uke line again went on a rampage.

It was the same old story in Montreal, where Canadiens—unbeaten in eight previous games—swallowed New York Rangers 8-2 as netminder Jacques Plante wore his plastic mask for the first time through a whole game.

END OF FINE RECORD

Sawchuk had allowed only 15 goals in 11 previous games during which he had not been beaten more than three times in a game. But the Bruins, who now have 20 goals in their last three games, pasted it on scoring five goals in the second period and two in the third.

Vic Stasiuk's second clutch goal game this season—The Bruins defeated Montreal 5-4 on Oct. 11.

The Uke line got four goals Thursday night. Johnny Bucyk scored two and Bronco Horvath and Vic Stasiuk one each. Horvath's 12th in 13 in games. The Uke now has 25 of the team's 48 goals.

Fleming Mackell, Leo Labine, Charlie Burns and Nick Mickoski got the others for Boston. Gordie Howe, Gary Aldcorn and Norm Ullman tallied for Detroit.

REACHES MILESTONE

Howe also assisted on Aldcorn's goal, making his 1,000th point in his 14-year NHL career.

Rangers were in the game only briefly as Canadiens ran up their highest score this season.

Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion closed in on Rocket Richard in the scoring race with two goals and two assists. Phil Goyette also scored twice, Ralph Backstrom, Bill Hicke, Jean Beliveau and Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard once each. It was the first NHL goal for Hicke, American League scoring champ last year who was playing his 24th game with Canadiens.

Earl Ingarfield and defenceman Bill Gadsby scored for New York Rangers.

Plante, wearing his much-publicized face mask, made 18 saves. New York's leading goalie Worsley stopped 44.

Chicago Black Hawks, winless in their last 10 games, Saturday will be without captain Eddie Litzenberger and winger Ens Nesterenko, both left at home Thursday when team entrained for Montreal. Litzenberger's manager Tommy Ivan said Litzenberger, who was leading the team in scoring, and Nesterenko are "the worrying type." He felt a few days respite from hockey may snap them out of their slump.

Clair Warns Ottawa Riders 'A Mistake Can Lose Game'

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — A football coach's job, like a housewife's, is never done.

Example: Coach Frank Clair of Ottawa Rough Riders.

Right now he is busy bringing up his team for next Saturday's Big Four semi-final playoff with Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

But gnawing at the back of his mind, now that the season is drawing to a close, is the problem of adding new players for the 1960 training camp, specifically import players.

The nine-game all-star squad turned to so-called all-Americans.

"You have to sign those guys if you can," he said. "Just because they're not all-Americans doesn't mean they're good.

"You might sign a few, and none of them will make it. But then you can click and you've got a really good back like (Dave) Thelen."

RECORD-BREAKER

Thelen, import from Miami of Ohio, blossomed out in his second season as one of the Big Four's record-breakers.

The Canadians found conditions to their liking Thursday. The way in which Stuart Jones, Ottawa quarterback, was allowed had to battle all the way against Tiger-Cats' Garfield, played two won one; Canada, played two, won one.

CLAIR COMES THROUGH

The Canadians found conditions to their liking Thursday. The way in which Stuart Jones, Ottawa quarterback, was allowed had to battle all the way against Tiger-Cats' Garfield, played two won one; Canada, played two, won one.

Other results (Canadian names first):

Singles: John Johnston defeated John Drury 2 and 1; Ron Barnett defeated Don Glading 4 and 3; Nick Weslock defeated Jerry Nowak 3 and 2; Tim Thurst defeated Ross Murray 1 up.

Foursomes: Cowan and Weslock lost to Jones and Charles 2 and 4; Tiechurst and Willey defeated Drewick and Nowak 3 and 2; Johnston and Silverberg defeated Drury and Glading 2 and 1.

OPPOSE TENNIS OPENS

MELBOURNE (AP) — Donald M. Ferguson, president of the Australian Tennis Association, said Thursday he opposed open tournaments but added that they "would be played within two years if they become inevitable."

He was asked to comment upon a secret meeting of Wimbledon officials in London Tuesday night at which it is believed open tourneys were given the green light.

Robert N. Vroland, chairman of an Australian committee which is preparing a report on tennis amateurism, said "open tourneys are a certainty, but it is vital that they should be organized by the control of amateur organizations."

Canada Golfers Win Over New Zealand

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Canada and Britain gained their Wednesday victories in the Commonwealth amateur golf tournament.

Canada, Thirteen had suffered heavy defeat to South Africa and Australia on the first two days, gained a surprise 7-2 win over New Zealand. Alex Sutherland the foursomes 2-1, Canada crushed New Zealand 5-1 in singles.

Britain narrowly beat Australia in this year's winners. In South Africa, now the only undefeated team of the five competing countries, by the odd hole in day.

Positions after three days' play in the five-day tournament are:

South Africa, played two, won two; Canada, played two, won one; New Zealand, played two, lost two; Australia, played two, won one; Canada, played two, won one.

Marlies, Petes Win Over Cubs, Teeps

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Right winger Howie Menard scored his hat trick to pace Toronto Marlboros to a 3-2 shutout victory over Hamilton Tiger-Cubs and Peterborough Petes edged Toronto Teepees 4-3 in two Ontario Hockey Association Junior A games Thursday night.

The Marlboros win at Hamilton's Barton Street Arena took place with Barrie Flyers, Guelph Biltmores and Peterborough Petes all gaining first point behind in sixth position followed by St. Catharines Teepees, trailing by two points.

Menard scored the first two goals at Hamilton and Don Wilcox the third.

SCORELESS UNTIL THIRD

The Cubs were without left winger Larry Jeffrey, the game's leading goalscorer, who is out with a severe charleyhorse, and Bob DiBattista who has a broken nose.

Goals through the Petes and TeePees split the six penalties with a misconduct going to Barrie Flyers' Ron Low.

TeePees pulled their goaltender in the last half-minute and put the puck in the net but the blue line judge ruled it was late in the game and the tally didn't count.

Petes had an edge in the first two periods but the TeePees bided it early in the third. Doug Senior settled the issue when the Petes were shorthanded.

Other scorers were Bob Rivard, Wayne Stewart and Reg Mulholland.

Doug Robinson, Don Crosso and John Brenneman scored for the losers.

Bisons Defeat Quebec 6-3

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Billy Dea scored the tying and winning goals Thursday night as Buffalo Bisons defeated Quebec Aces 6-3 in American Hockey League action. It was the fourth straight victory for the Bisons.

Gus Mortson, Howie Glover, Lorne Ferguson and Larry Wilson scored the other Buffalo goals. Jackie Leclair scored twice for Quebec and John Bailey once to give the Aces a 3-2 lead before Dea got his goal.

Hawks Bench 'Litz, Nesty'

CHICAGO (AP) — Captain Eddie Litzenberger and Chicago Black Hawks, the team's leading scorer for the last three seasons, and playmaking Ens Nesterenko are being left behind on the Chicago Western trip, it was announced Thursday night.

The Hawks meet the Canadiens in Montreal Saturday night and go to Boston for a Sunday engagement.

"We know Litzenberger and Nesterenko have been greatly disturbed over their playing," said Tommy Ivan, general manager. "Because they are the worrying type, it is probably one of their factors in their poor performances. We feel a few days respite from hockey may snap them out of their slump."

Veteran left winger Ted Lindsay, meanwhile, is in Detroit undergoing treatment for what may be a concussion. Coach Rudolph the team if he feels better, Ivan said.

Britain Leads Golf Tourney

CLEMENTON, N.J. (AP)—Britain, the defending champion, scored 11 points on the Pine Valley Golf Club course Thursday to lead the 17th renewal of the international triangular senior golf matches.

The United States trailed in second place with nine points and Canada was third with four.

The competition consisted of match play foursomes and alternate strokes. Each man on a team decided which drive off from the tee on the odd or even-numbered holes. Only one ball was awarded for each victory and half points for a match that was halved.

The competition will conclude today with singles matches. Senior play is for those 55 or older.

The oldest player in the competition is 81-year-old Sir Cecil Dunn, who played for Great Britain in 1911.

STILL LOTS OF DUCKS

WINNIPEG (CP) — An estimated 85 per cent of the total waterfowl population in Canada, Ducks Unlimited (Canada) said Thursday. With abundant food and continuous mild weather, the report said, the waterfowl are likely to stay here until the final freeze-up.

The schedule of Solunar Periods, as printed below, has been prepared by John Allen Knight's Solunar Tables. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in the periods when you have the good cover during these times. If you wish to read the report that each day has to offer.

The Major Periods are given in boldface type. These begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half to two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

Perez Named Fighter of Month

NEW YORK (AP)—Flyweight champion Pascual Perez of Argentina today was named Ring magazine's fighter of the month for his 13th-round knockout of Japan's Sadao Yaoita in a title fight.

Yaoita was dropped from No. 1 contender to No. 2 behind Thailand's Pone Kingpetch. Kingpetch is going to get a title shot.

By whipping Yaoita, welter-weight champion Virgil Akins of St. Louis, Kenny Lane of Minneapolis Mitch, was moved up from the lightweight ranks to sixth place among the 147-pounders.

Charley Scott, who stopped leading contender Sugart Hart, took over the top spot among the welter contenders. Hart dropped to behind Duke's Louis Rodriguez.

Yvon Durelle of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B. is still second-ranked challenger for Archie Moore's light heavyweight title, behind Harold Johnson.

N.H.L. Stars

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Johnny Bucyk, left winger on Boston Bruins' Uke line, who scored two goals and assisted on two more as Bruins smothered Detroit Red Wings 8-3.

Bernie (Boom - Boom) Geoffrion, Montreal Canadiens' right winger who scored two goals and two assists in his team's 8-2 triumph over New York Rangers.

Three Rivers Shades Soo

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds ran into a tight Trois-Rivieres Lions defence Thursday night, lost 3-2 and thus failed to gain a first-place tie with Sudbury Wolves in Eastern Professional Hockey League standings.

The Lions had the edge during the first two periods and left the Thunderbirds when they attempted to tie the score in the third.

Given a two-man advantage for 18 seconds in the first period and 54 in the third, the Soo failed to get a shot on the net each time.

Trois - Rivieres scorers were Frank Bagrevez, Jean Thibeault and Leon Rochfort. Fred Hills and Guy Blake tallied for Sault Ste. Marie.

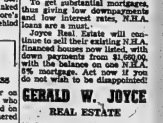
GOVERNMENT MORTGAGES "CUT-OFF"!



Yes, it was sad news to the housing industry when the announcement was made by Ottawa last Friday that the direct lending of mortgage funds by C.M.H.C. was "cut off" while the government has exhausted its supply of money appropriated for that purpose.

This will have a direct effect on Bolton and the entire district, since the Builders and prospective home owners had only one source of N.H.A. mortgages for some weeks, having to wait two months for N.H.A. loans are a must.

Joyce Real Estate will continue to sell their attractive N.H.A. financed houses now listed, with down payments from $1,500.00. with the balance on the N.H.A. 6% mortgage. Act now if you do not wish to be disappointed.

Durelle Will Fight Olson

TORONTO (CP) — Yvon Durelle, confident of his chances against Canadian heavyweight champion Gene Chuvalo here Nov. 17, has accepted a main bout with Bobo Olson, former world middleweight king.

Toronto matchmaker Deacon Allen said he learned of the Durelle-Olson fight after a telephone conversation with Durelle's manager, Chris Shaban, in Moncton, N.B. The fight is scheduled for San Francisco early next month.

"After Chuvalo gets through with Durelle, they may not want him in 'Frisco," said Allen.

Western All-Star Squads

By AL VICKERY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP)—A five-year guard with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who almost quit football this season due to pressure of business, was the only Canadian named today to the offensive team in the 1958 Western Conference Football Union all-star selections.

Ed Kolowich was one of five members of the pennant-winning Bombers to be named to the offensive squad, picked for The Canadian Press by coaches, sportswriters and broadcasters in the league cities. Bombers also placed four players on the defensive team.

The second - place Edmonton Eskimos were three spots on offence and four on defence, including backs Bobby Kuntz, first - year import from Notre Dame who was cut by Edm and then brought back when another American lineman was injured.

The surprising British Columbia Lions, who beat out Calgary Stampeders for the third and last playoff spot, made their best all-star showing since they returned to the league in 1954. Guard Tommy Hinton from Louisiana Tech was picked for the defensive team and three other B.C. players were named on defence.

NONE UNANIMOUS

There were no unanimous choices for any of the 22 positions, and no player made both the offensive and defensive teams. Fullback Johnny Bright of Edmonton topped the voting offensively, while Bronco end Harold Gray drew most votes on defence. Both are repeaters from the 1957 all-star team.

Three Canadians — Harvey Wylie of Calgary, Norm Fieldgate of British Columbia and Steve Patrick of Winnipeg—made the defensive team.

Offensive team:

Ends—Johnny Bright, Edmonton
Ends—Charlie Shepard, Winnipeg
Tackle—Ron Stewart, Calgary
Tackle—Jackie Parker, Edmonton
Quarter—Jim Van Pelt, Winnipeg
Centre—Neil Habig, Saskatchewan
Guard—Tom Hinton, B.C.
Guard—Ed Kolowich, Winnipeg
Halfback—Roger Nelson, Calgary
Halfback—Frank Rigney, Winnipeg
Fullback—Bruce Pirie, Winnipeg
Fullback—Earle Vereshagin, Calgary

Defensive team:

Ends—Harvey Wylie, Calgary
Ends—Kenny Ploen, Winnipeg
Ends—Bill Jessup, B.C.
Tackle—Norm Rollie Miles, Edmonton
Tackle—Bob Bachalcher—Norm Fieldgate, B.C.
Tackle—Bob Bachalcher—Garland Warren, Winnipeg
Tackle—Bob Bachalcher — Al Ecuyer, Edmonton
Middle guard — Steve Patrick, Winnipeg
Tackle—Art Walker, Edmonton
Tackle—Urban Henry, B.C.
End—Herb Gray, Winnipeg
End—Ed Gray, Edmonton

The selectors leaned towards the generally - accepted offensive formation of twin-fullbacks, namely the WIFU's ground - gaining leaders—Bright and Bombers' Charlie Shepard, first, former Drake star, has led the league's ground - gaining department for the last three years.

Outside running was assigned to Skyscraper outstanding halfback Filipski, from Villanova University and New York Giants of the NFL, and scoring champion Parker, who hasn't missed a touchdown since coming to Canada from Mississippi State in 1954.

Van Pelt, second-year import from the University of Michigan, had a wide margin at quarterback over Calgary's Joe Kapp. Bronco Lorenzini, and Parker, who alternated at half and quarter for Eskis this year.

Van Pelt, star of Bombers' 35-30 Grey Cup triumph over Hamilton Tiger-Cats last year, set a WIFU record this year by tossing seven touchdown passes in one game.

He was injured late in the schedule and will sit out for the season.

Tackle Don Luzzi of Calgary, the only player to make the team both ways last year, failed to make the grade this year on either team.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN

Coach Phil Watson of New York Rangers has broken his self-imposed silence. Now, things should perk up around the National Hockey League.

The talkative Phil has been in the background since the NHL opened three weeks ago while his Rhinebirds were shoving fans how easy it is to lose games. People were wondering if General Manager Muzz Patrick had laid down the law to Watson about criticizing his players in public.

But Muzz denied this, saying that Watson "is just criticizing his players in camera instead of in the press and I think it is a move in the right direction." Sports writers recalled these remarks after Rangers lost 4-1 in Toronto this week and Watson directed a verbal barrage at his team.

"I'm sick and tired of this club," he moaned. "That game-stunk and it was my brightest start this year," the statistics say. They'd better wake up because this stuff isn't going to go on."

AT HIS BEST

Watson usually is at his talking best when Rangers are winning but the Toronto loss was their eighth in 12 games. His comments, when the team was winning mostly, were of a needling nature aimed at Goalkeeper Gump Worsley.

Rangers, with Watson coaching, had made the Stanley Cup playoffs three consecutive years —1956-58 and Watson was at his vocal best, with barbs aimed at Montreal-born Gump.

Worsley has taken them all, and tossed a few back at Watson over the years. But this season, there was a switch—Patrick had a few things to say about the goalie.

Patrick has made no bones about his feelings towards the goalie. "There's no use talking about it," he says. "Gump hasn't been sharp. Every game he's allowed at least one, second-rate, two, soft goals. He's been bad on his angles and letting too many rebounds get away from him."

The running verbal duels between Watson and Worsley in the sports pages the last few years have, at times, become downright nasty. Watson hasexalled Worsley a "beer belly" and has threatened on numerous occasions to demote him to Providence, the Rangers' farm club in the American Hockey League.

He did it for 23 games in the 1957-8 season but the fact that Worsley was back in the big league at the end of the schedule when Rangers finished second. That was the highest spot Rangers had achieved since the 1941-42 season when they won the league championship but were sidelined in the Cup semi-finals.

Shortly after the 1958 season ended Watson, cornered by newspaper men up a Toronto hotel, talked of the runner - up finish and came up with this classic: "Even Gump was hustling—the fat slob."

College Boys Finish Sked On Saturday

BY THE CANADIA NPRESS

The Intercollegiate senior football league will wind up its schedule Saturday when University of Toronto Blues meet McGill Redmen at McGill and Queen's University Golden Gaels battle the University of Western Ontario Mustangs at London.

A victory for the Mustangs would send them into the first East-West championship against University of British Columbia Thunderbirds at Toronto Nov. 14. An upset win by the Gaels would give the Blues the honor providing they can tack a sixth straight defeat on the winless Redmen.

Western coach Johnny Metras said that Polhlani may see action as a corner linebacker Saturday. The fullback suffered a hip injury last weekend in Toronto.

If Polhlani doesn't play Metras plans to alternate Gary Sargent and Roger Stewart.

Under coach Dalt White, Toronto Blues have won 14 of their last 15 games, a streak stretching back to October of 1956.

They have won two of three meetings this season with Western with one including an exhibition game, but in the two games that counted they were outscored by Western.

APPROVE WOODBINE

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — The board of directors of Thoroughbred Racing Associations approved the membership applications of three race tracks, executive secretary Spencer J. Drayton announced Thursday. They are New Woodbine of Toronto, Turf Paradise and Arizona Downs, both of Phoenix, Ariz. The $12,000,000 Canadian plant is the first outside of the U.S. to gain admission to the TRA.

Magazine Calls For Abolition Of Boxing

LONDON (AP)—An influential British medical magazine called Thursday for the abolition of boxing and declared it "can unquestionably produce a punch drunk imbecile."

The recommend — the second by the magazine Lancet in five months—was sparked by the recent death of American bantamweight Walt Ingram.

The American died Oct. 26 after a fight against world champion Joe Becerra of Mexico.

SURGERY FOR SPAIN

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Warren Spahn, Milwaukee's veteran southpaw pitcher, underwent surgery Thursday for removal of a loose foreign body from his left knee. Doctors said the 38-year-old hurler's knee "will be good as ever."

Peahead Wants Dry Weather In Battle With Rough Riders

MONTREAL (CP) — Studying movies of his Montreal Alouettes in action has been self-defeating but hasn't caused coach Douglas (Peahead) Walker to figure out anything something new and startling for Saturday's meeting with Ottawa Rough Riders.

"Naturally we have been studying the movies of our past games with Ottawa," said Walker Thursday before sending his squad through a stiff workout in preparation for the sudden-death semi-final Big Four playoff game in Ottawa.

"But we have made no particular decisions about how we will play in view of what the films show."

SEES IMPROVEMENT

Walker seems to be convinced that there has been a decided improvement in the team's defensive strength during the last few games. Three new men in particular have filled gaping breeches left by injuries at middle guard and Wes Gideon and Milt Campbell at defensive half as defensive backs.

Isakea came to the Als late in the season from the Edmonton Eskimos, Campbell, one - time Hamilton Tiger-Cat, was a late - season trade from Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the ORFU, Gideon has been with the club since the training camp but was a steady benchwarmer until three games before the end of the regular season.

"We just don't have an offensive team," said Walker, "At the most we might get a touchdown—block a kick, intercept a pass, grab a fumble. Anything could be important in this game. Then, again, we've got to be ready for quick passing."

Walker said he is hopeful of a dry field and good weather. "Our team has been a passing team and if the weather is wet our throwing would be handicapped."

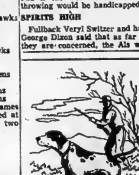
SPIRITS HIGH

Fullback Veryl Switzer and halfback George Dixon said that as far as they are concerned, the Als will go into the Big Four final against the Tiger-Cats.

"I'm sure we can win over the Rough Riders, and even the Tiger-Cats," said Switzer, "but we haven't the reserve strength of those clubs, but I've never seen such spirit as our team has now. We and it in the game against Hamilton Saturday, and that win gave us a big lift."

Dixon, who romped off with a long touchdown pass against Hamilton, let it be known he hopes to do plenty of ball-carrying in the Ottawa game. He figures that a few end runs will help to throw the Ottawa defence off balance.

DeJohn Meets Powell Tonight



SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Heavyweight Charley Powell and Mike Dejohn, both seeking to rebound into some big money bouts, clash tonight in a ten-round 10-rounder.

DeJohn, although unranked, is a 6-to-5 favorite to take the former star defensive end and linebacker for the pro football San Francisco 49ers. Powell is ranked eighth by the National Boxing Association.

Powell, who has a 30-4-3 record, including 25 knockouts, DeJohn, 28 next month, has whipped 37 foes, 20 by knockouts, against seven losses and a draw.

RELEASE VETERAN

VICTORIA (CP) — Manager-coach Hal Laycoe of Victoria Cougars of the Western Hockey League has announced release of defenceman Carl Kaiser, 32, playing his 12th season of professional hockey.

Bonarlaw

BONARLAW — Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gordon attended the Farmers' Union convention at Guelph, on Tuesday.

Mrs. Walter McIlroy is visiting Miss Spry, in Leamington, and friends in the USA.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Henderson, and John, Toronto, spent the weekend with Mrs. D. Wellman and Charles.

Mr. and Mrs. Stacey, Oshawa, visited Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wellman, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Trevor Kerr, of Ottawa, spent some time with Mr. and Mrs. R. Wellman.

Mr. Arnold Huffman attended the Farmers' Union convention at Guelph.

The W. I. meeting was held at the home of Mrs. H. Stiles, on Wednesday with a splendid attendance. It is being the Hallowe'en meeting several were in costume; the others paid a fine.

Mrs. C. Tucker, Mrs. Don Tucker, Mrs. George Mumby, Mrs. G. Chisholm and Mrs. J. McKeown were guests at the WI meeting on Wednesday, Mrs. D. Tucker put on a demonstration.

A congregational meeting was held in St. Mark's Anglican Church on Wednesday evening. Mrs. Dan Kellar is spending some time with her mother and friends, at Columbus, Ohio.

Mr. Ted Symons and Miss Patricia Aunger, of Manning, were married on Friday, October 30th, by Rev. R. G. Fleming. A luncheon was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Solmes. Mr. Solmes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Solmes, of Springbrook.

On Friday evening, a bayride was held for the young people of St. Mark's and district. The Rev. R. G. Fleming was the driver of the tractor. After the ride, all gathered in the parish hall where hot dogs and coffee were served.

Several attended the fowl supper sponsored by the United Church of Springbrook on Friday evening in the Orange hall. Mrs. Ken McAlpine visited Mr. and Mrs. Max Clarke on Mrs. Thomas.

It has been learned that Mrs. Lillian Cooper, wife of Mr. Peter Cooper, had passed away at her home in Sutherland Springs, Texas.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Solmes was scalded with hot coffee and was taken to Bayside Hospital for treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Neal spent the weekend with Mr. George Neal, of Toronto.

MR. TWEEDY

by Ned Riddle

"I've got to get away from that intercom for a while. If I hear another buzzer today, I think I'll go nuts!"

Astrological Forecast

Saturday, November 7

General benchmarks: This is one of those Saturdays when you'd be wise to rest and relax as much as you can. Try to avoid every sort of upset and use especial care on the highway since the startling, the dramatic and the unpredictable can easily occur if such caution is not entertained. Sleep late, get rid of various chores. Be kind and gentle.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Steer clear of any arguments with loved one or comrade, for this could have dire results. Later in the day you can give a little party inexpensively at some nice place and repay your social obligations handily.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Be certain you follow through with obligations to an associate, sans falling down in any part thereof. This will set any unpleasant altercation that could have really dire results. Establish yourself as a person of real character.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Instead of fuming over your lot in life, be out this Saturday studying modern systems that instead and drew others to you. Don't be extravagant. Make peace with all through gentility and thoughtfulness.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 22) — Dynamic associates ought to propose certain plans today, but home ties would oppose strenuously. Listen to what they have to say, but make no committments. Don't endeavor to bring out any specific points at home. Avoid arguments.

Virgo (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) — Labor very carefully in whatever you do about the house today, or the car, for some minor expensive little damages could occur. Also, be courteous with helpers. P. M. take care while out driving. Do not spend.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — Overcome that temptation to spend too much for something that does not have the value you think it has. Also, avoid that very demanding individual. Be wise and listen to your good adviser.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — This is one of those days that will help you be more successful and happy. Meet interesting and congenial people, but keep them apart from your regular comrades.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Not a good day for taking trips, and much caution should be exercised in general travel, or there could be some serious accident or damage incurred. P. M. make interesting new place for having fun inexpensively.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Instead of spending more money on things that could deplete your savings, invest a little to repair property and get busy making home more valuable by hard work. P. M. take health treatments. Avoid wagging tongues.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — You are mighty tempted to give a piece of your mind to some who irk you today, but an understanding and kind manner will bring about more effective results with less wear and tear on your nerves. Make lasting friendships.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Do not be permit that private worry to mar your day. There is much that you can accomplish very efficiently, and there are persons who look to you for assistance, particularly among close ties. Be generous.

If ever child is born today it is the interesting little child born today is the type who soon will feel that life is best lived by fighting everyone who opposes his, or her, will. Early teach your clever child that words are mightier than fists. Get your offspring interested in sports as soon as possible to wear off some of that excessive energy. This chart is most promising wherever the forte is — and it could be as a pugilist for the male.

BATTLING ARCHAEOLOGIST — Dr. Richard MacNeish, 41-year-old American-born Scot who is senior archaeologist of the National Museum of Canada, used his earnings as a boxer to study his profession. For the past 11 years he has conducted the most sustained archaeological program ever undertaken in the western Arctic. Here he examines skulls unearthed near Johnstown, Alta., and identified as those of Iroquois Indians who lived between 1300 and 1500 A.D. (CP Photo).

Archaeologist Used Earnings Of Ring to Study Mysteries Of Prehistoric Man at College

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. Richard S. MacNeish, 41-year-old Scot who is senior archaeologist with the National Museum of Canada, is a one-time fighter who used his ring earnings to study the mysteries of prehistoric man at college.

His brief pro boxing career was strictly a means to an end.

For the last 11 years, the American-born Scot, who has been conducting the most sustained archaeological program ever undertaken in the Western Arctic. His preserve has been a human flyway, trod by ancient men from Asia whose migrations across the Bering Strait are believed generally to have peopled the New World down to the bottom tip of South America.

ENERGETIC WORKER

Dr. MacNeish's work or on one of his busmen's holidays—has turned crude stone chopping pers, weapons, skin scrapers, later Indian relics and the more sophisticated remnants of early Central American civilizations.

His northern discoveries have been the oldest yet, some perhaps 12,000 years old.

He came to the National Museum in 1949. Since then, he has concentrated on the Yukon and western Northwest Territories. But he has also excavated in Arizona, Illinois, New York state, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, British Columbia, Mexico, Guatemala and Honduras.

He, among other staff members, emerged unscathed last year from internal museum discord that led to the resignation of Jacques Rousseau, director of the human history branch. He was the subject later of a long series of questions in the Commons from CCF house leader Hazen Argue, who criticized appointment of Americans to the museum staff.

WANTS MORE CANADIANS

Dr. MacNeish, one of two museum staff members singled out, did not comment publicly. But in private he says Canada hasn't enough archaeologists of her own because many are turned out by Canadian universities. The United States, on the other hand, produces them by the bushel.

The doctor is slightly built with receding light brown hair and a nose shunted off course by his fistic career. His record: An aspirant New York State Golden Gloves championship and four wins in five Chicago club fights at $25 each.

Even with several pounds of old arrowheads in each pocket, he weight still isn't much over his fighting weight of 118 pounds.

The one defeat on the professional record of Battling Scotty MacNeish is explained as "an educated fighter's determination to stay on the canvas to avoid further injury to a cut eye." The Battler's friends still call him Scotty, a label derived from his Golden Gloves appearance in a kilt.

EARLY INTEREST

Dr. MacNeish was born in New York and his archaeological bent hardened in the eighth grade during a classroom project. The doctor says he planned first to go on $1,000 and then turn to archaeology. He had actually started putting clocks together in his grandfather's factory when his father, Brooklyn college professor, lured him off on a brief archaeological field trip.

Archaeologists MacNeish says looked back, taking a degree in anthropology at the University of Chicago and post graduate fellowship studies at Michigan and Harvard.

He was pursuing Iroquois lore when the National Museum in 1948 invited him to start working in the Mackenzie River valley area for early migration traces.

In 1949, he arrived at Yellowknife, N.W.T., on Great Slave Lake, and hitched flights with bush pilots into the surrounding barren lands. He has returned north every summer since, accompanied by a white side and either Indian or Eskimo assistants, ranging from the shores of the Arctic Ocean to the southwest corner of the Yukon.

EXCITING FIND

More than 100 sites of ancient man have been located. His most exciting find?

"I'd have to say the 1955 one on the Firth River in the upper northwest corner of the Yukon," he says. There proved to be nine layers of artifacts and remains, including some which may have belonged to peoples who avoided the last ice age in North America.

The MacNeish party, wet and tired had moved up on an old caribou crossing and the doctor slumped down to rest. Then he noted beside one soggy moccasin a human-shaped stone fragment.

His objective has been to attempt to link the various finds to show the relationship between the oldest and most Asian—which duplicates those found in Russia—with later types indicating evolution from the ancestral rock. He wants to find time to learn Russian.

Dr. MacNeish makes no claim to be a perfect woodsman but he admits preferring field work to his office in Ottawa, even though he may work 80 or 90 hours a week here analyzing his artifacts.

Sunday School Lesson

Judge Each Man Alone

By ROY L. SMITH

There is something almost monotonous about the way the early Christians became involved with the law. It was not that they were quarrelsome people, but that they were convinced and, being so, they could not be persuaded to live forever on the safe side of the tracks.

Throughout much of the New Testament, especially the Gospels, the Pharisees are represented as having been the critics of Jesus, but in the book of Acts it appears that it was the Sadducees (their party rivals) who made trouble for the Christians. On more than one occasion the popular party, the Pharisees, are represented as being friendly to the followers of Jesus.

THE MAN GAMALIEL

Gamaliel, the man who might be called the secondary hero of this story, was the grandson of one of the most famous doctors of the Law the Jews ever produced. It appears that he may have inherited his grandfather's tolerant spirit and fair-mind. At any rate, in this lesson he plays the role of an open-minded and gracious scholar who is much more interested in justice than in playing the part of prejudice.

It is an unfortunate fact, but a fact nevertheless, that there is a strong prejudice among Christians toward anything related to the Pharisees. It is grossly unfair, but we seem to associate the name with narrowness and bigotry, so that to call a man a Pharisee is to judge him without giving him a chance to be heard.

This is one of the most common sins of today — judging men according to the labels we paste on them. In some communities it is sufficient to damn a man if he is known as a Republican, and in other communities, he is apt to suffer the same fate if he is known as a Democrat. In the minds of some a man is to be despised if he is a Catholic, and to be shunned on the opinion of others if he is a Protestant.

The Uniform Sunday School Lesson for November 8: "SUPREME ALLEGIANCE TO GOD," Acts 5: 17-42.

There are Roman Catholics of whom the Roman Church is not proud, and there are Protestants of whom no Protestant denomination would be proud. To classify all men of any group according to one standard opinion is to deal unjustly with all.

There were Pharisees who were contemptible, but there was also Gamaliel. The tolerant should never be judged by the intolerant; the honest should never be judged by the crooked. Every man has a right to stand on his own feet and be judged according to what he is in his own right. If this be true of Gamaliel, it is also true of every other man, whether he is Jew or Gentile, white or black rich or poor.

OPPOSING IDEAS OF GOD

This does not mean, of course, that every man is in danger of being found opposing our ideas concerning God, for it sometimes happens that our personal or particular ideas about God are mistaken concl.

But just as it would be folly for a chemist to fly in the face of an established law of chemistry, so it is folly for any man to fly in the face of one of those things which, it is commonly agreed, has the approval of God.

No architectural engineer would ever try to outwit the law of gravity, but there are millions of people who are trying to outwit the moral law. Sex license, thievery, lying, deceit, greed, and conceit — all these are under indictment. For any man to rely upon them as help in time of need is to lean on broken reeds.

What is true of individuals is equally true of nations, and the State which puts its trust in deceit, cunning, and contempt for morals, is selling its own doom.

In one of the black hours of his administration Mr. Lincoln was urged to pray that God might be on his side, to which the president replied, "I would much rather hope that I was on God's side." The important thing is to move the Almighty over among us, as it is to move over alongside of him.

Webb Sworn In As New Member

OTTAWA (CP)—Rodney Webb, 63, was sworn in Thursday as Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for the eastern Ontario riding of Hastings-Frontenac.

Mr. Webb, a contractor and reeve of Norwood village, defeated Liberal William Shannon in an Oct. 5 byelection made necessary by the death early this year of Sidney Smith, then external affairs minister.

Warrender Says No Court Action Being Planned

Help to Put City Back On Right Track Pledged

TORONTO (CP) — Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender of Ontario says he will announce action by the department next week to help the city of Belleville "get back on the right track."

Mr. Warrender said Friday his department would take action on a royal commission report on Belleville's financial affairs by Judge Arthur Willmott. But he explained it won't be legal action.

"I don't want to leave the impression that any court action will be taken," he said. "We have no intention of doing that.

"When I said we'd take action I meant that we will do everything we can to help them get back on the right track."

Judge Willmott had recommended any legal action, saying it was not within the scope of his inquiry.

The report, issued Friday, accused Belleville city council and some civic officials of "gross negligence" in managing Belleville's finances. It said the city has run up a deficit of more than $600,000 and proposed repayment start with a special levy of $.6 mills next year.

A recommendation asking Municipal Affairs Minister W. K. Warrender to send temporary assistance for the city's treasury department will be before city council on Monday evening.

This was noted today by Mayor Gerald B. Hyde, who said he would ask council to accept the offer of Mr. Warrender to send assistance to Belleville until the city was able to hire suitable staff additions.

"I feel that if we don't accept the Minister's offer he may send his men down anyway", noted the mayor.

Mayor Hyde said Mr. Warrender during a telephone conversation on Thursday had offered to send three men from his department to assist at Belleville until the city was able to hire her staff additions.

He said Mr. Warrender told him he thought it ridiculous for Belleville under the supervision of the Municipal Affairs Department. The mayor thought council would be taking the proper action in taking up Mr. Warrender's offer of assistance.

John Donald, chairman of Ontario's council agenda will be previous recommendations calling for the hiring of a city auditor, two treasurer and city auditor. These two recommendations were before council at a special meeting two weeks ago but the decision was to table them until after the receipt of Judge A. R. Willmott's report on the special inquiry, which was published Friday.

Neither of the above two matters is official as the council meeting agenda, but as Mayor Hyde put it, "the only reason is that the agenda was out before Judge Willmott's report was received".

Airman Sent For Trial on Murder Count

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Arthur Langford Crocker, 29-year-old airman from Clinton, was committed Friday to stand trial at the January assizes on a charge of murder.

The charge is in connection with the Sept. 1 body-slaying of Ruth Loretta Buckley, 23, Westminster Hospital nurse.

Fourteen witnesses appeared at Friday's preliminary hearing: among them was Dr. John Fisher, attorney-general's department pathologist, who said the Buckley died of a severed left jugular vein.

Dr. B. M. Griffin, a resident doctor, said he was summoned to the patient's exercise area near his residence by a hospital chauffeur and found "the accused lying in the grass on his stomach."

"I rolled him over onto his back and found him to be bleeding from a cut in the throat . . . bleeding moderately. I recollected telling the driver if he hurried the main hospital operating room he might save his life."

Mrs. Ida Bell said she saw a woman running toward the administration department of the hospital at about 8:30 p.m. the night of Sept. 1.

"She called out: 'Help me, help me.' I grabbed hold of her and took her inside the building."

Miss Buckley died on an operating table shortly after undergoing at the admitting department entrance.

Remembrance Day Services Being Planned

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Members of the armed forces, war veterans and top government officials will take part in services and ceremonies across Canada during the observance of Remembrance Day.

Stores and most factories in at least six provinces will be closed so employees can take part in special memorial services and parades.

At Ottawa's National War Memorial, Alberta Premier Manning is expected to lead Canadian mothers who have lost sons in the two wars in prayers of a nation as she places a wreath on the cenotaph.

Mrs. W. B. Anderson, 65, of Craigmyle, Alta., lost three of her four sons in the Second World War. She will be accompanied by her 73-year-old husband.

In Ontario, services are planned in all major communities.

Canadian Legion banquets are to be held in every week in scores of Ontario communities.

Vic McLaglen, Film Star, Dies

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (CP)— Victor McLaglen, swashbuckling screen star who once lived in Canada, died of heart failure today at the age of 72.

McLaglen, whose early career matched some of his later acting roles, was a miner, farmer, stevedore and railway policeman in Canada before the First World War. Once in Vancouver he went a-la rounds with Jack Johnson, then heavyweight champion.

TONS OF CEMENT BURY WORKERS, 4 DIE, 20 HURT

Montreal Building's Poured Roof Falls

MONTREAL (CP)—Four construction workers died Friday in a lethal mess of wet cement and twisted steel. Twenty others were injured.

The dead men were trapped when the concrete roof of an office tension to an east-end plant collapsed as it was being poured. They were working inside the structure.

For a time it was feared the death toll might reach seven. Four of them were still missing and not accounted for until nearly midafternoon — more than nine hours after the roof fell with a roar.

MEN ON ROOF HURT

The injured were working on the roof and not beneath it. Six were detained in hospital where their condition was reported good. The others released after treatment.

Searchers used bulldozers, cutting torches and their bare hands in their efforts to find missing men. Time worked against them as the cement steadily hardened.

The dead were identified as Andrew Kish, 58, a carpenter foreman; Jean Marie Lamoureux, 30, Alma Mosette, 45, Jack Mendelson, 30, and Antonio Filipo.

1,200 TONS POURED

About 1,200 tons of cement the roof arms of an extension to the adjacent plant of Johnson and Johnson, a surgical supply company.

"I don't really know how it came down," said Rene Morisset, president of the Ponoka Construction Company building the extension. "Things happened so fast."

Ernest Donolo, company engineer, said he had no idea what caused the collapse.

Man Twice Flees In Police Auto

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Police kept a close watch today on a London man who says he twice escaped custody, using a police cruiser each time.

John Lusis, 20, was arrested Friday at Byron, eight miles west of here, after police stopped a cruiser stolen from Glencoe detachment of the provincial police.

Lusis was arrested earlier in the day by Glencoe police on a farm three miles east of here for questioning in connection with the theft of 21 revolvers from the police cruiser Oct. 26.

The cruiser, recovered on the farm, had been stolen from Const. Nelson Gaetz, who left the keys when he turned his back on a car-theft suspect.

Lusis's escape occurred when Const. Thomas took his eyes off him for a moment. Gaetz, only officer in the detachment, the constable had released Lusis to assist in the second-floor office and went to the radio room a few feet away. Between calls he peeked in and if the prisoner was still there. On the third look he wasn't.

He had apparently slipped open the window, jumped about 10 feet to the ground and took off in a cruiser.

An off-duty OPP constable from Chatham spotted the car and spread the alarm. Nine police cars joined in the chase.

Little Man in Gardener's Cottage Best Soldier in Second Great War

HARTLEY WINTNEY, England (Reuters) — A bespectacled little man who looks more like a bank clerk than a retired field marshal lives quietly in a garden cottage here and keeps in international controversy rages over his in retirement.

Field Marshal Viscount Alanbrooke of Brookeborough, British chief of staff during the last four years of the Second World War, is steering clear of newspaper men for the time being.

But he does not take back a single word of his criticism of President Eisenhower's military leadership or of then Prime Minister Winston Churchill's conduct of the war.

The 78-year-old former chief of Britain's imperial general staff left his secluded home in this Hampshire town for a brief appearance on television. Ruler it back, he stubbly reaffirmed his controversial views.

After the program, he slipped back to his country cottage to continue his main hobbies—bird-watching and gardening.

The stocky, unmarried man, whom Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery described a few days ago as "the best soldier produced by any nation during His time," is a Ulsterman and a member of the Fighting Brookes family which has been in the peerage in Northern Ireland. His nephew, Viscount Brookeborough, is prime minister of Northern Ireland.

The Brookes have lived in County Fermanagh since the 16th century when one of Queen Elizabeth I's knights settled there. Members of the Brookes family fought for William of Orange and other British rulers down through the centuries.

The family has supplied scores of sailors, soldiers and administrators to the Crown.

Although he spends most of his time in the country, Alanbrooke serves as a director of two banks and of several industries, including the Hudson's Bay Company. As a retired field marshal, he draws half-pay pension of £2,500 a year.

U.S. Supreme Court Orders Steel Workers Back to Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today upheld an injunction ordering striking steel workers back to the mills.

The ruling means the 500,000 striking American steel workers must return to their jobs for an 80-day "cooling-off" under emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act.

The ruling came on the 118th day of the strike.

The high tribunal's action was announced in a five-page unsigned opinion.

Justice William O. Douglas wrote a 14-page dissenting opinion.

The court's vote thus was 8 to 1.

The majority opinion said the cooling-off provisions of the Taft-Hartley law as applied here is not violative of the United States Constitution. It then enjoined striking courts from exercising powers not of a legislative or executive nature.

The opinion noted that the court injunction under the Taft-Hartley section involved was constitutionally sound when it did not "set up a standard of lawful or unlawful conduct on the part of labor or management.

It then added:

"The injunction does recognize certain rights in the public to have unimpaired the free participation in industries vital to the national health or safety. It charges the United States as guardian of these rights in litigation."

The majority opinion said that "we do not find that by termination of the injunction after a specified time, or its machinery established in an attempt to obtain a peaceful settlement of the underlying dispute there is the injunction's pendency, detracts from this conclusion."

The court's ruling in the opinion the majority said they thought "full judgment of the lower court in upholding the injunction to stop the strike for 80 days is "amply supported on the grounds that the strike imperils the national safety."

The Supreme Court said that "the propriety of granting it was relying upon evidence of the effect of the strike on specific defence needs."

The opinion said the majority felt that did not need to pass on the government's contention that national safety in this context should be a broader concept of injunction or application.

It left to the lower suggestion that some wills, but not all, should be reopened because a few could meet specific defence needs, the court said.

The Taft-Hartley) was designed to provide a public remedy for public emergencies. It cannot construe it to require that the United States either forego the injunctive relief or that affected industry to satisfy its demands before the completed reopening of closed facilities, or demonstrate in court the unsoundness of such a reorganization.

"There is no room in the statute for the exercise of which the petitioner (the union) seeks to impose on the government."

Fear All 31 in Jap Party In Himalayas Die in Storm

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — "My husband has climbed with me for 20 years," said the wife of Hideko Kato. "He would not want to be a burden."

But while Mrs. Kato refused to believe the worst of the expedition leader in Japan, Nepal officials held out little hope for the veteran climber and 31 members of his Mount Gauri Sankar expedition.

They vanished more than three weeks ago while trying to ascend the formidable face of the 23,440-foot Himalayan Mountain named for the Hindu god of destruction.

Gauri Sankar, which straddles the Nepal-Tibet border 22 miles northeast of this Sherpa village, never has been conquered.

The party included 29 Japanese climbers and 2 Sherpa guides.

Nepalese porters perished in blizzards that swept the mountain climbing in the Himalayas.

Kato's party has not heard from since leaving its base camp 15,000 feet up on the mountain. Two porters were left at the camp and one of them brought back the Sherpas' word of the disappearance.

A thousand search got under way immediately but Nepal government officials said it might be days before they reach Gauri Sankar. An air search also is expected to begin shortly.

Gauri Sankar is about 35 miles west of the world's highest mountain—the 29,002-foot Mount Everest.

Youth Tells How He Robbed Dying Man Shot Day Before

BRACEBRIDGE (CP) — Mervin McKee said in court Friday he robbed Nelson Sloman of $24 and a wrist watch the day after the Huntsville man was shot to death in bush through the head.

McKee, a Huntsville 20-year-old, is on trial for capital murder charge arising from the shooting last June 17 of Spiers and Sloman in the bush near another Huntsville taxi-driver.

Wayne Gordon Spiers, who faced trial with McKee, pleaded guilty Friday to a reduced charge of manslaughter and was sentenced to 15 years in penitentiary.

Subsequently he gave evidence against his companion.

The bodies of Spiers and Crosso were found in a gravel pit near Port Sydney, 10 miles east of Huntsville, 11 days after the shooting. Mr. Justice Ralph Smith is the murder of Spiers.

McKee was in assize court that he and Sluman, also of Huntsville, returned June 18 to the bush where Spiers had met Dwight, east of Huntsville, in the taxi he was driving. Spiers and Crosso had ridden. They found Spiers propped against a tree.

"He was breathing gurgling sounds, it's same sounds my brother made as I put my arms around her when she was dead in the bathtub," McKee told court.

After Spiers had been robbed, McKee said he rolled the victim over, then minister of Northern Ireland.

The Brookes have lived in County Fermanagh since the 16th century when one of Queen Elizabeth I's knights settled there. Members of the Brookes family fought for William of Orange and other British rulers down through the centuries.

Delivery Stretch-Out Plan Set Up After U.S. Declines To Renew Uranium Buys

Some High Producers May Take in Small Ones

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government, faced with a drastic cutback in United States purchases of Canadian uranium, has taken action to soften the blow to Canadian producers.

A delivery stretch-out plan will be put into effect to keep a large part of the multi-million-dollar uranium industry in healthy condition during the next seven years — a period in which uranium supplies will far exceed demand.

The new plan, announced Friday night, is expected to result in some high-cost producers closing down or curtailing production. Employment in the industry which has a payroll of some 14,000 likely will be reduced because the plan calls for mines to produce the same quantity of uranium over a longer period.

MOVE NOT SURPRISE

The government was forced into the new arrangement by a decision of the Atomic Energy Commission not to buy more Canadian uranium after current contracts expire in 1962 and 1963. The Canadian producers had failed to persuade the U.S. to do so despite strong representations.

Export figures for 1958 and the first eight months of 1959 underline the importance of the American market.

In 1958 the U.S. bought $263,674,440 worth of Canadian uranium, while Britain purchased $278,505,957 — making uranium Canada's top commercial export. Exports to Britain was $13,502,809, to West Germany $315,065 and to Japan $14,464.

For the first nine months of this year, exports had a value of $230,522,976, of which $206,347,124 went to the U.S.

SOUGHT BETTER SOLUTION

In Toronto, Robert H. Winters, minister of the Ontario Trade Industry Company of Canada, said the uranium industry had looked for a better solution than the stretch-out plan. Operations would have to be curtailed drastically to account for more than 40 per cent of Canada's privately-per cent of Canada's privately-per cent of Canada's privately-per cent of Canada's privately-per cent of Canada's privately-owned reserves.

The former Liberal works minister said the plan gives the industry time to have the priority of fulfilling contracts are relieved of the necessity of bringing out the contracts at a reduced employment rate."

Mr. Winters said the government had accepted the arrangement "in the best interests of the country against Canada in the face of long-term changes in the United States commission and producers in the U.S., South Africa and Australia, which they did not know, have not been altered."

Uranium mining began Friday on the Toronto Stock Exchange following Ottawa report that an important announcement would be made affecting the industry. Prices of uranium stocks remained stagnant for several months.

The two companies, the biggest customer of Eldorado Mining and Refining Limited, government-owned company which purchases virtually all domestic production under contracts with the U.S. and Britain.

Eldorado operated valued at $1,000,000 with the U.S. and the United Kingdom but only $220,000 with the U.S. Uranium valued at about $1,000,000 during the year.

Two Sentenced To 10 Years Each On 12 Charges

HAILEYBURY (CP) — Alfred Grant Martin, 28, of Hagersville and Leslie Anderson, 29, no fixed address, were each sentenced Friday to 10 years in penitentiary.

They had pleaded guilty earlier to 12 separate and specific charges including counts of armed robbery and kidnapping.

The 10-year-sentence was imposed by Magistrate Wilfrid Lavelle for the armed robbery Sept. 27 on Hal McAllister, New Liskeard gas proprietor.

Anderson and Martin were sentenced to five years consecutive on each of two charges of kidnapping. They got lesser sentences on three others, on charges of car theft, breaking and entering, and unlawful possession of firearms.

ONE-HOUR LECTURE

Anderson and Martin stood unemotionally while they were sentenced. The magistrate took them to task in a one-hour lecture before them for almost an hour.

The court was told previously that Martin and Anderson first met in the Haileybury jail and headed for the Timagami area. They were sentenced to three months each for theft of a car.

McAllister was robbed of $50 and personal belongings, then tied up along with his son Stephen, 5, and a grandson, Rick Pansell, 2, and confined in a car.

Anderson and Martin were sentenced in two years concurrent on each of two charges of breaking and entering into cottages in the Timagami area.

For breaking, entering and theft from the cottage of John Nesarchuk in the Wawell area, 10 miles north of Kirkland Lake, they got another two years concurrent.

The kidnapping charges arose after John Procherenko, 73-year-old prospector, was held captive in his cabin Oct. 4 and 5. The night of Oct. 3, court was told, Martin had gone to the Procherenko to go with them to the bush the next day. Mrs. Arthur Way and their five children at Dome Nos. 35 miles north of Kirkland Lake.

Then the pair forced the eight people into a 1953 Chevrolet sedan and drove 150 miles south to Matinda River, where both car and victims were abandoned. For the theft of the Way car, Anderson and Martin received two years concurrent. They were sentenced to five years each on separate charges of possessing a sawed-off shotgun, and 30 days each on charges of driving while drunk and dangerous to the public peace.

FIRE KILLS CHILDREN

BROOKDALE, Pa. (AP) — Three sleeping children died Friday night in a fire which spread through the second floor of their home after a bedroom shower was being held downstairs. Their parents, attending a family oil heater, firemen said.

Flames swept the second floor of a farm house owned by Mr. and Mrs. Everett Thompson.

Waste Less Time on Those Students Who Don't Bother to Try Is Plea

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario school curriculum should be tightened up with emphasis placed on the fundamentals of school ars and less time wasted on students who don't bother to try, leading educationists said Friday.

This was the general opinion of impromptu speakers in two panel discussions at the annual conference of the Ontario Association for Curriculum Development meeting here.

"We have such big classes we must concentrate our efforts upon say what is worthwhile", said Ralph F. Dye, head of the history department at Timmins Collegiate Institute, during a discussion on the encouraging of able students.

He said he would help any backward student willing to try but warned there was danger if society becoming too sympathetic to the under - achiever, to the detriment of bright students, and he called for accelerated programs to get bright students through the public school and university.

Frank Walton, chairman of the North York board of education, suggested there should be room in the sawdust out of all courses between kindergarten and Grade 13.

He suggested that the present practice of streaming should cease to 13 years for able students.

In another panel discussing the impact of the scientific revolution on the school curriculum, delegates were concerned over the amount of overlapping in subjects taught from grade to grade.

W. R. Shoddard, assistant field secretary for the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation, termed such overlapping "an invidious evil," and called for a resolution to end it.

GRAIN ON CREDIT DEAL WITH POLES BEING ARRANGED

$17,000,000 Deal Under Negotiation

OTTAWA (CP)— A new grain for-credit deal with Poland is expected to be concluded here early next week. It is believed about $17,000,000 is involved.

The Polish negotiation announced late Friday that it has been negotiating for two weeks for the credit purchase of 30,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat and barley.

"It is expected negotiations will come to a satisfactory conclusion in a few days," said a spokesman for a trade mission headed by Jan Gladecki of the Polish foreign ministry.

DEBATE TUESDAY

The Canadian department officials confirmed that talks are under way but the Polish mission refused to divulge details. The final announcement is not expected before Tuesday.

The last big year ended last July 31, Poland took 5,565,000 bushels of Canadian wheat and 4,200,000 bushels of barley under a similar credit arrangement.

The deal is expected to mean down payment on the purchase and the balance was insured by the Export Credits Insurance Corporation—in effect, a government guarantee of payments by the Canadian grain exporters who are involved. Credit terms were not announced.

A similar deal is expected this year. It is not known if the purchase price would be involved.

MINISTER REPORTS

In Regina Trade and Commerce Minister Churchill told the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool meeting that so far in the 1959-60 crop year more than $13,000,000 worth of grain sales have been made available for grain gifts to needy countries and further credit grants are under consideration."

Mr. Churchill said Canada is in the midst of the current crop year, which started Aug. 1, with prospects of a high level of exports in the comparable period a year ago. He predicted total exports this year will reach 300,000,000 bushels.

They were 280,000,000 bushels short of that mark.

"HE IS REST OF ALL MEN WHO FOLLOWS GOOD ADVICE"

(Author's Name Below)

It is amazing how many people are quick to offer health advice. Without any study or knowledge, they tell you what you should do or take when you are sick. Thoughtless friends are sincere but unfortunately there are many opportunists. Some door-to-door peddlers and sharp mail order promoters consider profits more important than the good their products will do.

Wise men know the only person capable of giving good advice about how to treat sickness is a physician. They also realize when they obtain medicines and health aids from a pharmacist pledged to consider health more important than immediate great profits, they are always safer.

Leaves of every size, shape, and colour, backed by a cool, fall autumn theme of Quinte's commencement dance, One of the evening's highlights, besides the good food supplied by the Home and School Association, was a jitterbug, superbly executed to the music of the Rhythmaires who had been booked for the occasion.

Now a look to the future! Next Wednesday, November 11, Quinte plays host to Lakeshore Collegiate Institute, Oshawa, jug, in a COSSA semi-final game. The winners of that game play the Georgian Bay District winners for COSSA championship. For personal reasons Mr. Sisson wants the team to win. So, let's get out and cheer our team to victory!!

QUEEN RECEIVES NASH

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Walter Nash of New Zealand was received in audience by the Queen at Buckingham Palace Friday.

During United Nations Week, Jens Hansen and Carolyn Dunderty, our representatives to the Seminar at Queen's University last June, spoke to use of the experiences there. Jens had a wonderful time, participating in everything from debates in the Assembly to dances and games in the dormitory at night.

Last week saw the first edition of Quintatitler, accompanied by the first editorial by Vlasta Kabel who is doing an excellent job as editor. The paper is extremely popular as evidenced by the fact that 60 copies were sold in our corridors. One of the most popular columns is the facetious article written by Polly Pulpsaamourus who gives freely advice on all problems of young love at Quinte.

If you were vaguely perplexed upon hearing wild piano music emitted from the Bowling Alley, you had good cause. It was the Rhythm Kepetes "whooping it up" at their bowling party. After bowling for two hours the girls returned to school for a buffet supper. Bowling expert of the group was Michelle Miller with 163 but Michelle had an advantage over the rest—she had been bowling once before.

Dr. Parliament Added to Staff

Dr. J. M. McLean, manager of the Quinte District Cattle Breeding Association at Belleville, has just announced the appointment of a second veterinarian to the staff of their association.

Dr. Parliament's responsibilities will be in the fields of semen production, infertility work in the district as well as promoting artificial breeding.

Dr. Parliament has been employed by the Waterloo Cattle Breeding Association in Waterloo, Ontario, for the past six years in a similar capacity.

He was born in Ontario County near Cannington and his schooling was received in that vicinity, and he enlisted in the Royal Canadian Air Force in 1943, remaining in that service till October 1945.

After his release from the service, he enrolled at the Ontario Veterinary College and graduated from there in 1952. For his first year, he worked in general practice at Lucknow, Ontario. Due to contact dermatitis which resulted from the handling of milk drugs, he was forced to give up this occupation.

In March, 1953, he joined the staff of the Waterloo Cattle Breeding Association, and has remained with them until his moving to Belleville on November 1st.

Dr. Parliament is married, his wife being a native of Provincial Canada—Helen Summerville. Dr. and Mrs. Parliament have two children, a boy and a girl, both eight months old —twins!

DELIVERY

delivered under the stretch-out plan, extending until Dec. 31, 1966, with no change in price or quantity.

Under the plan, uranium which would have been delivered to the U.S. and U.K. under contracts expiring in mid-1963 and 1966 now will be shipped over a period extending to the end of 1966.

Eldorado will make an advance payment of $2.50 a pound for uranium on which shipment has been deferred from the March 31, 1963, to Dec. 31, 1966.

This will enable the Crown-owned mines to meet amortization payments due in the pre-1963-65 period. The Canadian selling price under current contracts is $10 to $13.50 a pound.

The U.K. also has offered to make an additional advance payment of $1.50 a pound on any amount up to 14,000,000 pounds of the uranium under existing contracts which would be deferred to the period Jan. 1, 1965, to Nov. 30, 1966.

The new arrangements avail able to producers—in effect in documents for deferring deliveries — are voluntary and will be financed by advance payments from the governments the U.S. and the U.K.

They keep at least part of the industry in healthy condition, Eldorado said in a section various interoperating companies for mergers and the buying up of uranium.

A major producer could, for example, continue to deliver on schedule until the period 63 when contracts expire. It then could substitute deferred contracts it had acquired from smaller producers or mines it had bought outright.

The interest-free advance payments would be made at about the same time as delivery of the uranium would have been made had there been no deferment.

The main reason the U.S. decided not to take up an option to buy Canadian uranium after 1963-65 is that it has developed a process for rapid expansion of domestic production, the U.S. also has more uranium that it can use up to 1963-65.

The stretch-out plan amounts to a stop-gap measure to carry the Canadian industry over a period in which supply will be far in excess of demand. Eldorado hoped a growing demand for uranium for atomic power plants will inject new life into the uranium industry.

PROLONG INDUSTRY LIFE

A statement issued Friday night in the name of Trade Minister Gordon Churchill in Regina, said the effect of the arrangement, which is designed to prolong the profitable life of the industry as a whole."

"The stretch-out of undelivered quantities between companies which are in production, together with advanced payments, should enhance the position of uranium producers and the industry as a whole might otherwise have been one of severe dislocation throughout the industry."

Officials of Eldorado said they did not know what changes will develop among the structures of the 11 private companies producing uranium in Canada. However, they felt that the big companies would take over the contracts of some high-cost mines and that some of these latter mines would go out of business.

The Eldorado officials would not estimate how many employees might be affected. However they said that given a production decrease of 50 per cent, for example, it did not necessarily follow that 50 per cent of the workers would be affected.

THREE MAIN AREAS

The uranium mines are located in three main areas—Elliot Lake, in Northern Ontario; Beaverlodge, 30 miles north-east of Peterborough, and Beaverlodge, in northwestern Saskatchewan.

The producers are Pronto, Algom, Consolidated Denison, Can Met, Milliken, Northspan, Stanleigh and Stanrock at Elliot Lake; Bicroft, Faraday and Canadian Dyno at Bancroft; Eldorado, Gunnar and Lorado at Beaverlodge; and Rayrock in the Northwest Territories.

As the theme of the show was "Tight Into Fashion," the first scene took place in an airport lounge. Travel clothes, from full length "mink" coats over wool dresses in the rich colors of fall, to tailored suits and tweed suits were featured.

Sports clothes were shown in the fashionable winter resort scene, featuring slacks and sweaters, with the popular "vest" predominating.

Kay Craig and Jean Causey modeled original hats in the "Ladies of the Ministerial Belief."

The "Cocktail Lounge" provided a colorful background for the showing of cocktail dresses and hats and formals for evening wear.

The final bridal scene drew appreciative applause from the predominantely feminine audience.

The models were: Kay Craig, Ruth Lloyd, Hilda Strouts, Connie Allan, Shirley Reid, Jean Causey, Robbie Russel, Betty Chamberlain, Neveda LaGrois, Dianne Coughlan, Gordon Saunders, Valerie Komar, Doris Pond and Estelle Higgins.

Junior models were: Cathy Lloyd, Mary Claire Downey, Glenda Craig and Sharon Murray.

The clothes modeled were all from Stanley's Ladies' Wear Shoppe in Trenton. Other local stores contributing were: Gerander's Jewellers, Holmes Shoe Store, Fraser Shoes and the Tots and Teens Shop, Vogue Knitting, Beauty Counselor, Sutton and the RCAF Tee Pee Shop.

The tea which followed the show was convened by Mrs. Ruth Barty.

GOVERNOR GUEST

The Trenton Lions' Club members are looking forward to a most interesting evening next Thursday when Dr. R. E. Jamieson, Lions' Governor will be the guest speaker at the regular dinner meeting at the Queenway Hotel. The dinner is scheduled to start at 6 p.m.

ANSWER TWO CALLS

The Trenton Fire Department was called out twice on Friday afternoon. At 1.30 p.m. the Jewell Beauty Salon at 95 Dundas St. East was the call but horror had "flared" up and the other call was to a grass fire in the rear between Byron Street. In the latter case the fire was extinguished before any loss than rubbish being burned.

NEW COAT OF PAINT

The large upstairs auditorium of the Community Centre is in for a coat of paint in the near future. At present the walls and ceilings are stained. The maintenance crew will do the painting and the work will be performed locally. Modifications and repairs to the heating equipment will be done immediately. Upon completion of these repairs the system will be thoroughly checked by the Ontario Fuel Board's District Inspector and the boards will then permit the commence operation of the gas-fired system.

IN MEMORIAM

ANDERSON — In loving memory of our dear brother, Pte. Wallace Anderson, who died November 10th, 1954.

We who loved you sadly miss you,
In it dawns another year;
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Memories of you are ever near.

Sadly missed by sister and brother-in-law, Ruth and Hilding.

ANDERSON — In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Pte. Wallace Anderson, who died November 10th, 1954.

Time flies by and memories linger,
It leaves a lonely heartache,
Often a silent tear;
But there is a golden memory,
And memories we hold so dear.

Always remembered by Mum, Dad, Gerry, Ruth and Hilding.

ALYEA — In loving memory of our father, Henry Alyea, who passed away November 7th, 1958.

Sweet memories of a loving father,
The memory of someone dear,
Of life a friend of truth,
It does not dull or tarnish,
Time cannot take away.

—Sadly missed by Jack and Bea and their family.

BRAGUP — In loving memory of Mrs. Hannah Frankford Bragup, who passed away on Friday, November 7th, 1952.

Her smiling way and pleasant face,
Are a pleasure to recall;
But the heart still aches and sighs,
And sighs to see her all.

The man outlasting "a touch of indigestion" is a full-fledged member of our largest ill-health club. (It's said that possibly 25 percent of our adult population could qualify for membership.)

You will find, too, that he has one outstanding trait: a readiness to try almost any sort of treatment he reads or hears about. And yet, proper treatment of digestive disturbances . . . whether it be by diet, drugs or other measures . . . can be given only by a physician after careful diagnosis.

When symptoms occur frequently, it's the better part of wisdom to turn your doctor before you try someone's pet remedy. While your trouble may be simply and easily corrected, it could signal peptic ulcer, gall bladder disease, or something much more serious.

A digestive disturbance can easily edge over into the danger zone when you neglect it or try to treat it yourself . . . while getting prompt and proper medical care may well turn out to be one of the biggest bargains of your life.

Mt. Pleasant United Church Observes 88th Anniversary

By MRS. PERCY McMULLEN

RAWDON — A large group of worshippers gathered at Mount Pleasant United Church on Sunday morning to observe the 88th anniversary of the erection of the church in 1871 by the pioneers.

There were both old and new friends in the audience as well as many former church members who are residing elsewhere. The edifice was filled to capacity with an overflow in the church basement.

A P. A. system had been installed by Mr. Maurice Bell and this carried the message to all. Large baskets of 'mums and potted plants were used for decoration, some of which were memorial flowers.

Guest speaker was Rev. Elgie Joblin, M.A., B.D., of Toronto, assistant secretary of the Home Mission Board of the United Church of Canada. In 1928 the official board of Rawdon charge, convening in this church, recommended Elgie as a candidate for the ministry when his father, Rev. Fred G. Joblin of Port Perry, was minister of Rawdon circuit.

Rev. Joblin had fond memories of his early training in this church, and he brought to the audience a few reminiscent remarks, and also news of his father before he proceeded with his message, based on the theme, "A Personal Saviour."

DESCRIBES CHURCH WORK

He gave a descriptive account of the work of the church across Canada and stressed the word "Insecurity." The doubts and fears are affecting many people, both young and old, he said.

He referred to the apostle Paul, who said: "He shall have dominion also from sea to sea and from the river unto the ends of the earth"; and "The Word of God was made flesh and dwelt among us."

There is a tremendous claim throughout the old and new testaments that God is the ruler of the world and again the psalmist has said: "What is man that thou art mindful of him?" Thou hast crowned him with glory and honor and made him little lower than the angels."

The speaker gave several illustrations to prove that God's Son came in person to redeem the world, and He lived with the people from day to day. He quoted that old familiar hymn, "My Father is rich in houses and lands," and claimed the regret and contentment of being "a child of the King."

The past two years have seen many significant changes in Canadian work across Canada and the welfare of the Canadian Indian, he said, the government in providing Indian students with higher education if they so desire it.

VISITS NORWAY HOUSE

The speaker gave a graphic picture of his recent visit to Norway House Residential School in Manitoba. At this institution he gave messages to the young people in each of the nine class rooms, and conducted a service in "The James Evans Memorial Church."

The mass of Indian youth, including students in schools across Canada, spell hope and encouragement, and their future and strength will be determined by the contribution which they make to the cause of Christ, he stated.

He asked, "Are we people willing to share our gospel with the Canadian Indian across Canada, and thus see these young students go out into the world with a great vision and dedicated thought in their minds of peace and good-will to their fellowmen?"

Mr. Joblin stressed at his closing thought that "relationship with Christ must be a personal matter." Young people everywhere need to make definite decisions early in their lives and then conform to "His way of life" when they become members of Christ's church.

The pastor, Rev. W. G. Fletcher, B. A., conducted the service. Mrs. Kenneth Weaver officiated at the organ and Mrs. Mae Sharp was pianist. Opening anthem was "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." The full choir, under the direction of Mrs. Carleton Potts, sang "O Jesus I Have Promised," by Nolte, with Mrs. Garth Joslin taking the solo part. Mrs. Marguerite McMullen contributed a vocal selection, "Spirit of God," by Medlinger.

The offering was gathered by Messrs. Bert Sharpe, Tony Jonkman, Allen Fletcher and Lyle Johnson.

The service closed with "God's Own Hand Shall Guide Thee to Heaven's Eternal Joy" and Thy Prudion of Faith and Prayer." Benediction.

EVENING SERVICE HELD

There was a large attendance at the evening service which opened with a prelude by Dykes "Hymn of Praise." The Teen-Age Ensemble sang "The Stranger of Galilee." Vocal special parts taken by Misses Gail Thompson, Lorraine Johnson, and Diane McAdam.

The full choir rendered "He's Calling You," by Hines, and Miss Carol Sharpe sang the solo part.

Mr. Roger Smith assisted in gathering the offering and the offertory music was "My Jesus I Love Thee," by Gordon.

Rev. Joblin based his message on "Servants of Christ." He first spoke of the men of the Old Testament days and then gave vivid illustrations of the various ways that Jesus served during the ministry on earth. There were many instances where He took people by the hand and healed them.

In today's world there are many opportunities to serve as there are many difficult situations that call for a guiding hand needed, he said. Thus Christian Stewardship is also one where we be concerned and to express it in our daily lives in our willingness to be servants of Christ.

HAS DEFINITE PLACE

The Church has a very definite place in the life of individuals, and each person must fit in his own place in the support, he said. The United Church is a vast organization and through the Board of Home Missions, personal service, money, prayers, are also all needed.

Each member of the United Church has a place to be concerned and to have a share in the missionary work of the church.

Rev. Joblin told of his visit picture of the ports of entry at Halifax, Quebec City, where port workers meet the new arrivals, call them by name, speak to them in their own language, and welcome them to Canada, for "the Dominion of Canada is received into one of the churches of the Dominion."

He then pictured a trip on "The Happy Thomas Mission Boat" along the Pacific coast, and of their intended visit to a lighthouse keeper living on his seas, they were unable to go ashore.

The speaker then gave first hand information regarding the work carried on at Norway House and paid tribute to the W.M.S. community work there.

W. Gall. Here a new chapel was built and much good work is carried out.

All across Canada the Indian work is progressing, he stated. New churches are being built, and the Indian people are being encouraged to be active in the organizations.

Mr. Joblin gave a glowing account of projects undertaken by Young Peoples' groups in various parts of Canada. One group forwarded enough money to purchase a moving picture projector for an Indian church group; another group of Young People in Toronto forwarded to Bella Bella to purchase carpentry tools and equipment; and there were many instances where Young People were concerned about their neighbors across Canada and were willing to share.

The speaker paid tribute to the Young People of rural churches and urged them to give some thought to the great need of "servants for Christ." Individuals are needed in all walks of life—ministers, nurses, community workers. Many volunteers are needed to carry on these great missionary projects across Canada.

Mount Pleasant has had two ministers go out from their Sunday School and congregation — one is a minister in the United Church and the other is Rev. Joblin.

He challenged the group to give serious thought that some person in the congregation will volunteer to be the next to give his service for the people of the world.

The anniversary closed on the theme, "Rise Up O Man of God and Give Heart and Soul, Mind and Strength, to Serve the King of Kings."

Injuries Fatal

HAMILTON (CP) — James Mark, 44, of Brampton died Friday night of injuries suffered in a Halloween night two-car crash near Hagerville, 22 miles southwest of here.

Dancers From Many Nations in National Ballet

Dancers from many lands are represented in the National Ballet of Canada, paradoxical though that may sound at first. The company is to make a one-night appearance here on the evening of November 9, in the Collegiate auditorium.

Among the most of the dancers are native-born, Angela Leigh, principal soloist, born in South Africa, was trained and educated in England and came to Canada in search of a career. David Scott and Joanne Nesbit, a young married couple, toured a number of countries with London's Festival Ballet. Maryann de Lichtenberg was in Hungary, trained in England, was brought to Canada with her parents and makes her professional debut with the National Ballet this year.

Hans Meister still has traces of his native Swiss accent. Several from the United States journeyed north in search of a career. Teresa Maan equally fluent in French and English, studied through much of South Americes and is the only Canadian representative Canadian firms there. Born of Danish-Norwegian parents Earl Hanson has had a variety of roles in the company, classical and character, contemporary. Grace Franca, the artistic director of the National Ballet, was born in England and had a long established career with Sadler's Wells before coming to this country.

Constable Hears Breaking Glass, Youths Arrested

The sinkle of breaking glass heard by a police patrol officer as he walked his beat on Upper Pinnacle Street resulted in the apprehension early today of two Belleville men who have been charged with attempting to break and enter the National Grocers warehouse.

In custody are Gary Marriott, 21, Grier Street, and Robert (Sonny) Orr, 22, Catherine Street.

Marriott was said taken into custody at the scene, while Orr was captured after a short chase by police officers.

Constable Frank Hall was patrolling his beat about 1:30 this morning when he heard the noise apparently coming from the vicinity of the National Grocers warehouse.

Investigating the noise he spotted two men on the loading ramp outside the building and succeeded in taking the pair into custody. The second man ran.

A passing provincial police officer was flagged down with result that city police were notified. The second man was taken into custody a short distance from the warehouse.

Police said that two panes of glass had been taken out of a delivery door at loading ramp at side of the building when the men were interrupted by the patrol officer.

The two young men are being held in custody for court appearance on Tuesday.

District Local Assoc. Holds Annual Meeting.

FRANKFORD — On Wednesday evening, October 28th, the Brownies, Guides, parents and members of the Local Association of the Batawa-Frankford District attended the annual meeting in Frankford community hall.

Mrs. Marian Moore, of Trenton, retiring District Commissioner, was in charge of the first part of the meeting and introduced Mrs. Mildred Macnab of Batawa, the new District Commissioner.

Treasurers' reports from all parts of the organization were given.

The Batawa Guides entertained the parents and children with a delightful and humorous play entitled "Camp Life." A tap dance number was performed between acts.

Mrs. Macnabs outlined the coming program for the girls and introduced Mrs. Eva Smith of Trenton, Colored slides were shown by Mrs. Smith depicting a camp life at the International Girl Guide Camp at Colorado Springs, U.S.A.

There were no peasants to be won for parents attendance Frankford Girl Guide Company with Mrs. Evelyn Sawyer as captain, won with 100 per cent attendance and First Frankford Brownie Pack under the leadership of Mrs. Alice Sharpe as Brown Owl, won the banner for Brownies with 75 per cent attendance.

The meeting closed with Brownie and Girl Guide Taps.

There have been 4000 yellow tulip bulbs planted at the Bata recreation hall, Frankford Public School and Frankford community hall, by the girls of this district. These were planted to show appreciation to the local communities for the use of meeting places. In the spring of 1960 yellow tulips donated by Girl Guides and Brownies will bloom across Canada to commemorate the Diamond Jubilee celebration.

The collection taken Wednesday evening was sent to Dominion Headquarters in Toronto as a donation to the "Square Inch Fund" for the new Girl Guide building being erected there.

Dies in Collision

ROCKLAND (CP) — One driver was killed and the other seriously injured Friday night in a two-car head-on collision near this town 30 miles east of Ottawa. Dead is Ernest Alvin Thompson, 33, of Rockland. Roy Whelan, 22, of Aylmer, Que., was taken to hospital in Ottawa.

Young Mother Killed by Train

INGERSOLL (CP)— A 25-year-old mother of three was killed Friday and her three-month-old son tossed out of his buggy by a 39-car CNR freight train at a busy crossing in this street level crossing here.

Dead is Mrs. Gertrude Pepper. Her son, Gordon Alvin, was taken to hospital where officials said he appeared to be uninjured.

Police said the Thames St. crossing gates were down, red lights flashing and signal bells operating when the accident occurred.

France Faces Trouble

One of the arguments which pessimists advance is that the world does not improve, that the standard of conduct, by individuals and by nations, is no higher today than it was centuries ago.

Johnny-come latelies, in a variety of fields, have reason to know that this is not true.

France is the most recent land to discover that the world does, indeed, improve. The United States, Britain and Russia have all tested their atom bombs. Now France wants to test hers. But there are objections Not only are these voiced on the ground of the danger of polluting the world's atmosphere, but also with respect to the site chosen.

Russia has her vast Siberian wilderness in which to conduct tests. Britain and the U.S. were able to locate desserts, in Australia and Nevada. France had been conveniently depopulated many years ago of any stray wanderers, the aborigines of Australia and the Indians of the southwest having both felt the civilizing influence of the white man's guns.

When Britain and the U.S. wanted to test more powerful weapons, hydrogen bombs, they discovered convenient islands in the Pacific, where they assumed responsibility for the welfare of the inhabitants, and where they could therefore arrange that these inhabitants departed for safer climes.

France also has her desert, the vast Sahara, but there are still some nomads wandering across the sands. Moreover, there are located nearby some countries for the safety of whose inhabitants she is no longer responsible, and they enjoy membership in the UN. Thus, a few years after the French shall remove all the inhabitants from an atoll with a minimum amount of fuss, the French find that the Sahara site they have chosen for their test is being described in the UN as a fertile territory, with rich palm groves and grazing lands.

We have no idea whether it is, in fact, such a territory. But we do suspect that France's real trouble is that the world does improve, that a higher standard of conduct is being demanded of nations today than was true even a few years ago, and that while nobody but the Japanese seemed to be unduly concerned about the possibility of the Bikini tests making radioactive fish upon which many Japanese depended for food, the possibilities of vast clouds of radioactive Sahara sand being sucked aloft to add a new terror to the storms is going to be viewed with horror by the representatives of many nations.

And a good thing, too.

Figuratively Speaking

The RCAF's Air Material Command has a new electronic computer. It has rented it from International Business Machines for $600,000 a year. This may seem like an exorbitant figure. But, if figures provided by a Canadian Press story are correct, and if our mathematics are sound, it would be a bargain at 1000 times that price. It is capable of doing a job which would cost the RCAF $599,040,000 if done by clerks hired at $50 a week—and that is giving the machine a two-week vacation the same as the clerks.

Of course this brings up some questions. Even if the RCAF Air Material Command is the biggest business in Canada, as The Canadian Press story states, does it spend $599,040,000 for clerks, figured at $50 a week salaries? That is a lot of clerks. To be precise and double-checking by a second method to assure accuracy, we get 230,400 clerks. Even if each clerk has an average-sized family (which would be a terrible misfortune at $50 a week salary, but that is just an arbitrary figure we established ourselves for simplicity in figuring), this would mean that the RCAF Air Material Command is responsible for the support of one out of every eighteen Canadians.

If the machine, instead of working an eight-hour day, five days a week, worked three eight-hour shifts a day, seven days a week, this would increase its output to the equivalent of 966,168 clerks. It is no trick at all to get the number above a million by depriving the machine of an annual vacation, holidays and coffee breaks. It can keep its sick leave and something tells us that under such conditions, it may need it.

All these interesting facts are gathered from the simple statement that the machine can do in one and a quarter seconds the work which a clerk would take two weeks to accomplish.

And if we had had that darned machine here, it would not have taken us half as long to write this editorial.

THE RIGHT OF WAY

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Because he had the right of way
He sleeps within his grave today.
He had the right to rush ahead,
Which cheers his friends now he is dead.
His widow works and hums a song
Because he wasn't in the wrong;
His children find their future bright
Because their dad was in the right.

He isn't here their bills to pay,
To share with them their hours of play;
All day the mother's strength is spent
To pay the grocer and the rent.
The debts grow larger day by day,
But father had the right of way.
Oh, right of way, what cruel shame
Must others suffer in your name!

Canada's Amazing Western Frontier

by Harry M. Moore
FORT ST. JOHN Artist

Before moving further up "the line" from Taylor to Fort St. John it might be well to return to Milage 30 where the Kiskatinaw River crosses the highway on its way to the Peace. This river supplies the water for Dawson Creek and present plans call for camping and picnic facilities near the bridge for next year. Further north, on the south bank of the Peace River, and upstream, surveyors are busy at work surveying for the site of a new town.

Even on the maps of sixty years ago there is no such place as Fort St. John. The location it marked merely as "Old Fort." But then again the map of the western part of Canada at the time showed provinces or territories such as Athabaska, across the northern part of the present provinces of Alberta and Sask. and Rupert's Land on the map of those early years was in reality the Hudson's Bay Co. which was made a trading post by the Northwest Company in 1794 and in 1799 after Alexander McKenzie and party reached the locality by way of the Peace River overland journey that was to take them across the Rocky Mountains to the tidewater. (An imposing cairn to the memory of the great Scottish explorer has been erected at the southern entrance to Fort St. John). Also for the same reason Princess Margaret who was in Fort St. John in 1958.)

Fort St. John is the largest community north of the Peace River in that area, Dawson Creek, 46 miles south, it is growing rapidly, and is a thriving centre. The town "sits" on one of the richest oil fields in the area, an area in which there are many oil wells, most of this gas going to the Pacific Coast markets before being carried by pipeline to southern British Columbia and the

BOOM TOWN

While the Alaska Highway has gained considerable fame for its building. The town itself is not located immediately on the highway. From about 800 as a village ten years ago to over 3,000 as a town today appears to be just a beginning. In the nearby area the population is predicted at over 3,000. And nearby is also the airport which is claimed to be one of the "largest in the world," but just how the word has a lot of airports. However, there is no doubt that it is a large one, and that it will be much larger as other flat land in the area is added to it. In any event there is plane service from Fort St. John to Edmonton and from there to all parts of the world.

North of Fort St. John is the Peace River Block Settlement. To the east are the famous Peace River Coal fields. In recent years the Pacific Great Eastern Railway which had been built from Prince George was extended to Fort St. John and with it came grain elevators were built.

As a matter of fact, Fort St. John has everything about it to make it big. Unlike Dawson Creek, it was built on a flat area, and yet it is not too hilly. It is a sports-minded town with baseball and other games in summer, hockey in winter, but it must be said that the annual July 1st rodeo is the sports place to spend the year. A three-day affair it draws upwards of 5000 spectators and everything that may be seen at Calgary may be seen in Fort St. John.

However the story of Fort St. John would be incomplete without telling of the part played by a certain Mr. Baldonnel Hickey who decided many years ago that his village needed a newspaper. And so since there was no way to get in a printing plant he decided to have their paper printed outside and brought in by the best means possible at that time. (This must have been after 1923 for the newspaper directory of that year does not mention either Fort St. John or Baldonnel). In time, the husband, as a Liberal candidate, ran for a seat in the House of Commons as representative of the Carbon district, and was elected.

EDITOR'S WIFE TAKES OVER

Unfortunately Mr. Murray died a few years ago, and Mrs. Murray, known everywhere today as "Ma" Murray, was to prove that she was to be the newspaper business born, to be known as the publisher of the voice of the north." The business still remains in the family but it is Mrs Murray who is in charge and it is that no one else could ever add to the success that was the far distant when The Highway News was the only first daily paper north of Edmonton.

And when we are at it, it might as well set the circulation of the newspaper story as it affects the town as it is now. Ten years ago a newspaper was a great need. A need that was more than amply filled by one Charles S. Kitchen, former officer in the English army with service in the South Northern Ireland. Kitchen came to Canada, worked as a printer, moved west and it is said worked on the Edson trail to Grande Prairie in Alberta before then to join the paper which he was to own and publish.

After a time he left not for Alberta but for the Pacific coast, but the northland called to him and so he started a paper at Hazelton. It was a precursor of the wheat country east of Dawson Creek, the Peace River Block News. However, when the Alaska Highway was pushed from Dawson Creek to Fort St. John and there it has been ever since and under the same name.

After carrying the paper for some time he finally sold out to accompany his wife who took on governmental duties as stipendiary magistrate and juvenile judge. Dr. Kitchen died a few years ago.

Meanwhile, Dawson Creek is being served by a second paper, one printed in Grande Prairie, 90 miles south, and its managing editor, a son of an Australian newspaperman.

Letter To The Editor

Says Loan Shortage Effects Felt Here

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer,

The Saturday edition of The Ontario Intelligencer carried on the front page, The Canadian Press news release, that the direct mortgage lending facilities of the government under the National Housing Act were cut off, since the funds appropriated for that purpose had been exhausted.

In the November 3rd edition of The Ontario Intelligencer, a story was carried under the heading of "Exhaustion of Housing Loan Fund to Have Little Effect on Building in Area". Various realtors in the city were quoted as saying that this drying up of mortgage funds "would have little effect on the building in the Belleville area". These realtors may or may not be interested in the home development business to the extent that the writer is. However, it is very apparent in our office that the shortage of mortgage funds is definitely going to have an effect on new construction this winter.

Since the announcement was made by Ottawa last Friday, we have had several prospective home owners who have had to alter their plans, and will now have to wait until mortgaged funds are available for the house that they wish to have constructed.

It is true that there have been some mortgage approvals and starts have been made on some new homes, but from this office alone we have had to refuse to issue up to another $250,000 in mortgage loans, this being the approximation of funds can be made by the government in their next budget.

We represented the owners of the largest home-building firm in the city, which currently has the greatest number of its serao with sewer, water, and, we are sell the houses constructed by the largest home-building firm in the Quinte district.

In discussing the mortgage situation with the vice-president of the Quinte Home Builders Association, he said that the shortage of mortgage funds will have a "definite effect in his firm's opinion, particularly in the construction of the more expensive type of custom built home."

We do appreciate what the government has been doing to make mortgage money available, but "tight money" policies will definitely affect this area.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 7th, 1939.

There will be no celebration in the Armistice in Belleville or elsewhere in the British Empire this year on November 11th. It will be Remembrance Day only. The Armistice has been broken. To most of the men who fought in the Great War the present conflict is but a resumption of the struggle against those things which have never ceased to threaten democratic government during the past twenty-five years. So this year, war veterans will gather only to give public expression to remembrance of the great sacrifice in blood and treasure demanded by that fateful November day of 1918. Poppies will be worn as "flowers of remembrance," wreaths will be adorned with wreaths, and services held . . . but with a significance as those who have already died in a new war in defence of the Empire will be among those remembered.

And as Great War Veterans gather before the Cenotaphs of the nation this year, the burden of their supplication will be: "May our Empire and France never sheathe the sword until the power of right shall prevail and the preponderance of might and fear have been swept from the face of the earth, so that never shall we be confronted with the task of making a third inscription on our war memorials."

Indicative of the splendid war-time efforts being put forth by the women of the city, the ladies of the district of completed articles left Belleville yesterday for Red Cross headquarters in Toronto. Consigned from the work headquarters of the local branch of the society, the shipment included 96 pairs of socks, 36 pairs socks, 29 "pullovers", four and one-half dozen bandages and one pair of wristlets.

30 YEARS AGO

November 7th, 1929.

On Monday, November 11th, Armistice Day and Thanksgiving Day will be observed jointly. Mayor Hayes' proclamation has requested that all places of business be closed so observed by all citizens at eleven o'clock, the hour agreed. Although the season has not been as prosperous as in former years, the business interests of this city and district have much for which to be thankful and will observe the day in its true significance.

Mrs. Claude Hayes and family left today for Stratford to join Mr. Hayes who is now located in that city.

Last evening in St. Thomas' Parish Hoom a banquet was tendered to the women of the parish by the men of the parish and 118 women enjoyed the unique event. The men did the serving. The Vicar, the Rev. John Lyons presided, and the principal speaker was His Lordship Bishop Seager Munn. Assisted by Mrs. McColl and the A.Y.P.A. orchestra.

Miss Hunt, former teacher at the Belleville High School, addressed a large gathering in the Methodist church on the school here last evening on her experiences while visiting the Great War. The lecture was given in aid of the Memorial Scholarship Fund.

Miss Guest received a hearty welcome from the audience.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

"SEND ME"

There is a fine little sermon in the text Forty Kings Uzziah died, the prophet Isaiah saw the Lord sitting upon a throne, "high and lifted up, and His train filled the temple." The seraphim stood above the throne. They sang unto one another. The earth was full of God's glory. The posts of the door moved at the voice of Him who cried and God's house was filled with smoke.

Isaiah was terrified. "I am a man of unclean lips," he cried, "and now my eyes have looked upon Perfection, upon the unseen king, the Lord of hosts." And at this one of the seraphim lifted a live coal from off the altar with his hands and touched Isaiah's lips. "Thine iniquity is taken away," said the angel, "and thy sin purged. Also I heard the voice of the Lord saying, Whom shall I send, and who will go for us? Then said I, Here am I; send me."

A sermon! A little sermon! A sermon that began when the great Uzziah died, the nation was plunged into fear. And as eventful night God manifested Himself in His temple. He purified a servant and commissioned him to great ends. And the servant hesitated. "Here am I, Lord," he cried, "send me."

Lord, send me on a mission great or small. Prepare me with purged lips and a purged life. "Here am I, Lord; send me."

To Your Good Health

NEW DRUG A USEFUL WEAPON AGAINST FUNGUS

As I promised yesterday, today's sassy begins with a typical letter. Tongue:

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can you answer some questions about fungus and athlete's foot:

"Can a person become reinfected from towels, shoes, etc.?

"Can a person get fungus in the fingernails from touching the feet?

"And fungus on the scalp? — Mrs. H. D."

If you missed yesterday's column, it will pay you to look it up. Funguses, like germs, are everywhere. Some individuals are susceptible, and some aren't. That is, some acquire a fungus infection from slight contact; other escape unless the contact is strong.

Whether on the foot, in the ear, on the fingernails (or around the nails) or on the scalp, or other areas of the skin, the fungus infection is most likely a round, scaly, itchy patch. If it is athlete's foot, the toes between the round patients may not be so obvious. Still, the rash makes the picture. The skin loosens and scales off, and the fungus seems to have found the ideal spot when some of the skin remains attached.

Since fungus likes dark, moist places, the feet are an ideal area. However, a fungus can, at times, settle on almost any part of the body. The scalp is common in children. Severe athlete's foot can spread to the legs and nails. Fungus in the ear canal can be most annoying, with itching, pain, discharge, sometimes. Ear, fingeyelids can be subject to fungus. Even the term "ringworm" comes from some cases vaginal itching is due to fungus.

To prevent the spread, scrupulous cleanliness is important. Frequent change of bed clothes, especially socks, will help.

Since ironing (see yesterday's column) sterilizes, it is a help to heat, ironing of bed linen, underclothing, socks (and work clothes) the trouble. Treatment with salves which loosen scaly skin and attack the fungus is useful but not guaranteed to bring quick results.

One reader told of being helped by thyroid. This is an acceptable, but I think we should conclude that in this case the system needed thyroid so thyroid improved the general health, and the resistance to fungus was enhanced. Other corrections of the general health picture may often bring most welcome results.

Now that sunlight is important by any means, I want to bring to your attention a promising new anti-fungus drug called griseofulvin. It is taken by mouth, on the basis of what I know of it so far, it appears to be a very useful new weapon against fungus.

It can be obtained through your doctor.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would you discuss swimming during menstruation? Could it cause death or other harm? — G. and L."

I discussed this last July but will be glad to repeat it briefly. There is no harm in swimming or any other athletic activity. It will not interfere with the menstrual cycle. The only question is the psychological one, as when swimming in a pool.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am 37, a mother of two children, and have had a hysterectomy. Is my eyebrows which is gradually becoming more noticeable. I would appreciate any advice. — Mrs. M."

My advice: forget it.

Attention all women! For my new pamphlet, "The Pre-Menopausal Years," send 10 cents care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 128, Dundee Ill., Enclose a stamped, self-addressed stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover handling. This pamphlet may help you!

Dr. Molner welcomes all readers' mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

An aged lady of my acquaintance has had a very trying year. One by one, her few remaining close friends and relations have passed away. At seventy-six of age, they have been dying off for twenty years. But there comes a time in a person's life when the number of those remaining becomes so small that it begins to feel as if a finger were pointing. And this dear lady has begun to be conscious of that pointing finger.

"I'll be next," she declared boldly, when, in the past few months, three of her cronies went, one, two, three.

So sure was she that she began to sit as if waiting. She could not get her mind off it. In her favorite rocking chair, she would rock while she thereby suddenly stop, to announce:

"I'm next."

This became a little exhausting to her family, as well as most inconsiderate to the old lady whose health began to fall, as if indeed her hum had come.

Then, one of her nieces sent her a three years' subscription to her favorite magazine.

The trick worked like magic. Three months she stays, waving the magazine. "My goodness!"

It must be somebody else who went.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEWS COBER

SMILE THROUGH

There is no habit so stimulating, and costs so small, as that of shedding a pleasant smile on the world. Everybody can afford to smile. Everybody can afford to be a booster of good news each hour and day that arrives. A pleasant disposition, courageously, no matter what deserves a pension — and most such ones get one anyway.

We have also found a lot more than we realize. We actually need very little in order to determine to smile through each and every day. The pathway through life and to winning can be made to be guided by a patient guide. That will pay the bills as per journey each day. A little later you will pay four own bills.

The three brief Talks I have mentioned many times three things that every man-master needs to safely guide him to his destination. 1 — Courage. 2 — Patience. 3' — Humility. Count the days when you have not arrives. A pleasant day, and be courageously, no matter what, deserves a pension — and most

A Lift for Living

Importance of Responsibility

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

To say that a person is utterly irresponsible is about the worst condemnation we can give. It means that one can't count on him. Such a person does not count.

The sense of responsibility is woven into the whole warp of the Bible. It is the woof which binds together the Hebrew family through persecution and exile. The devout Hebrew felt responsible for declaring the moral law to his children and for keeping himself pure lest his sins be visited upon his offspring.

And Jesus so stressed the principle of personal responsibility for the welfare of others that His greatest interpreter, the Apostle Paul, summed up the matter thus: "Bear ye one another's burdens and so fulfil the law of Christ."

To whom are we responsible? Some years ago the head of a family addressed a parent-teacher's meeting in New York. He said that he could see nothing in the modern school curriculum which took the place of the early training given his father. As a boy his father got up at 3 A.M. to milk the cow and kept the family woodpile stocked, and because of his fondness for those occupations but became what were the necessary functions of home life. It was a daily performance which fell to his lot, as did other tasks to the other children.

COMPLETE SELF - MASTERY

This daily rendering of service vital to the well-being of the family developed in him the power to make himself do the duty before him, wholly apart from how he felt about it. It was a power which proved the foundation for that complete self-mastery which was one of the outstanding characteristics of his life. The boy who did those chores was John D. Rockefeller and the man who spoke about them was his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

If the youth of today had more chores to train them in responsibility to the family there would be less juvenile delinquency.

Then youth grow up and enter school and college. The student becomes responsible for the welfare of his school as truly as the school is responsible for the student.

When school days are over youth takes a job. Here is another sphere of mutual responsibility. Only as employees feel in their duty to promote the output of their employers and only as employers feel responsible for further the welfare of their employees can the industrial scene be transformed from a battle field into a brotherhood.

Then as we settle in some community we should become concerned for the moral tone of the schools, the welfare institutions of the neighborhood. I hope Mr. Khrushchev discovered this community spirit for it is displeasing. But he did not come to appreciate it for he spent little time in our smaller towns where the community spirit is most marked.

Many a man who has been an active citizen in some American town moves to a large city and says to himself, "I am tired of politics. Let somebody else be getting out of harness for a while and taking a rest."

COMMUNITY SPIRIT NEEDED

And the reason we have so many moral runaways in our big cities is that there are so many of these unharnessed people. The civic tone of our large cities is low because in them our town because as the group grown, personal responsibility tends to shrink. And if there ever was a time when community spirit needs to be strengthened it is now. Every decent person feels responsible for his community.

In the midst of all these circles of responsibility stands the church. Some people say, "I can't join the church because I am not ready to assume the responsibilities just now." Is the church just an added obligation, one more thing to support? So some think, but how wrong they are. The church stands in our midst to remind us that all these other circles of obligations — our community, our state, our world — revolve around one central and sovereign responsibility, namely to God Himself.

Dr. Robert Russell Wicks tells of the time his children took a photograph record and puncher a new hole in it about as inch off centre, then put it on a play. You can imagine the caterwauling it produced. And is that not a rough analogy of what is causing the disharmonies of our world today? Our circles of responsibility are off centre. Harmony will come only as our sense of obligation is centered in God, in whom we live and move and have our being.

"Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord." If we are true to Him, we shall not be false to anyone.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON
MODE OF EXPRESSION

Just as our thoughts are often registered in our faces, so a bird's sensations are registered on the top of its head. Of course we have the opportunity of properly seeing this only when the bird is dead or we are able to be near enough to observe details. With that luck, however, many bring us close at the right moment. In fact, your best chance is when hidden in a blind but the owner of a window feeding tray is able to watch the haunting demonstration of a bird's feelings almost any hour of the day.

At your slightest movement the bird raises the feathers on the top of its head — alert, listening. This anxiety is shown. Keep perfectly quiet, and the feathers subside. When the feeding of a chickadee which is interrupted by the caw of a crow far overhead, fear of the larger bird causes the feathers on the flesh's head to rise. Desire for food seems to bring out the worst in man or beast — and so a white-throat greedily eating a nut raises the head feathers in anger at the approach of a neighbour, or even another white-throat.

WATCH THE HEADPIECE

Birds wearing a distinct head piece give the bird student a better chance to see what happens when emotions are at work. If a male ruby-crowned kinglet is suddenly disturbed, its ruby-red cap is not at all noticeable; but let him know you are watching his antics in the tree, and soon goes the whole centre of his head in a little scarlet lump.

Crests are worn by birds from all different groups, cardinals, grosbeaks, kingfishers, crested flycatchers and tufted titmice (as their names indicate), pileolated woodpeckers, herons, egrets, and even merganzers. For us, a crest is simply a thing of beauty and a sign of distinction, but for the creatures it is a signal for expression. There is no difficulty in seeing (as well as hearing) a blue jay's reactions. If disturbed when feeding on your nuts, raisins, or peanut butter it will angrily raise its crest and go away screaming invectives. Other birds, too, show their feelings through their crests. Though few are as noisy about it as are jays. Throw a piece of bread into your back yard and listen to the flapping sparrows chattering at each other as they vie for its possession.

Compatible to turning up our noses at one another is the neck stretching and striking of two birds wanting the same crumb. No words can describe the dislain each shows by this mode of expression.

Holy Trinity W.G. Plans Pot Luck Dinner

On Thursday the regular meeting of the Women's Guild, Trinity Church, Shannonville, was held at the home of Mrs. A. McKenzie.

Mr. Wrighton opened the meeting with prayer. Roll call was responded to by 15 members.

The devotional was in charge of Mrs. R. Cook. Psalm 27 was read for evening prayer, with Mrs. H. Houston taking the lead and a prayer for special intercession read by Mrs. D. Payne.

Next meeting to be held at Mrs. G. Johnson's, Thursday, Dec. 3rd. Mrs. Jim Kent is to take care of the devotional and Mrs. R. Cook the program.

Further plans for the potluck dinner to be held at Mrs. Houston's this month, were finished in detail, with lists for the various items and duties for the members to prepare being handed out. Mrs. H. Houston is to look after the ordering of the meat at Ray Reid's and Mrs. J. Frayne to look after the making of the posters.

Mr. Wrighton closed the meeting with prayer.

The remainder of the evening was spent with Mr. R. Lemon Jr. showing pictures of his and Mrs. Lemon's trip to various parts of England and Scotland this summer, these being greatly enjoyed by all present.

Mrs. H. Houston voiced a vote of thanks to Mr. Lemon on behalf of herself and all the members.

A social half hour was spent with the members enjoying the refreshments served by Mrs. McKenzie and helpers.

Wedding

HAGGERTY — SLOT

The Christian Reformed Church of Belleville was the setting for the marriage of Miss Tina Slot and Mr. Theodore (Ted) Haggerty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mr. A. Haggerty on Saturday, October 24th at 2 p. m. The bride is the daughter of Mr. Simon Slot of Read.

Given in marriage by her father, the double-ring ceremony was performed by the Reverend J. Betten, of Picton.

Mrs. R. Dykstra, of Whitby, was matron of honor for her sister and Mr. Gavin Haggerty was groomsman for his brother.

The ushers were: Messrs. Jack Kane, and Rod Lancaster.

The traditional music was played by the organist, Mr. John DeVries.

The bride was radiant and lovely in a brocaded white satin, floor-length gown with fitted bodice and long lily - pointed sleeves. She wore a lace mantilla of lace and seed pearls held in place her finger-tip veil of illusion. She carried white carnations and her only ornament was a three strand necklace of pearls.

The matron of honor wore a floor length gown of blue silk velvet and carried white carnations.

The reception was held at the home of the bride, where Mrs. J. Slot, in a brocaded corset received the guests.

The bride's table was centred with the wedding cake and pink and white streamers completed the floral scheme.

Guests were present from Trenton, Tyendinaga, Madoc, and bride's grandfather from Holland.

For travelling, the bride chose a blue lace dress, white hat and gloves with a black coat, black accessories and a white corsage.

The congregation of the church presented the happy couple with a Bible.

Mr. and Mrs. Haggerty will reside at 147 Victoria Avenue, Belleville.

Tourist Industry Is Booming In Pleasant Puerto Rico

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

San Juan, P.R. — Something magical seems to happen in the Caribbean at least one day each Thursday.

To the west lies Haiti, still stewing in the same political juices that have boiled and bubbled till only the lid is off half. Trouble gazes out over his Dominican Republic neighbor, not knowing whether to expect tourists or bullets as they go preparing for both. And gay, worldly Cuba seems to have traded a headache for a migraine ominously like the TV commercial says. Even the weather has undergone strange tendencies and sometimes gives in to the vagaries of season.

From this welter of trouble begin breezes, as well as the Stars and Stripes, the Union Jack, the Tricolor and whatever it is they call the Dutch standard, by ecclesiastic fiat, to fly over the truest fulfillment of the tropical paradise concept, the have and have-not-ness astounding numbers of visitors flocking to the West Indies.

Of all these Horatio Alger stories of success, Puerto Rico's none is more impressive than Puerto Rico itself. Due to its civilized applications, a process that can best be described as "Instant Europe," in Spanish, the Papalote and the Cuadro.

As is all the countries gambling is an all-consuming passion. A Puerto Rican at a ball game will happily wager odds on whether a runner rounding first will make it to second. The bookmakers. But where else except a racing scene at Hippodrome El Commandante can you see as big a bet, as much as $5K, $26.05 for a 50-cent bet?

The Cuadro and Papalota are two versions of a six-line poem, a kind of super-duper Sally double popular throughout Latin America. Each Wednesday, Friday, Sunday and holiday, more than 100,000 paper swallows are sold here by the largest concentration of Univac machines under one roof in the world — an American twist symbolic of this most enigmatic culture in Latin America.

Statistics about Puerto Rico's tourist boom fill all over pocket notes.

Item: Ten year- ago Puerto Rico had the lowest standard of living in Latin America. Today it has the highest.

Item: San Juan's Isla Verde Airport, possibly the most beautiful in North America with its ponds, birdcages and setting, was built to handle 1,000,000 passengers a year by 1970. It is already handling more than that and the estimate has been upped to 2,300,000 by as early as 1965. Ten airlines serve the island from all directions.

Item: Flying from New York to San Juan 2 October, the smartest off-season month in the tourist industry, when only travel writers and writers make it a point to get away and hold their typewriters, we came down on a plane jammed to the wingtips with vacationers.

Item: Puerto Rico travel business the climax came last month when Pan American World Airways announced it would inaugurate jet service from New York to San Juan in 1960, making Puerto Rico the first of the Caribbean islands to receive this accolade to its tourist appeal.

The announcement was something of a shock because many route features the lowest airline fares in the world, as much as a third — less than one-quarter what it was 10 years ago. Moreover, all American lines today are plagued by discriminatory government regulations that revolve largely on foreign carriers for reasons of international politics.

That any line would take the financial risk of using its scarce dollars to purchase expensive jet equipment on a route that pays a fraction what it does on the subway fare is one of the most significant developments of recent years in Latin-American tourism.

What is the attraction in Puerto Rico? The fare, the climate, the scenery, the Cuadro and Papalote, the American flag seen all part of it. (It was comforting to be able to say it was more than second newspaper about a "fracas in Caracas." But to us the appeal lies in the most successful synthesis of cultures in this part of the world.

Guidance Director Speaker At St. Michael's Commencement

Mr. Kenneth Farren, Director of Guidance at Trenton High School, was the guest speaker at Commencement Exercises held at St. Michael's Academy last Monday evening.

Mr. Farren pointed out that the purpose of education is the preparation for a life occupation; to prepare one to meet the duties necessary in life, and to prepare for happiness.

An employer is interested, not only in the specific knowledge that a student has accumulated but, rather, in the manner in which he is able to put that knowledge into practice.

CITIZENSHIP

Directly addressing the graduates, the speaker remarked:

"What does it mean to be a citizen? It means you must be active in the community, it means you must participate in civic affairs. It means that you must study the affairs and your affairs and that the day they come being the individual's affairs is the day we will lose our democratic system of government.

"A well-disciplined student becomes a well-disciplined citizen. Discipline yourself in class through the training of your mind, concentrate on the matters at hand. You discipline yourself by refraining from various distractions that come in a student's life and age. Do not deceive yourself. As you are a student, so you will be as a citizen. If you neglect your duties now, you will neglect your duties then and your exceptional duties later on.

FINAL GOAL

"Remember that your final goal, that is the goal of each and every one of us, the ultimate goal for which we are being educated, is to give honor and glory to God.

The graduate's program began with a short business meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association, conducted by the vice-president, Mrs. A. F. McFadden.

James Lemon acted as the master of ceremonies for the entertainment evening. Mr. Michael Murphy introduced the guest speaker, who was thanked by Peter Stone.

The Rev. William McGee spoke briefly.

Choral selections by the grade six students were rendered: "Canada," "The School Song," and "God Bless Our School." The singers were accompanied at the piano by Gary Fitzgibbon.

Love Makes Spiritual Giants

By ALMA MASON

There is a simple antidote for grief and perplexity. There is a magic potion that will heal a bruised and battered heart. There is a warmth that will eradicate the cold fears of doubt and melt the ice of fear. This is no Aladdin's lamp—no Cinderella godmother — but a simple and beautiful gift of God, showered on humanity through the sacrificial life and death of the man of Galilee.

As church members, as struggling Christians we often grope desperately to achieve a place in the sun of God's approval. We stumble along in a bewildered manner without realizing that the Christian faith is lovingly and administered by a simple four letter power-packed word. If love masters us and drenches us with its God given strength and wisdom—we automatically achieve spiritual greatness and become giants in the structure of our faith.

How clear and dynamic are some of the words of the Bible relating to the majesty of love. "Love never faileth" — "If God so loved us, we also ought to love one another." "He that loveth not knoweth not God for God is love." "If any man say I love God and hateth his brother, he is a liar, for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, cannot love God whom-he hath not seen."

C. B. McAfee said "Measure your love, not by the way it makes you feel, but-by the thing it makes you willing to endure."

Alice Cary said "He who loves his fellow man is loving God the holiest way he can."

There is nothing dark and dark and puzzling about being a Christian and following in the Master's steps. There is no bitter striving, no wall that cannot be scaled when there is the ladder of love to help us climb. There is no dark spiritual corridor to traverse when love lights a lamp that glows steadily and serenely. There is no doubt, no perplexity, when from a heart brimming with love for God and humankind.

When a friend proves unkind or untrue—extend to him love's radiance. Then separation and sorrow strikes us to our unwary knees, let us stretch out a loving helpful hand to those who are in need. Then as we climb the downcast soul as it touches the sorrowing soul of another. When the skein of life becomes tangled and intermeshed, it will magically unravel by the tender fingers of love.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

A few columns back T & T'ers to the editor appeared, wondering about loud in Kansas, and which is rare, but healthy. Maybe it is, as we said earlier, coincidental or the times we live in.

Whatever it is one thing we can be very certain of, we are not alone and the voice of the people is loud and clear throughout the continent. Recently we had a short letter in the New York Times lawyer on the restless spirit of people and their minds. Another columnist in sports in the last month bemoaned how sportsmanship compromised and its defenders ridiculed as remnants of a bygone era. Honest conduct by many of our universities is viewed with a cynical scorn, and those who call this wrong are looked upon as old fogies.

Now we are witnesses to a spectacle of cheating, for if it happens in Iowa it is a sad manifestation, either, being the accepted, somewhat grudgingly reluctantly rationalized practice in still another part of the American scene.

When are we going to wake up to the worth of integrity itself, of personal honor for its own sake and defend it accordingly.

This brief letter to the editor was written by a Mr. Newberry of West Orange, N.J. All is not lost when we have ourselves to be enhanced by past blamers. Then we quote from Albert Camus and in this connection he has written that the BRIDGE ST. W.M.S.

Mrs. J. R. MacArthur, president of Bridge Street United Church W.M.S. called upon the various committees for reports. It will interest members who were unable to attend to know that they may still bring woollen clothing for Korea to the church as the boxes will not be sent for another two weeks. The literature secretary discussed the importance of reading the booklet published by the Division on Christian Faith of the United Church and Canada, entitled "Life and Death."

Proposed amalgamation of the Ladies' Aid Organization in the United Church provoked a lively discussion and it was suggested a joint meeting of the W.A. and W.M.S. be arranged by the presidents to clarify the questions arising from the question-naires which are being completed by members of these groups.

The report of the nominating committee for 1960 slate of officers was submitted and accepted.

A joint meeting with the Women's Association was announced for December 17th.

Members were encouraged to attend the World Day of Prayer on November 13th and 14th at Ireland's store.

Mrs. Franklin and Mrs. Pirie, with members of the group, were in charge of the program. Their worship service had as its theme, "Living Bible," and their story was one in picture, choosing the "Living Bible" in its "Jim Dine" form, taken in Angola, Africa, by a team sent there by the General Council Board. With the script by Mozco Scott proved appropriate for children studies.

The film portrayed a village tribe living in the most primitive fashion with little of the white man's influence which except for articles of clothing. Their daily hardships were lightened by the tribal custom of helping when troubled or hurt or frightened, with the one exception of death — for this they had no song.

When tribesmen, returning to the village from far-away jobs, brought with them Christian teachings, the tribe became transformed from fear of unknown hazards death which they ultimately found they could accept without fear and in its place found a song for this occasion.

The meeting was followed by tea in the ladies' parlor.

Club Prepares Coming Bazaar

A general meeting of the Quinte Ladies' Curling Club took place at the clubhouse Tuesday, November 3rd.

The president, Enn Corke, opened the meeting with a few words of welcome to old members and new.

Bonnie Jarrett, treasurer read the financial report.

Each committee chairman outlined plans for the coming season. Lydia Trigg, social convener, spoke of the coming "Curling Stone Tea and Bazaar" which is to take place later in November.

Nina Gault, chairman of Weys and Means displayed some of the novel items for the bazaar.

Mildred Stanton, bonspiel chairman, announced there will be two zone day bonspiels. Invitations have been received from the town of Mount Royal Curling club for two rinks for their Bonspiel November 23, 24, 25th and from the Peterborough Curling Club for November 13th.

Patsy Walmbold has her committee chosen to look after the splel catering.

Doris Houston, chairman of games, asked everyone to return her entry form as they want to get the draw made. The regular club schedule will start November 23rd. There will be line for games and instructions before the regular games start.

Ruth Burrows, chairman of house committee reported plans were being made to finish furnishing the ladies' lounge.

Morning curling was discontinued and the majority was in favor of one game in the morning 9:30 to 11:30 and the afternoon game 1:30 to 3:30. This will go into effect November 23rd.

There will be a pot-luck luncheon Thursday, November 12th. Bring your favorite dish. Lunch 12:00 noon — curling 10:30 a.m. and 1:00 p.m. If ice is ready.

Have you misplaced or lost anything, recently?

Take consolation. This happens constantly, especially to travellers staying in hotels.

"We have an entire room reserved just for the purpose of keeping items the guests leave behind," said the hotel floor chairman of the King Edward Hotel in Toronto. "It is unbelievable the things hotel guests do leave behind them—and never claim. Suit cases full of clothes, umbrellas, fur and overcoats, gloves, jewels, hats, cosmetics, shoes, books and parcels."

"What does the hotel do with them?"

"Auction them off. Once a year, the room is emptied and cleared of all unclaimed articles which are sent down the street here to a man who holds auctions. Thus the space is maintained for another year's lot of things. A funny thing too, one of the commonest items is a nail scissors."

Facets, small or important pertaining to a well run hotel management and organization is fascinating.

"I've always wondered," remarked a luncheon guest, "how one portion is served, on the whole, such excellent roast beef. So I enquired of the chef at the Royal York. He confessed it was due to two things, size of the roast and its temperature. The larger the roast the better its flavor. Ovens of very low heat can accommodate the huge barons and roasts of beef the bottom of which take not the capacity for the range of temperature. Hotel ovens roast the beef at 500 degrees. He claimed high temperature locks the moisture in, makes the meat more succulent, prevents the meat from being dry. Upon being roasted, the roast is cooled, then sliced and along with the gravy, stored in freezers, ready for orders, when the slices and gravy are removed, and all is ready to serve."

With roast chicken, it was a different story, the chef seemed to think that roast chicken as found in restaurants elsewhere. "It just isn't possible to serve chicken from the oven, as such guest orders it. Not the way it can be done at home where one has guests."

HUMAN INTEREST STORY

A Montreal hotel manager once related this story about a hotel guest. "She was a young, slim, stately maiden lady. But she was a very nice lady, gentle, kind and thoughtful as far as the hotel staff was concerned, and when the afternoon came her tea was generously acknowledged by tips and gifts. In other words, an ideal guest, bright and cheerful, very pleasant to have around.

"Though she dressed simply, she occupied a fairly expensive suite of rooms. Of her background we knew nothing, except she came one weekend and stayed on as a permanent guest. What her interests were, was unknown.

"One morning she came to my office to submit the correct amount for her monthly room bill. It was a considerable sum. Then she said a surprising thing. This money is the last I have to my name. I am leaving to-morrow to find a job and a cheap rooming house in which to stay.

"I tried to find the right words, but I was speechless," said the manager, "and to whom to say, then she said very gently, 'Don't think I have any regrets. All my life I longed to be a part of the life that goes on in a hotel. So when I was left a small legacy, I knew at once what I wanted to do with it. Now every one can fulfill a dream. I couldn't be happier."

Belleviginette: We are indebted to a Belleville reader of this column who sent along this morning an American newspaper clipping about a ninety-year-old woman in London, Ontario, who recently presented her local Historical Society with a coverlet made by her hands. She is Mrs. Gertrude Logan Wood who appliqued and embroidered the flags of seventy-two nations on a quilt she made in 1899. At that time she was unmarried and a dressmaker. She used the illustrations in a dictionary to help her reproduce the flags, "many of which have changed—

FRONT ROAD W.S.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pope opened their spacious new home on Tuesday night for an evening meeting of the Front Road W.A. with the men as invited guests.

Rev. H. McMullan called the meeting to order and welcomed Mrs. Bonnell to the W.A. He also thanked Mrs. Pope for opening her home.

Mrs. Clifford Reid took charge of the devotional. The topic "Stewardship Day." Mrs. Clinton Brown read the Scripture lesson from Ephesians 5 10-18, and Mrs. J. Botting the story as told on the folder.

Mrs. Henry Davidson favored with a solo, accompanied on the piano by Miss Beverley Flower.

Mrs. Reid also read a poem "Love's Greatest Gift." A contest was conducted, words ending in "ing", with Mrs. H. Davidson winning the favor. bill. It was a considerable sum. Then she said a surprising thing.

Mrs. Clinton Brown invited everyone to their home for the December 1st meeting.

After the business was concluded, Mrs. Pope invited the ladies to the dining room where they joined their husbands, who had been entertaining Mr. Pope and Mr. Reid as guests. A most delicious lunch was served and social hour enjoyed.

Before separating for home Mr. Reid thanked Mr. and Mrs. Pope for the fine evening enjoyed by all.

QUESTION:

. . . Like your daughter I'm also a nurse, but I have a 2 1/2 year old daughter. I have trouble feeding — my Children' Their appetites are 6, 2 and 10 months . . . Mrs. A.C.

ANSWER:

As you both know, foods that children enjoy change from the very first are meats, which are cooked at each age. Cereals, which he should be given at very sparingly and only after the doctor tells you he will like as he becomes familiar with them. To introduce a child to a new food, give him a small quantity of — not more than one spoon then increase the amount gradually. Don't try to put more than one new food at a time, Children dislike any food that is not fresh. Vegetables should be only very slightly sweetened, if at all, small amount of salt is all that will be required to make most vegetables palatable. Pepper and other spices are not required by a perfectly healthy, unspoiled taste palate, and should never be given to the little child except in the smallest amounts, and then only on very specil occasions.

Cowles Regan Sez:

CELEBRATING WITHIN YOUR BUDGET

Mr. and Mrs. Proper decided that they would like to be "at home" to their friends on the occasion of their twenty-fifth "silver," wedding anniversary. Mrs. Proper came to me and frankly admitted that the family budget just would not allow for any elaborate plans for the affair. As she expressed it, she would rather have no party at all than one which appeared to be a "make do" affair and the following is a description of the party which I can assure you was enjoyed by all who attended.

The invitations were handwritten on plain white cards and worded as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. John Francis Proper

At Home

Sunday, the fifteenth of November.

from four until six o'clock

For the occasion, a tea table was arranged in the dining room. This was cloth completely covered the table and a centerpiece of white flowers, arranged with silver candlesticks and small silver candy dish and cakes were placed on the table.

At one end there was a coffee urn with cups and saucers arranged around it. At the other end, tea was served in the proper manner. A few days before the party, Mrs. Proper asked several of her close friends if they would take turns pouring the tea and coffee for her guests. She remembered to ask enough ladies to make it necessary for each one to serve for only a half hour during the afternoon.

The other appointments included several kinds of small sandwiches, candies and nuts and tiny frosted cakes. At first she toyed with the idea of having a multi-frosted wedding cake, which would have been perfectly correct, but upon reading that it would be rather costly she decided on the small bite-sized cakes instead.

The food was arranged attractively on plates placed around the table. Small paper tea napkins were placed by the plates grouped at each side. No eating implements were necessary, since the sandwiches and the cakes were a small enough to be eaten with the fingers.

As no maid was on hand to open the door for the guests when they arrived, Mrs. Proper's daughter met and escorted them to the living room where their hostess stood to offer their greetings.

All in all, it was a delightful party and everyone enjoyed themselves thoroughly. It only goes to show that, with a little careful planning, one may give a party well within the budget limits and still have the satisfaction of knowing it has been done graciously and has given pleasure to one's guests.

Question: I wish to send a telegram of congratulation to a friend of mine who is to be a bride in the near future. When do I send it and how do I address it? — Miss H.E.R.

Answer: The telegram should be sent the day of the wedding. If sent before the time the wedding is to take place, it should be addressed to the bride in her maiden name; after the nuptials, use her married name. Do not congratulate the bride. Offer good wishes for her future happiness.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of a recorded case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Victor T. — My wife is ruining our boy.

Martha T. — We have to accept the facts about Johnny.

* * *

Victor T. — I am worried sick about my youngest son, a boy of 13 who gives every sign of being a sissy.

The two older boys are regular guys and have done everything to try to interest Johnny in sports, but it hasn't worked. Johnny is very effeminate looking. He's afraid to fight and shows no interest in any of the things a boy of his age should care about.

I find that my wife has brought this all about by pampering him. Now she is going to the other extreme of all. She wants to send him to an art school and encourage his interest in women's fashions — of 'ill things!

* * *

Martha T. — Victor has been fighting Johnny's inclinations for years. He has tried to force him to make a normal boy out of him, but I fear it is hopeless.

The time has come when we must accept the facts. Johnny is Johnny and now I am finished with that and I want to do something positive. Why should Victor hold him back?

* * *

The Council: Johnny could do with help from a child guidance clinic and the "I" should investigate the facilities in their community.

Beyond that, some important changes in their attitude are in order.

First of all, we think that both the mother and father are jumping to conclusions. This boy is not doomed to live an abnormal life simply because he doesn't care for sports and shows an interest in women's fashions. An artist or designer of women's clothing can live a perfectly normal life — if he gets the right kind of encouragement to do so.

Also, the picture the boy's father may have been pressured too much by his father and mother and protected too much by his mother. Probably he is ashamed to dare to engage in masculine pursuits out of a strong sense of inferiority to the bigger, stronger males in his family. He hides behind Mother's skirts and she probably enjoys rescuing him.

An easy comradeship with his father and brothers will help Johnny much more than pressure to behave in a particular way. If he feels easier in his relationship with them he may suddenly show an interest in the things they care about. That is the time to encourage him in a tactful, patient way — not giving him the idea that his masculinity must stand or fall on the basis of his ability in sports. It is natural for all children to want to indulge in physical activity for sheer pleasure and release of energy, if they are not inhabited by fear of disgrace.

As for the art education, we think every child should be encouraged to bring out his abilities, but parents should not decide exactly what the child's vocation must be. It will be quite enough to encourage Johnny in sending him to art school. Let him find out for himself what he really can do best. It may not be the designing of women's clothing, although to encourage him should not accept that as a sign of abnormality.

Hears Talk on Juvenile Court

The regular meeting of Prince of Wales Home — School Association was held last Tuesday in the school auditorium.

In the absence of president, 1st vice, Mrs. G. Digby, called the meeting to order.

Mrs. Richardson presided at the piano.

Mrs. Scott read the Scripture lesson.

Mr. Lott explained some of the teachers were absent due to a special course they were attending.

The secretary read the "Bulletin" sent out by the "Home and School Council."

Mr. Quinney introduced guest speaker, Mr. Don MacKinnon, who outlined his work with the Juvenile Family Court.

Mrs. MacDonald moved a vote of thanks to Mr. MacKinnon.

Stories of Famous Hymns

SOMETIME WE'LL UNDERSTAND

BY HORACE B. POWELL

The life story of the Rev. Maxwell Corneliu, the author of the song "Sometime We'll Understand", should be an inspiration to all cross-bearing Christians.

Mr. Cornelius was born and reared on a Pennsylvania farm but when he reached young manhood he gave up farming and started a contracting business in Pittsburgh. An accident ended his business career and made him a cripple, but it also made him think of giving his life to religious work, and started him off toward the ministry.

His first pastorate, at Altoona, Pa., was a brief one. Mrs. Cornelius was in frail health and it was necessary to seek a warmer climate. California was chosen for the new home and there, in Pasadena, Mr. Cornelius had a very successful ministry.

But in the very midst of his success, his wife slipped away, and it was for her funeral that he wrote his beautiful hymn, quoted above. He preached the funeral sermon himself and closed it with his poem:

"We'll catch the broken thread again,
And finish what we here began;
Heaven will the mysteries explain,
And then, ah then, we'll understand.

We'll know why clouds instead of sun
Were over many a cherished plan;
Why song has ceased when scarce begun;
'Tis there, sometime, we'll understand.

Why what we long for most of all,
Eludes so oft our eager hand;
Why flowers crushed and castles fall,
Up there, sometime, we'll understand.

God knows the way, He holds the key,
He guides us with unerring hand;
Sometime with tearless eyes we'll see;
Yes, there, up there, we'll understand.

Heaven will the mysteries explain,
And then, ah then, we'll understand".

Poem and sermon appeared together in a newspaper and were seen and clipped by the gospel singer and evangelist, Major D. W. Whittle. He carried them about in his Bible for several months and then, one day he decided to try the verses in a gospel song service. James McGranahan, the gospel hymn composer, turned out the music for the song and it became an immediate favorite.

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

TORONTO — Hockey-minded moppets of Ontario needn't worry about their organizational future. Some 300 delegates in session here under the aegis of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association and their co-workers will look after that.

As of this writing they are attending the best convention held in the long history of the association. The executive met in lone conclave last night and at this minute the general session is in action.

The top brass of the executive body was given acclamation. The new president is Frank Doherty, Therold, with first vice-president Tod Elmes of Galt. Albert Watkins is second vice; Doug Patterson, Stirling, third vice with Gary McLeod back as secretary. Jim Watkins, Scarboro, was re-named treasurer and registrar.

Last year's executive, outside of Watkins and Patterson were Cliff Gabel, Preston; Gordon Hawes, Whitby; Wes Oswald, Forest; Bev Schram, Port Dover, and Stan Stokes, London. Offering themselves for election at today's convention were Jack Bell, Stamford; Earl Strimbleombe, Guelph; George Haskell, Newmarket; Jim Oakes, Welland, and Eric Weemby, sports editor of Owen Sound.

One of the more important items on the agenda is the establishment of entry fees and age groups for peewee hockey players.

Pre-convention information revealed the OMHA is going all-out in the introduction and organization of this classification. It is going to start at the bottom and put its blessing and help on local organized leagues. This will lead to the championship and eventually to a zone titular competition. Ultimately the OMHA hopes for a provincial championship series.

Doug Patterson said this morning before going into convention that in all likelihood first championships would be restricted to local play. Final championship tournaments all played and packaged in one day of operation. This eliminates tiresome travel for the wee moppets.

Patterson also said that he is looking forward to the biggest season for minor hockey in this part of Eastern Ontario. According to replies received from minor hockey men throughout his district, more teams than ever will be entered under the OMHA. With Alberta Wilkins of Peterborough, Patterson hopes to organize and supervise some 4,000 youngsters between Peterborough and Gananoque with more northern teams entered.

The largest detailed representation of minor hockey men of the province are here in the King Edward Hotel. Looking in on the activities are members of the CAHA and the OHA, such as CAHA vice-president Jack Rexford, of Simcoe; OHA president Ken MacMillan and OHA secretary-manager Bill Hanley of Toronto. A past president and one of the best known hockey men, minor and otherwise in Ontario and also a member of the federal parliament is Mike Weichel, the "Bard of Elmira."

Another amendment on today's agenda is the proposal to allow teams to sign 25 players instead of the 18 as heretofore. Another asks for the elimination of the January 15 date for signing certificates for group play and making the last signing date for playoffs February 10 for all teams.

JUNIOR HOCKEY

Manager Mel Richards and coach Orval Gravelle are doing their best to weld together a junior "B" hockey team that, if I expected, will hold its own with most of the teams in the Eastern Ontario Junior "B" set-up. The club is backed by Lamberti-Rollins who have tossed quite a chunk of money into the junior "B" pot.

But like any other club, the youngsters need practice and they cannot get it unless they have ice to play on. This department is informed the juniors cannot better co-operation from the arena commission as regards ice times, and it seems that body should give the youngsters a little more consideration. How about it, gentlemen.

Three Way Tie

Barrie, Guelph, St Mikes On Top in Junior 'A' Race

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A three way tie for first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series developed Friday night as Barrie Flyers and Guelph Biltmores won their only two games played.

However, the tie with unbeaten St. Michael's Majors could be broken on the weekend as St. Michael's play Saturday at St. Catharines in the only game scheduled and then meet the TorPets again Sunday in Toronto. In the other Sunday game the Biltmores meet Toronto Marlboros at Toronto.

Barrie whipped Hamilton Cubs 6-2 in Barrie and Guelph beat Peterborough 3-2 at Guelph Friday night.

Flyers outshot Hamilton 31-20 and were never in trouble. Pierre Gagne had Jennell Gilbert each fired two goals apiece as Flyers while Dale Rolfe and Nelson Le-vasir had one each.

Jim McLellan and Nick Polano scored the Hamilton goals.

In the Guelph - Peterborough game defencemen Mike McArthen, son of former Montreal science star Mike McMahne, scored two Guelph goals. Red Gilbert also counted two for Guelph and Larry Favero tallied the other.

Guelph Connolly, Wayne Boddy and Doug Senior scored for Peterborough.

Barrie and Guelph have each won three and lost two for their share of first place. St. Michael's also won their only three games.

Peterborough and Toronto Marlboros are tied for fourth with four points. Hamilton is in fifth with three points and St. Catharines in the cellar with one.

REISER FOR REESE

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Former Dodgers outfielder Pete Reiser will take the place of PeeWee Reese on the Los Angeles coaching staff, it was announced Friday. Reiser was with the Dodgers from 1941 to 1947 with time out for navy service when the club was in Brooklyn. He has had four years of coaching experience in Dodgers farm clubs.

Dutchmen Hand Macs Seventh Defeat By 6-2 Score

Sizzling 1st Period Attack Wasted by Macs as Hurley Sensational in K-W Nets

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, held in the game only by the net magic of Scot Hurley in the first period, found their scoring eyes in the final forty minutes here last night to hand the McFarlands a 6-2 setback before 1245 hopeful hometown fans.

For the last place Macs, who suffered their seventh defeat in eight games, the loss was a heart-breaker after having dominated play during the opening stanza.

The McFarlands swarmed around Hurley's cage and had chance after chance to open up an early lead but they could not put the puck in the webbing. Bellevillle outshot the league leaders by a lopsided 18-7 count in the first period and 36-27 overall. And that first period count was a true indication of the play.

The scene shifts to Whitby tonight where the Macs will be trying to duplicate their lone victory of the season against Wren Blair's Dunlops. Game time is 8.30.

Flin Flon's gift to the Olympic-bound Dutchmen, centre Cliff Pennington, carried the bulk of the milestone assist last night by scoring three goals. And only a great save by Turk Barclay on a clean breakaway prevented him from adding a fourth late in the game.

Single markers were registered by Dutchmen Bob Ertel, Kenny Laufman and Butch Martin. Brien Anderson, Bob McKnight, Martin and Ron Muir drew assists.

Dave Jones, points leader on the club to date, led the frustrated Mac attack scoring on goal and earning an assist on the other, fired by Ted Toppazzini. Jack Swarky picked up one assist.

FAST, WIDE OPEN

The game was fast and wide open from the drop of the puck and had the fans in an uproar as Hildebrand's crew appeared to be well on their way to victory number two. Action never did slow up even when the penalty parade started in the second period and the whistles slowly began to pull ahead.

Referee Stan Boshier doled out 13 sentences with 12 of these in the last two periods. Belleville drew seven of the total. Lou Smrke and Don Labelle received the night's only major penalties when they renewed an old feud with a spirited battle behind the Kitchener net early in the second heat. Buz Gagnon also took four of the Mac sentences while Labelle served nine minutes on Kitchener's behalf.

After the Dutchies tested Barclay in the first minute of the game the Macs took over the play for the remainder of the period. Jones hit a post on Hurley's doorstep, Brown wallop in alone only to have the nimble curtodian outguess him; Hildebrand, Partridge and Toppazzini drove sizzlers from close in and Benoit blasted screened shots from the point. But the "Boat" committed first degree robbery time after time.

Benoit got the only penalty of the period for tripping at 12.22 and still the Macs had the best of the play with only Bob Forhan's lone-in shot giving Barclay any work.

Hurley pulled another key save on Partridge to start the second period and a minute later Bob Ertel sunk a backhander to give the Dutchies' undeserved first-blood.

Smrke and Labelle staged their brawl and it was while they were cooling their heels that Ted Toppazzini tied the count at 1-1. He took Jones' pass and picked an uppercorner to finally prove that Hurley could be beaten.

Play continued at a rousing fast, end-to-end pace as Hurley used radar to spear Benoit's perscreened bullet. Then Laufman took advantage of a careless clearing attempt, grabbed a loose puck and shoved it by Barclay's short side to put his club ahead for good at 12.48.

FULLED AHEAD

Pennington took a pasout from back of the net for his first at 15.32 and the same player made it 4-1 on a long shot that never left the ice at 18.18. Gagnon was off for cross checking at the time.

Whitby Defeats Chatham To Tie For Second Place

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Olympic - bound Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen clobbered the world champion Belleville McFarlands 6-2 and Whitby Dunlops defeated Chatham Maroons 8-1 in Ontario Hockey Association Senior A play Friday night.

The wins gave Dutchmen a three-point lead in the league standings and put Whitby in a second place tie with Chatham, one up on the Windsor Bulldogs. Belleville trails with only two points.

McFarlands launched a determined first - period attack and outshot the Dutchmen 36-27 during the game. Boat Hurley in goal stopped most Belleville efforts.

THREE BY PENNINGTON

Cliff Pennington paced the winners with three goals. Bob Ertle, Kenny Laufman and Butch Martin got the others. Belleville scorers were Ted Toppazzini and Dave Jones.

Dunlops outclassed the Maroons every turn, building up a 3-0 lead at the end of the first period and a 4-1 margin at the end of the second.

Three Whitby markers were picked in by Gordie Myles. Eric Pogue got two goals and Pete Babando, Jack Kane and George Samaniuko netted the others. Joe Mako got the lone Maroon score.

Whitby outshot Chatham 30-23 as Maroons showed a weak defence and shaky goal-keeping by John Albani, who had little assistance from the players out front.

Chicago Black Hawks Won Season's Opener and Still Looking for Second Victory

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

What's happened to Chicago Black Hawks?

The Hawks finished a strong fifth in the National Hockey League season and then gave the Montreal Canadiens a spanking battle in the Stanley Cup semi-finals before buying out in the sixth of a never-ending series.

This season the Hawks beat New York Rangers in the season's opener and haven't beaten anybody since.

The winless string now has reached 10 games. In which they have only been able to score 15 goals.

Coach Rudy Pilous, who leads the Hawks against Montreal Canadiens tonight, said Friday:

"This year we're not skating and we're not hitting anybody. We're not determined enough to take out our checks and we're getting beaten to the puck."

Detroit Red Wings play at Toronto in tonight's only other game. Sunday the Hawks move on to Boston for a date with the red-hot Bruins who have scored 30 goals in their last three games.

Pilous will be back home to host the Rangers in Sunday's other game.

The Hawks will be without captain Eddie Litzenberger and left winger Eric Nesterenko and possibly defenseman Ted Lindsay, another left winger for tonight's game.

WORRIERS GIVEN REST

Litzenberger and Nesterenko, both described by general manager Tommy Ivan as "the worrying type" were left behind in Chicago for a rest.

Litzenberger has only scored one goal this season after getting 20 last season and 24 and 26 the two previous seasons. Nesterenko also has scored only one goal after 15 and 18 the previous best point-getter.

Ivan promised a slight concussion Tuesday night against Boston and is undergoing treatment.

Although the Hawks' offence has turned out to be something little better than nothing, the defence has improved.

In their 11 games last season the Hawks had scored 32 goals, won four games, tied two more and were in fourth place. They had allowed 40.

31 POINTS FROM 6TH

This season the Hawks have scored only 15 but their goals-against mark has also been reduced to 31. The Hawks are in the cellar, 11 points out of fourth place.

Pilous still thinks that the Hawks will bounce back.

"Everybody on the club thought some of his players were carrying too much weight and ordered them to skate some of it off.

"They've been working hard," he said Friday, "but Gump (Moose) Vasko is down to 214 from 222. Litzenberger is down 12 pounds. Glenn Hall is a little heavier at 175 than he was last season but we figured he'd be better off with a little extra weight."

Royals Second in Standings But First in Other Respects

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Royals aren't leading in the Eastern Professional Hockey League standings, but they're way out in front in three other departments.

The Royals have lost fewer games than anyone else, have tied the fewest goals scored against them and have played the fewest games.

It's this last factor that seems to be holding them in second place, a point behind the league-leading Sudbury Wolves, who have played three more games. All other teams have played two more, except Kingston Frontenacs who are only one up on Royals, to share last place with Trois-Rivieres.

ROYALS, WOLVES WIN

The Royals took over sole possession of second place Friday night by walloping Hull - Ottawa 8-2. The two teams had been tied before the game. The Wolves, Sudbury league lead intact by winning the three 6-1.

Sorel Sta. Maria Thunderbirds, idle Friday night, are fourth, one point behind the Habs and five in front of Kingston and Trois-Rivieres.

The Royals have lost only two games in 11 starts. The Wolves have lost five in 14, Hull-Ottawa and Soo both five in 11.

The Royals have had 29 goals scored against them for a 2.6 goals-against average, compared with 3.3 average for the Wolves, 3.7 for Hull-Ottawa and 3.4 for the Soo.

ROYALS OVERHAUL HULL

Hull-Ottawa had a 3-1 lead over Royals in the first period at Montreal but the Habs team went ahead to stay shortly before the end of the period.

Lulu Denis and Fern Perreault scored two goals each for Montreal, single went to Reginald Fleri, Bill Sutherland, Ken Schmidt and Yves Sarrazin. Johnny Kowaleuk and Chuck Hamilton scored for Hull-Ottawa.

At Sudbury, homebrew Cummy Burton, 23-year-old former Detroit Red Wing forward, scored his first two goals of the season to gladden the hearts of all his fans. The other Wolves' goals were scored by John Shaver, Sam Bettio, Cleland Morrison and Gene Ubriaco.

RYANS BOMBARDED

The Wolves dominated play and outshot the Lions 46-22. Only fine goaltending by Claude Evans prevented the score reaching double figures. Lions' lone tally was scored by Jim Ryan, on a power play with 10 minutes remaining.

Ryan was the first goal scored by the Lions against Gerry McNamara in two games.

Lions' coach Gerry Desaulniers handed his team from the bench for the first time this season. He suffered an ankle sprain Thursday night at the Soo but is expected back in the lineup for a Sunday home game against the Thunderbirds.

Junior Nurses Win Hoop Tilt Over RCAF

Belleville General Hospital Junior Nurses scored a 30-10 victory over Trenton RCAF girls in a basketball fixture at the YMCA here the other night.

Pat Glass paced the winners in the scoring parade with 16 points while Lynda Vincent, Pat Vaughn, Carol Fuzzens, Dawn Johnson and Shirley Jewell contributed to the 30-point total.

The game RCAF girls battled hard in a losing cause with Sheila Fraser, Betty Hinton, Joyce Doucett and Gail Young handling the scoring.

The RCH team, coached and managed by Beverlee Williams and Bernadette Johnson, got strong defensive games from guards Thelma Barr, Louise Cisber, Joan Kimmett, Iris Bowers and Janice Hicks.

Ottawa Roughies Heavy Favorites To Defeat Als

By BERNARD DUFRESNE

Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders were heavy favorites today to defeat Montreal Alouettes in their sudden-death semi - final playoff for the Big Four football championship.

Coach Frank Clair of Ottawa said the period of 9½ points given by some Ottawa backers was "awfully high" especially in view of the apparently-improved Montreal defence.

"I could have predicted he'd make that statement," Clair said. "He does every year—the great prophet."

EAT HIS WORDS?

A newspaper clipping of Trimble's prediction has been planted in the Riders' dressing room bulletin board, for psychological reasons. The winner meets Hamilton in a two - game series for the eastern championship.

Trimble and his assistant coach, Ralph Sazio, were on hand to scout the game. Trimble also has instructed his Tiger-Cats to do some scouting via television and report their conclusions at practice Monday night.

Kickoff for the game, televised nationally except in blacked-out Ottawa, is 1 p.m. EST.

Freezing temperatures with northwest winds of about 15 miles and the possibility of scattered snowflurries and frost on the ground were forecast.

Riders' lineup contained two changes. Defensive end Lou Bruce and tackle John Bove, who rested last week, were added to the lineup, replacing Jim Hughes and Moe Racine.

PREFERS SUDDEN-DEATH

Clair was asked how he regarded sudden - death playoff games and replied:

"Sudden-death is all right with me. As a matter of fact, I'd like to see the final a sudden-death game too. There are too many playoff games in Canada, I think. You just have to win the games you need. That's football."

Meanwhile kindly old coach Douglas (Peahead) Walker of the Alouettes complained he just didn't have an offensive team.

But, he said, "we might get a break, block a kick, intercept a pass, grab a fumble. Anything could be important in this game."

He continued to hope for a dry field, so the Als' passing game would not be hampered.

Blonde Nomination

Anne Heggtveit Could Be Winner of Marsh Trophy

WINDSOR (CP)—A blue - eyed Ottawa blonde has been nominated by the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada for the country's outstanding athlete of the year trophy.

Ski champion Anne Heggtveit, 20, won the nomination for the Lou E. Marsh Trophy at the union's annual convention Friday.

If she goes on to win the trophy—open to pros as well as amateurs—she'll be following in the ski tracks of Quebec's Lucile Wheeler, who won it last year.

Miss Heggtveit, who has her sights set on this winter's Olympics at Squaw Valley, Calif., was touring a tour of Europe. Her biggest triumph was the combined women's title in the top European Arlberg-Kandahar skiraces.

AWARD TROPHIES

The athletic union recognizes her best feats in a workout on the Velma Springsteed Bowl Trophy now being lodged Canada's outstanding woman athlete of the year, an award won last year by Miss Wheeler.

The Norton H. Crowe Award for Canada's male athlete inclined to have made the outstanding contribution to any sport undertaken in 1959 went to Ottawa distance runner Gordon Dickson of Hamilton. It's a 60 - pound trophy target he has won the trophy.

Dickson, a 25-year-old Hamilton insurance man, placed a brilliant third in April's Boston Marathon.

In May, 1955, he ran the fastest marathon race in Canadian track history—two hours, 21 minutes, 50.3 seconds, for 26 miles.

Doug Kyle, a middle distance runner from Edmonton, won the Davies Trophy as the outstanding Canadian amateur track, field, marathon or harrier athlete.

AWARDS TO JUNIORS

Bruce Kidd, the middle distance runner from Toronto's East York Track Club, won the Vipond Trophy as the outstanding junior athlete of the year. Miss Kidd, also of East York, won the Myrtle Cook Trophy for the outstanding junior track and field woman athlete.

Walter Noel, a Manitoba Indian, won the Tom Longboat Trophy as the outstanding Indian athlete of the year.

Toronto's George Stulac took the Frederick G. A. Rowell Trophy for the outstanding Canadian athlete in field events. John Pasalago, Toronto Olympic hurdler, won the Dr. Fred Tees Memorial Trophy for the outstanding Canadian university track and field athlete.

Maroons Want To Suspend Two Cornwall Players

CHATHAM (CP) — Chatham Maroons of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series have asked the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to suspend two players whom the Maroons claim left from Cornwall Chevies earlier this season.

The OHA Senior A series operated last season in eastern and western divisions with Cornwall in the eastern division.

Maroon manager - coach John Horeck has asked the CAHA to suspend Marcel Goyette and Agis Kukulowicz. Cornwall is to play with Louisville rebels of the United States Eastern amateur league and Kukulowicz with Denver of the U.S. Western amateur league.

The two players were waived from Cornwall Senior A by Chatham and sold to Charlotte Clippers of the U.S. Eastern League.

Chatham said both reported to their present clubs earlier this season, instead of attending the Maroons camp upon a letter of invitation.

UBC Team Has Two of Best Football Players

By JIM PEACOCK

Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—The University of British Columbia Thunderbirds will take two of the best college football players in Canada and a trunkful of desire with them next week when they leave for Toronto and the national collegiate football championship Nov. 14.

Halfback Jack Henwood and lineman Doug Mitchell rank with the finest college players in the country, says head coach Frank Gnup.

The Birds must have plenty of desire to play at all for their is not merely a voluntary participation—they have to pay to play.

Football players at UBC have to buy their own boots.

That, however, hasn't let this enthusiasm and the Birds' most successful season in history push him out on a prediction limb.

Eastern Canada universities, with bigger budgets than those in the Western Canada Intercollegiate Athletic Union, have long since proven their superiority.

OPPONENT WONDERED

The Birds will meet either the University of Toronto or the University of Western Ontario in Varsity Stadium Nov. 14 in the first post-war national college final.

They'll take 28 players to Toronto, departing next Wednesday, and win or lose the season will go down as UBC's best in history.

With a switch this year from the Evergreen Conference, where UBC took regular lickings from small colleges in the northwest-ern United States, to the WCIAU where Alberta and Saskatchewan have returned to football to provide the opposition, UBC has a 5-2 won-lost record.

The latest victories in the three WCIAU games played—the Birds are heavy favorites over Saskatchewan in the last league game here this Saturday—and in two of their exhibition games against Evergreen schools.

Bombers, Eskies Getting Ready For Final Games

WINNIPEG (CP)—If Edmonton Eskimos and Winnipeg Blue Bombers can get through practices in one piece they should be in near-peak condition for the opening game of their Western Interprovincial Football Union championship series next Wednesday.

The long rest will help several players still on the mend.

Canadian Don Duncalfe, Hamilton' rookie defensive end, was operated on for torn knee ligaments and is out for the remainder of the season. Friday it was discovered veteran centre Don Barry had suffered a broken thumb in practice. He will be dressed for the opening game in Edmonton.

Johnny Bright and Oscar Kruger are recuperating after receiving stitches to close cuts and splits suffered against British Columbia Lions in the semi-finals.

For the defending - champion Blue Bombers defensive end Ed Loining will play with a finger-long dressing of 33 stitches after being ripped open by his dog.

MAY MISS HALFBACK

Defensive half Nick Miller is working out with the Bombers but still is not fully recovered from a leg injury and probably won't see action.

Winnipeg's big injury is quarterback Jim Van Pelt, shelved for the remainder of the year following a late-season shoulder separation. He will be replaced by Kenny Ploen.

The Bombers, who have been running through 80-minute practices, are in good spirits—particularly Canadian back Gerry James whose wife presented him with his fourth child, and first son, Friday.

The Bombers planned to watch the televised Big Four semi-final between Ottawa Rough Riders and Montreal Alouettes today.

HELP BIRDS

OLDEBOORN, Netherlands (AP)—Pitying the poor peewits, the Dutch have flooded meadows in Harlingen and Gleten to help the birds on their southward migrations. The flooding forces worms to the surface and provides a much - needed meal in transit, say bird lovers. Peewits, living mostly on worms, are the needlest.

'Big Mallard' No More Than Barnyard Fowl

WINNIPEG (CP) — Winnipeg's "mammoth mallard" turned out to be nothing more than an escaped or abandoned barnyard fowl.

When word got around that Gordon Chilton of Winnipeg had shot a 10-pound mallard near Marquette, Man., Ducks Unlimited had naturalist Angus Shortt examine the bird. The verdict: "An escaped or abandoned barnyard fowl with an amazing resemblance to the authentic drake mallard."

When shot the pseudo-mallard was accompanied by several bonafide wild mallards.

Revoke Licence Of Enterprises

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York State Athletic Commission revoked the promoter's licence of Rosensohn Enterprises, incorporated after the attorney for the corporation had challenged the authority of the commission.

The commission's action Friday was for failure to notify the commission of a transfer of stock by Bill Rosensohn to Jose J. Velella and failure to advise the commission of the changes in the board of directors.

Rosensohn had been president of the corporation and later was succeeded by Velella, a New York lawyer and politician. The revocation was made at Friday's session of the commission's inquiry into alleged irregularities in the promotion of the Ingemar Johansson - Floyd Patterson heavyweight bout in Yankee Stadium on June 26.

Rochester Club Still Unbeatable On Home Ice

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rochester Americans are still unbeatable at home in the American Hockey League.

The Americans have won seven of their nine games. All seven have been at home. When they beat the league-leading Providence Reds 8-1 Friday night they extended their unbeaten home regular-season string to 22 games since last Jan. 16.

With the Reds dropping their fourth straight, the Americans moved into a tie for second spot with Springfield Indians. They trail Providence by two points.

Hershey Bears and Cleveland Barons played to a 2-2 overtime tie in the only other game.

TWO-GOAL MEN

Three players collected two goals each for the Americans. They were Bob Nevin, Cecil Hoekstra and Dave Creighton. Stan Smrke and Pal Hannigan got singles. Ken Yackel scored for Providence.

The game at Cleveland was marked by the sensational goaltending of Gil Boisvert and Bobby Perreault. Cleveland's Boisvert, with 23 saves, turned back three Hershey shots late in the game to save the tie. Perreault stopped 30 shots.

Ray Klasnerich and Willie Marshall scored for Hershey. Gregg Hicks and George McAvoy were the Cleveland marksmen.

Canada Takes Second Place

NEW YORK (AP)—Hugh Wiley of Towson, Md., Friday won the International jumping competition at the National Horse Show, bringing down the curtain on what was beginning to seem like a one character play with Bill Steinkraus handling all the parts.

Steinkraus, 33 - year - old Westport, Conn., jock analyst, had captured three of the individual events.

In the over-all race for team honors, the U.S. is in front with 77 points to 39 for second - place Canada.

TIPS

by JOHN WETTLAUFER

The causes of television interference are almost unlimited—cars, aeroplanes, electrical appliances — and even other television sets.

For example: perhaps you have purchased a brand new TV set and have moved the old one to a children's room for the enjoyment of their own programs. If this old set in the children's room is tuned to channel 2 it may completely black out channel 5 on the set in your living room. The remedy is to install a 2 set coupler to the antenna or to put up a separate aerial for each set.

The trained technicians at CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 364 Coleman St., have the experience to diagnose most types of interference and can often remedy the trouble or perhaps make it less severe. Call us at WO 8-6791 (in Trenton EN 2-7689) and tell us your problem.

Lee Bowman Starts Filming New Series of Underworld

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There was Lee Bowman on the floor, conked by a gangster's sap and with a switchblade aimed at his gullet. A shot was fired by an obliging blonde and Lee lived on to solve another case.

This bit of drama took place at Desilu studios, where Lee is filming Miami Undercover, a new TV series for United Artists. It came easily to him, and with good reason.

During his film career Bowman played a columnist-sleuth in The Walls Came Tumbling Down. He starred on radio in an Erle Stanley Gardner series, and for 90 weeks he played Ellery Queen on live TV.

GRAZIANO SIDEKICK

So his new guise as a Florida crime hunter (with Sidekick Rocky Graziano) is a natural result of his long battle against the underworld.

After his seasons as Ellery, Lee stayed on to do Broadway shows, front TV spectaculars for an auto concern, conduct a real estate - insurance firm with his brother, act as director of a commercial film concern, perform on a weekly drama over NBC radio and appear on the panel show, Masquerade Party.

Mike DeJohn Floors Powell In First Round

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Mike DeJohn of Syracuse floored former professional football player Charlie Powell three times with a series of vicious lefts and rights Friday night for a technical knockout after 47 seconds of the first round in their televised fight.

The 205½-pound DeJohn caught the San Diego, Calif., heavyweight flush on the jaw with the second punch of the fight, a vicious left. Powell got up, shook his head and then went down under a left-right combination. Seconds later he was on the canvas for the third time and referee Joe Palmer stepped in and stopped it.

Although unranked, DeJohn was a 6-to-5 favorite over Powell, former defensive end for San Francisco 49ers. Powell was ranked eighth by the National Boxing Association.

The quick triumph won DeJohn a Dec. 18 date against Eddie Machen in New York.

Giants Picked To Hold Lead In East Group

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League barges into the second half of a rugged season Sunday with New York Giants holding a one-game lead in the eastern conference as San Francisco 49ers sporting the same advantage in the western section.

Chicago Cardinals play the Giants at Yankee Stadium, Baltimore commutes to Washington to meet the Redskins, San Francisco visits Los Angeles to tackle the Rams, and Philadelphia hosts the Browns in Cleveland.

New York has a 5-1 mark in the east, Cleveland, Philadelphia are tied for second with 4-2 records, San Francisco tops the west at 5-1, and the champion Colts are right behind with a 4-2 mark. The Cardinals and Redskins are both 2-4 in the eastern race, with Los Angeles 2-4 in the west.

Player Collapses

KITCHENER (CP) — Thomas Burrows, 17-year-old Galt Collegiate Institute student, collapsed after a football game here Friday and was taken to hospital in London with serious head injuries.

Burrows had complained of a pain in his head shortly before he collapsed. He suffered a bump on the head during a practice game in Galt Tuesday.

The youth was taken to London after being admitted to Kitchener-Waterloo Hospital. He had not regained consciousness at the time of his transfer.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20)— Take this day to discuss your goals with your most trusted advisors and loyal friends. During P. M. it is important you guard all your actions and words, or you may lose much in credit or prestige affairs.

If your child is born today

The healthy child born today is the type who from early infancy knows the value of perseverance and work, and is seldom found going off to other activities while engaged in some specific work. This natural course is highly advisable in this chart, since a good living can be earned quite early in life. This permits of regular saving to insure a comfortable old age.

By CARROLL RIGHTER
Monday, November 9

General tendencies: The daytime finds you with considerable energy to see the overall urges and desires that are important to you from the viewpoint of making them a workable reality by bringing them into exact expression. You then can get the good will and active assistance of influential people and executives for further success.

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Widen your scope properly by contacting your best advisers and then the key people who will help make your activities more successful. Get as much pertinent information as you can. Continue your work and studies in the evening.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20)— Get together with comrades and associates to plan some corporate venture that will bring success to all. Plan day for any civic projects, too. P. M. excellent for financial benefits connected with business and creative talents.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21)— Be wise today and know exactly what is required of you by higher-ups or those to whom you have made promises. Then labor most efficiently and impress them with your ability and intellect, which are keener than you realize.

Moon Children (June 22 to July 23) — Even though you are filled with inspiration right now, do not idle away one single moment of this fine day. Listen to suggestions made by new acquaintances, too. P. M. entertain at home and be witty. Come to better understanding with others.

Leo (July 24 to Aug. 23)— You can start a new upswing in your affairs if you begin new work properly by handling efficiently all monetary and property affairs. Tonight is then fine for romance and being very devoted instead of demanding and egotistical.

Virgo (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)— It would be wise to have a heart-to-heart talk with associates and know what your true position is with them. Commendations. P. M. could clear several friends and come to better understanding, too. Make plans for the future.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)— Ideal day to embellish abode or surroundings by cleaning, painting on a new coat of paint, or just adding artistic touches. Also, co-operate more fully with partners. P. M. find out where to log off around sunset.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)— Since you are concentrating upon pleasures and personal affairs, this is an ideal day for such. However, see that you are beautifully dressed, know your own mind and what your true desires are. Then full speed ahead.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21) — Full concentration will reveal your innermost desires, which you must then discuss with trusted intimates to learn how best to acquire them. Also those experienced in your line of endeavor. P. M. be affectionate, calm.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Begin work properly by contacting all the right people, but set up appointments first and have all pertinent information at fingertips. Later, do your shopping and in P. M. handle correspondence, study, then retire early.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Financial affairs can be most successful for you today. Take care you do not waste time with idlers or clerks, but head directly for those in authority. Be specific, to the point and most courteous. Expand.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Fine day to pursue your ambitions with enthusiasm and perfect confidence. There is a great opportunity now to make the acquaintance of important and progressive individuals who can help you greatly up the ladder of success.

If your child is born today ...

The wonderful child born today cannot achieve true happiness unless or until he, or she, has mastered the aesthetic as well as the practical fundamentals of life. So give as fine a combined course of education as possible, and a heavy program. There is an exceptional mind here and great success is possible in any academic profession. Both fame and fortune are possible in this chart.

Your Car

Have an Expert Give Brakes Winter Checkup

By EUGENE MELMOE

In wintering your car did you think about the brakes? Driving over slick roads or occasional icy patches is hazardous enough, but with poor braking it's suicidal.

If brakes pull toward one side, are overly sensitive, drag at one wheel or tend to lock slightly, the dangers of skidding out of control is greatly multiplied.

Don't wait for warning symptoms. Have the brakes inspected and tested by a professional. It takes an expert to check for such things as unequal or improper adjustment; loose, grease-soaked, worn or incorrect linings; restricted or punctured hydraulic lines; insufficient or excessive pedal play; swollen rubber parts; loose brake bolts; weak or fatigued shoe return springs; defective master and wheel cylinders.

From E. McN: "As automotive handbook I have tells how to lubricate the starting motor oil cups. Mine has no oil cups, so how is the motor supposed to be oiled?"

(A) The handbook should have mentioned that some starter motors have packed bearings and require no further lubrication.

• • •

H. F. writes: "Whenever I suddenly accelerate — whether the car is moving or in neutral — I hear an engine noise which I can only describe as a series of muffled knocks. What is the source of the trouble?"

(A) Loose engine mountings could be causing this, but you should have a mechanic check it out.

S. A. asks: "I bought a new car in May, 1957. The battery still holds a strong charge and has never given a hint of trouble, but a local service station attendant says I should get a new battery now to be better equipped for cold weather."

(A) There, even four years, of reliable service is nothing unusual when a battery has been properly used and maintained.

• • •

From E. R.: "I've had a lot of trouble with burned, fouled spark plugs, and heard many versions about why this happens. What do you think?"

(A) Loose plugs, plugs of the wrong heat range, excessively lean fuel mixtures, poor ignition timing or faulty valve action are the leading causes.

THE GOLDEN YEARS

Aged Parents Sometimes Problem But One That Deserves Attention

By THOMAS COLLINS

"What in the name of decency and common sense . . . can be done with a 73-year-old parent who can no longer make it!"

These, in growing numbers, come the appeals of well-off, respectable people — usually married couples. One or the other has, in the next county, an old mother or an old father who is beginning to suffer lapses of memory, running out of money or becoming helpless because of some physical failings.

Nice people can't turn their heads. But they don't see how they can spare money to provide private cars for such a parent. They find it not feasible, for one reason or more, to bring the parent into their home.

What best can they do?

For these respectable people — as against those who abandon their aging parents — I offer what ten years of watching and wondering have taught me:

1. With a few exceptions, well-off and respectable people cannot best when they bring dependent parents into their own homes. It's not easy, and never practical. But there's always room, if there must be. And you'll see from what follows here that it's best.

LESSER OF THE EVILS

2. The finest places I have seen to put aging parents are the old people's homes operated by religious institutions and fraternal organizations. Not all of these are good, but many of them are. Financial arrangements at such homes differ, but some of the good ones I have seen charge about $3000 (not returnable at death) for a room, plus maybe $70 per month. Or they require that the parent surrender all assets he owns to the home. Under such arrangements the parent would have social status comparable to the status of nice, well-off people. And he would have proper care, so it would not be embarrassing. But as a moral matter, the parent would be losing the tenderness of a family in the years when it is probably most precious. And as a financial matter, it probably wouldn't justify.

3. Under certain circumstances, as aging, dependent parents can be placed in a tax-supported institution for free . . . even by well-off people. The stigma of this can curse the family for three generations.

Surprised Gasp Wins Acquittal

MONTREAL (CP)—Roger Letarte gasped in surprise when detectives opened a suitcase found in his shed last April and discovered $250,000 in stolen bonds inside.

His spontaneous reaction played a vital part in gaining him an acquittal in court Thursday when he was tried for illegal possession of the securities. He said he was given the suitcase to hold by a friend.

The bonds were part of $1,750,000 worth of securities stolen in January, 1958, from the Caisse Nationale d'Economie in Montreal.

UN Committee Finds No Proof Reds in Laos

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The United Nation's fact-finding committee on Laos reported Friday that it had found no proof that Communist forces from North Viet Nam had taken part in the current conflict in the little Indochinese kingdom.

In a 32-page report to the 11-nation Security Council, the committee declared, however, that the Laotian rebels had received equipment, arms, supplies and the help of political advisers from neighboring North Viet Nam.

The report was the result of a first-hand inquiry by the four-member committee created by the Security Council last Sept. 7. Japan, Argentina, Italy and Tunisia. Members of the group were Jo[illegible]nists.

First Shipments Sent From Mills, Strike Is Halted

Customers Pressing For Speedy Deliveries

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Major producers said the first small shipments of finished steel into delivery channels today — two days after an 80-day injunction halted the longest strike in steel industry history.

The early shipments — gatherings of what was left behind when the 116-day strike began — meant little to customers already hurt by shortages. It will be weeks before newly - produced steel moves in significant amounts.

Thousands of the 380,000 strikers were called back to work during the week-end. Thousands more expected recalls early this week.

Most companies began heating ironmaking blast furnaces for steel - making, open hearths 24 hours after the mill gates swung open. Some expected to be back from blast furnaces today.

CUSTOMERS PRESS

Throughout the industry there was a gigantic effort to get all facilities producing as quickly as possible. Customers — many closed because of steel shortages — pressed for speedy deliveries.

The producers could count on only 86 days' operation, if the 1-hor dispute is unsettled when the injunction expires Jan. 30. workers could renew the strike.

Secretary of Labor James M. Mitchell, in a television appearance Sunday night, said it will be up to Congress to see that mills operating beyond Jan. 30 if a labor agreement still is beyond reach.

Mitchell said President Eisenhower would be ready promptly with recommendations to the lawmakers if the strike is resumed. He refused to hint what the recommendations might be.

NO CONCESSIONS

There was no indication that either the industry or the union was in a mood to make major concessions. No negotiations were scheduled.

The union continued to press for wage and fringe benefits that steel executives said would be inflationary. Workers were earning an average of $2.81 an hour when the strike started.

The companies held on to demands for major changes that would give management more say-over working conditions in the mills.

For the miners and railroadmers among the 350,000 unemployed workers in allied industries, the resumption brought good news. Many already have returned.

But for thousands of others — in the auto and appliance industries and others — the wait for recalls will be a long one. Many may not get back to their jobs during the 80-day period.

Jap Expedition In Himalayas Is Found Safe

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — A Japanese mountain - climbing expedition missing in the Himalayas is safe, the Nepalese foreign office announced today.

A statement said the 33-member party will return to Katmandu soon. A five-man search party had left only Sunday to look for the climbers, feared lost in an avalanche.

The party disappeared five weeks ago on 22,400 - foot Mt. Gauri Sankar, which is named after the Hindu god of destruction.

An aerial search of the area Saturday failed to find any trace of the missing men.

PEARSON BLAMES TWO GOVTS. FOR URANIUM FAILURE

Says Canada Did Not Exert Any Pressure

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Pearson blames both the Canadian and United States governments for the "sorry failure" of the U.S. to agree to buy more uranium from Canada.

He said Sunday night in a statement that the Canadian government is "unable or unwilling" to bring the necessary political pressure on Washington at the highest levels.

The Liberal government was concerned only with its domestic producers and was permitted to "wash its hands" of the matter after imploring the Canadian government a few years ago to break ahead with development of the uranium industry for common defence.

CHARGES FAILURE

Mr. Pearson, MP for the urban constituency of Lake of Acienni East, said the Canadian government has "completely failed" to make an agreement with the U.S. for purchase of uranium by the U.S. government after the current five - year contract expires in March, 1962.

He said that all the government has been able to do, Mr. Pearson said, is to stretch out until 1965 the purchases under contracts previously negotiated by the former Liberal government.

He said Canadian cabinet ministers now at Camp David, Md., for defence talks with their U.S. counterparts "should demand that Washington act at once to secure a better deal for the Canadian uranium industry."

UNION HEAD MEETING

At Toronto, the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) asked for a meeting with the government to learn details of the uranium "phase-out."

Larry Sefton, director of the Steelworkers District 6, said in a telegram to Prime Minister Diefenbaker that the uranium mine workers want "a full public review of the employment picture" of the industry concerned.

Mr. Pearson said "the Canadian claim, instead of protesting, calls this default and its consequences 'unfortunate and ill-timed.'"

"A few more successes like this and Canada's export trade will have disappeared.

CHARGE DENIED

"Moreover, this rebuff has been calmly accepted by a government which bows to lack of its courage and success in 'standing up' to the Americans."

"This failure is a fitting commentary on Prime Minister Diefenbaker's boast, but hollow, words in Toronto Nov. 3 that he was 'not here to announcement was made.

"Talking about Canada - U.S. relations," he said, "We have strongly and constantly asserted that Canadian interests should not be sacrificed." And: "We have made it clear that Canada's requirements for defence demands that Canada's economic interests shall not be overlooked."

Mr. Pearson asked whether Mr. Diefenbaker pressed the matter with President Eisenhower or whether the government made a fiscal protest to the U.S.

Roberts Reads Report to See If Charges Should Be Laid

TORONTO (CP)—Attorney-General Roberts said his department is studying the royal commission report on Belleville's financial affairs today to see whether charges should be laid against Belleville officials.

Mr. Roberts began studying the report this morning along with Deputy Minister William Common and William Bowman, director of public prosecutions.

He said he did not know how it would affect the city's plans through the 12.000 - word document, prepared by Judge Arthur Willmott of Cobourg.

Municipal Affairs Minister Warrender said he will not know until Tuesday, or possibly Wednesday, what action his department will take. He said earlier he had indicated $10,000 grant to help Belleville "get back on the right track."

Judge Willmott, who conducted the inquiry, made no recommendations for legal action against Belleville officials, although he accused them of "gross negligence." He said the city has run up a deficit of more than $1,000,000 in its general account since 1956 on operating the Belleville Memorial Civic Centre.

The McFarlands won the world amateur title at Prague earlier this month.

All or Part of Welland Canal May Have to Be Twinned

-- Hees

WINDSOR (CP) — Transport Minister Hees indicated today the government is looking to the twinning all or part of the Welland Canal may have to be twinned.

Mr. Hees told the Rotary Club that a spring's serious Welland holdups were caused partly by inadequacies of canal workers with ocean-going ships moving through the canal. He was speaking for the first time, unfamiliarity of ship crews with the canal and its improper vessel equipment.

However, "not everything can be charged to inexperience." Next year the canal is slated for $7,500,000 on tie-up walls to increase canal capacity by 50 per cent and that would benefit time for ships moving between Lake Ontario and Lake Erie.

He added:

"Any further increase in capacity of the Welland Canal would involve twinning of one or more locks.

"At this point I think there can be but one policy: namely, that as demands on the seaway increase, as they undoubtedly will, and it becomes apparent that additional capacity to handle traffic is required, then appropriate action will be taken to provide necessary facilities."

Mr. Hees' remarks were in the form of the speech injected to the press before delivery.

He predicted that there has been a great influx of foreign vessels into the Lakes this year, seaway traffic records reached this year may not be attained for a number of years.

"There has naturally been much experimenting on the part of shipowners with types of ships, cargoes, and other factors, but since experimenting costs money, I think it will not be too long for some standard traffic patterns to develop".

Trafficker Given 10-Year Term, Fined $60,000

MONTREAL (CP) — Gulsepe (Pepi) Cotroni, who pleaded guilty last month to trafficking in narcotics with a black market value of $1,000,000, Monday was sentenced to 10 years in penitentiary. He was also fined $60,000 or to return $28,800 to United States federal agents who purchased heroin from him.

Three months of undercover work by the U.S. Bureau of Narcotics and Canada's Royal Canadian Mounted Police, 45-year-old Montreal restaurateur, and Rene Robert, 31, a taxi driver.

Following Cotroni's sentence on the trafficking charge, the Crown was granted a request for postponement to Feb. 2 of his trial on charges of conspiring to traffic in narcotics. Also postponed to that date was the trial on charges of possessing stolen goods.

Rene Robert was called today to stand trial before judge and jury, he pleaded guilty to a charge of trafficking in narcotics. His sentence was postponed to Nov. 16.

PICKET EMBASSY

OTTAWA (CP) — About 150 persons marched in front of the Russian Embassy here Saturday night while Soviet Ambassador Amazasp Ambartsumian entertained at a reception celebrating the anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution. Police said the demonstration was peaceful and that police had been ordered to be polite to mainly Hungarian immigrants.

Everybody in Italian Hamlet Shareholders in Biggest Bank

SAN MARCO D'URRI, Italy (AP) This out - of - the - way mountain hamlet has no phones, no automobiles, no policeman, no doctor, no priest — and 280 stockholders in the world's biggest bank.

That's every man, woman and child in San Marco d'Urri, a village in the barren Apennine mountains 30 miles south of Genoa.

Each resident was given 25 shares Sunday in the Bank of America, world's biggest privately owned bank, with assets of about $1,200.

Bank representatives hiked over a rugged mile-long mountain trail—the village's only link with the outside world—to deliver the $360,000 worth of stocks for Victor and Joseph Staturas of Reno, Nev., whose parents were natives of San Marco d'Urri.

Although Victor and Joseph had never seen the village, they wanted to do something for it.

Their father, Leopoldo Pietro Saturno, left the hamlet in 1876 when he was a boy. He went to Reno a fortune in real estate in Reno before dying in 1919.

San Marco d'Urri has known little but poverty for years and the gifts of stock suddenly made 58,400 worth of stock, a neat egg they could put to use built up by years of hard work. Last year each share of Bank of America was worth a dividend of $1.80. For the Avanninis that would make a tidy sum—$504.

The arrival of good luck in the hard luck village did not make everybody happy. An aged woman and her two sons suspected that "someone wants to make fools of us." They refused to collect their shares. Lorenzo Gandini, the bank's director in Italy, said the stock would be held for them until they changed minds.

CHINA PROPOSES 'NO MAN'S LAND' ON INDIA BORDER

Suggests Both Sides Withdraw 12 Miles

PEKING (Reuters) — Communist China today proposed to India a reciprocal 12-mile withdrawal from the disputed McMahon Line dividing their borders.

Premier Chou En-lai also proposed that Indian Prime Minister Nehru that they meet promptly to discuss the disputed border area and other problems.

Chou's letter, dispatched Sunday and published here today, suggested their two forces withdraw 12 miles from the line where each side "exercises actual control." Both sides, he said, should promise not to send fresh forces into the evacuated zones.

"Respected Mr. Prime Minister," Chou wrote, "The peoples of our two countries desire that we act promptly. think we should meet face to face and not let those who seek every chance to disrupt the great friendship between China and India to attain their sinister ends."

NO ARMS IN ZONE

Chou said only administrators and unarmed police should remain in the evacuated areas pending formal demarcation of the boundaries through negotiation.

This action will ensure, Chou said, "that our frontiers will be free from conflict and tension and that the border tension."

The Chinese premier said that pending a settlement, "the status quo should be maintained and neither side should try to alter the status quo by any means."

Both sides should maintain civil administration personnel and unarmed police in the area, the proposal suggested, he said.

Relations between India and Communist China have been deteriorating since an armed clash occurred between the two sides along the northern frontier last month in which nine Indian police officers were killed.

India claimed in a note to Peking that Chinese troops there were 40 miles inside Indian territory at the time.

Chou told China in a note published Sunday that his government will resist aggression "by all means available."

PEACEFUL SETTLEMENT

"This proposal is in effect an extension of the "Panchsheel" principles proposed contained in its note dated Sept. 19 that neither China nor India will send personnel to Longju, to the entire border between the two countries, and moreover a proposal to separate troops of the two sides by a "no man's land" area at 40 kilometres (25 miles).

There is no need to increase this distance, the Chinese government is willing to give it consideration."

Found Guilty Of Murder

BRACEBRIDGE (CP)—Marvin McKee, 20, of Huntsville was sentenced Saturday to be hanged Jan. 27 for the June 13 slaying of Constable Lorne Spiers.

The all-male Supreme Court jury deliberated 48 minutes before returning a verdict of guilty of murder.

McKee was being tried with Wayne Lehman, 18, also of Huntsville, for the slaying of the 23-year-old policeman. Spiers was shot and robbed of $24 and a wrist watch.

5,000 Natural Gas Consumers Without Heat for 32 Hours

CHATHAM (CP) — It was a chilly weekend for many of the 5,000 natural gas consumers from Wheatley west to Kingsville and one of the hardest hit was the Union Gas Company workmen.

Company officials here estimated that the many consumers in the region, including Harrow and Leamington, were without service as a result of a break in a valve in the line feeding the district.

The trouble was located at a point five miles east of Wheatley. At 1:35 p.m., the sharp drop in pressure was noticed almost im-

7 Die In Blazing Oil Tanker At Houston, Texas

300 Firemen Battle Blaze for 22 Hours

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A wall of fire, spurred by a series of rumbling explosions, engulfed the tanker Amoco Virginia at her ship channel berth Sunday. The captain and six sailors were trapped and killed. Twenty-five other persons were injured.

A thousand while cooling the ship with foamite. He apparently stepped into a hole in the submerged portion of the dock.

Investigators climbed over the buckled plates in search of clues in the ruins of the ship.

The fire broke out less than four hours before the American Oil Company's 12,000-ton tanker was to sail for Albany, N.Y.

The flames, feeding on 135,000 barrels of high test gasoline and fuel oil in the vessel's bunkers, threatened the heart of the big port and refining city's petrochemical centre in the U.S. for 19 hours before firemen brought it under control.

"It spread like a prairie fire," said Assistant Fire Chief D. Daley, Jr. "As it spread, a solid wall of flames 100 feet high swept the ship."

300 FIREMEN CALLED

More than 300 firemen who came from as far away as Lake Charles, La., battled the blaze. Hundreds of men finally smothered the main fire in the tanker's bow. But explosions kept rocking the 90,000 barrels of aviation-type gasoline.

Several fires continued to flicker on the vessel's superstructure and on the pier nearby. It cost a royal plow hours after dark. The blackened hulk's glare plates buckled and its seams ripped.

Firemen found the body of Captain R. D. Comer at the foot of a ladder leading to his quarters. The bodies of two sailors were found in their quarters. Two others were found on deck.

The crew of the 1947 Texas City disaster that killed more than 500 persons escaped. But civil defence officials to notify the Texas State Guard and ordered the evacuation of the immediate area.

Fire fighters ashore and aboard the tanker applied water in the early stages before chemical foam and a fire - fighting boat

Woman Bound, Baby Sitter Is Assaulted

HAMILTON (CP)—Police have intensified their search for a youth who forced his way into a west-end home Saturday night, bound a 70-year-old woman to a chair and assaulted a 16-year-old baby-sitter.

The youth was stripping clothing from the girl when her uncle entered the house. He struck the youth and knocked the uncle in the mouth and then fled from the house.

The uncle said he went to the home after he received a telephone call from the girl on the telephone.

The girl told police the youth came to the door asking for her father. She told him her father was at home the man grabbed her by the throat, took her to an upstairs bedroom and bound her until she became dazed.

She said when her mother telephoned the attacker forced her to act naturally but the mother became suspicious and called another uncle who lived nearby.

Police did not disclose names.

Instruments Fail to Leave U.S. Satellite

VANDENBERG AFB, Calif. (AP)—The U.S. Air Force said today that a Thor-Able rocket engine shoved its orbiting Discoverer satellite toward the north polar site as scheduled on its 17th trip around the world, because of instrument failure.

"There now is no possibility of recovery because of the high, instrumented orbital vehicle," the Air Force said.

The Air Force launched the Discoverer here Saturday. An Air Force vehicle picked from the ocean was supposed to have separated from the satellite to position the rocket as it passed over Hawaiian Islands Sunday. Plans were ready to recover it.

DEATH WAS DUE TO NATURAL CAUSES JURY'S VERDICT

A verdict of death from natural causes was returned by a coroner's jury last week at the adjourned inquest looking into the death of 23-year-old James Brady of Napanee, who died in the police cell at Belleville police station last July 22.

The verdict was that Mr. Brady had died from acute bronchial pneumonia. Mr. Brady had been arrested by provincial police on an HTA charge and was lodged in the cells at Belleville. The inquest was held before Coroner Dr. John Stock.

COLLISION CAUSES $280 DAMAGE

Property damage amounting to approximately $200 resulted Sunday night when two cars collided at the corner of Dundas Street and Herchimer Ave.

Police said Lyle Labrash, 9 Harelet Street was crossing the boulevard and making a left turn onto Dundas Street when his car was in collision with a westbound vehicle driven by Roger J. Deroy. There were no injuries.

HOUSE DAMAGED BY SMOKE, WATER

TWEED — Fire breaking out in a mattress in the home of Wilbert Craig, Tweed, early on Saturday morning, caused considerable smoke and some damage before the blaze was extinguished by the volunteer fire department. Mr. Craig, who is a bachelor, was alone in the house at the time and was awakened by the smell of smoke. He fortunately was able to make his escape and walked barefooted and in night attire to a neighbor's home to turn in the alarm. The house was partly covered by insurance.

Loblaw Store On Pinnacle St. Entered Sunday

City police are investigating a break-in at the Pinnacle Street Loblaw supermarket store where entry sometime early Sunday morning smashed a glass out of a rear entrance door and made off with the contents of bags full of cigarets and electrical appliances worth about $500.

The cigarets were later recovered on Church street where they had been abandoned by the thief during his getaway.

Police said that a large section of glass in the centre rear door was smashed and next the door store office had been rummaged through. The electrical appliances taken were some on display as prizes offered by the store in exchange for stamps.

The break-in occurred some time between the Saturday evening when police checked the store and 6:00 o'clock when officers made their next check only to find the store insecure.

Three Ottawa People Hurt In 401 Crash

Three Ottawa people were sidelined to Belleville General Hospital Saturday afternoon following a rear-end collision on 401 highway at the intersection with the Shannonville gravel road.

Admitted to hospital with lacerations to his face, shock, possible concussion was Karoly Toth, Ottawa, his wife Susanne with bruises to her head and knee and Stephen Sebesta, with a possible fracture of his ankle.

All three injured persons were in the car driven by Mr. Toth which bumped into the rear of a car driven by Douglas Robertson of Point Anne who was making a left turn off 401 highway. Both cars were eastbound on 401 at the time of the accident.

At Batawa Saturday night Claus Ambruster, Batawa, received a knee injury when his car was bumped from the rear by another vehicle as he slowed to make a turn off No. 33 highway opposite Batawa.

Provincial Police who investigated said that Fred J. Hall, 19 Sidney township, had been charged with drunk driving.

BIG DEFICIT — Canada's trade showed a deficit of $502,000,000 in the first nine months of 1959. This compared with a deficit of $106,700,000 in the same period of 1958.

This graph shows the fluctuation of imports and exports during the January-September period of 1959, with imports exceeding exports each month.

Officials say the main reason for the big upswing in imports is a growing demand for goods needed in Canada's economic expansion. They also say that exports to Western Europe, which have declined, are expected to show increase soon. The graph shows the trend with imports and exports for September in better balance.

High import figures for the April-June period are normal because in the second quarter Canada's imports always reach a peak, but somewhat in the third quarter. Exports also rise sharply in the second quarter as accumulated stocks are moved. (CP Newsmap.)

Veterans, Other Associations To Mark Remembrance Day

War veteran organizations, civic and other associations and, it is expected, a large number of citizens will observe Remembrance Day here Wednesday, November 11.

Organizations will merge into a general parade to the Cenotaph on Street Cenotaph where a memorial service will be held and wreaths laid at the foot of the monument.

Members of organizations will report to the Bridge Street armouries at 10-10 Wednesday morning. The parade will step off at 10.30. Parties in charge of the service are the Rev. Canon A.S. McConnell, rector of parish of Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and the Rev. R. D. MacLean, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, president of the Belleville Ministerial Association.

Parade marshal is Alderman Les Digby of the Canadian Legion branch here. The parade will be from the armouries to Bridge street, to Front, to Station street and the Cenotaph. The return will be the reverse of the above.

The order of march is the color parties; parade marshal and deputies; provincial and municipal governments representatives; Royal Canadian Air Force Band; Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment led by their band; Sea cadets and Army cadets; Air cadets; Quinte Pipe Band; RCAF Veterans; Naval veterans; Belleville Municipal and Business Band; RCAF Association; Canadian Legion Ladies auxiliary; Canadian Army Band; wreath bearers; Legion and other associations and police and fire department members.

Wreath bearers from non-marching organizations, individuals will fall in with the wreath-bearers party."

WILL LAY WREATHS

Wreaths will be laid in the following order: government of Canada; Province of Ontario; the city of Belleville; The Navy (cadets); the Army (Hasty Pees); RCAF (air force flight); AVAF Veterans; Naval Veterans; RCAF Association; Canadian Legion and ladies' organizations and individuals.

An honor guard composed of four members of the Sea Cadets will man each corner of the Cenotaph with reversed arms.

Music for the hymns will be played by the Salvation Army band while "Last Post" and "Reveille" will be sounded by an RCAF trumpeter.

Veterans will wear medals and wear proper berets.

Ron Walmsley New President Badminton Club

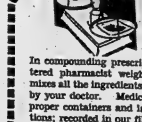
Ron Walmsley was elected the 1959-60 president of the Belleville Recreation Badminton Club at the general meeting held in the armouries here Saturday evening.

Other officers are: vice-president, Bruce Miller; treasurer, Eric Roy; secretary, Miss Jackie Mull; men's team captain, Bill Gilbert; ladies' team captain, Mrs. Betty Walmsley; social convener, Miss Noreen Callaghan; entertainment convener, Roy Jacobs and membership and publicity, Bill Bonnell.

Prior to the meeting there was an excellent turnout for play, all nine courts being occupied.

Officers' mess president Captain Alex Cunningham welcomed the club to the armouries.

Playing nights this year will be Tuesdays starting nine p.m.; Fridays eight p.m. and Saturdays eight p.m.



New members will be entended a cordial welcome.

Student Dies Of Heart Attack, Autopsy Shows

BANCROFT (CP)—An autopsy on William Hostler showed the 18-year-old high school student died of a heart attack, coroner Dr. G. W. Anderson said during the weekend.

The youth dropped dead Friday shortly after coming home from Bancroft High School. He was a well-known athlete in the area although friends said he had "a history of illness."

VERMILYEA. — In loving memory of my wife, Mary Ann, who died at Vermilyea, who passed away one year ago, November 3rd, 1958.

Sadly missed by her husband.

It is now one year since my wife, Mary Ann Vermilyea, who passed away one year ago, November 3rd, 1958.

Our hearts were almost broken,
When God took you away.
But when we saw you sleeping,
So peaceful we could not say.
We could not wish you back
To suffer as you had,
So lovingly remembered by wife Jane.

IN MEMORIAM

VERMILYEA. — In loving memory of a dear dad, S. Edgar Vermilyea, who passed away one year ago, Monday, November 3rd, 1958.

Memories are golden and treasured for ever,
Memories never to be taken away.

Always remembered by daughter Jane.

VERMILYEA. — In loving memory of a dear dad, S. Edgar Vermilyea, who passed away one year ago, Monday, November 3rd, 1958.

Nobody knows you but those who loved you,
Nobody misses you but those who cared for you,
Only the memories we have left us,
Memories of you we'll always keep.

It is true God gave him eternal rest,
But dearest Dad we still miss you,
With only memories for us to keep;
We have them, but they are gained at a cost.

Lonely hearts and broken hearts.

Lovingly remembered by daughter Margaret Ann, son-in-law Jack and grandchildren David and Debbie.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Uraniums dropped sharply today on the stock market during heavy morning trading. Brokers termed the selling in uraniums as "panic selling."

Losses among senior uraniums ranged to two points, led by Consolidated Denison at 13, in active trading. Algom lost 1¾ points at 11¾ and Gunnar was off 1¼ to 10¾. Both shares were heavy in volumes.

The selling followed Friday's announcement from Ottawa that the Canadian government had agreed to grant the Atomic Energy Commission of the United States to extend its contract for Canadian uranium beyond 1952 and 1953.

The Canadian government and AEC did, however, agree to allow Canadian producers to defer deliveries to the AEC to 1960, thus spreading out the contract, and vance payments are to be made on the deferred deliveries.

Brokers said that the announcement didn't really result in much change to the industry and that uranium stocks more in penic would soon regain than losses but the index was virtually unchanged.

Queen's University Registrar Speaker at Commencement

TRENTON — Miss Jean Royce, registrar at Queen's University, Kingston, addressed the graduating class at the annual commencement exercises of Trenton High School, Friday evening. Miss Royce urged the students "not to remember "the unimportance of things", and to concentrate on developing "a well stored mind". She advised them to study and appreciate the history and geography of Canada, and to make themselves familiar with the men and women of Canada who have become justly famous in their own country, and even abroad. In addition to this, Miss Royce stressed the cultural benefits one can derive from the study of the language, literature and history of one other country.

E. S. McElwain, principal of the school, thanked Miss Royce for her inspiring address.

The program was opened by the singing of "O Canada". The Reverend G. A. Puttenham said the invocation.

GIVES VALEDICTORY

Peter Wilson, who is in his first year at Royal Military College, Kingston, gave the valedictory address. He recalled the highlights of the four years at the Trenton High School recently completed by members of the graduating class. Mr. Wilson touched on sporting events, social activities, studies and life in a more serious vein, on the excellent training along certain lines the class had received in the school. He thanked the teachers, on behalf of the class, for preparing the students to live a more satisfying life.

Fire and Police Depts. Busy Over Weekend

TRENTON — After a full inactivity for the past few days, members of Trenton Fire Department spent a comparatively busy weekend.

On Saturday night the department was called to the home of Art Munroe, 204 Front Street, where the walls and curtains in the living room had become ignited. Sunday morning the Trenton firemen had a wash down the pavement on Dundas Street after a two-car accident which had resulted in a quantity of gasoline being spilled on the street.

Shortly after midnight Sunday night, members of the department responded to a call from St. Belleger, on Quinte Street, where the walls on both sides of a detached garage were ablaze. The firemen were on the scene for about an hour and a half, finally bringing the blaze under control.

CHAIN REACTION

Sunday evening, the town police was the scene of a "chain reaction" accident involving four cars. Cars driven by Miss Ethel Hall of 37 Bagwell Street in Belleville, Robert Evans of 98 Dundas Street, Trenton, and Lieutenant Ireland of R.R. 3, Trenton, were parked in a line of traffic on the bridge when a car, driven by Hillier Beaudrie of R. R. 4, Trenton, struck the rear car in the line, driven by William Evans, causing the latter to strike the car in front, driven by Robert Evans, with considerable force, and finally bringing the Ireland car was estimated at $150 and to the Wright car at $150.

Sunday Evening Legion Hour Much Enjoyed

TRENTON — Sunday night the entertainment committee of Trenton Branch 110 of the Canadian Legion presented a Poppy Fund Sunday Evening Hour in the Legion hall. Ken Craddock, chairman of the committee, was in charge of ceremonies.

The capacity crowd in attendance was treated to one of the finest programs this season. A highly diversified group of entertainers.

Mrs. Art Truscio and his orchestra and Miss Margaret St. Hilaire, pianist, were in attendance, provided the musical background for the dance numbers. Miss Irene Primeau was responsible for the dance arrangements.

W. T. Lawson, president of Branch 110, welcomed those in the beginning of the program, outlining the many uses of the Poppy Fund.

Vocal duets by the Sherbert Brothers were received. The Sherberts have recently signed a contract with London label recordings.

Dave Lindsay proved his versatility as a singer, vocalist vocalist, and Rosemary Bain gave a fine demonstration in the art of the ballet.

Margaret Westfall played and sang one of her own compositions, "I Love You So."

Kevin Hinan, winner of the Ottawa Valley championship in step dancing, literally "brought down the house," with two well executed examples of the art.

Mrs. H. Galbraith brought a chain of pace to the program by her excellent rendition of

Tribal Clashes Likely to Lead To Civil War

USUMBURA, Ruanda Urundi (Belgian)—Tribal clashes today were reported threatening to lead to civil war in this mountainous territory adjacent to the Belgian Congo.

The Belgian News agency said it was impossible to fix the overall death toll, but that 30 Africans were killed in one clash in Ruanda.

It said fighting was continuing and villages were being burned. Hundreds of Africans have been arrested for arson.

Reinforcements are being sent to the territory from the Congo, were busy constructing mountainous roads, hampered by the rough terrain and poor communications.

FRIENDLY RELATIONS

The clashes are between the "progressive" Bantu Bahutus and the aristocratic Watutsi, who have been the Bahutus' feudal overlords for centuries.

Ruanda and Urundi are the smaller kingdom of Urundi became a Belgian mandate and territory placed under Belgian trusteeship by the old League of Nations after the First World War.

The Bahutu, who by far are the most numerous tribe, have reported attacking Watutsi villages and houses after months of mounting tension between the tribes.

The new trouble came as surface calm returned to Stanleyville, capital of the eastern province of the Belgian Congo, where riots a week ago resulted in a reported 70 native deaths and the arrest of the leader of an African political party which seeks independence.

(In Brussels, sources reported that the Bahutu fear the Watutsi will try to force them back into slavery when Ruanda gains independence. They said Watutsi feudal ruling circles have been agitating to assert their authority over other tribes.)

RAF KRUPP RESURGENCE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Jewish Congress Friday reported that "serious and alarming" anti-Semitic incidents have been breaking out in West Germany. The organization, in a detailed report, charged that a resurging industrial power of Alfried Krupp, once jailed as a war criminal.

Imitation Stamp Used to Send Letter in Mail

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — The post office has issued 23 imitation five-cent stamps to every household in the city, and each and every least one stamp has been used successfully to send a letter through the mail.

The stamps, an almost perfect reproduction of the real thing, are included in advertising material distributed by the 1-stamps early for Christmas mailing.

The imitation stamps were framed with two black lines and partly obscured by advertising copy.

But Nick Yungo-Salomaa, reporter for the Peterborough Examiner, says he received a letter through the mail posted with one of the dummy stamps. The sender had used one of the four stamps on the blotter-size advertising sheets. The correct stamps were framed, but not only about one-thirtieth of their face area.

Art Kirby, postal public relations officer in Ottawa, said there is no regulation against accepting for pass one of the imitations. "As they are not intended to be actual stamps," Mr. Kirby said. "They are not illegal to use. They are like a ball-zone reproduction and franked to prevent use."

Mrs. Mom Whyte Puts Whytehaven Up for Sale

BOWMANVILLE (CP)—Whytehaven Mission, where more than 2,000 children have received aid and shelter during the last 15 years, stood silent and for sale today.

Mrs. Bertha (Mom) Whyte, who in Sunday night to welcome into a new Whytehaven in British Columbia, held a final prayer meeting in the building Sunday afternoon.

"I don't suppose I'll ever see Ontario or Whytehaven again," she said, "but breaks me heart to think of all the people in Ontario who will be needing help — and there will be no Whytehaven to assist them."

Provincial health authorities removed 90 children from the home 16 miles east of Toronto last July following an outbreak of infectious disease. A court ruled the children could stay with all but one now are placed in custody of foster parents or children's aid societies.

Sale price of the 85-acre farm property, including $20,000 with a down payment of $25,000. Bills totalling more than $20,000 are to be paid when the farm is sold. The rest of the money will be paid in five years on 25 acres of land donated near Nelson, B.C.

"My Father's Green Pastures"

The Morrow sisters of Stirling, Helen, Margaret, Lois and Ruth, gave a splendid concert entertainment in harmony singing.

Jean Trenton and Dorothy Smith of Belleville, sang traditional "blues" numbers.

Judy McKnight of Belleville, gave a superb interpretation of toe dancing, captivating her audience with her sparkling personality.

Ken Hood, a member of the Belleville Boys' Band, played a piano solo with unscheduled "rock and roll" numbers, in the best "Elvis Presley" tradition.

In a more serious vein, Sat F. G. Bowerman read "The Lord's Prayer," and Padre C. W. Bryce in a short address, pointed out to the audience the significance of Remembrance Day, and the obligation that they should recall the sacrifices of the men who gave their lives in the two World Wars to ensure the freedom of our great country.

Heather Scott sang the beautiful "In Flanders Fields" and Ruth Lois the singing of "The Queen."

Men Can Buy Falsies With Hair on Them

NEW YORK (AP)—Men, do you envy those hairy-chested he-men who stalk the beaches and look under the bathing suits of the opposite sex?

Worry no more, brothers Jos. Toss away your turtle - neck beach sweater — they've come up with chest hair falsies for men.

The latest in chest tapestries was unveiled Sunday at the opening session of the National Barber Show.

Who wears chest rugs?

"Usually, little scrawny fellows," answers pretty Diana Trese, president of a hair making firm. "I never ask my clients why they want them. I figure it's their own business."

The preferred shade: Brown. The price: $25 at the barber shop where the mat is supplied. Another new item on display was a synthetic sun tan lotion guaranteed not to stain clothes — but confirmed that Walker has been asked to step down.

NO SUCCESSOR

There was no mention of a successor for Walker, Perry Mosenthal, who has been mentioned in speculation here as a possible successor to Workman's post, has been signed.

Walker's removal as leader could be seen at the end of the most dismal season Alcoster have had since he came here in 1952 from Wake Forest College, North Carolina. The season's injury-riddled Ale ended Saturday when they suffered a 43-8 defeat by ruthless Montreal in the final playoff against Ottawa for the Big Four championship.

Peahead Walker Given Gate As Als' Coach

MONTREAL (CP) — Coach Dougie (Peahead) Walker said today he has been relieved as head coach of Montreal Alouette of the Big Four Football League but has been asked to remain with the club in another capacity.

Walker said he was asked remain with the club to help with the development of younger players. He said he is considering the offer. He said that if he decides to reject the offer, it will be because he wants to be in training next year at a three-year contract.

Walker said he hasn't discussed a new coaching job with any team in Canada or the United States.

He spoke with newspaper men after conferring briefly with Ted Workman, president of Alouette.

Workman said at the barber shop he was not aware that Walker had been asked to step down.

Bursitis Can Be Helped

Q. If I'm over-weight, can reducing help my bursitis? — Mrs. A. All joints are helped if overweight is reduced. Bursitis (shoulder-bursa). In the acute stage, the bursa (sac) between the bone joint bones becomes distended with fluid. There is inflammation of a bursa (bursitis) often preceded by a blow. Treatment is continued rest, application of heat within the bursa. Doctors use accordions and needle to withdraw fluid which causes much trouble. Injections are employed also to relieve pain. In some cases it may be necessary to operate and remove the bursa or remove the deposits. Heat, massage, and gentle exercise may be prescribed by the doctor and physiotherapist.

Peron Followers Failed in Plot To Aid Dictator

TUCUMAN, Argentina (AP)—A raid on an underground camp in the mountains police say, has uncovered a plot by followers of Juan D. Peron for a Castro-type guerrilla campaign to restore the deposed dictator to power.

Three youths were captured in the raid Saturday on the camp, which police within the hours near this trading centre 663 miles northwest of Buenos Aires.

The youths said they were recruited by a newly - organized "Peronist Liberation and Reconstruction Movement" which has plans for guerrilla warfare to restore to the government of President Arturo Frondizi.

BONFIRES

The police believe the youths were only guards, and that most of the conspirators escaped. They arrested several well - known admirers of Peron in Tucuman Sunday.

While Peron's followers have been known to resort activity, this was the first sign they might be preparing for guerrilla warfare. Peron was overthrown in September, 1955. Now in exile in Panama, he has repeatedly proclaim a he will eventually come back.

Reports of suspicious activity in the nearby Andes reached police Thursday when their chief searched houses in this northern Argentina province.

A force of 30 policemen made their way into the mountains Saturday and sighted the camp with eight persons in it. They found three explosives and numerous incidentals.

Provincial Curfew

Should parents of Boy Scouts or Girl Guides be fined $10 every time their offspring attend meetings of these organizations?

If you think this is a fool question, we can only reply that it is prompted by the existence of a fool law unless English words no longer mean what they are supposed to mean—and this is always a possibility when they are handled by lawyers—the parents of any Boy Scouts and Girl Guides would appear to be liable to such fines.

The state of affairs was brought to our attention in an editorial in the Oshawa Gazette.

"The Child Welfare Act of 1924 provides that no boy or girl under the age of 16 shall loiter in any public place between the hours of 9 p.m. and 6 a.m., to be in any place of public resort or entertainment unless accompanied by parent or guardian," says the Gazette.

Many Boy Scouts and Girl Guides are under 16. Many Scout and Guide troops meet in public buildings. We have never yet heard of any Scout or Guide being accompanied by parent or guardian unless parent or guardian happened to be a leader in that particular troop. Scout and Guide meetings frequently last until after 9 p.m. Therefore, if the Gazette has stated the law aright, they are guilty of infractions of the Ontario Child Welfare Act. "This means that for second and subsequent offences their parents are liable to a fine of $10.

Police could reap a golden harvest by attending the next secondary-school dance here and gathering in all the junior students. Middle and upper school students would appreciate the chance to raise their status a little higher in the scorn for the "kids."

The weekly dances for teen-agers at the CNRA Hall here would also yield many offenders. Anybody who attends an early evening show at a movie theatre and better stay lively if he or she is under 16, for these shows do not get out until 9 p.m. and a street is a public place and "loitering" can result in them being taken their homes or to a place of safety" and being dealt with as an apparently neglected child.

"It would be interesting to learn from the attorney-general's department how many convictions have been registered under section 33 of the Child Welfare Act, says the Oshawa Gazette.

It would indeed. We venture to guess that it is by an infinitesimally small fraction of the number of infractions of the law. For those responsible for enforcing the law are showing common sense. But this does not make it a good law. Instead it makes it very bad law, a law which invites the disregard of the whole essence of the rule of law, which is that no person, and this includes juveniles as well as adults, shall be subject to arbitrary acts by those responsible for law enforcement.

Did somebody say "Oh, just another outdated law which has been left on the statute books?" Did you get, my friend, this is the Child Welfare Act—of 1924?

Just five years ago a majority of the members of the Ontario Legislature thought that no boy or girl of the age of 15 should be allowed to loiter in a public place after the hour of 9 p.m.

There is only one suitable punishment. They should all be made the guardians of a dozen fifteen-year-olds and be required to make their charges abide by the law they passed.

Two News Items

In Rome, Hon. Douglas Harkness, Canada's Minister of Agriculture, told the United Nations Food and Agricultural Organization on Wednesday that the only possible way to eliminate mounting stores of agricultural surpluses is to make it possible for more people to afford better meals.

Millions are going hungry, while food rots. The irony is that the starving people lack money.

In New York City on Wednesday Tiffany and Company advertised 14-karat gold golf putters at $1,470 each, but added that the advertisement appeared for record only, since all the putters had been disposed of.

And, nineteen centuries after the event, some people are still complaining because Nero fiddled while Rome was burned.

Letter To The Editor

Again Requests Handel's Messiah

Editor, Ontario Intelligencer:

About one year ago, a letter appeared in your paper asking if there was going to be a Christmas rendition of Handel's "Messiah" by the combined choirs of Belleville. So far as one's memory serves, there was no response to the query raised in the letter referred to. There was a silence so deep and profound that it had the effect of disconcerting many of we lovers of Handel's immortal oratorio. We sadly concluded that Belleville did not contain many genuine lovers of Handel But here we are again, asking the same question, as the time is coming Christmas season. We specially asked as to whether there was but one choir leader in Belleville possessing enough initiative and enterprise with which to launch this heart-warming project.

We do have some excellent soloists in Belleville. The writer knows of a basso, who, in spite of his years, still rises superbly to the rendering of "Behold I Show You A Mystery" and "The Trumpet Shall Sound." And so with all those beautiful solos. "Rejoice Greatly" by an inspired soprano; "He Shall Feed His Flock Like a Shepherd" by a really talented tenor, and "He Was Despised" by a competent contralto. Then there are all those magnificent choruses that must be in the "Messiah" transported to the Olympian Heights. With full orchestral accompaniment, I venture to say that such a performance of the "Messiah" would give a new and stimulating meaning to the impending Christmas season.

Sincerely yours,
Chas. H. Woodforde.

Not Everyone Has a 'Conscience'

One of the most overused and misused words in the vocabulary of the social sentimentalist is "conscience."

They mistakenly believe that everybody "has" a conscience; that it can always be appealed to, in one way or another; and that this mystical conscience is infallibly premise us to tell right from wrong in our own actions.

The fact is that in many of the delinquents and criminals strutting around the modern world do not have a conscience, and would only give an ugly laugh if it were appealed to.

Man is born not with a conscience, but with a capacity for conscience. His parents, and his early impressions, give him a conscience or they do not. We judge his actions and the acts of others.

It is true that every human soul has this capacity; but it is equally true that to some persons the conscience is stunted or thwarted or twisted into grotesque shapes.

Even a "conscience" of a boy in Sparta told him that it was fine to steal — the sin consisted in being caught. The "conscience" of Huckleberry Finn told him that a runaway negro slave should be helping — and when he treated Jim like a human, he felt shamefully guilty.

Any given social and cultural system sets up a standard and kind of conscience it sets out to. This is why the Bible places emphasis at the head of the Ten Commandments — for if a society worships a false god, its whole consciences of the people will be attuned to this falseness, and they will worship evil, thinking it to be good.

The crucial problem of actual social behavior today is that so many young people have grown up without a conscience, or with one scarcely discernible one. "Remorse" is a word unknown to them after they have committed some heinous crime, for remorse and repentance are possible only if a permanent set of moral values have been built into the early years.

Emotionally disturbed young fiers of this type are more monsters, who cannot be remembered, cured, or reformed by the traditional appeals to their "sense of right and wrong." The amount of "something can affect them, for nothing in their psyches has been built to respond to the ethical instruction.

And for this reason, more punishment only confirms their unconscious fears that society is a hostile agent, and teaches them to be more wary of the police and more respectful toward it. Their failure to act as moral human beings is a reflection on society's failure to train the feelings of children toward generous and co-operative goods.

Strength for The Day

THOUGHTS FASHION FEATURES

Nathaniel Hawthorne in his profoundly moving story, "The Great Stone Face," tells how Ernest, who lived in the valley which lay below the great mountain profile, gazed so continuously on the face which nature had carved high up in the hills and admired so deeply its dignity and character, that at last he came to resemble the Great Stone Face. There was a legend in the valley that some day there would appear a man of great distinction who would resemble the stone features which the people of that part of the country were constantly beholding. Men came and went, and some were applauded, but still they saw resembled the Great Stone Face.

But the excitement always died down and nobody at last believed the legend.

One evening as Ernest was speaking to his neighbors about the deep things of God, something suddenly called his attention to all present to the resemblance between Ernest's face and the stone face high up on the mountain. The legend had been fulfilled. The distinguished man had proved to be one of simple character, living a helpful life among his fellows, conscious of no greatness but looking for it always in others.

Hawthorne's story illustrates the truth that as a man thinks within his heart, so he is. His standards of life tend to grow lower thoughts and character.

A stirring appeal for endorsation of the proposed National Service Policy of the Kinsmen's Clubs of Canada is which they will finance publicity and propaganda for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, was made to members of the local Kinsmen Club last night by J. Harvey Lyons, Service Director of the Kinsmen Clubs and Field Secretary of the Institute for the Blind. Forty-five per cent of Canada's blind should not have been registered with the Institute, he said, and would not have been if proper preventative measures had been taken. He reviewed briefly the splendid work being done by the institute. It is faced with three major problems, he said, the prime duty of caring for the necessities blind of the country; the training for and securing of positions for employable blind, and the most important of all, the prevention of blindness program.

"The outstanding of the twentieth century marked the 'golden age' of Canadian poultry," said at the opening few years saw several prolific poets." J. R. TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

BELONGINGS

There are many who do not worry about the ..rest, taxes, security and a multitude of other obligations, so as to stay alive and enjoy a normal existence companionship; but with courage, they refuse to let these things rob them of their peace of mind.

Many of us worry too much over things that have little or no value to our heritage of life and our position in having belonged to the earth on all its unthinkable and every emergency. We all need happiness to give us zest for life and all abscess of fear. Only those have no space in their plot of life.

If we have belongings we must remember that we are the curiosities of them. If we have a love for them, they should pass to those who have a like love. The heart

The world has been enriched by such a procedure. Each time that love grows, greater. This is what has happened in the preservation of the masterpieces of art that have come down to us from the world.

As a modest collector of stickpins and rare books, over a number of years, I spent much of my time with those who have had and unconscious ideas. I got my thrills at buying, but they have enriched several colleagues, but in doing so I got double joy. In some ways, many lovers of these treasures can enjoy what so much I have enjoyed. Many of those belongings will be available. Bequeath to view and love as I have loved them.

Generous and tolerant, ideally legally bequeathed, leave their joy and influence, as investments in society. They stir and warm the heart!

Should Retain Death Penalty

Wolfenden Herald-Times

It appears that Parliament will soon debate and vote on the question of whether or not to abolish capital punishment. In view of the action of the Progressive-Conservative government since it took office in 1907, of carrying out the death penalty in the case of only seven of 33 convicted of murder, and recommending the commutation in other 26 to life imprisonment, it would seem that the vote now has already been secured.

If such a decision as contemplated is arrived at following thorough and conscientious study and consideration of all issues involved, then we shall have no misgivings as to whether or not an important matter was properly dealt with by Parliament. Unfortunately, this has apparently been to much conditioned by the fact that the whole question of capital punishment that one wonders if the decision to abolish it has already reached by government will be satisfy for the common welfare.

The foremost and oft-repeated argument of those who wish to have the death penalty abolished is the argument that the innocent man may perchance be sent to the gallows and thus irrevocably lost to the world of society. The very thought of such a possibility is of course impressive, but by the same token how many scores of other lives are lost, how many go unpunished, could be murdered by a subject to the fear of capital punishment as the great deterrent to such possibilities.

The lessening effect of a heavy penalty where all law enforcement officials agree is recognized fact. The conviction that sometimes creeps in that capital punishment is considered, is due to the contention by the defence that the accused is committed in a blind rage and under the influence of drink. Such instances involve the sanity question with few exceptions, but where there is definitely pre-ster amber of premeditation is a factor; in the latter two cases, the fear of the death penalty is usually the sole influencing force. Also as a result there would there be any doubt that those defendants who plead, in fact the fact that since the abolition of capital punishment in Great Britain the number of murders there, the number of murders has increased.

The main consideration before the House should be one of safeguarding the life of the law abiding citizen. The most barbaric means now employed. Very few indeed must be the people who have the thought of revenge as a reason for advocating the continuation of capital punishment. The great majority in favor of its retention are actuated as an essential to combat the vastly increased incidences of crimes of violence, in which death is the result.

This Should Do the Trick

Batesville, Ark., Guard

For the benefit of all those who have a hard time getting out of the bed, we present word of what a man has tried for stubborn sleepers. Lately patented by a Pennsylvania Naples. His alarm is unique. If the sleeping sluggard does not arouse himself to switch off the normal alarm, an electric device incorporated in the clock sends a taped broadcast featuring the continuous barking of a dog, several pistol shots, and finally a cannon booming report.

If all this fails to arouse, call the coroner.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

HEART DISEASE IS THE COMMONEST OF ALL SERIOUS AILMENTS

Angina pectoris, the pain which comes when the heart muscle is deprived of the amount of oxygen it needs, is the natural result of a certain type of heart disease.

It is not uncommon — because, after all, heart disease is the commonest of all serious ailments with which we are afflicted.

Not all heart disease involves any heart or chest pain. But when, for one reason or another, there is some interference in the circulation of blood to the heart muscle itself, the pains of angina pectoris result. (Just as it, for example, the circulation happened to be retarded to a foot or hand, pain would result in the foot or hand.)

In the so-called classic cases (and it would be unwise for a dog a doctor, if more cases presented the "classic" picture sometimes is likely to bring on an attack — walking, going upstairs, eating a large meal, for example.

The exertion requires increased activity by the heart, and this uses up oxygen faster than the retarded circulation can supply it. Then the angina pain is felt.

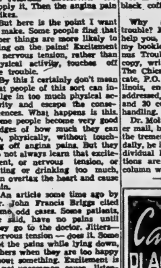
But here is the point I want to make. Some people think that other things are more likely to bring on an attack: Excitement or nervous tension, rather than physical activity, touches off the trouble.

By this I certainly don't mean that people of this sort should indulge in too much physical activity and escape the consequences. What happens is this. Some people become very good judges of how much they can do, physically, without touching off angina pain. But they just don't always learn that excitement, or nervous tension, or getting mad, or drinking too much can overtax the heart and cause pain.

An article some time ago by Dr. John Francis Briggs cited some odd cases. Some fainted, he said, have no pains until they go to the doctor. Illness, nervous tension — goes it. Some get the pains while lying down, seeing that they are happy about something. Excitement is perhaps the common cause, listening to or watching prize fights or ball games being the most familiar.

The net burden of this advice is simply that angina patients remember that individuals aren't all alike. Health isn't precise, like arithmetic. What bothers one person may not bother another. Some people with "medical" heart conditions may have entirely different constitutional systems, and react differently.

There is absolutely no reason which can take the pains of becoming familiar with the idiosyncrasies of Prince George, Duke of Cornwall, eldest son of George III.



THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

At a recent convention of police chiefs in Regina Executive Commissioner R. H. Matlock of the Boy Scouts Association said that only about 18 per cent of the youth of Canada was linked with the scout movement, that only another 18 per cent was linked with other youth movements, and that consequently nine million young Canadians without the strong influence in character training of the scout movement.

To speak with disparagement of the scout movement or any other "youth movement" would be to bring the roof down on our heads. Therefore, let it be understood that in what many of us feel with regard to this statement on the character training of our youth, no disparagement is intended. But I for one expected the roof to fall in on Mr. Matlock at the hands of the churches and the social organizations. As far as I have been, or heard, no roofs have fallen.

One quarter from which no protest could be expected was that of the most remarkable feature of the twentieth century has been the triumph of children over their parents. There can be no doubt whatever today that the power and the mind of their children. Terrified of being left behind by the wonders of the age, far exceeding any technological advance including motor cars, aeroplanes, TV and atomic fission, is the emancipation of childhood from those strong influences in character training that they formerly were subject to in the home. The number of parents who conceive themselves to be their responsibility appears to have declined practically in the past eighteenm, leisured thirty years.

Canadian PLACE NAMES

CORNWALL, ONT.

There appears to have been a small settlement at Cornwall previous to 1784, but in that year the first survey of the district was made and the site of Cornwall set aside as a town lot. It was first named New Johnstown, for an older Johnstown in the Mohawk valley, which during the former home of some of the new settlers. It was later named Cornwall in honour, probably, of Prince George, Duke of Cornwall, eldest son of George III.

Family Fetes A. Kincaid on 85th Birthday

MADOC — Close to 150 relatives and friends gathered in the Trinity United Church parlors on November 1st for a reception in honor of Mr. Archie Kincaid, on the occasion of his 85th birthday.

Although his official birthday was on November 5th, his family decided to hold the celebration on the previous Sunday afternoon.

Among those present were Mr. Kincaid's four sons, Benson, Jack, Kelvin and Newton Kincaid.

Trinity Ladies' Club catered for the reception.

The head table was appointed with a cut-work cloth, and decorated with a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums, yellow candles and a large birthday cake trimmed in yellow with 85 candles in the form of a horseshoe. Several smaller tables carried out the same color scheme.

Servers were Mr. Kincaid's grandchildren, Misses Kaye Kincaid of Toronto and Mary Jane and Patricia Kincaid of Madoc, assisted by daughters-in-law, Mrs. Benson Kincaid, Mrs. Jack Kincaid, Mrs. Kelvin Kincaid and Mrs. Newton Kincaid.

Mr. Kincaid was the recipient of two lovely bouquets of yellow roses, one from Mr. and Mrs. Robert Murray of Toronto and one from Madoc Public Institute, several lovely gifts, and numerous cards.

The day ended with a happy reunion of the family at the home of Mrs. Newton Kincaid for dinner and an evening of reminiscing and fun.

would have been no hope for them if the ship had exploded and launched off fires in dozens of big oil storage tanks lining the north shore scant yards away.

ROCKED BY BLASTS

Five explosions rocked the 540-foot tanker dock. The first came at about 12:30 a.m., minutes after the fire broke out.

Flames towered more than 300 feet high. Black, oily smoke mushroomed over the vessel and cast a pall over this gulf coast city of more than 500,000 for hours.

The final blast almost 12 hours later shot flames skyward again just as firemen appeared to have it under control. It pushed heat waves around the storage tanks on shore containing more than 1,000,000 gallons of highly-explosive fuels.

The night watch when the fire broke out included Lesley, Robert Dippel and Edward Wells.

SOUNDS ALARM

Daley said he first noticed the fire on the surface of the channel. He reported it to chief mate George Davis and then ran to the ward a hatchway to sound the alarm.

Then came the first explosion. It went over the rail between the dock and the dock's fireboat. Then came another explosion.

"That's when the steel began bombarding. Steel was flying all around me. I didn't know whether it was from the ship or the dock."

He got away with only minor burns but left his life savings of tubes and pipelines.

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE — Wallbridge anniversary service on Sunday morning was well attended. The Rev. J. McCartney of Canifton, was the minister and gave an inspiring message. The Canniffton choir gave three anthems which the congregation enjoyed.

After the service a lovely luncheon was served to about 125 of Canifton people by the Wallbridge ladies, making the anniversary an inspiring service.

The Wallbridge W.A. held its annual pot-luck dinner on Tuesday when the teachers and pupils and many adults came and enjoyed a good hot dinner. Proceeds of dinner were $25.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Spencer were recent tea hour guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Acker of Belleville.

Quite a number of ladies attended the Foxboro bazaar on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Doolittle, of Toronto, were weekend guests of the latter's mother, Mrs. S. Nicolson.

Five-year-old overtaken en route to North Pole

When Robert P, aged 5, was overtaken recently at the city limits he explained to police officers and his anxious father that he was on his way to the North Pole. His reason: to give Santa Claus a hand for Christmas 1960.

Robert's father supplied the explanation. An enthusiastic member of Imperial Bank's new Christmas Club he had said to his son: "Santa's going to be a busy man delivering gifts to you next Christmas, Bobby".

Robert promptly decided Santa needed help and had set out.

Joining Imperial Bank's new Christmas Club is a good way to keep Santa busy at your house next year. The only requirements are weekly deposits of 50c, $1, $5, $10 or $10. The result will be a happy, bountiful Christmas, free from budget worries. Join up at your nearby branch of Imperial Bank today.

He was reported in satisfactory condition in hospital.

The Quinte Reports

News of Your Local Sea Cadet Corps

Last week the Sea Cadets of the "Quinte" held their regular Thursday parade with Lieutenant Brooks being appointed due to the use of the Armouries for other purposes. Chaplain (P) R. Mundah led a citizenship discussion with the crew for the first part of the evening. Following the evening's refreshment break new entries were given instruction on ranks and insignias of officers in the three armed forces, and the other Sea Cadets were given a lecture on engine-room procedure by Mr. William O'Sullivan.

COMING EVENTS

A week from next Tuesday night Chaplain (RC) W. McGee will be starting a sports program for the winter months. Broomball, basketball, and other indoor sports will be on the agenda.

The visit of Lt. R. Wilson, RCN, to the "Quinte" to show movie films of the Royal Canadian Navy which was scheduled for this coming Thursday has been postponed until Thursday, November 26th.

C. O. (SB) A. K. Hill of Area Office will be visiting the Corps on Thursday, November 19th, for the monthly inspection of the local cadets.

Tomorrow's parade will be the last rehearsal prior to the Remembrance Day parade and ceremonies. All cadets are requested to be out in full uniform for this important parade Tuesday evening. Final instruction for the services on November 11th will be made at this time.

Last Saturday evening the cadets had a dance at the barracks on South Front Street. All arrangements were made by a cadet committee headed by Acting Leading Hand Bruce Parks.

Next week target shooting will commence for those members of the crew who have not yet had a chance to achieve their marksmen's rating.

WEDDINGS

SOLMES — AUNGER

MARMORA — A quiet wedding was performed in St. Paul's Anglican Church, Marmora on Friday evening, October 30th, by Rev. R. J. Fleming, when Patricia Mervlyn, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Aunger of Marmora, became the bride of Lorne Ellsworth Solmes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Solmes of Springbrook.

The bride wore a suit of royal blue with white hat and gloves, and black handbag and shoes, and her corsage was of white Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Jack Solmes was matron-of-honor and wore a suit in royal blue similar accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

A small reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Solmes, Marmora.

The couple will reside in Marmora.

FOSTER — PARLIAMENT

Blandness of shasta daisies and shell pink gladioli interspersed with ferns, formed a lovely setting in Bloomfield's United Church, Bloomfield, on Saturday, October 31st, when Helen Margaret Parliament, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Parliament, Bloomfield, became the bride of Ross Leland Foster, son of Mrs. Harry Foster and the late Mr. Foster, Rev. Stephen Spurrell officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Mrs. Robert Barber, cousin of the bride, was guest organist. He presided at the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mr. Douglas Reynolds, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony and "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiant in her floor-length white nylon guipure lace gown, fitted with molded bodice, long sleeves, and pearl trim around the neckline and cuffs. The full skirt to give a three tiered effect. She wore a fingertip veil of tulle illusion, held by a heart shaped cap studded with pearls, and carried a cascade bouquet of deep red roses, stephanotis and ferns.

Miss Gertrude Parliament was her sister's only attendant in a dress of shrimp organza over taffeta with a shirred bodice and full skirt.

Little Miss Kathy Foster, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl dressed in shrimp organza over taffeta similar to the maid-of-honor's. She had a matching headdress and carried white shasta daisies tied with pale green ribbon.

Mr. Keith Foster was groomsman for his brother, and Mr. Arthur Parliament, brother of the bride and Mr. Elaine Parliament, cousin of the bridegroom, acted as ushers.

The reception for ninety guests was held in the church parlors with the Bloomfield Women's Association catering.

The bride's mother received wearing navy crepe and lace dress, beige hat, navy accessories and corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing a dress of rose beige crepe and lace with lighter blend hat and gloves, black accessories and corsage of cream roses.

The guests were seated at quartet tables centred with white mums.

The bride's table was centred with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with two doves holding wedding rings, under an arch. The cake was flanked by silver candelabra holding pink candles. The bouquets of the bridal attendants and pink streamers added to the nuptial effect.

Rev. Spurrell proposed the toast to the bride. The bridegroom responded and proposed a toast to the maid-of-honor and the flower girl. The groomsman replied.

For a wedding trip through the mountains to the east coast and Boston, the bride chose a dress of beige brocaded taffeta, brown fur jacket, brown feather hat, brown accessories, and corsage of yellow mums.

Out-of-town guests were present from Port Hope; Belleville; Shannonville; Marmora; Toronto; Oshawa and Ottawa.

The ladies worked on the making of the drapes for the Sunday School.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. W. Partridge, Mrs. S. Hay and Mrs. C. A. Woods.

PATTERSON — HAMMOND

CLAYTON, N.Y. — Miss Lois Rae Hammond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald R. Hammond, 103 Augusta St., Clayton, became the bride of Burton E. Patterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry V. Patterson, 717 State Street, grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith Searles of Oak Lake, Ont. at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, September 27, 1959, in the Methodist church. The Rev. David M. Talbot performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a chapel length bridal gown of white satin, all interlon lining, with a yoke of French Chantilly lace heavily flecked with iridescent sequins and tiny pearls, having a standing collar and long lace sleeves. Two tucks at high waist line, a bouffant style and there was a traditional button-back and bow with lace taffeta flower at the center. Her fingertip, up-length veil of French illusion fell from a matching crown of tiny loop prongs at the top of her head. She carried a bible in tiny seed pearls. She carried a white Bible crested with white roses.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Douglas Patterson, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, while Miss Linda Patterson, the bridegroom's sister was bridesmaid.

Mr. Douglas V. Patterson acted as his brother's best man. The ushers were Mr. Donald Hammond, brother of the bride and Mr. Wick Knapp, fraternity brother of the bridegroom.

The matron of honor wore a floor length bridesmaid gown with a lace collar bodice, a tiny roll collar around the neckline and cap sleeves with a full bouffant cummerbund and bow back detail. She wore a matching headdress and carried a cascade bouquet of yellow mums and roses. The bridesmaid wore an identical gown in blue with matching headdress and carried a cascade bouquet of blue Sweetheart roses.

The bride's mother wore a dress of smoky bronze Cantoni velveteen with matching square neckline, elbow length sleeves and a three-quarter length skirt. Her bronze hat was accented with matching Cantoni velveteen and her shoes and bag matched the satin trim of her dress, matching accessories of bronze roses. The mother of the bridegroom wore a costume in smoky grey, schiffli embroidered sheath dress with matching Dacron jacket. Her accessories were of length sleeves and roll collar of fabric, matching accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception for 150 guests was held at McCormick's Restaurant in Clayton, after which the couple took a wedding trip to the mountains.

For travelling the bride chose a grey suit with matching fall accessories and a corsage of yellow mums. Upon their return, they will reside at 519 Riverside Drive, Clayton, N.Y.

The bride is a graduate of Clayton Central School and Utica Business school and is employed as a secretary to Dr. William C. Heady, M.D., The bridegroom graduated from Clayton Central school in 1953 and from Mohawk Valley Technical Institute in 1958 and is employed by George Schafer.

Out-of-town guests were present from Newcastle, Ont.; Campbellton, Ont.; Utica and Watertown.

Dolls Will Be More Popular This Christmas Than Ever

By OLI DAUM
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Perhaps little girls now won't have to wait for Santa to receive classes to learn the arts of homemaking.

A preview of discoveries to be made on Christmas morning disclosed that a greater number of the toys have been made by Canadian toy company (Canadian Playthings) Manufacturers) are replicas of the things mama has around the house.

For instance a new doll, 30 inches high, could double for a three-year-old child. Its hair can be washed, combed and curled—but not dyed or bleached—and its little mother can dress it in the clothes she wears herself.

The living doll may have difficulty hugging her life - sized companions around, but its limbs move, are washable and warm to the touch. It is made of light-weight plastic.

REALISM KEYNOTE

"Dolls will be more popular this year than ever," said J. C. Schaffter of Toronto, president of the toy company. The demand for "realistic" dolls has been so great that manufacturers have hardly trouble to produce any variety of dolls, including them. Realism is the keynote; youngsters are demanding it.

Mrs. Schaffter has a beauty case set which threatens to rival the old-fashioned doll house in the shade. It includes everything from a powder puff to a two-pronged fork to flip the eggs in the frying pan. realism ends, however — the young could still have to provide her own steaks.

Tea sets have been given a lift. A silver coating has been added to cups and saucers but sometimes the old-fashioned hand engraving, is gold-colored so that mama doesn't mistake it for the real thing.

Nor have boys been forgotten. Farmers' sons will find tractors, cranes, trains and other equipment at reduced size have been enlarged "so that a boy may ride them as well as push them," Mrs. Schaffter said.

The use of plastic instead of metal has allowed greater use of detail on such things as guns, tires, ribs and panels on trucks and trains and the mechanics of a motor.

TV INFLUENCE

While father may not have a real cowboy hosting a grand shooting up a bunkhouse, he does have a television set that transmits wild west shows, and most gun and holster sets bear the names of current television heroes. The latest spoke is boxed parlor games too.

Mr. Schaffter said the Canadian toy industry really came into its own during the Second World War. Because of import restrictions Canadians had to start producing their own toys.

"The industry now has 125 firms employing 10,000 people," he said. "Their sales of Canadian-made toys will be in the vicinity of $30,000,000."

PICTON VALEDICTORIAN

Sandra Carman of Green Point Settlement, the valedictory address at Prince Edward Collegiate's graduation exercises at Picton, Saturday night. Sandra was the top honor graduate and won the Dominion — Provincial students' aid bursary and awards in Latin and French. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Carman.

The congregation of St. Thomas' church honored its dead in the service at a Service of Remembrance on Sunday morning. The two wreaths were placed in the south of the chancel and the north chapel with a Union Jack which was the Roebling Memorial Flag during the Second War. Through the centre was placed a Canadian Ensign.

Following the hymn, "O God Our Help in Ages Past," the Roll Call of Fallen of the First War were read by Mr. G. M. Connell, and those of the Second War by Mr. M. F. L. Jones.

The rector, Canon A. S. McConnell, MBE, CD, was preceded by the Crucifer, Mr. John Sergeant, who served with the Polish division in the Second War and remained at the bonfire rolls for the sounding of the Last Post and Reveille by Mr. Ernest Bowen.

Lines of Commemoration were read by John A. Silver. The singing of the hymn, "O Thy Feet," by Bach, in which Mrs. Minett took the solo, brought this reverent and impressive part of the service to a close.

In his sermon Canon McConnell said he had a bad, cold duty to perform, to pay due honor and respect to those who had paid the supreme sacrifice, to preach the Christian doctrine of charity and forgiveness and to bring to the people of the world the utter futility of war and to pray for peace.

Ex-service men Mr. A. A. Clarke, Mr. H. F. Jones, Mr. James Stone and Mr. Harry Taylor acted as sidesmen and took up the offertory during the singing of the hymn "O Valiant Hearts."

The flowers on the altar were a memorial to the rector's two brothers who gave their lives in the First War.

Foam Rubber Craft Displayed At A.B.W. Aux.

The Afternoon Branch of the Woman's Auxiliary of Christ Church held its November business meeting in the parish hall on Thursday afternoon.

The meeting was opened with a devotional period conducted by the president Mrs. F. Pitt, assisted by Mrs. G. G. Wright, who told a story based on the life of an Assyrian shepherd who lived in Palestine, and his interaction with a stranger, emphasizing the fact that a shepherd's crook could be used to prevent drives them. Mrs. H. Wright acted as pianist.

Reports were heard from the various officers followed by a lively business session in which many items of interest to the members were discussed. It was agreed to adopt a missionary and his family as a Christmas project. Mrs. Pitt was appointed to act as Archivist secretary for the branch. A special communion service will be held on the Ascension Day November 26th, at 10 a.m.

Thanks were extended by the president to all who assisted in the Diocesan Deanery and Board meeting which was held recently in the parish.

Mrs. F. Clare introduced Mrs. Bartindale, who gave a demonstration on the art of foam craft. She was thanked by Mrs. J. Chapman for her interesting display.

Mrs. C. Hayes gave a talk on the work of Miss Norma Westlake, Matron of St. Joseph's Hospital, Panguingtung, in the Diocese of the Arctic. She is presently attending the Anglican Women's Training College, Toronto, while on furlough.

After the meeting closed a social period with refreshments supplied by Mrs. M. T. Campbell, were served by Mrs. C. Hayes and Mrs. W. J. MacLaughlin.

Novelist in Early 30's Blind But Still Writing Books

VANCOUVER (CP)—The writing of 19 novels and 1,500 radio scripts is a notable achievement.

Now grandma Patricia Gibbons added another story to her list. It involves home life, brain surgery and finally—blindness. Yet despite all this, her latest book, Half-Past Yesterday, is now on store bookshelves.

Pat looked at death and saw "neither fear nor fight," just a sort of sadness that the darkness had gone and it has left a different person.

You see things differently after an experience like that," she says, referring to a brain operation two years ago and the blindness that followed.

"You brush away non-essential things from your life — like clothes, cocktail parties and then you see more clearly."

Pat, her baby sitter Bo, was born in London and was selling short stories in her early teens. By the time she was 20 she had turned out two novels, both written in the family home during the Second World War.

On Labor Day, 1946, the Canadian V2 rocket fell on Teignmouth and temporarily ended her writing career.

"Those things don't make a writer," she says now. "I just looked up from my bed and saw a wall of splintered glass and plaster falling from toward me."

PAINFUL SURGERY

She dismissed the painful operation to remove glass splinters from her eyes and thought that she did the childhood polio that left her figure less supple.

Pat came to Canada where she was H and wedded in Vancouver. Her novels' radio plays and newspaper articles brought her a big brother when Broadcast Music Incorporated of New York offered her a position as script writer for the CBC.

She moved to Greenwich Village and later there ended when headaches drove her to a doctor and a brain tumor was diagnosed.

BUY CHRISTMAS CARDS NOW

It doesn't seem possible, but it is true. Christmas is only six and a half weeks away! This brings to mind a question. Why, when we all love to receive Christmas card greetings from our friends, is the sending out of one's own cards usually made to be such a chore? It needn't be. First, purchase the cards now. Second, start addressing them now. You'll save yourself frayed nerves if you don't wait to do them at the last minute. The following will make the job easier:

When selecting your cards, there are several things to guard against. Avoid those that boast of on the cover. Criticism for your display of bad taste can be the only result of choosing such a Christmas greeting.

Some people like to have special cards designed with personal photographs or drawings, with a greeting worded informally in some characteristic way. This is permissible only for close friends, such a special kind of greeting from all the family, don't send them to business associates; or to mere acquaintances. Purchase a less personal card in these cases.

There are a few standard rules that should be observed if you wish to address and sign your cards correctly. The address on a card to a close friend may be merely one's first name, such as "Anne" or "Jill." However, I do think it is most advisable to include the last name, particularly if your first name is one that is frequently encountered. Even to close friends it is better to do this so they'll know which Anne or Bill it is.

The woman's name is always first if it's the case of a husband and wife sending the card jointly, when they use their given names. If the signature is printed upon the card, the same informal form may be used, and "Mr. and Mrs. John Paul Smith" is also correct.

On the engraved card the full name must always appear. For example, "Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Brown."

Business women frequently are perplexed as to how to send cards to their employers, or associates with whom they are associated in their work, when they have not met the wives of these men. The card should, of course, be addressed to "Mr. and Mrs. William Francis Green," and signed "Eleanor Jones."

In the case of a married woman who uses her maiden name in business and sends her card "Mr. and Mrs." Christmas cards to business acquaintances, it is well to write underneath the signature (in parentheses) "Mary Smith," the name by which the recipient knows her.

It is perfectly proper to send a Christmas card to a family who has suffered a recent bereavement. Care must be taken to select the right type of card in this instance. You can be sure of understanding if you send one with a religious theme.

When addressing the envelope, never use the term "and family." Address it to "Mr. and Mrs. James David Allen" and then on the card itself write, "to all the family." If you wish.

In addressing Christmas cards, always remember: Never use a typewriter for addressing; be sure to seal the flap; never use a two cent stamp; include your own address on the back flap of the envelope. In past years the address on the back of the envelope was not considered in good taste, but today common sense has stepped in. After all, Christmas is the time for renewing old acquaintances and keeping track of the moving about of our friends. Bringing address books up to date once a year pays a definite dividend.

Question: When a woman with whom I have a very slight acquaintance drops in to pay a call on me in the late afternoon, should I invite her to remove her wrap and hat or, assuming that she won't stay long, ignore this? — Mrs. H.F.

Answer: It is the courteous thing always to ask your caller if she wishes to remove her wrap. Do not question her hat.

New White Christmas Fruit Cake

by Mary Moore

Working up to today's column has been one of my earnest pastimes mid-August.

Starting with the batter from a light fruit cake recipe (no two I tell at Skidpol Airport in Amsterdam give me, I have added and subtracted ingredients until I have a white fruit cake that I think you will enjoy. We do.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

MONDAY

Apple Juice; Smoked Sausages Baked on Lima Bean and Corn Succotash; Mashed Sprouts; Baked Pears and Lemon Sauce; Coffee.

These amounts will make two loaf cakes 8-3-2 x 4-1-2 x 2-1-2" or 2 9 x 5 x 3" loaves.

WHITE FRUIT CAKE 1959:

1 cup butter or margarine, 1 cup white sugar, 4 eggs, 1 tsp. baking powder, flour, 4 oz. candied pineapple, chopped (1 cup), 4 oz. candied orange peel, chopped (scant 3-4 cup), 4 oz. candied lemon peel chopped (1-3 cup chopped), 1-3 lb. green candied cherries, (1 cup chopped), 1 lb. blanched almonds (1 3-4 cups chopped), 1 lb. light Sultana raisins (1 cup), 2 oz. desiccated coconut (1-2 cup) 1-2 cup fruit juice (or rum this is recommended by me — 1-2 cup fresh frozen tangerine juice diluted in proportions of 1 6-oz. to 2 6-oz. cans of water, but use only 1-2 cup of this dilution), 2 tablespoon milk, 2 teaspoons vanilla, 2 teaspoons almond extract or rosewater (I prefer almond extract).

Method: Soak the dandelied coconut in the milk and orange juice (or tangerine juice). Cream the butter or margarine until pale and light then cream in sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after additions. (This beating may be done in electric mixer.) Add prepared fruits, nuts and soaked coconut and flour and stir in by hand. Add vanilla and almond extract or rosewater and stir in well. Line 3 loaf pans smoothly with double heavy wax paper, and butter it. Turn batter into lined loaf pans and press it firmly into corners with a spatula. If desired arrange 2 "flowers" as a design on top using candied cherries, blanched almonds for each, putting a centre in one of whole red cherry pressed half way in and a whole green cherry pressed half way into centre of red cherry. This design does not sink in when cake is baked and is attractive. Bake rack at centre of oven at 250 deg. F. Steaming water pan set throughout. Refill water pan as necessary. Cool cakes to room temperature and then glaze cake (see below). Wrap well in store. Glaze: Combine ½ cup light corn syrup and ½ cup water and bring just to a boil. Brush on cake while hot. Cool to lukewarm. Pour over cake before or after slicing.

NOTE:

Day after tomorrow — Wednesday — I will give you my Rich Dark Fruit cake for 1959.

MOIRA W. I.

MOIRA — The Moira W.I. held its November meeting on Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. Don Hobbert with an attendance of ten members and one visitor.

The president opened the meeting. Mrs. Gil Thompson read the minutes in the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Jean Thompson. A "thank-you" note was received from Mr. F. Regensburg and family for flowers and cards received at the time of the death of his wife, Elsie Regensburg.

A letter had been received asking for layettes for some needy children. It was moved by Mrs. Elmer Thompson and seconded by Mrs. Angus Mumby to send a box of layettes. It was moved to give boxes to the aged for Christmas. Three membership fees were paid and one birthday fee paid.

The program was conducted by the president in the absence of the convener, Mrs. M. Vandewater, as follows: a reading by Mrs. C. Vandewater, "Be the Best at Whatever You Are"; industry," which proved interesting; a reading by Jean Holbert, "No Occupation"; a reading by Mrs. Gil Thompson, "The Job," and music by Mrs. Elmer Thompson.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess.

SHANNONVILLE W.M.S

SHANNONVILLE — The monthly meeting of the WMS of Shannonville United Church was held at the church hall on the afternoon of November 4.

The president, Mrs. Charles Woods, welcomed all and read a lovely poem, "How the Great Canoe". Mrs. Wood Offered prayer and the group leader, Mrs. Sam Elliott, took charge of this portion of the meeting. All sang "Jesus I Have Promised," with pianist, Mrs. D. Hinchey as accompanist.

Mrs. Elliott gave the call to worship and conducted the program on the Missionary Motif, by theme for the month, "The Coming of the Kingdom." Scripture readings were given by Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Roberston. The group leader gave a reading "Overcome Evil With Good", also a selection entitled "Falling Leaves."

At the close of the devotional Mrs. Elliott thanked those who had helped her and received the thanks of the president for the program.

The president took charge of the business. A letter was read inviting the WMS to the Manse being held at Melrose on Nov. 18th. Mrs. Wood read a paper given to her by the minister, Rev. LePage, with questions about the coming unification of the WMS and WA. These questions were answered and referred back to be returned to Mr. LePage. Mrs. Wm. J. Ross, treasurer, gave her report. A collection of $5 from Miss Ida Emmons of Belleville, was gratefully received. All officers and group leaders are to continue for 1960. Mrs. Robertson gave her report of the rally held at Carmel on October 21st. She was thanked by the president.

Offering was dedicated by the president.

Mrs. Elliott and her assistants served delicious refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

The next meeting will be in the form of a potluck supper at the church hall.

Mrs. M. S. — Greta should wait until it blows over.

Greta S. — I'll never make friends unless I transfer.

Mrs. M. S. — I am very much worried about my 16-year-old daughter, Greta, who has made a lot of enemies just through doing the right thing.

She found out that some of the boys and girls at her school were doing wrong things and she told the teacher about it. These kids had found a way into the schoolyard after dark and were playing "games" that could have led to a lot of trouble. Thanks to my daughter, the principal was able to put a stop to it in time.

Somehow it leaked out that Greta was a "stool pigeon" and ever since her life at school has been miserable. Both boys and girls have stopped talking to her. She wants to transfer to a different school but I think it will blow over soon.

Greta S. — I just don't feel that I can ever be friends with any of those boys and girls again after the way they have treated me. Even the ones who weren't involved in this thing won't have anything to do with me.

When I told one of our teachers how I was being treated, she lectured the whole class and told them I was a heroine. Afterwards they treated me worse than ever. Now I see it, I will never be able to make friends unless I go to another school.

My mother doesn't understand my problems. I never was very good friends with anyone at this school. We were new in the neighborhood when I started here and they never really took me into the gang. I want to start out in a new place with a clean record. I want to date like everyone else.

The Council: From the account Greta gives, we gather that she did the right thing for the wrong reason and she is paying the consequences of the wrong part of the action.

Greta says she was never really "taken into the gang." She felt as left out of things before as she does now, but now she is aware of active hostility. We think Greta brought this on herself by acting out of a desire to win favor with someone — even if only a teacher. Probably the boys and girls, who were never really her friends, sense this.

Greta has a fairly difficult social problem and she'll have to face this at any new school. She is somewhat childlike, tending to court favor from older persons rather than her own age group. Undoubtedly, she is afraid of the boys and girls of her own age. She should be helped to realize that she must get over this fear, must stop standing corners and waiting to be "taken into the gang." She must go out to them in a friendly spirit.

Greta ought to try doing just that at her old school. She should join in group activities and try not be too upset at being treated in a little snobbish at first. She should put less stress on how others treat her and more stress on how friendly she can be toward them.

We wish to emphasize that she did the right thing in reporting a serious misdeed. If she had good friends before this, many of them would stand up for her now."

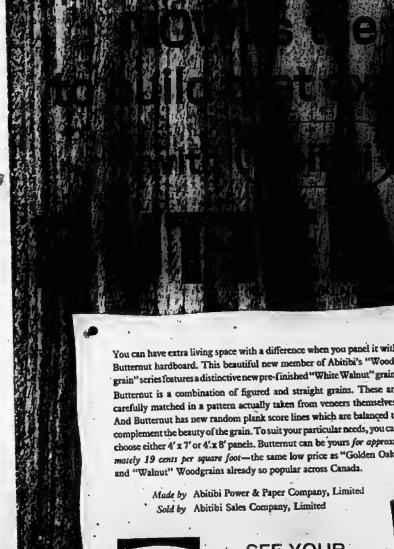
Mr. Beare proposed a toast. Mr. Charles Brownson of Picton, 89 years young, eldest brother of Mr. Percy Brownson and Mrs. Simmons, a sister, extended felicitations on behalf of the gathering, Mr. Brownson replied.

During the afternoon and evening tea and wedding cake were served to around 200 visitors. Miss Jacey McMullen was in charge of the guest book and tea was poured by Mrs. Simmons and Mrs. Albert Brownson, alternating with Mrs. Gordon Lee, Sr. and Mrs. Arthur Brownson, Sr.



A song relatives present were: Miss Nina Liberty of Toronto, and her sister, Mrs. Irene Rutan of Trent River.

Pictures of the family and different groups with Mr. and Mrs. Brownson were taken to commemorate the gala occasion. They received many beautiful gifts among them a chrome kitchen set, a gift of the family.

The community extends congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Brownson.

FAMOUS SCIENTIST

Marie Curie, who with her husband Pierre discovered radium in 1898, was the first woman professor at the Sorbonne in Paris.

You can have extra living space with a difference when you panel it with Buttemut hardboard. This beautiful new member of Abitibi's "Woodgrain" series features a distinctive new pre-finished "White Walnut" grain. Buttemut is a combination of figured and straight grains. These are carefully matched in a pattern actually taken from veneers themselves. And Buttemut has new random plank score lines which are balanced to complement the beauty of the grain. To suit your particular needs, you can choose either 4' x 7' or 4' x 8' panels. Buttemut can be yours for approximately 19 cents per square foot—the same low price as "Golden Oak" and "Walnut" Woodgrains already so popular across Canada.

PROFITABLE PASTIME — After Tracy Ross, 78, of Haileybury, Ont., retired five years ago because of heart trouble he had lots of spare time. So he and his wife started to decorate an old log cabin which they used to store logs and dew worms, sold to fishermen for bait. Everything they came across was nailed to the outside of the cabin. It turned out to be a profitable idea as the dew worm business doubled as passing motorists stopped to examine the cabin. Mr. and Mrs. Ross are shown here in front of the cabin. (CP Photo).

Dealing With Fires and Ducks

Some years ago, as we were driving along Number-One Highway on our way to vacation headquarters in Maine, we were confronted by a large sign beside the highway. This is what it said — "This is God's country. Don't set it on fire and make it look like hell." The sign may or may not be there today. I don't know. The fact remains that it gets its message across in good shape.

All of us see the posters of Smokey, the fire-fighting bear. We are cautioned on TV, radio and in the public print about carelessness with fire. Yet each year hundreds of thousands of acres of valuable timbered go up in flames, all because some fool didn't use ordinary common sense about fire.

New York State has a good solution to the fire-hazard problem. During periods of extended dry weather, the conservation commission simply closes the woods to fishermen and hunters until the state of emergency has passed. Of course, this makes it tough on the fellows who are careful with fire, but always the irresponsible majority works to suffer because of the irresponsible few.

It is easy to break a match stem and to test the temperature of the match head before discarding it. It is an easy thing to crush a cigaret butt completely, so that it does not smolder. It requires only a little extra effort to douse thoroughly a camp fire. Think of these things next time you are in the outdoors.

You may have seen it on TV—the new "Air Car" that has been cooked up by the Curtiss-Wright engineers. This novel conveyance rides around on a cushion of air generated by a propeller mounted horizontally on the under side of the car. The thing is propelled and steered by directional air jets.

The inventors say that the air car gives a comfortable ride over fields, marshes, lakes and streams, as well as roads. It travels six inches to a foot above the supporting surface. Curtiss-Wright at present is looking for suitable markets for their new conveyance.

Down in Florida's everglades the air boat provides a popular mode of travel. This is a shallow-draft, light-weight craft, powered by engine and airplane propeller. Through shallow marshes, where no other floating rig can move, the air boat goes along very well. Owners of air boats claim that they navigate quite well on a light dew.

Curtiss-Wright shouldn't have to wait far for markets. Seems to me that the duck hunters of the nation would welcome such a craft. An unobtrusive air car surely would take you places quite easily which now can be reached only with great difficulty. If it is, Curtiss-Wright should have it made.

Each year the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service has made an intensive study of the autumn crippling situation, without, however, getting the season's toll, as fixed by law, it was reported, figure its way to a total of 13,151,800 ducks and 906,600 geese, making a grand total of 16,058,400 birds.

These figures included both fertile and unfertilized birds. The unretrieved portion came to a total of 3,010,964 birds — 21 per cent of the total bag. That, of course, is the only one pulsating estimate. Over the years the crippling loss comes to a somewhat higher figure, about 25 per cent. Say what you will, allow it, explain it, give outstanding circumstances, the fact remains that a 25 per cent minimal crippling loss of wildfowl is indeed a sad and disgraceful commentary on the duck-shooters of the nation.

There is no other type of shooting where the crippling loss comes anywhere near the 25 per cent mark. Hunters do a pretty good job of retrieving their game, that is, all but the duck hunters. All right, let's take a close look at the causes of this huge crippling loss.

One of the outstanding contributors to the crippling loss is the irresponsible, trigger-happy "sky buster" who will shoot at any duck or goose he can see, regardless of range. Almost always he's one of two things — a beginner, who knows no better, or a game-hog, who doesn't care how much damage he does so long as he gets some birds.

The seasoned duck gunner knows that his gun will kill only at moderate ranges. Oh, now and then ducks can be killed at long ranges but usually only damage is done to ducks flying beyond the sixty-yard mark; few kills are made. Thus, your seasoned gunner sets his guns with this in mind, the outside blocks being placed 40 yards from the blind. This gives him an automatic yardstick for safe shooting.

Experienced gunners do not go in for pass shooting unless they have a definite need to retrieve their birds. Shooting over deep water without a retrieving dog or boat is inexcusable.

An old-timer accepts the fact that a crippled bird imposes on him an obligation. Regardless of how many other birds he will kill in the process, he retrieves his downed birds before doing any more shooting.

Last but not least, the seasoned gunner knows how to point his gun and swing with the bird. He scores clean kills at safe ranges. If a beginner will do two things — listen to advice and learn the rules of duck shooting and — 2 practice shooting and gun handling at the traps or the skeet range, he will arrive at the status of "advanced gunner" at an early age. If you are a duck gunner, think it over.

CONTAINING INCO NICKEL

on Canada's changing skyline

Modern, nickel-containing stainless steel buildings—like The Prudential Insurance Company of America offices now under construction in downtown Toronto—are changing Canada's skyline. In designing these new structures, Canada's leading architects are using stainless steel for the bright beauty of outside walls and trim, window frames, doors and smart, modern entranceways—the interior hardware, stair railings and ornamental accessories.

Stainless steel is an ideal architectural metal. It resists corrosion from the atmosphere and the weather . . . tends to wash itself clean with every rainfall. It won't crack, chip or deteriorate—stays bright for years with little or no cleaning or maintenance. And it harmonizes beautifully with stone, wood, glass and enamelled surfaces to produce striking architectural effects.

Nickel does great things for stainless—strengthens it . . . increases its resistance to rust and corrosion . . . makes it easier to fabricate. That's why Canadian architects, designers and manufacturers are specifying stainless steel containing quality Inco Nickel in architectural products.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Records went by the boards at the annual convention of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association over the week-end. The attendance and an all-time high meeting will for the future of minor hockey, while a small village in the Eastern Ontario hinterland placed a third vice-president in one of the seats of the OMHA.

Jack Chrisling, former secretary and president of the association, who emceed the post convention banquet at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, told the get-together that the 351 registered delegates constituted the largest group ever to attend a hockey meeting anywhere.

For the first time in the association history a "far eastern" executive member was elevated to the executive. He is Doug Patterson of Stirling, who has labored long and well in an executive and other capacities. Also honored from this part of the country was Albert Watkins, Peterborough, the new second vice. Frank Doherty is the new president while re-elected to the executive were Cliff Gabel, Preston; Gordon Mawes, Whitby; Wes Oswald, Forest; Bev Schram, Fort Dover and Stan Sieker, of London. Newly elected members are Jim Oakes, Welland; Eric Wesselby, Owen Sound.

Jack Roxburgh, first vice-president of the CAHA was the guest speaker at the banquet. He reviewed hockey history from its beginning, telling the delegates that the "minor hockey association was the heart of the game."

Roxburgh said: "You men provide the salvage that our youth will travel, and without your leadership are essential the real contribution of hockey can only be assessed by what it does for the most important member of our family—the youth."

He went on to say that he was certain that athletes representing Canada in world hockey competition had helped push the political bogey-man on international affairs right out of the picture."

He quoted this reporter who spoke representing the press, as to Canadian hockey teams being the best ambassadors of good will to European countries.

A new series in minor hockey was instituted at the convention. Powers are now part and parcel of the association's executive and will be introduced into play during the 1959-60 season. It was expected that some 200 teams will be represented. All boys under 12 years of age may take part now in OMHA group play or playoffs with an entry fee of $5.00 per team.

As is the general custom with OMHA conventions there were very few amendments to the constitution or new business to be dealt with. Perhaps the most important was one which allows a player in juvenile, midget, bantam and pee wee series to sign 25 players and a spare goalie. It was 18 in previous years.

It was agreed that no player shall be signed after February 15th or certificates approved postmarked later than February 21th and another amendment ruled that a player or official under suspension for a number of games must serve out his debt to hockey during suspension.

The OMHA Honor Award for outstanding service to minor hockey was presented to Angus Bradley of Peterborough who has been associated with minor hockey in the Littlock City in the capacities of trainer, coach, team manager and sponsor since 1946.

It was stated that some 32,200 youngsters, not counting the Toronto Hockey League, played the game in Ontario last season. A total of 422 teams and 7,784 young-sters were registered in association playoffs while in addition some 25,596 lads played in local leagues.

It is expected the north-south juvenile series will be resumed this year. It was abandoned a year ago because of a disagreement with the NOMHA.

Representatives from the CAHA, OHA, NOHA and WAAA attended the banquet. Those included Jack Roxburgh and George Dudley of the CAHA; Ken McMillan, president, and Lorne Cook, past-president of the OHA; Gordon Fallon, secretary of the NOHA, and members of the Toronto Hockey League executive.

Mustangs Crush Gaels 55-13 To Wrap Up College Crown

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The power-laden University of Western Ontario Mustangs galloped wrapped up the Intercollegiate Senior football championship Saturday by crushing Queen's the Golden Gaels 55-13.

It was the win Western needed to dethrone University of Toronto Blues and the Mustangs made no mistake about it. They displayed a tremendous 422-yard ground assault before a home crowd.

At Montreal, the Blues beat McGill Redmen, but the 25-0 victory did Toronto little good except possibly to establish the Blues as the winningest football team ever to lose a championship.

ONE LOSS DEADLY

The Blues have dropped but one of their last 16 games—a 16-3 decision to Western—but that one loss was enough to topple the defending champs. The Blues downed the Mustangs 13-7 in their second meeting and in previous years that would have meant a playoff. But the inauguration of the East-West Bowl collegiate championship this year washed out any extra games. Deadlocks are settled on the basis of the two teams' scoring records against each other, and Western has a 23-16 edge.

Queen's got off to a flying start before the Mustangs turned on the heat that earned them the right to meet University of British Columbia Thunderbirds in the Canadian final at Toronto's Var-sity Stadium next Saturday.

Mike Petti stunned Western momentarily with a 94 - yard touchdown run in the first quarter and Bill Ritchie ran for the convert. Don McNay got an unconverted touchdown for the Gaels in the third quarter.

Roger Sievert and Lionel Conacher accounted for most of Western's 37 first downs and scored two touchdowns each. Frank Cosentino, Roy Wood, Bob Pearson and Clare Seaways got the others while Bill Mitchell converted seven, earned him the league's scoring title with 79 points.

Queen's made only 180 yards on the ground and 41 passing. Western went 88 yards through the air.

Quarterback Nick Sopinka passed for the Blues' three touchdowns, completing 8 of 18 - yard pass-and-run play to Bobby Dan and tossing end zone heaves of 28 yards to Ray Logan for the three yards to Mike Mair, Peter Potter fooyrtrad all three and Bill Mitchell converted.

The Blues passed for 220 yards against only 54 on the ground. McGill rushed for 33 yards and went 114 yards through the air.

Bruins Still On Scoring Spree; Ukes Star Again

Score Three in 5-3 Defeat Of Hapless Chicago Hawks; Other Weekend Games Ties

By LAURENT CHIASSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Coach Milt Schmidt expressed doubts about his Boston Bruins' scoring punch when the current National Hockey League season got under way.

But the Bruins, powered by the high-flying Ubs-Line, are scoring goals at a record clip.

Their latest outburst came Sunday night when they beat Chicago Black Hawks 5-3. The five goals gave the Bruins a total of 25 in their last four—games—all victories.

The three other weekend games ended in ties.

The Hawks came from behind to deadlock Montreal Canadiens 3-3 at Montreal Saturday.

Spectacular netminding by Johnny Bower salvaged another 2-2 tie for Toronto Maple Leafs with Detroit Red Wings at Toronto Saturday.

Veteran Andy Bathgate scored a goal with less than three minutes remaining in the game to give the New York Rangers a 3-3 standoff with the Red Wings in Detroit Saturday.

Boston has scored 53 times in 11 games for an average of 3.70 goals per game.

FOUR POINTS PER GAME

The Uke line—Bronco Horvath, Johnny Bucyk and Vic Stasiuk scored three times Sunday night and collected three assists for a season total of 58 points in 14 games. That averages out to 4.14 points per game.

When the line of Gordie Howe, Norm Ullman and Ted Lindsay of Detroit set the record of 226 points in 1955-57 they averaged 3.23 points a game.

Horvath scored twice Sunday night, his 14th and 15th goals in only 14 games, and also assisted on another goal by Vic Stasiuk. Larry Leach and Fleming Mackell also scored for Boston.

Phil Maloney, Bobby Hull and Ted Sloan scored for the Hawks who are now winless in 12 games.

The third period was marred by a head injury to Boston's Charlie Burns and a penalty-shot controversy.

Burns suffered a minor concussion after colliding with Hawks' defenceman Pierre Pilote. He was reported in no danger. Burns has a silver plate in his head and wears a helmet while playing.

Referee Dalton McArthur called the penalty shot when Hawks' defenceman threw his stick trying to stop Horvath on a breakaway.

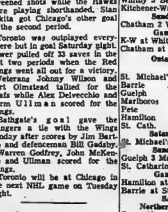
HAWKS GIVEN PICK

Chicago was given the choice of picking the Boston player and Leach was selected but his shot was turned aside by Hawks' goalie Glenn Hall.

Elmer (Moose) Vasko gave the Hawks their tie with Montreal Saturday, scoring at 11:12 of the final period.

Bernie Geoffrion and Doug Harvey gave Montreal a 2-0 lead, both scoring on long screened shots while the Hawks were playing shorthanded. Stan Mikita got Chicago's other goal in the second period.

Toronto was outplayed everywhere but in goal Saturday night. Bower pulled off 33 savers in the last two periods when the Red Wings went all out for a victory.



Veterans Johnny Wilson and Bert Olmstead tallied for the Leafs while Alex Delvecchio and Norm Ullman scored for the Wings.

Bathgate's goal gave the Rangers a tie with the Wings Sunday after scores by Jim Bartlett and defencemen Bill Gadsby, Warren Godfrey, John McKenzie and Ullman scored for the Wings.

Toronto will be at Chicago in the next NHL game on Tuesday night.

Canadians Must Learn to Lose Gracefully

TORONTO (CP) — Canadians must learn to accept defeat gracefully in international amateur hockey competition, George H. Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, said Sunday.

Addressing more than 200 delegates to the Toronto Hockey League's annual meeting, Dudley said the top 4,500 hockey players in Canada are professional and another 4,500 are barred in Olympic competition as former professionals.

"If we were to take the same percentage off the top of Russian, Czechoslovakian and Swedish teams, we could win with Podunk Junction," he said.

Dudley, who accompanied Kelowna Packers on their trip to Moscow last year, said Russian development in hockey is typical of a "desire and will to dominate."

He said Canadians didn't care about international competition until Canadian teams lost in 1954 and 1956. "Now they feel that we are falling down when our teams lose," he said.

He added, that European countries, except Russia, have no counter-attractions and participate freely to take the spotlight from national teams.

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP) — Blue Bonnets Raceway officials Sunday suspended driver Albert Hanna of Montreal for one year, alleging he failed to push the mare he was driving to her best effort in the fifth race at the raceway Saturday night.

The penalty — stiffest ever handed out here—will be effective at all tracks under the jurisdiction of the Canadian Trotting Association and is expected to be upheld by the United States Trotting Association.

Hanna drove Annette Tass to a second-place finish behind W. L. in a Class C pace Saturday but the judges ruled that the mare "definitely was not driven to finish" as stipulated in the CTA rules.

Theo Turcotte Jr., driver of the winning V. L., was suspended for 10 days for incon-sistent driving. His horse, despite the fact it had finished no better than fourth in its last five races, was the favorite and paid $6.20, $4.20 and $4.00.

V. L. led all the way, with Annette Tass just behind, and was a half-length in front at the finish.

Dunnies Shade Macs 3-2 With 3rd Period Fluke Goal

Brown Teed It for Babando Who Fired Home the Winner; New Goalie Hurt Before Game

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Lady Luck continued to shun the Belleville McFarlands in Whitby Saturday night as the Dunnies scored a fluke goal with two and a half minutes left in the game to end the Macs' chances to their fifth consecutive defeat by a narrow 3-2 score. The Dunnies' win, coupled with Kitchener's 5-0 decision over Chatham, boosted them into second place in the senior "A" loop, three points back of the Dutchmen.

The Macs had twice come from behind and had at least played as well as Whitby in the thrilling hard-fought contest. Pete had already dealt the club a rough blow prior to the start of the game when the newly-acquired goalie, Cesare Maniago, suffered a painful injury in the warm-up.

But Maniago, playing with one tooth knocked out, another loose and slight concussion, was knocked out, another and outside of his mouth as the result of Dave Jones' slapshot, played a tremendous game in the nets.

Then at 17.30 of the third period, Ted O'Connor flipped a shot toward the Belleville blueline which hit "Wiener" Brown on the hip. Brown was following Pete Babando up the ice and the puck flung to him and dropped right at Babando's feet for a quick, high drive gave Maniago no chance, rattling into an upper corner for the final 3-2 score.

Whitby held a 1-0 lead at the end of the first period and were ahead 2-1 after forty minutes of play. Each goal was announced as 37-37 for the winners but shots on net appear to be a bit much difference in the play of the two clubs.

Manager Joe Ivan to the Macs from Kitchener and may play with the club until the Ottawa game unless another proven goalie is obtained. He is just out of junior "A" hockey having played three years with St. Michael's and is highly rated by the Toronto Maple Leafs. A "Jacques Plante" type, the 6' 2", 190 pound goaltender drew with the best in the league.

Manager MacDonald also announced that centre-ice playboy McClellan will return to Belleville Monarchs in time Tuesday's game here against the slumping Chatham Maroons. He also indicated that several other player deals are in the making.

In the first period Saturday night Maniago and Goaltender Bob made some fine saves and it was not until 13.48 that Eric Pogue, former member of the Dunnies, opened the scoring while taking his first shift on the ice.

Gagnon and McBeth added some excitement with a slugging match that earned them majors early in the game while Pete Macs failed to take advantage of two Whitby penalties later on.

Belleville's first little time in tying the score in the middle heat. Lew Sturko deflected Bob Bazzi's shot by Henderson after Crawford had started the play with a pass out from the corner at 9.07.

The period of play increased to an even faster pace and Maniago stood out as he raced 60 feet out of the net to foil Sanscliento to a loose puck. He also stopped Allerby on a solo and Chaszewski-went off for cross checking at 14.39.

Seconds later Fred Richer dashed in a rebound for a 2-1 Whitby lead but the Macs still enjoyed the extra manpower. The Dunnies peppered 15 shots at Maniago in the period as the Macs drew the only two penalties.

Pogue and Partridge went off together after eight seconds of the final frame's activity. The clubs were playing five aside when Bob Arnold tied the score at 2-3 with a blazing slap shot from the blueline while half of Whitby was in the penalty box.

It was a bitter, hard-fought battle the rest of the way and while the McFarlands came close on several occasions, it was at 2.33 and 14.38 they could not get the puck behind Sanscliento. Then came Babando's heart - breaking marker. The Macs threw out an attacker for the final 60 seconds but only six seconds remained and no damage resulted.

Eric Pogue, Fred Etcher and Pete Babando triggered the winners' attack with assists for Pogue, Allersley and Sanscliento. Bezzi and Crawford scored in defeat while Crawford and Topparzzi had assists.

Belleville's goal, Maniago; defence, Chaszewski, Botley, Crawford, Bezzi; forwards, Bradley-Brown, Hildebrand, Youngberry, Smrke, Jones, MacDonald, Topparzzi, Gagnon, Pelkey.

Whitby: goal, Henderson; defence, O'Connor, Fraser, Sinden, McBeth; forwards, Allerbey, Etcher, Samolenko, Tom O'Connor, Kane Pogue, Babando, Myles, Hassard.

Don Dalrymple Leads Winning Judo Team

Don "Rock" Dalrymple, top-seeded member of the Belleville Judo club, captained Frank Catashita's Toronto team to the Quebec Judo Tournament championship at Montreal from over the weekend.

Dalrymple, holder of a brown belt, was selected by Catashita to captain his strong Toronto club. The Belleville club is very active this season with 32 members being taught at the present time it is re-building its team for tournament competition.

Competition was keen from Quebec and Ontario participated at the Mont St. Louis Auditorium in the first year's championship club, the Sokio-Kwan Academy of Judo of Montreal.

Each team fought five times in a series of eliminations until the champions were found when the Dalrymple-captained club from Toronto defeated the Royal Canadian Mounted Police team to enter the finals.

Catashita's team met and defeated the defending champions from Montreal in the finals to bring back the Quebec championship.

In every round of the tournament Dalrymple beat his opponent within the first minute of competition. His second round which earned high praise from Frank Catashita. As chair captain he accepted the championship trophy on behalf of his club and Frank Catashita as coach presented an inscription.

Sarnia quarterback Hal Ledyard completed 13 of 18 passes with no interceptions.

Riders Clobber Alouettes, Enter Final Against Cats

By DON ATTFIELD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The tight-lipped coach of Ottawa Rough Riders likes to keep his clubbing thing to a prediction he ever has made following Riders' side from the Big Four football final on a 43-0 shellacking of Montreal Alouettes.

Frank Clair said Sunday night in an interview:

It is a confident Riders can best Hamilton Tiger-Cats1 in the two-game total-points final starting here Nov. 14.

The Montreal Eskimos have a good chance of representing the West in the Grey Cup providing quarterback Jackie Parker stays healthy.

He wouldn't go as far as to express any opinion on the Grey Cup outcome, however.

All WERE RIGHT

Riders humiliated Alouettes before 19,060 fans in the sudden-death semi - final here Saturday by what Clair described as "good, solid play." Ottawa's defensive team could do no wrong and an offence Clair used his "A" game, with Quarterback Russ Jackson and Vito (Babe) Parilli.

Jackson, a Canadian and a running wizard off the pass operation, threw for three touchdowns he has in every game since he helped pull Riders out on their game losing streak at the start of the season. Riders won eight of their last nine league games and Saturday's victory was their seventh straight.

But Jackson wasn't able to move his club for a touchdown in after the first quarter when there was no score. Otawa's record for touchdowns in a quarter after that and Jackson returned steadily through the second half when Parilli, a passing expert grabbed from Green Bay Packers to replace Frank Tripucka at mid-season, seemed to click.

Touchdowns were scored by Dave Thelen on a one - yard plunge, George Brancato on a six-yard end - zone catch from Jackson and Parilli on a two-yard sneak, Al Romine on a 74-yard run off an interception, Bill Graham on a 60-yard pass-and-run play off a quicksan forward and Bobby Simpson on an 18-yard end-zone throw from Jackson.

KICK SEVEN POINTS

Gary Schreiber converted all the touchdowns and Parilli added a single point early in the third quarter.

It was jubilation and anticipation in Riders' dressing room after the game. Taffy a Grey Cup championship hasn't been so prevalent here since Riders' last went to the Canadian final in 1951 and beat Regina.

In the packed Montreal dressing room, "disgusting" was the summing-up word (Eskimo Pete-head) Walker who may not be around next season.

Offensive star Hamilton in Ottawa Tuesday in the first game of the eastern final. The second game will be played the following Saturday in Hamilton.

CHANCE FOR REVENGE

Hamilton ousted Ottawa in the eastern final last year but Clair says "We've got a lot of confidence. We know we can win the series. We're better than last year because we have no injuries."

"We'll have more rest between games than we had last year," he added. Riders played the last final in mid-week, then lost the first of the total-points games in Ottawa 25-7 that Saturday.

The only possible lineup change for next Saturday was in the quarterback slot. Asked whether Parilli might start for the first time, Clair said: "I wouldn't say that he wouldn't." His decision would be a closely - guarded secret until game time.

Majors Split With TeePees; Marlies Win

By BARRY SHARPE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

St. Michael's College Majors, defending champions of the first season Saturday by St. Catharines Teepees, bounced back Sunday with their first victory in five starts to take sole possession of first place in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A loop.

Sport 4-2 in St. Catharines, the Irish came from behind in the second period when Bill Sweeney headed for Toronto to edge the TeePees 3-2.

It was first game Torchie Marlboros defeated Guelph Biltmores 4-3 to create a three-way deadlock for second place, Marlboros, Guelph and Barrie Flyers, idle during the weekend, each have six points and Peterborough Petes also have six points. Marlboros Tiger-Cubs and the TeePees share the cellar with three points apiece.

Averaged off 1,800 saw Chico Hall, Doug Robinson, Ron Field and Ray Cullen score goals in St. Catharines's initial victory of the season. Steve Kraftcheck and Les Kozak netted St. Michael's goals.

In the return match, Gene Rebellato opened and closed the Majors' scoring and Ray Cullen tied the score in the first period. Jack Cole picked up the other one-third - period goals. Jack Cole counted for the TeePees.

Right winger Don Curry was the big gun for Marlies, netting up one goal and scoring the winner. Ricky May, Jim Pappin and Sonny Osborne also tallied for Toronto; Paul Andrita, Ken Gray and Bob Cunningham for Biltmore.

AWARD FOR CAMPY

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Roy Campanella, former Brooklyn Dodger baseball coach who piloted the Los Angeles Dodgers, was named Saturday as the first recipient of the Orange Bowl Classic's "most courageous athlete award." Announcement was made by Dr. George W. Gore Jr., president of Florida A. and M. University, which sponsors the annual Orange Blossom Classic football game in the Orange Bowl.

On The Tracks

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — The odds calculator at Laurel Race Course figures that Tudor Era will be the favorite Wednesday in the Washington, D.C., International.

The lone maker today made Tudor Era an early 8-5 choice among the dozen thoroughbreds expected to vie for the $100,000 purse money. Tudor Era, six-year-old belonging to Mrs. Herbert Hertz of Potomac, has best nine others to the wire in last year's 1½-mile grass race.

However, he was disqualified for bumping Australia's Baler's Guide in the stretch victory was awarded after finishing second by 3½ lengths.

Incidentally, no post - time favorite won the last seven runnings of the International. The heaviest at the legal minimum of 8-5 was Tudor Era's half brother, French filly, Mi Carina, is next at 4-to-1.

The other probable odds are: Calm Boy Stable's Bald Eagle of the U.S., Mrs. Valentina Vanista at 8 to 1, Russia's Garnish and Friday Harbor Stable's Progressor, 15 to 1, Mexico's Le-Ji-Ver Zacatecas, Up and Coming Australia's Vogue and Peru's Lightning, all at 20 to 1.

One heat will cover both Carnie and Flang.

PAWTUCKET, R.I. (AP)—Try-hawk, making his first start since he won Yonkers Park since his arrival from Canada, Saturday captured the $5,000 Governor and Lewis Lear of Calgary to an exciting neck victory over Helen in the $10,000 British Handicap.

Former rider in New England Willie Marsh, never used his whip as he brought Try-hawk home in front along the rail in the last few yards of the six-furlong test. Time was clocked at 1:12 flat.

Tybawk paid $9.40, $5 and $3.20 to win, place and show for the dash of 1:12 4-5 on the muddy track.

TORONTO (CP)—Ali's Pride, a five-year-old gelding which has been in his way into the limelight once on Canadian tracks this autumn, won the $1,000 Jockey Club at Dufferin Racetrack Saturday.

Piloted by Mr. Rooster by 1½ lengths. Wooder Way was second by a length behind Mr. Rooster.

It was the third successful win in Sunday's short season for the sixth in 16 starts this season. First money of $2,650 pushed his winnings to $29,560.

Ali's Pride was the favorite with the crowd of 11,706 and paid $3.20 to win.

NEW YORK (CP) — Greek Star, favored two - year - old colt through the mud on a rainy, cold day at Garden State Park in Camden, N.J., Saturday to win the $85,750 Trenton Handicap in one hour, 12 and 1-5 seconds for the mile.

The 2-to-1 favorite, First Landing, beat a fading fifth.

Jockey Willie Lester gave the longshot Greek Star a head and half - length triumph over American Flight and Mr. Talent Show was third.

Greek Star earned $54,887 with his victory in 23 starts this year. Time in 2:05 3-5 for the 7½-mile race, he returned $23.40, $13.00 and $7.00. Amerigo paid $4.40 and $3.40, Talent Show $5.40 for show.

At New York's Aqueduct, My Dear Girl paid $3.10, $2.60 and $2.20. The Wheatley Stable entry of Irish Jay and Sarcastic paid $5 and $3.60.

At Louisville Ky., the odds-on choice, Indian Maid, caught Burning Beauty at the head of the stretch and went on to win by a length victory in the $23,375 Falls City Handicap at Churchill Downs. She paid $3.40, $2.80 and $2.60.

Chatham Shades Bulldogs 2-1 Blanked by Dutchies 5-0

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen ran up a 5-0 shutout over Chatham Maroons at Kitchener and Whitby Dunlops squeezed a 3-2 win over Belleville McFarlands at Whitby in two action-packed Ontario Hockey Association Senior A games Saturday.

At Windsor Sunday, Chatham handed the Bulldogs a 2-1 defeat before 3,816 disappointed customers.

Harold (Hoot) Hurley, veteran K-W netminder, stopped 21 Chatham shots to earn his second shutout. The Dutchies are three points ahead of the Maroons and Whitby who are deadlocked in second place.

Bob Perham with two goals and Ken Laufman, Al Cleary and Bob Ertel with one each were scored by the Dutchmen.

The Whitby squad got goals from Fred Etcher, Kane Pogue and Pete Babando. Lou Sarscliento and Mike Benoit scored for Belleville. Babando scored the winning goal with less than three minutes remaining.

The game was delayed 20 minutes in Starting when Goalie Cesare Maniago suffered a face cut in practice when he lost one tooth and acquired eight stitches. He was the second Belleville goalie to be injured in the city in Whitby in two games.

George Gee gave Chatham the lead in the first period at Windsor and Phil Maloney boosted it to 2-0 at 13:14 of the final period. Jerry Sevrino converted Orville Cross' pass for the game's late Bulldog rush.

Chatham netted goalie Don Head in the final minute and, despite three faceoffs in the Chatham zone, could not get John Albani for the equalizer.

Referee Norman Mercier was hooted both their games as the Northern Ontario Hockey Association circuit got into action. Both wins 7-3 and 8-4, were at the expense of Kapuskasing Pulp Town Combines. Flyers swamped Abitibi Eskimos 7-1 in the other game.

TAKES $15,000 RACE

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Sunday's short card at the stretch Saturday after being rained out a week ago. It was the $75,000 American Pacing Classic by taking two consecutive heats. She won the first leg a week ago.

The favored four - year - old daughter of Mighty Sun - Adios Belle streaked past the field in the Lumber Bill to win by three-quarters of a length. She covered the mile in 1:59 2-5 and was never headed.

Beauty at the head of the stretch and went on to win by a length victory in the $23,375 Falls City Handicap at Churchill Downs. She paid $3.40, $2.80 and $2.60.

Giants Lose Another Back

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Giants of the National Football League are rapidly rounded out of physically-sound quarterbacks.

Charlie Conerly, 39 - year - old first-string signal caller, limped on and off the field Sunday to hold the ball for Pat Summerall's place kicks, but saw no other action. He suffered a sprained ankle last Sunday in the Green Bay game.

George Shaw jammed his right thumb in the second quarter of Sunday's game with Chicago Cardinals, which the Giants won 24-3. Don Heinrich went all the way in the second half.

X-rays showed Shaw has a torn ligament at the base of the right thumb. Doctors said he is a doubtful starter for next Sunday's game with Pittsburgh.

MAY BE WIPED OUT

CHATHAM (CP) — Pheasants face extinction in Kent County unless numerous farming methods are destroying their food supply and winter cover, conservation officer Tom Carter said Saturday. The pheasant season, which ended Saturday, has been poor this year and is likely to be the same in future years, said Mr. Carter, classical elimination of fence rows, clearing of bush and woodlots are chief factors for destroying the birds' feed and cover.

The Other Day

A friend was telling me some interesting facts that I may not so well known about that couples the been with the jewels.

One of the things I didn't know was that some species of tropical bees produce a substance which, unlike other one we didn't know was their product and the exclusive product of bees, but that substance of wax, and some bees also produce a good honey.

It is said that there is a species that must be pretty smart because they literally make a ball of wax. They line their nests with cuttings from rose leaves and petals.

There are thousands of varieties of bees, but other flowered families, two of which are the honeybee and the bumblebee, the types most of us are familiar with, that live in highly regimented colonies, each by strict rules of government with a queen bee at the head.

Ken Fraser, whose knowledge of bees is considerable, has been one of man's delicacies and honey connoisseurs. There are indications that the earliest Egyptians and Greeks practiced beekeeping and noted their example of good management in their work and lives. So they have been an industrious model for many centuries, and in our business we try to follow their invariable object lesson for accomplishing good for others.

Royals Lead Eastern Pros

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal Royals have finally overcome the statistics to be in possession of first place in the Eastern Professional Hockey League.

It was just a matter of time, it seemed, before they overtook Sudbury Wolves. Sudbury's 5-3 loss to Hull - Ottawa Canadiens and Montreal's 12-6 spree against Kingston Frontenacs brought pat Royals one point ahead.

Before Sunday's games Wolves held the league lead by taken on the fact they had played three games more than Montreal.

Both teams now have eight wins. Montreal has two ties to Sudbury's one, but Wolves have lost six games while Royals have lost only two.

Montreal also has been on top all along in the total standings columns. The Royals now have scored 58 goals and have had only 35 scored against them, by far the best record, while Wolves have scored 56 and had 60 scored against them.

HABS IN RUNNING

A third team also has come into top - place contention. The Hull-Ottawa whiz over Sudbury left Canadiens just one point behind Wolves and two points short of Montreal's 18.

The fortunes of Sault Ste. Marie Thunderbirds lapped with two weekend losses, a 7-4 drubbing at Cornwall and a 5-3 Riviere Lions Sunday and a 3-2 beating by Kingston in the only Saturday game.

Providence Wins Weekend Pair

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Providence Reds are back in business.

After winning eight of their first 10 games and then dropping four straight, the American Hockey League Reds now have two successive victories. They beat Cleveland Barons 4-0 Saturday night and Buffalo Bisons 3-1 Sunday night.

The victories, while Springfield Indians were downing Buffalo 10 Saturday and tying Quebec Aces 1-1 Sunday and Rochester Americans were breaking even, increased Providence's lead over the Indians to three points. Rochester dropped back to third, a point behind Springfield.

FINALLY LOSE AT HOME

The Americans won their first road game Saturday night after berthes of 7 then they returned home where they had won 22 straight since last Jan. 16. They ran into a hot Cleveland team which won 8-7 in a sudden-death overtime with Fred Glover scoring four goals. His last one ended matters at 2:39 in overtime.

At Cleveland, the Providence scoring was handled by Lorne Davis, Bob Beckett, Earl Reibel and Ed MacQuarrie.

Reibel and Stan Balluk each fired two goals against the Bisons at Buffalo. Hay Hoar, Don Poliziani, Brockett and Ken Yackel got singles. Dick Gamble scored Buffalo's goal.

At Springfield Saturday Floyd Smith tallied twice for the Indians. Harry Pidhirny, Bill Sweeney and Parker MacDonald got singles. Larry Wilson, Wally Hergesheimer and Jim Bourguignon scored the Buffalo goals.

RHOE SUSPENDED

NEW YORK (AP) — Jockey Willie Shoemaker Saturday was suspended for 10 days by the Aqueduct stewards. The suspension, starting Tuesday, was for bearing out in the stretch with Kathy Kim in the sixth race. Kathy Kim finished second, a head back of Apple Eva but was disqualified and placed fourth.

Rare Penalty Shot Awarded By Referee

BOSTON (AP) — Referee Dalton McArthur Sunday night awarded Boston a rare penalty shot, but did it in a manner that violates the rules of the National Hockey League.

It came in the third period of Sunday's Boston-Chicago game, won by Boston 5-3.

With Boston leading 4-2, McArthur awarded Boston a penalty shot when Black Hawk defenceman Al Arbour threw his stick attempting to stop Bronco Horvath on a breakaway in the attacking zone.

McArthur allowed Chicago to pick the Boston player who would take the shot.

The rule book, however, says the shot will be taken by the club "any player designated by the team captain of the non-offending team not serving a penalty will, at the instruction of the referee, play the shot for goal."

NHL umpire - in - chief Cart Voss attended the game and was sitting in the press box when the ruling was made.

He said the defection—allowing Chicago to pick the Boston player who would make the shot—was wrong. He attempted to attract the attention of the officials, but the shot had been made before he could reach them.

The Black Hawks selected Larry Leach and Chicago goalie Glenn Hall turned back his try.

Boston undoubtedly would have chosen Fleming Mc-Keath, league's leading scorer, to make the attempt.

McArthur explained after the game that he misinterpreted the rule which says that "non-offending team" meant the team on the ice—Chicago—as opposed to the team on offence, Boston.

It was the first penalty shot attempted here since Oct. 17, 1954.

Spokane Drops Pair to 'Peg'

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winnipeg Warriors invaded Spokane Memorial Coliseum and left with a pair of victories, 4-3 and 7-4.

Victoria Cougars picked up a big victory over the league-leading Vancouver Canucks and a 4-3 decision over Seattle. The only weekend on the Prairies saw Edmonton defeat Calgary 4-2 Saturday.

Saturday's game in Victoria featured almost as many fights as it of goals. Cougar goaltender Marcel Pelletier got two minors and a misconduct for fighting while former Victoria playing-coach Colin Kilburn, now in Vancouver colors, who received a minor and major.

JORTON PAYOFF MAN

Victoria got single goals in each of the first two periods—both from Art Jones while Vancouver—former shortlander—Bobby Ray Orr scored for Vancouver. Arlo Godwin and Doug Jorton also rounded out the Cougar scoring.

In Seattle Sunday, Gord Wilson, Doug MacAuley, Gord Pashowry and Arnie Schmautz scored for Victoria. Seattle goals came from Guyle Fielder and Marc Reaume.

Winnipeg's two victories gave them a four-point edge over last-place Spokane The Warriors are only two points behind Calgary and three back of Edmonton.
